KINGSTON, June 26.—Rev. R. T. Bowes was brought before Judge Price this morning charged with appropriating to his own use moneys entrusted to him by Miss Love while he was a clerk in the postoffice here. The defendant elected to be tried by that court and pleaded guilty. Judge Price said that, considering the circumstances of the case, which was the evident that had ever come before him, he felt justified in inflicting the lightest punishment permitted by the law, and accordingly sentenced the prisoner to two years in the Kingston penitentiary. Bowes was removed to the penitentiary this afternoon.

TORONTO AND THE C.P.R.

The City and the Railway Heard by the Railway Committee.

OTTAWA, June 26.—This was a field day before the Railway Committee of the Privy Council, nearly five hours being consumed in discussing the important relations that now exist between the City of Toronto and the Canadian Pacific Railway. As time goes on the importance and magnitude of the Queen City's water front cannot be overestimated, and although the subject has been before the public in one shape or another for several years, yet certain things are now coming to light which amply bear out these statements. The entrance of the big railway from the east down the west bank of the Don River over the very expensive improvements which the city is now making—this is but a minor consideration when put beside the control of the immense water-front paradise of the prosperous Queen City of the West. The Railway Committee itself seemed to be fully aware of this fact to-day and Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues will no doubt give the matter "their most serious consideration" before they permit any act of spoliation or usurpation on the part of the railway.

Stripped of their technical language the two points are these: (1) Will the Canadian Pacific Railway have the exclusive right of coming down the west bank of the Don? and (2) Will they be allowed to fill in about 26 acres of water lots on the new Windmill line and retain the same for their own exclusive and private benefit without paying the city a rental or any compensation—that is, will the company be handed over the fee simple of these 26 acres, the city to have no say whatever in the matter? These are the two points in the dispute.

After a great deal had been said all round Sir John Macdonald announced these decisions:

As to the exclusive entrance down the west bank of the Don they would get a report from one of the Government engineers, who would confer with the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk and the city engineers. They would see just how the land lay and whether it would be judicious to give the Canadian Pacific an exclusive strip of its own and also set apart another strip for other roads who in the future might come in that way.

As to the water lots, that was of the utmost importance. The committee would give it every consideration, and everyone who was in any way interested would be heard by the ministers. Sir John invited the fullest discussion and recommendations from the citizens, the Board of Trade, etc., and all their representations would be carefully considered. It might be necessary to have another conference shortly, he said; everyone, therefore, interested is at perfect liberty to offer suggestions or objections to the committee.

PLEADING FOR KEMMLER.

His "Electrocution" Apparently Indefinitely Postponed.

AUBURN, June 26.—Since the conviction of William Kemmler at Buffalo for murder and his sentence to death by electricity considerable interest has been excited by the clinical expert opinion concerning the use of the electric current as an agent for producing death. Dr. Carlos Cochran has been retained by some unknown parties to defend Kemmler. He came to this city yesterday morning to plead for the murderer before Judge Day. Mr. Cochran was seen joined by George Quimby, District Attorney of Erie county, and Charles S. Hatch, the lawyer who defended Kemmler on his trial at Buffalo.

Mr. Cochran opened the case, and in his eloquent plea held up to ridicule the commission of experts which reported in favor of [illegible] electricity. He disputed the legality of the sentence upon the ground that the punishment was cruel and that while it might not result in death it certainly would result in torture. He asked for his discharge.

Mr. Cochran filed the papers with the court, and then addressed the court for an hour, during which he said that the constitution forbids the infliction of cruel and unusual punishment, and no State Legislature has the right to inflict any punishment not within the meaning of the constitution. In the case of Felton, who killed the Duke of Buckingham and asked that his head to cut off as a punishment, it was established that the right to inflict torture had no place in the system of English jurisprudence. This mode of execution was only an experiment, to be handled by inexperienced and incompetent men. The State, he said, cannot experiment with human life.

Mr. Cochran closed by offering to prove that the punishment was cruel and unusual, and that it could not be lawfully inflicted.

Attorney-General Tabor followed, arguing that the law was constitutional, and that the Legislature had the power to inflict the death punishment by electricity. He went into the history of the appointment of the commission, and said that the members were smart men. In closing, he objected to the admission of Mr. Cochran's evidence, but the court held that the evidence was necessary in order to pass upon the question.

It was agreed to have evidence taken by a referee, and Counsellor Tracy C. Becker of Buffalo was appointed referee. The case was then adjourned to July 20. The evidence will be taken during July.

CROP PROSPECTS.

Decidedly Above the Average—Wheat, Oats and Rye Far Better Than Usual.

OTTAWA, June 26.—Crop reports from sixty district correspondents in Ontario show reasons for gratification at the prospects. All speak of the excess of rain doing much damage on the lowlands, but in spite of this the crops are, on the whole, nearly everywhere pronounced decidedly above the average. Grain is doing splendidly. Wheat, oats and rye are all far better than usual. Barley is good, pens excellent and most of the root crops are doing well. Potatoes, however, are seriously damaged by the wet, and so is corn. Hay is considerably injured. Further heavy rains will injure the whole harvest seriously, but, on the other hand, average fine weather now will give far more abundant harvest than usual.

The British Investors of the U.S.

BALTIMORE, June 26.—The Manufacturers' Record states that an association of English capitalists will build extensive iron and steel works and establish a new town at Cumberland Gap, on the line between Tennessee and Kentucky. Over $4,000,000 has been paid out and upwards of 60,000 acres of mineral land has been purchased. Over $7,000,000 more has been pledged for the enterprise.

Typhoid at Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, June 26.—Surgeon Foster of the Laboring Men's Camps reported to-night that within the last 24 hours forty-nine laborers were taken seriously sick with symptoms of typhoid fever. Many of them were sent home and the others are being cared for in the hospital. The river abound above the railway bridge was for the first time opened this morning.

ROLAND GIDEON ISRAEL BARNET GETS THE LIMIT.

Sentenced to Seven Years in Kingston—The Pierce Family's Misfortune—Orange Lodge L.O.L.T. Proceedings.

TORONTO, June 27.—Roland Gideon Israel Barnett, of Central Bank notoriety, was yesterday sentenced by Mr. Justice MacMahon, in the Criminal Assize Court, to the full term of seven years in the Kingston Penitentiary. At the Spring Assizes the jury decided that Barnett on Nov. 6, 1888, in Toronto, then being a trustee of two negotiable securities for the payment of $1,000 each, the property of the Central Bank for its use and benefit, unlawfully and with intent to defraud, converted and appropriated them to [illegible] own use and benefit. The presiding judge at that time reserved judgment on two points: Whether Barnett had committed an offence under the act, and secondly whether there was evidence [illegible] Subsequently the Queen's Bench division gave judgment in favor of the crown against the prisoner and sustained the verdict of the jury. Yesterday Barnett was brought before Mr. Justice MacMahon to be sentenced on the above charges. His Lordship put the usual question: "What have you to say, Roland Gideon Israel Barnett, why sentence of the court should not be passed upon you?" The prisoner replied that having thrown himself upon the consideration of the court he would look for that consideration. Barnett, His Lordship said, had been intimately connected with the wreckers of the Central Bank. Knowing the consequences the prisoner had appropriated the drafts. His Lordship then continued: "The sentence of the court upon you, Roland Gideon Israel Barnett, is that you be confined in the Kingston Penitentiary for the period of seven years." The prisoner, who looks older than the one year he had already been confined in jail should have been taken into account.

Wm. E. Mahoney pleaded guilty to the indictment of larceny preferred against him. He was sentenced to nine months in the Central Prison.

William Williams, charged with larceny and housebreaking, was found guilty and sentenced to three years.

George McKay was convicted of having stolen $40 from John Coulter, a barkeeper at the Carlton House. He was let go on giving $2000 bail to appear for sentence when called for.

John O. Wood, the druggist indicted for the murder of Lily Charlton, was informed by Mr. N. Gordon Hagarty, his counsel, yesterday that he would not be required at the Criminal Assize Court. The impression prevails that the ex-King-street druggist will get out of the difficulty without even a scratch. It seems that owing to the imperfect and unsatisfactory evidence to be secured, the Crown has about concluded to let the case go. It was announced at the Assize Court by Mr. M. Irving that the Crown would not be able to go on with the case on account of the illness of Mrs. Charlton and the absence of the nurse, Mrs. Johnston. Mr. Wood was not even called in court yesterday, and is now free to come and go as he pleases.

Among the thousand-and-one articles found in the Pierce residence by the police was a peculiarly shaped ivory fork and a tobacco pouch. On Friday night last the residence of Mr. John Rose, 389 Sherbourne-street, was broken into, and among the articles carried off were these two. The visitors tested the Rose silverware with acids, but finding it not up to the standard did not take the trouble to carry it away with them. Yesterday Mr. Rose, seeing the description of the articles, dropped into Headquarters and identified the fork and tobacco pouch as being his property. This adds another charge to the already long list which is piling up against the Pierce family. It is also the detectives have five charges of burglary and one of shooting with intent against the prisoners, who will be asked to plead to them to-morrow. Inspector Stark said last night that with the arrest of Pierce and Andy Bemis, he believed that the gang of burglars which had been operating for the past month so successfully in the city had been laid by the heels.

The police are beginning to think there is not very much in the story told by Mrs. Annie Simpson about being robbed of $600 in the G.T.R. express between Paris and Toronto. She was examined by Inspector Stark yesterday, and betrayed an astonishing lack [illegible] of Michigan where she says she hails from.

The Grand Lodge Independent Order of Good Templars held its second session yesterday. Grand Chief Templar J. H. MacMullen presided. J. B. McKinnon, Grand Councillor of the Grand Lodge, Scotland, with Mrs. McKinnon and Mrs. Shipway were introduced to the Lodge. The visitors gave an encouraging account of the work across the pond. As soon as this pleasing portion of the program was over, the subject of the next place of meeting was taken into consideration. Galt was unanimously selected. These officers were elected: Grand Chief Templar, J. H. MacMullen, Toronto; Grand Councillor, Frank Metcalf, Barrie; Grand Vice Templar, Mrs. Scott, St. Alban's Ward; Grand Superintendent of Juvenile Templars, John E. Wilson, Galt; Grand Secretary, Thomas Lawless, Hamilton; Grand Treasurer, A. Barrett, Mitchell; Grand Auditors, John W. Dyson, Toronto, and W. J. Turnbull, Paris. Daniel Rose was re-elected as Deputy High Grand Templar for Ontario.

The executive was instructed to make arrangements for a Templars' picnic to be held in Huntsville, Muskoka, about the middle of July.

More than 13,000 signatures have been obtained by the Equal Rights Association for disallowance of the Jesuits' Estates Act.

THE PURSUIT OF COONEY.

Two of Cronin's Murderers Believed to Have been Strangers in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 26.—The police are certain that two of Cronin's murderers were strangers in Chicago and may have come from England or Ireland, and Byrnes or Runyon, Burke's friend, may be one of them. Chief Hubbard will not say anything further than that there is considerable to be sent home from the press.

The pursuit of Cooney is being prosecuted and the police have issued a circular and photograph of him, accompanied by the following description: "Patrick Cooney, Irish, about 35 years old, 5 feet 6½ inches tall, 155 pounds, full chested (forty inch girth), round face, sallow complexion, slightly pockmarked and freckled, light blue or grey eyes, brown hair and reddish brown moustache. He is an intelligent talker and has a slight English accent, is quick and prompt in movement, and acts as though he had a military training.

"He is wanted for the murder of P. H. Cronin. All information should be addressed to George W. Hubbard, General Superintendent of Police, Chicago."

Twenty thousand or thirty thousand of these circulars will be printed and scattered broadcast over this country and Canada, and some will be sent to the English authorities at Scotland Yard.

Burke Again Remanded.

WINNIPEG, June 26.—At the Burke extradition trial this morning a further remand was asked for, but the prisoner's counsel objected. The evidence of officers Collins and MacKinnon was heard. The former testified to knowing Burke in Chicago, and recognizing him in the Winnipeg police station. MacKinnon gave details of Burke's arrest. The case was then remanded till Tuesday next.

Camp to Disbanded.

CHICAGO, June 26.—Camp 29, Clan-na-Gael, it is learned, has within the past week been disbanded. Edward Spellman, President of the Whitby Trust, who is the chief officer of the Clan-na-Gael for the districts of Illinois and Michigan, has been subpœnaed to explain the disbandment.

CRIMES OF A DAY.

THE BRAIN (From a photograph.)
It Healthy Condition. With Paresis Lesion.

There are many well known men confined in our Asylums who but a short time ago were prominent among our business and social circles.

Why are they there?

Paresis!

Did it come on at once?

Not at all. It was a gradual but positive growth. They overtaxed nature. The drain on their vitality, their nerve powers, their brain tissue, was too great, and they suddenly but surely sank under it. The things they did to bring this end about are precisely the same things that are being done by thousands of men and women to-day. It is not necessary to name them. They all end disastrously unless checked or regulated.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, knew this fully when he began his experiments which resulted in the discovery of the wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. He realized that paresis (consumption of the brain) was our great National weakness. He knew that the brain and nervous system must be fortified to meet the great strains which modern life brings upon it. He saw that men were becoming debilitated and women weakened by the pressure and demands of life, and he sought and discovered the remedy Paine's Celery Compound, if rightly taken, will renew the brain and build up nerve tissue as fast as they become exhausted. It is not a nauseatic. It contains no drugs, no nostrums. It is perfectly pure. It is absolutely harmless. The high character of its discoverer guarantees this, and the endorsement of the medical and chemical Professions prove it.

Provincial Funds for Local Improvements.

Government Grants to Assist in Building Roads in West Peterborough.

The following is a list of the grants made by the Ontario Government to aid in building and improving roads in the West Riding of Peterborough secured through the exertion of the local representative, Mr. J. R. Stratton. The amount given below including local special grants.

North Smith Road (from Young's Point to Burleigh)	$ 200 00
Buckhorn Road—(Harvey)	200 00
Buckhorn Road—(Gull Lake)	200 00
Bobcaygeon Road—(To repair Union Creek bridge and road	400 00
Sandy Lake Road—(Harvey	100 00
Galway and Cavendish Roads	600 00
Reid Road—(Galway)	200 00
Road Leading to Gannon's Narrows (Harvey)	100 00
Monck Road—(Boundary between Galway Halliburton	400 00
North Harvey Road	200 00
Other Grants	200 00
Total	$3,500 00

These sums expended upon the roads of the northern part of the county will result in a double benefit to both town and country. The residents will enjoy the advantages of easier intercourse amongst themselves. It will also appear, their access to the town much easier and will thus be a direct benefit to our merchants. Altogether the material development of the north country will be advanced, as well as the trade of the town with those districts. The people of West Peterborough will not be slow to recognize the advantage of having a representative who devotes so much time and consideration, and with so much success, to looking after and promoting the interests of the riding.

Advices from Washington with respect to the Behring Sea dispute show that the feeling in official circles there is that the British war vessels now in Alaskan waters will help, rather than hinder, the Americans in enforcing their claim to exclusive sovereignty over the waters in which British Columbians contend that they have a right to take seals. Last year the United States revenue cutters cruising in Behring Sea were instructed by Secretary Bayard to seize no British vessels pending negotiations between Great Britain and the United States for a peaceful settlement of the whole question, and hence no British schooners were seized. But this year the revenue cutters and gun-boats have orders to seize all vessels engaged in the illicit killing of seals, whether they fly the English or any other flag. An official in the Washington State Department is credited with stating that the British war vessels now in Behring Sea are not there to protect English schooners which may be engaged in killing seals, but have fitted out for a cruise with no especial object in view and that the policy of the English government is really to discourage these "predatory incursions." From this it is tolerably clear that the Imperial government have not adopted any policy designed to protect Canadian sealing vessels in North Pacific waters from seizure and confiscation by the United States authorities. The Newfoundland fishermen say that the mission of British war ships on the west coast of that island seems to be to protect foreigners who may encroach upon the rights of British subjects, and the Victoria sealing captains may have a similar complaint to make with regard to the conduct of her Majesty's ships in Behring Sea.

The New Market Building.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Is it true that the plans provide for putting the market up stairs? Oh, how often I have stood at the foot of the stairs in the old market and shivered whether to go up or do without my children or butter. Please, Mr. Editor, put in a word for us women. We cannot always run up those long stairs like young girls. And the poor farmers' wives, how they do struggle with the big baskets, while their husbands are putting away their horses. It is cruel, Mr. Editor—just wicked to make a new market and not have it right. Why, if it was down stairs, with lots of room, we could walk through from George street,—with tables on both sides loaded with butter and eggs, and fowl and game—every thing right in sight—and I could do what little I have to do with comfort, while my baby carriage was in the corner. But with such long stairs, what am I to do with my baby? Do, please, Mr. Editor, speak to Mr. Cahill; he looks so kind and good, I know he will allow it to be done right if only he knows that all we women want is room.

Yours sincerely,
Jane Farm.

A WOMAN HANGED.

Mrs. Whitehing Suffers the Death Penalty at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 25.—Mrs. Whitehing was hanged here this morning for the deliberate poisoning of her husband and two children with arsenic, for the purpose of securing the insurance on their lives.

The woman's bearing throughout the ordeal was a most remarkable exhibition of fortitude and resignation to her fate. During the entire morning she never for a moment showed the slightest evidence of weakness and frequently expressed her pleasure at the "prospect of meeting her husband and children." Mrs. Whitehing spent her last night walking about in her cell singing and praying. She ate with apparent relish a breakfast consisting of fried eggs, toast and chocolate. She was then taken to another cell, where she was joined by her spiritual advisor, Rev. W. D. Jones, of the South Methodist Episcopal Church. Mrs. Whitehing joined in the devotional services with considerable spirit and apparently obtained much comfort therefrom.

She was escorted to the scaffold by two ministers. She walked firmly and showed no hesitation. At 10.07 the trap was sprung. The fall was about five feet, and the physicians stated that death was instantaneous from strangulation, though the heart continued to beat spasmodically for some time thereafter. The body was turned over to Dr. Allen Bennett of the Norristown Hospital for the Insane for examination of the brain, after which the body will be buried by the side of the murdered husband and children.

[Mrs. Whitehing's husband died March 20, 1888, apparently of gastric fever. April 24 followed her daughter Bertha, 9 years old, apparently of gastric fever also. Thirty-two days later Willie, her 3 year-old son, died, apparently of congestion of the bowels. June 13 of the same year Mrs. Whitehing confessed to having poisoned her two children with rat poison, but denied having caused the death of her husband. Two days later she told the coroner how she murdered her husband by putting rat-poison in his egg-nogg. She was convicted of the three murders and sentenced to death. Opponents of capital punishment tried hard, but unsuccessfully, to secure a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment. It is believed the unnatural wife took her husband's life for the insurance upon it; also that of her eldest child, whose life she had insured before she killed it. The baby, she said, she killed "because it was in the way." There are those who believe the woman was insane.]

Cheated the Gallows.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Geo. McCann, awaiting trial for the murder of his wife, hanged himself in the county prison early this morning. His cell was but a few yards from that in which Mrs. Whitehing was awaiting execution. He hanged himself with a pocket handkerchief fastened to the door knob.

"Red Nosed" Mike's Confession.

WILKESBARRE, June 25.—One of the clergymen who attended "Red Nosed" Mike, who was hanged to-day, states that Mike left a written confession in which he admits that he shot both McClure and Flanagan, but claims he took part in the crime only through fear of his accomplices.

SAVED.—A fine family of children were all afflicted with scrofula. Two died early; the rest would soon have followed, but for the timely and persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which built them up into a healthy and vigorous manhood.

MUNCASTER'S

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER.

A TALE OF THAMES.

BY FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT

Author of "Lady Ludlow," "Pauline," "Haworth's," "Louisiana," "That Lass o' Lowrie's," "Through One Administration," &c. &c.

CHAPTER I.

The rector of Coombe-Ashley raised his eyes from the manuscript over which he had been poring all the morning, and turned his head to the door with a half-wearied air of listening attention. There was a servant in the hall below, and he listened to hear if they would pass the parlor, and enter the study room. Yes, they were coming, for the next instant they were ushering up the old oaken stairs with a firm, rich patter, and in a minute more the door stopped at the half-open door.

"May I come in, papa?" said a fresh girlish voice. "Or are you too busy? I have something to tell you."

The rugged face softened wonderfully at the musical sound, which was the sweetest in all the world to him; but his quiet nature and his tone express more than would simple words.

"Come in, Fran," he said, and then she entered.

Such a bright young face as she brought to lighten the dim old room, with its piles of dingy papers, and shelves of dingy books; such a fresh, sweet, bonny young face! Once or twice in a life-time, perhaps, one meets with such a face as this looks gladly down upon. The big brown eyes had the innocent, untried look of a child's, the round, white chin, with the soft dimple in it, might have been a baby's; the sweet, serious mouth was as tenderly innocent as the veriest child's on earth. After all, of course, she was scarcely a woman yet, being little more than seventeen; but still there are few girls who preserve that simple tenderness of expression even through seventeen years. It is quite possible that her quaintly quiet life had made the rector's daughter less of a woman than she would otherwise have been. Long rides and broth for sick parishioners, and darning half-worn dresses, had been the greatest of her responsibilities; visiting the poor of the parish, and occasionally calling on old aunts upon her father's patronage, Lady Strathspey, the greatest of her distinctions.

Accordingly, at seventeen, pretty Fran Rochester was as fresh and ignorant of worldliness as a child of seven, and as ready to be pleased, and as anxious to please, as few children of seven are in this age of civilization.

There was a little touch of excited pleasure on her face as she came into the room, and it made her look very pretty indeed as she pulled off her well-worn little gloves, and unbuttoned her little rough coat.

"Guess who I have seen?" she said at last, coming behind her father to lean over his study table. "Just guess, papa."

"No, no!" he asked, looking up at her with a touch of a smile on his reticent Scottish face. He was a Scotchman, the Rev. Joseph Rochester, and, like most Scotchmen, was fond of his fellow-beings; but this one love was that of his lonely, hard-working life, and the light of his eyes. "Who was it, Fran?" he asked.

She stroked her brown head with a little laugh.

"Guess," she said. "Somebody very distinguished, to us at least; somebody very grand."

"Sir Donald Ross," with a dry humor in his voice.

"Now, papa! Somebody very grand. Guess if you can now."

She broke into a sweet little laugh of triumph.

"I know you couldn't. Well, I have seen Lord ——"

She started a thought nervously. In his quiet, restrained way he had a nervous, awkward dread of this long-absent nobleman's name.

"Not Lord Strathspey?"

"Yes, Lord Strathspey. He is very tall and handsome, papa"—stroking his ruffled hair with a timid little sigh. "The proudest person I ever saw, I think."

"Where did you see him?" he asked.

"On the Rise. I had just come out of Donald's cottage, when he passed by. He stopped a moment to look at me, I think, to see what kind of a young lass it was, and he bowed to me. I wish I had had my cloth dress on," naively. "This one is so shabby, you see."

Her father glanced down at the garment in question, and echoed the faint sigh with which she had ended her words.

It was rather shabby, if the truth was to be told. Shabby dresses were no novelty to the pretty young creature, with her limited means wisely. Even the paler browns and grays which usually made up her limited wardrobe, were always turned and furbished, until their destitute newness became more than questionable, and her quiet little brown walking dress was as well worn as any in the parish.

It had been a long-cherished hope of this handsome-like little Fran, that Lord Strathspey's return would make matters better; but just now her small brown head was full.

"I wonder if he will come here to see you, papa," she said at last. "He ought to, you know."

She had taken a seat then, and having purchased a before invisible work-basket, was stitching demurely on a new wristband.

"I think he ought to, you know," she went on supply. "I don't think he would be doing his duty if he did not show some interest in the parish after neglecting it so long. Why, he has not been here since—last me! since I was quite young. For ten years, I should think. Has he, papa?"

"No," with a faint smile. "He was thirteen when he left Scotland, and you were seven. I doubt if you have ever seen him before, Fran."

"Yes, I have," nodding her brown head. "I saw him in church once. That was how I knew him to-day. I remember his face. I think I remembered it because it is so beautiful. It is beautiful—over so beautiful," and a soft little blush rose to her cheek.

To tell the truth, Lord Strathspey was something of a hero to his rector's daughter. She had remembered the handsome, boyish face she had seen in the grand service-time, and had pre an something to be admired with a tender sort of reverential awe. She had always been afraid of Lady Strathspey, and had always kept: but her distant, cold admiration of her young hero had something half affectionate in it, in spite of what my general, in her simplicity, the grandeur. He had grown older, her remembrance of him had grown fainter; but it had been a remembrance still, and had helped her to recognize him when they met, even though he had become a matured man, in the prime of life—and the bright face was less forcible. Again, she had heard so much about him in the country, who had seen him in their short visits to London, had brought back wonderful accounts of his grace, and learning, and debonair ways.

"My own," in Lady Strathspey's eyes, who seemed to look upon a noble young lord as to be bowed down to, and worshipped, and as the highest distinction, by his tenantry. The women who had not seen him, had certainly heard enough, for "my son's widower," and "the handsome baron," raised Countess Dowager to acknowledge any deposit from her thoughts of comfort, in a subject which was always interesting to her comely lady. "Has he not been here since?" she said, that Strathspey had raised no hands for Coombe-Ashley, and had been so busy a stranger to it, and a subscriber to foreign lands; and it was a grand hope-chest to her, every one knew, that he had not succeeded to her widow, and deserted to spend at least the winter, on his long-neglected estate.

AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS.

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightsey, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, and Dyspepsia. —G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Regulate

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Downsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured. —Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored. —Theodore Ealing, Richmond, Va.

DR. BORCHARDT'S TESTIMONIAL.

The Globe contains the following additional particulars in reference to the terrible affliction that has befallen Dr. Borchardt, Chancellor of Victoria University:—"Chancellor Borchardt, of Victoria University, who was called from Toronto suddenly last week by the news of the death of his two-year-old son Arthur, and his family have since been passing through a terrible period of bereavement. On Tuesday last the Angel of Death entered the house again, and through the dread agency of diphtheria, within the twenty-four hours taken away the second and eight months' son, the only daughter, an eleven-year-old girl called Gracie, and last, Blanche, the wife of Arthur, passed into the silent land. The absence of Colonel Gzowski with the broken family and sympathy will go forth to the bereaved parents, in their great grief, as all who have known the heavy grief of single loss."

A great day of enjoyment in prospect,—Dominion Day, at St. Joseph's Hospital grounds, Ashburnham.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

A meeting of the officers and teachers of the George street Methodist Sunday school was held last night and the picnic question settled. It was decided to hold the annual Sunday school picnic this year at Campbellstown on Wednesday, July 3rd. Arrangements will be made with Mr. Jacobs for the use of his grounds for the picnic, and committees were appointed to carry out the picnic arrangements. The excursion rates will be very low, and the infant department of the school are given free tickets. A general table will be set for the school children and their friends, so that no one, whether a member of the school or not, need feel any anxiety in regard to their dinner. Will those in charge of the canvassing teams will no doubt be the success which these excursions always are.

PARTIES IN PRISON.

The following from Mr. D. J. O'Brien, Peterborough's artistic wood carver, at present in the military camp at Connaught, in reference to James F. Farley, who was sent to penitentiary for life for the murder of the Indian shoeman last summer, will be read with interest:—"I have been to Kingston penitentiary to-day and had a 20-minute conversation with Jas. F. Farley. I found him in a very good state of health, weighing just about as much more than he did the day he committed his crime. He desires once more to tender his grateful thanks to the kind people of Peterborough, and he is looking forward to the day that the kind people may sign a petition for his liberty. The guards have told me that he has behaved himself in a most gentlemanly manner since he came to prison."

A NEW TRENT VALLEY CANAL BOOM.

The Trent Valley Canal boom comes, with the regularity of hard times—every 7 years. Seven years ago Sir Charles Tupper, then Minister of Railways and Canals invaded Peterborough and the Trent Valley district, spoke in hand, so to speak, ready and willing, as he officially declared on behalf of the Dominion Government, to dig it at once. Now with another election in sight another boom is about to burst. It is on the cards for Geo. Dunsford, minister of inland revenue, to visit the district again ostensibly to spend a few days in fishing for the mighty muskinonge and—the equally mighty vote. The ministers will be under the chaperonage of Mr. Jos. Stevenson, M.P. Incidentally the question of Trent Valley Canal extension will engage their attention. The honorable ministers should take their books for readers, if they expect to catch any votes on the head of Trent Valley Canal extension, after the cheers have been hushed time after time. The ministers want votes and they are not particular how they get them. They think with that good old granger, Thomas Tuner:—

All's fish we get
That comes to net.

CHILDREN'S DEMONSTRATION DAY.

The programme for the Oddfellows' demonstration day proceedings is as follows:—

The brethren will meet at their respective lodge rooms at two p. m. to receive badges. Visiting brethren are cordially invited to unite with the local brethren.

The procession will form in the Central Park at 2.30 sharp, in the following order:

The Fire Brigade Band,
Peterboro Militant, in uniform,
Members of Subordinate Lodges,
Visiting Brethren,
Officers of Subordinate Lodges,
Tent Guards.

At the cemetery the brethren will form in a circle, the hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee" will be sung to the accompaniment of the band. The opening ceremonies will follow, after which the graves will be decorated in succession, the members returning to the circle as soon as this is completed to take part in the closing ceremonies. After this, if the day be fine, fifteen or twenty minutes will be spent in viewing the cemetery, the members retaining at the call of the bugle to re-form in procession, which will return to Otonabee lodge rooms for dismissal. The ladies, especially, are requested to take part in the singing.

St. Mary's Hymn Book.

The Market Building Matter.

At the Board of Trade meeting on Tuesday night Mr. Dumble brought up an important matter in connection with the new market buildings, and he has followed up the protest then entered against placing the conveniences for the farmers' wives and their lady customers on the second floor, with a stairway fifteen feet high to overcome, by the circulation of a petition to the council to have the plans so changed as to furnish the room in question to be placed upon the ground floor. The favour with which the proposed change is regarded by our business men is shown by the fact that in a very few of these the names of sixty-eight gentlemen were obtained, comprising the principal business men of the town, as will be seen by reference to the names printed in another column of this impression. He only found two to refuse to sign the petition. One was a produce merchant who does not see the necessity for a new market building at all, and the other a butcher who wanted a stall on the ground floor for himself. The matter is one deserving careful attention. The council views the matter from a revenue stand point. But there are considerations more important than money whose legitimate use is to subserve our purposes, and to sacrifice our comfort and convenience. That the ground floor of the building should be used there is no doubt if we take account of the convenience of the farmers' wives and their patronage in town. After a weary drive to market, it is much added hardship to make a farmers wife or daughter climb a flight of twenty-five steps with perhaps forty pounds of butter upon her arm and it is an equal hardship to ladies in town to make a similar ascent. Besides the more accessible a market place the better for both buyer and seller. What merchant could compete with his fellows in trade if he had his shop on the second floor fifteen feet above the street? We should aim to attract our country cousins to town instead of repelling them. The pleasanter and more convenient we can make our market accommodation the larger will be the attendance from the country. The larger the attendance the more the competition and the greater the reduction of prices for farm produce to the people of the town. The more farmers we can induce to come to market the more customers our merchants will have. The council if willing to spend thousands to build bridges north and south in order to render access of certain districts the easier to the town. This is wise in view of the advantages to be derived from bringing as many as possible to make Peterborough their market town and consequently the place where they will spend their money for merchants' goods. The matter opened by Mr. Dumble is worthy of consideration. The council, doubtless, dislikes to lose the prospective revenue from the lease of shops in the grounds of the new market building but, perhaps, when they see that public convenience will be subserved by the change and that public sentiment will justify them in making the financial sacrifice involved they will regard the proposed change with favor. The subject is one of public interest and the EXAMINER'S columns are open to short, pointed, pertinent letters on the subject—for or against.

The New Market Building.

A Petition for its Attention—The Unanimous Wish of the Merchants.

The following petition will be presented at the next meeting of the town council, probably on Friday night:—

To the Mayor and Council of Peterborough:

Your petitioners, ratepayers of the town of Peterborough, have learned with surprise that it is in contemplation to put the market for farmers' produce, fowl, butter, eggs, &c., upstairs in the new building instead of on the ground floor. We believe such a plan will not be in the interest of the town or for the convenience and comfort of the ratepayers and farmers.

We think the rent, to be received from two or three shops, of secondary importance compared with the advantages of a convenient and easily accessible market.

Your petitioners, therefore, pray that your honorable body will be pleased to place the markets for all purposes on the ground floor, and your petitioners will ever pray.

Police Court.

THURSDAY, JUNE 27.

Wm. Baird, a printer, was arrested last night while drunk. This morning he was fined $2, and in default of payment was given a term of 10 days in gaol.

John Davis was similarly treated. He was arrested early last evening. His appearance would give one the impression that he had been too intimate with somebody's fists, for his eye was badly swollen and discolored. It seems he got in a row in Ashburnham the night before, and strayed over the bridge yesterday only to fall into the hands of the town police. The latter, by the way, object most strongly to the way things are run in Ashburnham. They say many get drunk and fight across the river and the town police are given all the trouble in connection with their arrest and prosecution. They think the Ashburnham authorities should look after their own disorderly characters. Davis had on a coat when arrested that was claimed by another man. The rightful owner of the garment stopped all night at the police station so as to be on hand in time to claim his own, and Davis admitting that it was his, the stranger donned the coat and walked away. Davis went up for ten days.

Personal.

Mrs. Thos. Lamkin and Miss Eva Lamkin, of Rochester, N. Y., are in town visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Hankinson, of Selwyn, left this morning on the C. P. R. for Buffalo, to visit their son, Mr. Ambrose Hankinson. They intend making a stay of two weeks.

Mr. John Crane, of the Bank of Ontario, left to-day to attend a wedding in Orkney. His cousin, Miss Etta Lake, is to be married to Mr. H. H. Lang, of the Lang Mfg. Co., Montreal. It will be a fashionable event.

Willow and Wicket.

Peterborough vs. Trinity College School.

The first eleven of these clubs met at Port Hope yesterday, and although the ground was very soft a pleasant game was the result. Peterborough won the match by 16 runs on the first innings, but at the end it seemed anybodys match as the boys had to get 13 to win and had three wickets to fall.

The College lads played in remarkably good form, everyone playing very straight. McCarthy and Martin played very fine cricket in the second innings, and with enough they are sure to prove "thorns" to some bowlers. The fielding and bowling of the boys was also very good.

For Peterborough Sam Ray and Stratton played exceedingly well in both innings while the veteran Rutherford in the first and Macdonal in the second innings both played good cricket.

In the bowling Attewell made his first appearance in a match on this side of the "herring pond," and the quality of his bowling may be inferred from his analysis, although the ground was much too dead to suit him. Stratton's air-curves came off in great shape in the first innings, seven wickets for 16 runs being his share of the spoil.

In the catching line Pellatt made a good one off his own bowling, as did Rutherford, and Salsbury made a grand catch at long-on.

After the match the Peterborough men were entertained by the Collegians a happy hour was spent.

Notice.

Summer Cooking.

An experimental dinner, illustrating summer cooking, will be given at the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, Wednesday, July 3rd. A nine lb. roast of beef, potatoes, onions, asparagus, fish and apples, will all be put in the cooker at the same time, given two and a half hours, and all taken out at the same time. Absolutely no attention will be given it during the process of cooking. There will be no heat or odor in the room, and the cost of fuel will not exceed one half cent. This is the most perfect cooker ever introduced. Meats roasted and baked, vegetables steamed, and pudding baked all at the same time, without care or attention. This cooker is specially adapted for families and campers. All those interested are cordially invited to be present and partake of the dinner. Remember Wednesday evening at seven p.m.

E. M. WARNER & Co.

Special Inducements.

The managers of the Peterborough Business College expect to open out in their new rooms on Water street the first of July, and in order to increase their attendance, offer special reduced rates to students for the next month. They have every appliance for giving a first class business training—their new premises being large and commodious and well ventilated, and every convenience to insure the greatest amount of comfort to their students. Their rooms will be open every day after July 1st, and they extend a cordial invitation to the public generally to visit them and see their splendid premises. Those who do so will be amply repaid.

Parents will do well to take advantage of their special offer and send their boys and girls where, in a very short time, they will be given such a course as will fit them to fill lucrative positions. Their students, during the past six months, have been remarkably successful, many of their graduates obtaining positions as soon as graduated. They are constantly receiving applications from both business and professional men for bookkeepers and stenographers. The principals, Messrs. Bean & Rooney, will be pleased to give, personally or by mail, to all who desire, full information in regard to any point in the course of the College. dw

Gentlemen with Bald Heads.

What remarks as a rule attend the appearance of a bald head. It is not looked at that it is not his fault but his misfortune. There is not alone this annoyance, but a person with the scalp unprotected is more liable to diseases of the head. When a gentleman loses his hair he should take immediate steps to have it replaced with an artificial covering. It is a duty he owes to himself. If he is slow about it, his wife, sister, brother or friend should spur him on. Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, will be at Phelan's Hotel on June 28 and 29, and will have a big stock of his famous wigs and toupees with him, which are just the things required. The least you can do is to call and examine the articles whether you buy one or not. Physicians endorse them and you cannot afford to be without one. dw

ATTRACTION
TURNBULL'S

The first month of summer is an interesting period to the retail buyer. Keep your eye on this column, its newsy. Each week things will appear that ere the month passes will likely make you richer for the reading.

There is scarcely a weak spot in our Trimmed Millinery yet. The latest hat kind are turning up their pretty faces every day, and all the time floods of freshness and brightness keep pouring in new goods constantly.

This job line of untrimmed hats we spoke of last week is what pleases everybody—variety and prices right.

This week we have placed on our Dress Goods counter a dozen pieces of fancy dress cloths, 15c. a yard. The only reason we can conceive that these goods have not sold earlier at higher prices, is that they were too new. They ought to and no doubt will go out very fast now. Attention is called to them. Shantung pongee, the dustless kind. You know how the heathen Chinee crams dust into common run of pongees. He does not do it to the Shantung—pure silk and clean. These goods make up beautiful with our fine henriettas.

In the Tweed department we have a fine line of Halifax tweeds that handle soft and fleecy—just as they ought to handle. Sale price, 35c.

We expect to-morrow's train to bring us in a large shipment of Corsets We keep what our judgment says is the best make in the trade. We see representatives from all the factories. Our 50c. corsets are the best we believe ever shown in Peterborough for years.

We have been able to repeat that line of ladies' black hose, heavy weight, at 15c. pair, Those who have had these goods will be glad to hear they can get them again now.

Pink is the favorite color in Chambrays this season. Again a fresh lot just arrived.

We keep suits for boys and small boys, either with or without linings at all prices. See them before buying

NEWS OF THE OLD WORLD.

PORTUGAL'S CONDUCT IN THE DELAGOA BAY MATTER.

The London Papers Characterize the Action as a National Disgrace—England Declines to Guarantee the Evacuation of Egypt.

LISBON, June 27.—A Government decree says: The Delagoa Bay Railroad concession was cancelled because the concessionaires failed to keep their engagement. The Government will construct the railroad and indemnify the concessionaires for the work already done.

Blaine to Take a Hand.

LONDON, June 27.—It is understood that Mr. Blaine, in response to a petition, will send an American man-of-war to Delagoa Bay.

Accused of Setting a Trap.

LONDON, June 27.—The Times accuses Portugal of entrapping the Delagoa Bay Railway Company by fixing time limits within which the Government knew it would be impossible to finish the line, owing to climatic difficulties. The Times thinks England ought to call Portugal to account. The directors of the company are unable to believe Portugal would take so unprecedented and violent a measure without the slightest justification, against the vigorous protests of Great Britain and America. The Crown Counsel and other eminent lawyers are unanimous in the opinion that such action is illegal.

A Breach of Faith.

LONDON, June 27.—The Globe, commenting on Portugal's conduct in the Delagoa Bay railway matter, says: "Portugal has been guilty of an unwarrantable breach of faith and of shameful dishonesty, and has disgraced the national name."

A British gunboat is expected at Delagoa Bay Saturday. The railway employes are preparing to forcibly resist any attempt on the part of Portugal to take charge of the road.

The Egyptian Debt Conversion Scheme.

LONDON, June 27.—England has declined to guarantee the evacuation of Egypt, which was demanded by France, as a condition of her acceptance of the Egyptian debt conversion scheme. The scheme has therefore been abandoned.

France has also demanded an annulment of the Anglo-Turkish Convention of 1887.

Irritation at Cairo.

CAIRO, June 27.—The people of this city are irritated over the opposition of France to England's scheme for the conversion of the Egyptian debt, because England would not consent to evacuate Egypt. The abandonment of the scheme will prevent a continuance of the work to improve irrigation by the waters of the Nile, and will also hinder a decrease in the rates of taxation.

A German Attack on Switzerland.

BERLIN, June 27.—The North German Gazette renews its attack upon Switzerland to-day. It charges that Switzerland promotes the dissemination of social democratic ideas among the young men of the country. It says Anarchists without credentials are allowed to remain in Switzerland without effort on the part of the authorities to identify them. It declares that the reply of M. Droz, the Swiss Foreign Minister, to the recent interpellations of the National Rath in which he declared that under no circumstances should Switzerland share with any power the right to police his own territory, was inadequate and unsatisfactory. It says, however, that the reply of the Bundesrath to the complaints made by Russia and Austria was more polite than was expected from the wording of the interpellation.

Sexton Downs the Attorney-General.

LONDON, June 27.—Mr. Sexton admitted before the Parnell Commission yesterday that he had been asked to join the Fenians, but refused to name the man who asked him. Attorney-General Webster, for The Times, pressed him hard, but in vain, to give the name, and became angry and excited. After a passionate scene between counsel and witness, the former abandoned the attempt. Witness declared he held Alexander Sullivan in high estimation on account of his public services.

Attorney-General Webster, it is said, will claim the right to extort from a Parnellite witness any information not obtainable by usual methods. The Parnellites are determined to resist this, and if the Attorney-General persists they will probably leave court with their counsel.

Chatham's Improvement Bylaw Carried.

CHATHAM, June 27.—A bylaw to raise $30,000 for local improvement was voted on to-day and carried, only 65 voting against it. This will enable the council to put King-street and the bridges in good condition.

The College Scullers.

NEW LONDON, Conn, June 27.—The Harvard-Columbia freshmen race was won by the Harvards by two lengths.

In the boat race to-night Cornell won by two lengths, Columbia second, three lengths ahead of the University of Pennsylvania third.

The features were the exciting contest between Cornell and Columbia and the sensational collapse of the Columbia crew the instant they crossed the finish line. When they stopped pulling six of them—Bentley, Middleton, Harrison, O'Gorman,—and Klapp—fell over in a dead faint completely exhausted. Five of the six reserved consciousness within a few minutes but Middleton was unconscious for 20 minutes. The six men were then lifted out of their boat and placed on board the Corrie Goodwin. While their bodies were being made the other two men in the Columbia boat—Tuttle and Peters—also fainted and had to be assisted out of the boat. When the Columbia launch arrived at their quarters the entire crew were lifted out and carried to their rooms and put to bed. The coxswain, Tuttle, had changed. They had been rowed to a standstill and had completely broken down. Tuttle was quite excited and at times slightly delirious. Jasper Goodwin, the famous Columbia oarsman, declared that the men were badly used up and were not under the weather but there was nothing serious. From other sources it was learned that shortly before the race it was decided to take Henry aside to a private apartment, where he remained at the Columbia quarters all night as a precautionary

THIS WIFE CO-RESPONDENT

THE PERPLEXING MARITAL SNARL OF JOSEPH SHACKLETON.

He Had One Wife in Jersey and One in New York—Henry Bixby's Wife Figures as Co-Respondent for Wife No. Two.

NEW YORK, June 28.—"Marriage, Divorce and Bigamy," by Joseph Shackleton. A highly interesting legal novelette. Superior to "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." By subscription only.

Mr. Joseph Shackleton has not written a book of the above title, but the facts which go to make up the romance of his Lotharic-like existence would furnish material for two such novels.

Mr. Shackleton, though a modest looking man of 40 or thereabouts, has two legal wives, both of whom are suing him for divorce, No. 1 making No. 2 co-respondent in her case, No. 2 making a certain dashing Mrs. Mary Illsley co-respondent in her suit, while the husband of the Illsley woman seeks separation from her, and boldly asserts that Lothario Shackleton is the cause of his woe. The peculiarity of this badly mixed domestic melo-drama is that so well known a man as Shackleton was able to bear the relation of husband to two women, one in Rahway, the other in New York, without discovery, for eight years.

Mr. Shackleton is president of the Shackleton Car Heating and Ventilating Company, he being the inventor of the patent used. The business office is at No. 115 Broadway, while the manufacturing plant is at Bond Brook. According to the complaint of wife No. 1, whose name is Sarah and whose residence is Rahway, she was married to Joseph Aug. 17, 1867, and the fruit of their marriage is five children, the eldest 20, the youngest 10 years of age. June 3 she, through her attorney, William McCloskey, petitioned Chancellor McGill of the New Jersey Court of Chancery to annul her marriage with Shackleton. She alleges that she is entitled to the decree because of the diver acts of infidelity committed by Shackleton with Mrs. Mary Illsley, whose husband keeps a famous road-house at Scotch Plains, near Plainfield, N.J.

Mrs. Shackleton further alleges a deviation from the path of rectitude in regard to his conduct with a certain Ruth Emmeline Bickell, with whom he had lived continuously since 1881, introducing her everywhere as his wife and living with her in grand style in this city. She also alleges that on April 1, 1889, Ruth Emmeline Bickell commenced action against Shackleton for divorce in the Superior Court of the State of New York, and calls attention of the Court to the fact that the said Ruth E. Bickell claimed to have been married to Shackleton Nov. 21, 1881. Upon the recital of the above facts Vice-Chancellor Bird of Jersey City yesterday granted an order compelling Shackleton to pay the plaintiff $25 counsel fees and $7 per week alimony. This is wife No. 1's status at present.

Wife No. 2 commenced her action April 2, last, through her attorney, A. F. McNickle. Mrs. Bickell is a refined, cultured woman of perhaps 40. She was a widow. Her husband, George Bickell, owned the biggest hotel in Lawrence, Mass., and when he died she took charge of it. In 1881 Shackleton stopped with her while on a tour collecting royalties on his patents. He fell in love with her and she consented to become his wife, not dreaming she was marrying a bigamist. After the marriage she sold her property, realizing nearly $10,000 therefor, and came to New York, where he located her in Greenwich-street, keeping a furnished house. Her money went rapidly and now she has none. They also resided in Newark, N.J., and their social position was the best. Finally, she alleges, Shackleton became infatuated with Mrs. Illsley and took her down to Bound Brook. His relations becoming known to her she commenced this action. Yesterday Mr. McNickle secured an order from Judge Treax of the Superior Court, compelling the much-married man to pay wife No. 2 $15 per week alimony and $100 counsel fees. Judge Bruce, of New Brunswick, N.J., is Shackleton's lawyer, and through him the defendant denies the marriage with wife No. 2. But she has letters written by his loving hand, beginning "My dear wife" and signed "Lovingly, Joey," and "yours until death, Joey."

Henry Illsley, the road-road man, is represented by Lawyer Henry Cook of Plainfield. His confidence in plump, pretty blonde women is badly shattered.

"Shackleton is a shrewd fellow," said Lawyer McCloskey yesterday. "He used to visit Mrs. Shackleton No. 1 at Rahway during the day and leave at night, telling her he had to be at the Bound Brook factory early—quite early—you know. Then he would join Mrs. Shackleton No. 2 and excuse himself during the day on a similar plea. Yes, he is liable to be arrested for bigamy at any time. No, there are no more wives at present, but one or two more may turn up at any time."

ASSASSINATION IN A CEMETERY.

What Is Called Lynching in the Senate of South Carolina.

COLUMBIA, June 28.—A horrible case of the butchery of a negro is reported from Union County. A white man named D. Gallman gave a ride in his buggy to a negro named A. McNight. The negro kicked the dashboard of the buggy, so Gallman says. The white man then cut the negro's throat, but not fatally, leaving him on the road. By and by the negro, half dead with loss of blood, limped along, and Gallman, who had got a gun from an acquaintance and was waiting for him, shot McNight in the stomach. The wounded man was taken to a neighbor's house and a doctor summoned. On Sunday night, while the negro was suffering great agony from his wounds, six masked men entered his room and roughly picking up the wounded negro took him to a churchyard, where they riddled his body with bullets. His entrails were oozing from the gaping wounds in his side, and his carriage were torn from his ears. The verdict of the coroner's jury was:

"The deceased came to his death by gunshot wounds in the hands of unknown persons."

Murdered by a Burglar.

LACROSSE, Wis., June 27.—A burglar entered the house of John Webber last night through the window of a room occupied by his two daughters, Kate and Lena. The girls were awakened while the robber was ransacking their clothing and Lena, aged 18, attempted to escape. She fell and before she could arise she was seized by the burglar, who plunged a knife into her body below the tenth rib. The knife was pulled upward, a deep gash nine inches long was cut which exposed the heart, lungs and intestines. The assassin then made a threat at the other girl, who managed to evade the knife. The family was aroused by the noise but the burglar escaped. Lena Webber will die.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

James Karn of Beachville a Victim of Yesterday's Storm.

BEACHVILLE, June 27.—James Karn of Beachville was struck by lightning and instantly killed during the severe storm of to-day. He was found two hours after the storm lying partly on his face at the roots of a tree that had been shattered by the lightning. The bolt struck him on the temple and right side of the face, passing down over the body, which is badly discolored. Mr. Karn was an old resident, having been in the hotel business in Beachville for over 25 years, and was much respected.

PREPARING FOR THE FRAY.

South Wentworth Reformers Assembled in Council at the Ambitious City.

HAMILTON, June 27.—A meeting of the Reformers of South Wentworth was held this afternoon in the rooms of the Reform Association. Mr. D. A. Hyslop, vice-president, in the chair. The chairman stated the objects for which the meeting had been called—the election of officers, nomination of candidates for the Ontario Legislature and for the Dominion Parliament, and for making arrangements to look after the voters' lists. He thought it would be very long before the people of Ontario would allow the Mowat Government to be defeated. The National Policy was a dead horse, and Commercial Union must be considered.

Mr. D. A. Hyslop was unanimously elected President; Mr. E. F. Snyder, Vice-President; Mr. John Dickenson, Secretary-Treasurer.

When the subject of nominating candidates for the Ontario and Dominion Houses came up, Mr. John Dickenson said that at a meeting of a number of Reformers it was decided that if the meeting to be held on June 27 wished to make nominations they might do so, but if they wished further consideration of the subject it could be left over.

Mr. Hyslop, the president, said that there was a great deal of work to be done in revising voters' lists and seeing that all Reformers were on, and all Tories who should not be on should have their names struck off.

Mr. Joseph Rymal was then called upon to address the meeting on the subject. He said it was too early, he thought, to nominate a candidate yet. What the Reformers of South Wentworth should do was to take it upon themselves to see that the revision of the voters' list was thorough, that there was not a Reform name left off the list that should be on, nor a Tory name left on that should be off. All sorts of Tory villainy had to be met and the work must be done most thoroughly if the Reformers of South Wentworth wished to win.

FIRE AT MONTREAL.

A $200,000 Blaze in the Federal Telephone Company's Building.

MONTREAL, June 27.—Fire broke out in the Federal Telephone Company's building in St. Sacrament-street early this morning and spread to a building on the west and the Stock Exchange on the east before the firemen, in response to three alarms, reached the scene. Mr. and Mrs. Bone, caretakers of the Stock Exchange, had to escape by the roof of that building, whence they were rescued by the firemen. Mrs. O'Hearn, wife of the caretaker of the Federal Company's buildings, also had a narrow escape.

The two upper flats of the building were completely gutted, and the loss is estimated at $250,000.

A Georgetown Factory Burnt.

GEORGETOWN, June 27.—About 2 o'clock this morning Campbell & Kay's knitting machine factory here was totally destroyed by fire; loss not known, insurance $11,000 The building was owned by F. W. Barber no insurance.

Mrs. Evans of the Shaftesbury House, who was injured in the St. George accident last February, is recovering very slowly. It will be several months before she will be able to resume her duties.

The trial of David Guthrie, William Grason and John Fielding—the former charged with assaulting Chief Constable Ross, and the latter two with attempting rescue—took place before Judge Muir this afternoon. Grason was acquitted. Guthrie and Fielding were found guilty and allowed to go on deferred sentence.

Charles R. Sayer, secretary of the Niagara Falls (N.Y.) Y.M.C.A., and Miss Minnie Dryland of this city were married last evening at the residence of the bride's mother.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Sarah S. Brennan, second daughter of M. Brennan, was married to the Rev. James Thompson of Wycliffe College, Toronto.

William Morris, for 30 years a resident of this city, died at his residence here yesterday. He has been in feeble health for the past four years.

A St. Louis Murder.

ST. LOUIS, June 27.—The body of a young woman was found early this morning in Union-avenue in the western [illegible] city. From bruises and slight cuts about the face and neck and the disordered condition of her clothes it is supposed the woman was murdered, perhaps outraged, and afterwards taken to the place where she was found to prevent detection.

ANOTHER "TRUST" ON CHANGE.

The Petroleum and Cattle Traders Combine on the N. Y. Stock Board.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Another Trust was yesterday placed in the enlisted department of the Stock Exchange by the Governing Committee, and beginning with to-day the public had one more opportunity to part with its money. This new member of the Trust family is known as the Directors and Cattle Traders' Trust, and it will be known in the quotations by its initial letters. At first it was intended to use only the two letters, D.T., but the governors finally concluded that they would be too suggestive.

Business in the other trusts—sugar and lead—which has been so active of late, quieted down yesterday. Sugar Trust certificates were especially weak, and the price fell off to 112, or thirteen points below the highest figures of the week, causing a good many men who had bought at the high figures to wear long faces and carry dejected pocket books. Lead Trust certificates were firmer than sugar, but there was nothing like the activity of Monday and Tuesday [illegible] manipulated.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The President this afternoon appointed Wm. J. Morgan to be collector of customs for the District of Buffalo Creek, N.Y. and Alexander to be collector of Customs for the Buffalo Customs District.

THE TORONTO BUDGET.

A MONTREAL FORGER CAPTURED IN THE QUEEN CITY.

Annual Convocation of the University of Trinity College—Electricity from the Niagara Cataract.

TORONTO, June 28.—At the Police Court yesterday William Dixon, the G.T.R. constable who shot Baggageman McLachlan some days ago, was again put back for a week to allow the wounded man to gain strength enough to appear against him. An application for bail was rejected.

Wm. Guillet was attacking College-street when he was run down by a horse driven by Wm. Coleman, who, it is alleged, could have prevented the accident. Guillet, who is badly injured, had Coleman arrested. He was shortly after arraigned and remanded.

In Montreal, on Tuesday, several checks purporting to be signed by J. J. Curran, M.P., were honored by several brokers. Afterwards they were discovered to be forgeries. The forger adopted a most ingenious method to carry out his scheme. He would call up the broker by telephone and tell him that Mr. Curran was speaking and ask to have a check, which he would send by messenger, cashed. In a few minutes the boy would present the check and, in every instance, the money was promptly paid. The various forgeries were traced to a young man who was believed to have taken passage on the steamer Algerian for Toronto, and a despatch asking for his arrest on the arrrival of the boat in Toronto was sent to Col. Grasett. The message was handed to Detective Davis, who met the steamer on its arrival at Yonge-street wharf at 6.45 yesterday morning, and found the party he was looking for. At police headquarters the prisoner registered as Charles E. Keelar. He is about 22 years of age. An officer from Montreal is expected to arrive here to-day for the prisoner.

The Convention of Swedenborgians or New Church delegates was held yesterday in the New Jerusalem Church in Emstreet, with a fair attendance.

A little three-tonner capsized yesterday morning off the western point of the Island, and her two occupants were compelled to cling to the keel for half an hour before being rescued. There was an exciting time at the Island in the interval.

The annual convocation of the University of Trinity College was held yesterday afternoon, Hon. G. W. Allan, the Chancellor, presiding. The honorary degree of D.C.L. was conferred on Dr. Bourinot of Ottawa; Rev. Dr. Potter of Hobart College, New York, and Prof. Jones of Trinity College. Bishop Courtney of Nova Scotia, who was to have been admitted to the same degree, was unable to be present. Convocation Hall was crowded.

Annie Simpson, the alleged victim of the Grand Trunk Railway train thieves, turns out to be a fakir of the worst kind. She was examined again by the detectives yesterday, and finding her very contradictory in her statements she was taken into the matron's room and subjected to a thorough search. The result was the finding of $25 and a card appealing to the charitably inclined concealed in the skirt of her dress. She was allowed to get out of town.

If things go the way Col. Gzowski wants them to go Buffalo will not be the only city to have the prospect of getting electricity out of Niagara Falls. Negotiations are now going on between Col. Gzowski, representing the Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park Commissioners and a company of United States capitalists for the purpose of granting water power privileges at the Falls on the Canadian side to the said company. The question in dispute now, it is said, is the amount the rental is to be fixed at. Col. Gzowski wants $35,000 a year, and the company, it is said, want to pay something under that sum. If $35,000 a year is good for the use of the Falls' water power it ought not to cost the people much for maintaining Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park. Perhaps all the fees might be abolished. It is understood that the company intend transmitting electric power to the different towns and cities from Niagara as far east as Toronto.

LAKE INSURANCE.

A London Company Getting the Cream of the Business.

CHICAGO, June 27.—When the general agents of the marine insurance companies doing business on the great lakes last spring agreed upon a tariff of rates for the season and pledged themselves to abide by the form of policy then in common use, it seemed that wreckmen had but two courses to follow, either to accept the insurance companies' condition or let their floating property go uninsured. The insurance men looked for a season of good premiums and large net profits. A Cleveland vessel owner objected to paying 3½ per cent. on first-class steel steamers. He thought he could do better and went to an English company and asked for rates. He was given 2½ per cent. If $3,000,000 insurance could be placed in a lump. The policy offered, with its highly favorable conditions, made the regulative lake policy look like no insurance at all. The Cleveland man laid his plans before other owners and the $3,000,000 limit was quickly reached and has been added to until the total lake insurance now placed through the London company is $5,000,000. That $5,000,000 is the cream of the lake insurance business, and the lake companies are wondering what they are going to do next year to meet the English invasion. It is estimated that of the $45,000,000 of floating property rated in the Inland Lloyds not over $20,000,000 carries insurance. It is not likely a fifth of this business will be permanently lost without an effort to regain it. That effort must be either a reduction in rates or a radical change in lake policies.

WAS HE SHOT IN COLD BLOOD?

A Report That John Hoch Was Killed by United States Army Officers.

BLACK FEET AGENCY, PIEGAN, Mon., June 23. — According to news brought here yesterday, John Hoch, a squaw man and a notorious thief, was discovered on Sunday last hiding in the quarters of one of the officers of the Twenty-fifth Infantry. The thief made no attempt to explain his presence, but grappled with the officer who had found him there and used his bowie knife, severely wounding him. Hoch was finally subdued and was thrown into an outhouse. The report of the capture soon spread through the post and subsequently Hoch was deliberately killed by his enraged captors.

It is impossible to learn the names of the men who did the killing, but the courier who brought the news here says it was done by officers, and that no arrests have been made. The edict has been promulgated, he says, that all thieves captured at Fort Shaw shall be summarily shot. There are four companies of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, B, C, F and K, at Fort Shaw. Lieut.-Col. J. J. Van Horn is commander of the post. Gen. Ruger, commander of the Department of Dakota, has been notified of the affair.

Belle Starr's Son Is Caged.

FORT SMITH, Ark., June 28.—Government officers succeeded in capturing yesterday Ed Reed, the notorious son of the famous Belle Starr. Reed defiantly marched into this city with a pack of stolen horses and proceeded to sell them. The animals were stolen in the Cherokee Nation, where the frequency of Reed's raids has excited much indignation. He has always boasted that he would never be taken alive, as he would have to face trial on a dozen charges of murder and horse stealing. His arrest was effected by United States Deputy Marshal Cole and Detective Cox, who caught Reed in a stall of the livery barn and compelled him to surrender. Reed's father, mother, brother and two sisters have all died violent deaths in the Indian Territory, and the criminal history of the family would fill volumes.

Last Sickness of Mr. Cameron.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Secretary [illegible] has issued an order to-day announcing the death of Simon Cameron, ex-Secretary of War, and directing, as a mark of respect to his memory, that the offices of the War Department be draped in mourning for 30 days and all business be suspended thereon on the day of the funeral. As an additional mark of respect Colonel Schofield has ordered evergreen guns fired at each

THE LATE PROF. PHELPS.

The above is a portrait of the late Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., of Dartmouth College. He was a strong, able man, who stood high in the literary and scientific worlds. It is not generally known, but it is, nevertheless, the truth, that Prof. Phelps was the discoverer of what is known to the Medical Profession and Chemists universally as Paine's Celery Compound, unquestionably one of the most valuable discoveries of this century. This remarkable compound is not a nervine, an essence, a sarsaparilla or any derived article, but a discovery, and it marks a distinct step in medical practice and the treatment of nervous complications. It has been freely endorsed by the best medical talent in the land, and also by the leading chemists and scientists, that for nerve troubles, nervous exhaustion, insomnia, debility, senility and even the dreaded and terrible Paresis, nothing has ever been discovered which reaches the disorder and restores health equal to this discovery of Prof. Phelps

Paine's Celery Compound is now being prepared in quantities, and can be procured at any reputable druggist. An attractive bunch of celery is to be found on every wrapper. It has become specially popular among professional men, mind workers, ladies burdened with exciting social duties and frequenters of the leading clubs.

Obituary.

The Late William Kidd of Dummer.

Last Monday's EXAMINER contained a notice of the death of Mr. William Kidd, one of the pioneer settlers of Warsaw and so intimately has he been associated with the history of this county especially in the neighborhood of Warsaw for nearly sixty years that fuller particulars of his life will be acceptable. Mr. Kidd was born in Inverness-shire, Scotland in 1806. He came to Canada with his father and family, which consisted of five other sons and daughters. Settling in Perth Co. the family remained there till 1832 when he came to Dummer in the capacity of a guide to headquarters cooking their provisions. In order to facilitate his duties he settled on lot nine in the first concession of the township, one of the first settlers, for the township though surveyed had no settlers, and there were very few in the surrounding district. The only surviving fellow-settler of Mr. Kidd is Mr. Laurence Payne, now of Peterborough. Here Mr. Kidd made it his home and literally hewed his grain fields out of the primitive forest. The other members of his father's family soon followed him to Dummer, but of these only three brothers and three sisters are now alive. Mr. Kidd was united in marriage to Miss Christie Robertson, of Dummer. Her death took place in 1872 and Mr. Kidd was married the second time to Miss Christie McDonald, who still survives him. Mr. Kidd had a family of ten, eight sons and two daughters. Of these all are living but two sons, who both were removed by sudden, accidental death—one, John, having been drowned in Rice Lake, and the other, recently killed by a quarry accident in Dummer. The surviving sons are Mr. A. R. Kidd, reeve of Dummer; Mr. M. R. Kidd and Mr. R. J. Kidd, merchants, Peterborough; Alexander, of Michigan; William, of Iowa, and Walter, a resident of Cardiff. The daughters are Mrs. White, of Kingston, and Mrs. Ritchie, of Lindsay. Mr. Kidd was a foremost citizen of Dummer. He was one of the first trustees of the Warsaw school section, and maintained an active connection with and interest in educational matters during his life. In religion he was a Baptist, in the early days, before churches were built, devoting his house to the holding of services, which were often conducted by his brother, Mr. Walter Kidd. In politics Mr. Kidd was an ardent, energetic adherent of Liberal principles, and his sons are worthily followed in his footsteps. Mr. Kidd's life was a long and eventful one. He lived to see the howling wilderness "blossom as the rose," and to see a large family grow up respected, honored and thriving. For the past two years heart disease has been preying upon him, and on Saturday, June 22nd, he passed quietly away to his reward. His remains were consigned to the South Dummer Burying Grounds, the religious services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Dean of Norwood, and Rev. Mr. Power, of Warsaw, an immense funeral procession testifying to the high esteem and respect in which the venerable deceased was held.

Good Templarism.

The thirty-sixth annual session of the Independent Order of Good Templars is in session in Toronto. There are some 150 delegates in attendance. The reports show a large growth during the past year. The number of lodges on the roll is 393, and the total membership 12,830, an increase of 344 in the last year. The finances were also satisfactory. Seven new Juvenile Templar lodges have been organized during the year, making eighteen in all with a membership of 1,062.

Dominion Day Celebration at Port Hope.

The grand programme for the celebration of Dominion Day at Port Hope is the best ever presented by that town. It comprises an immense gathering of firemen, a fireman's parade, special games for firemen, athletic sports, boat races, &c., during the day. In the evening, the T. Pipe in Clover will be practically illustrated by the real live article, the whole concluding with a grand display of fireworks. We would strongly advise our readers to make their arrangements to spend Dominion Day in Port Hope. The programme shows it always fully carried out. Any information desired can be obtained by writing W. H. Stanton, secretary of committee.

We clip the following item from one of our exchanges which will interest our sporting readers:—"The Dominion Cartridge Company, Ld., of Montreal, is one of the few manufacturing firms in the Dominion who are doing a successful foreign business. Hitherto the bulk of metallic cartridges have been made in Connecticut, U.S., the proverbial nutmeg State, where a cheap low grade of powder is use, etc. The management of the Dominion Company seem recognized the fact that even in the United States there was a market for a reliable factory made ammunition, and last season they brought an expert from England, and in September had their "test" lamps in operation where all their cartridges go for inspection, and by the first of November, in the face of the 45 per cent. duty, they were on the United States market. Their sales in that country since up to the 16th of April amounted to over forty tons—15,000,000 rounds. One firm alone has taken nearly thirty tons. This company are also doing a large trade in England, Australia, Mexico, South America, etc. The North-West Mounted Police are using this ammunition, and the government [illegible] super strength in favour of the home-made imported cartridge over the American make. Every cartridge that comes in a case bearing the inspector's stamp is reliable."—Daily British Columbian Monday morning, April 29th, 1889. 1d

Is My Hair Right?

How often do we hear one lady ask this question of another. Invariably those ladies who are constantly worrying about their hair, do not wear any kind of hair goods, but possibly a switch. Now, consider this, ladies: Would it not pay you to get a nice, becoming style of Frank-pieces, Bang or Wave, made of fine, curled or curved human hair, and be sure to is always right? Then you would not require to ask "Is my hair all right?" Prof. Derenwend, of Toronto, has made the manufacture of hair goods a life study, and amongst his many pieces every lady will find something to suit her. You have all heard of the professor, though, perhaps, you have never interested yourself enough to call on him during his former visits. Do so now. He will be at Phelan's Hotel on Friday and Saturday, June 28th and 29th, and will bring with him his big stock of all kinds of hair goods. He will be pleased to show you his various styles. See his advertisement in another column. dw

MUNCASTER'S

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER

A TALE OF TEARS.

Just now innocent brown-eyed Prue was wondering if she should, at last, have a closer view of this hero. Her thoughts were a curious mixture of romance and practicability. Perhaps he would come to the rectory, and then, of course, she would be called to meet him; for, long before bread and butter and short dresses were things of the past, she had been her father's babygossip, and the childish mistress of the little brown gabled house. Then, of course, if he was as generous as people said he was, he would ask how wretchedly paid for his hard labor, his rector had been, and then—Well, perhaps, it would be easier to buy the quiet little dresses and hats, and possibly a time might come when her own gloves and papa's would not have to be mended so often. Having got to this turn of thought, she looked up at her father quietly. He had turned to the manuscript again, and was working as hard as ever. How grave his face was, and how gray he was getting, and how many, very many he was obliged to send over those dreadful books—for the poor pittance had to be worked out in more ways than one.

"Papa," she said, softly, "don't you suppose——" and then hesitated a little.

He raised his head, as he always did, at the sound of her voice.

"What is it, my bairn?" he asked. "My bairn" was the quiet pet name he had given her from the first mournful hour when he had received her from her young mother's dying arms; and there was something almost touching in the quaint sound, as it came from his grave lips.

"Don't you suppose that Lord Strathcapey's coming home will make a difference?"

"In what?"

"In—well—make a difference to you. Perhaps he will give you some more money," she said wisely. "He ought to."

"Perhaps he will," returned the rector half grave, half smiling. "What do you want, Prue?"

She laid her work down, and came behind his chair, clasping her arms round his neck, and laying her soft cheek on his grizzled head, with an odd little caressing nestle, like a baby's.

"I want a hundred things," she said, half laughing. "I want a dressing-gown for you, and something nice for Jessie Macdonald, and a grand new dress to wear on Sundays. Lord Strathcapey will be at church, you know, and—Well, I believe that is all."

And she ended with a face a thought more serious than it had been when she began, for she was stricken with a sudden recollection of the questionable appearance of her best attire.

"Couldn't we manage to do something about the new dress, Prue?" he asked, with an odd anxiety in his face, or an anxiety which was odd in a man of his kind; but they had held these economical consultations for years together, and to diplomatize seriously over the purchase of the hardly-earned girlish garments, was nothing new.

She shook her head with a certain sweet gravity.

"Oh, dear me!" she said, seriously, "we couldn't think of it. You see there are all these people to be visited next week, and one can't go without taking them something. Oh, dear me, no!"

He touched her soft brown hair with a regretful sigh. "Poor little bairn!" he said, "you have a hard life."

She drew her arms tighter round his neck in a closer caress.

"No I haven't," she said lovingly, "It is you who have had the hard life, poor busy darling. I'm very happy. I don't care about Lord Strathcapey. I daresay he won't look at me; and, besides, my dress is not so ugly, after all."

But for all that, when she ran upstairs after dinner, to her pretty white bedroom, she took the questionable garment out of the wardrobe, and reviewed it with some anxiety. It was not the dress so much, but she had a childish awe of these stately Strathcapeys, and a childish desire to appear well in their eyes.

All in the meantime, Lord Strathcapey had gone back to the Cosmos, with a curiously pleasant recollection of a tender girlish face, and a pair of big innocent brown eyes, with a curious childish sweetness in them.

He was not a very good man, this Angus Lord Strathcapey, and certainly not willfully a bad man; but for all that, he was just the sort of person to commit a wrong through the careless light-handedness which was his chief characteristic. This very carelessness it was which had made him a stranger to his mother's house so long. The foreign lands, in which he had spent so many years, had pleased him well enough to hold him rover; and, as he had no very conscientious scruples on the subject of his responsibilities, and was in nowise inclined to regard life seriously, he naturally made a pleasure of pleasing himself. I was going to say; but I think I can improve upon the phrase by saying, allowing himself to be pleased. The quiet little figure on the hillside had pleased him, and the innocent face, and almost childish eyes, had struck him as something refreshing. Why did the house seem full of belong to? He had no distinct recollection of having seen it before, and yet it seemed almost familiar to him. He broached the subject to his mother after dinner, when he rose to light his cigar; and he held a fan to his "friend," and puffed away cheerfully, as he described the Hall "magnificent."

"A little creature"—he said between the puffs, "like a brownie. A pretty child, with an innocent face, and a shabby dress on.—Who is she?"

"My dear Angus," expostulated her ladyship, "your child is a young lady. I think you must mean little Miss Renfrew, the rector's daughter—and she is nearly eighteen years old."

His lordship laughed. He had a musical laugh, by the way, with a clear refined ring in its tone; but this laugh was only the least of his attractions.

"Is she?" he said. "She has the face of a child of eight. I think I must go and see Renfrew."

"Angus," said Lady Strathcapey.

He looked again; but entered a little, nevertheless.

"What is her name?" he asked.

"Prudence, I believe," replied her ladyship, generally; "and I really can't permit you to go and talk nonsense to her, Angus. She is a good conventional little thing—as good as she is pretty; as the poor people all are."

Strathcapey touched the ash from his cigar lightly, and smiled. "She must be very much admired, I should think, if she is as good as she is pretty," he said, with a chuckle in his voice. "Perhaps, however, the most admired of beauties are not so angelic."

He did not say which sister on the subject; but it was not forgotten; it is certain that he did not call at the rectory that day. Perhaps his mother's evident disapproval of the visit had something to do with it; perhaps the weather's evident disapproval of visiting had more. At any rate, he did not find a few days at least. In her eyes at first, she had been chiefly anxious to be in readiness, and had watched the road diligently; but Monday came, and Lord Strathcapey had not made his appearance.

But on Sunday at church the new lord was there. He had already forgotten him, for the time being; but although he had, after the fashion of the fashionable young gallants of the fashionable drawing-room, with his glass eyes, and his lazy graceful manners, left the rectory, and the lazy graceful manners, left the rectory, and the lazy graceful manners, left the rectory, and the GUARDS ORDERS.

The beginning of last week the Peterborough Bookstore received an order for paper for the walls and ceilings of a new villa in an eastern town. After the papers were put up they were so much admired that to-day the Bookstore received another order from the same town for paper for four rooms and ceilings. Our papers, both for pattern and price, receive preference over Ottawa samples wherever they are seen.

PARENTS HIS MARRIAGE VOWS.

Last night the wife of Geo. Foley, who keeps the restaurant opposite the Grand Trunk station, applied for protection at the police station. She said her husband was drunk and raising a disturbance at their home. A policeman went down to the scene of war, but everything was quiet, and the woman, who carried a young baby in her arms, soon went home again.

Monday evening next the grand display of fireworks takes place on the P. A. A. A. grounds. The preparations are supplied the fine brigade by Prof. Palmer, of Rochester, and an unusually fine exhibition is promised. In addition the fire brigade band will be in attendance to supply music. Labor Day Demonstration.

The trades and labor unions of this district intend holding a monster demonstration at Peterborough in September. Several entertaining towns in the district have offered the committee in charge of the affair strong money inducements to hold the demonstration there, but no doubt there is as much money for this purpose in Peterborough as elsewhere, and it is not likely our prominent citizens will see such an important event go to the benefit of another town for lack of pecuniary support. The committee have met with fair success thus far in their canvass, and the prospects are that the district labor demonstration will be held in Peterborough.

Twenty-Two Years Old.

Next Monday the Dominion of Canada completes its 22nd year, and is worthy to be had in remembrance. The congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral will loyally celebrate the day by holding their annual picnic in the grounds of St. Joseph's Hospital, Ashburnham. No more delightful spot—shady, cool and spacious—could be desired. There will be the attraction of sports and games—a baseball match at 10.30 and a fine programme of sports later. A fine platform for dancing and a first class orchestra to furnish music. Dinner served during the day and all sorts of refreshments obtainable. Admission, 25 cents; dinner, 25 cents. If you want to put in a delightful day of pleasure, go to the Dominion day picnic.

The Market Building Outrage.

There is a great deal of hot fooling around over the proposed market building, and if the councillors don't change their plans so as to put the market room on the ground floor their will be "wigs on the green." However whether the change is made or not the ladies will find on the ground floor of 370 George street, Hawley Bros Tea store where is found the finest, choicest, cheapest stock of superior teas in the midland district. Teas are their specialty and housekeepers who wish to make a specialty of using the best teas and paying a reasonable price therefor, should always go to Hawley Bros Tea Store. The best and most fragrant coffees and stylish glassware always on hand.

Geo. A. Cox and several others have signified their intention of adopting the nine hour system. The above result has been accomplished through the local Union, No. 375, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of American.

The Dairymaids' Garden Party.

Though somewhat interfered with by the threatening aspect of the weather last evening, which doubtless kept many away, the success of the garden party at Mr. Geo. Stethem's residence last night under the auspices of the ladies of the south ward mission school, was not marred by any actual downpour of rain, and those who did attend spent a most enjoyable evening. There were at least a couple of hundred people on the spacious and well kept grounds, which were handsomely decorated and illuminated with Chinese lanterns, the work of a couple of chivalrous gentlemen who proffered their help. The ladies of the school fitted about the grounds in dairymaid costume, with little white muslin caps on their heads and kerchiefs about their necks, looking charming, and deeply absorbed in the business of extracting coin from visitors in exchange for the delicacies they offered for sale. They were highly successful, too, as the evening's receipts showed a net result that must be extremely gratifying to all concerned. The time was spent by visitors in inspecting the various booths where refreshments and flowers were sold, or in listening to the excellent informal musical programme which was rendered in the parlor. This comprised songs by Miss Cottingham and Messrs. C. Shaw, T. Dunn, and K. G. Loch, Messrs. Shaw and Dunn giving some duets. A dozen members of the battalion band were also present and played several selections. The ladies are particularly thankful to those young men for their kindness in volunteering to assist. Votes of thanks were passed to Mr. and Mrs. Sibbethorn and all those who assisted at the garden party. The ladies of the South Ward school are to be congratulated upon their success.

A Successful Military Student.

The closing exercises of the Royal Military College, Kingston, were held yesterday afternoon. Among the successful cadets Mr. H. S. Rogers, son of Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers, stands foremost. He won the gold medal for highest aggregate marks for the whole course, and was alone winner of diploma with honors. He is recommended for a commission in the Royal Engineers, and also won the Lord Stanley prize, which is given to a qualified graduate intending to pursue the military profession, either in the Imperial forces or in the Dominion militia, for highest proficiency at the final examinations in military engineering, military administration and law, strategy and tactics, military surveying, topography and reconnaissance. In the list of winners of annual class prizes appears the name of Company Sergeant-Major H. S. Rogers, first class. The Mail's report of the proceeding says:—"The presentation of the prizes was an exciting event. As the winners walked up to the platform they saluted Sir Adolphe Caron, who tendered them their trophies amid great applause. H. S. Rogers was the cynosure of all eyes, and he seemed to occupy the boards, finally getting a comrade to aid him in carrying off his honors. Major-General Cameron appreciated the general enjoyment, and with a voice like a cannon, roared, "Company Sergt.-Major Rogers," with a roll on the "r" like a roar of artillery, making the audience scream with delight. It truly was a great event for the young man. His late victorious comrades received tributes of admiration by hearty hand clappings and cheers. Sir Fred. Middleton handed over the diplomas, and then came the addresses." Mr. H. S. Rogers, as the Mail says, comes from a historic military family, and both father and son have reason to be proud. The young man's many friends in Peterborough will congratulate him upon his successful military career. Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers was present at the closing exercises. The Ex-LEADER adds his congratulations to Company Sergeant-Major Rogers and hopes the career upon which he has entered with such brilliancy, may be a repetition of his initial success, and give his fellow-citizens cause to feel continued pride in his achievements.

Personal.

Mr. Jas. McNamara, bricklayer, and his family have removed to Michigan.

The family of Mr. F. J. Lewis removed to their summer residence at Chemung Park to-day.

Dr. T. J. Maher has opened an office at 176 Hunter street for the practice of his profession. No doubt the doctor's services will be in remunerative demand.

The many friends of the family will learn with deep regret of the very serious illness of Mrs. R. R. Edwards. Mr. Edwards will receive the sympathy of the community in his affliction.

FOND MEMORY'S TRIBUTE.

The Oddfellows' Annual Decoration Day.

The Impressive Ceremonies Performed this Afternoon—A Large Procession of Oddfellows Take Part in the Proceedings—List of the Honored Dead and Floral Contributions.

Every year the list grows longer, and in the past twelve months two new names have been added to the death roll of Peterborough Oddfellows. But though gone they are not forgotten, as this afternoon's proceedings demonstrated. The ceremony of decorating the graves of deceased brethren has become a permanent institution among the Oddfellows, and the occasion is made impressive and beautiful.

This afternoon the annual decoration took place amidst general participation on the part of the public. A half holiday had been proclaimed, and the people turned out en masse to witness the imposing ceremonies in which so many outside the Order are personally interested. The route of procession was lined with thousands of spectators, while the cemetery teemed with people. The day was fine and nothing occurred to mar the solemnity of the proceedings.

The brethren assembled at their respective lodge rooms and provided themselves each with a handsome bouquet and badge. Then they marched to Central Park, where order of procession was formed by the marshal of the day, Bro. S. Clegg. About half past two the long line moved down George street in the following order:—

Battalion Band.
Peterborough Canton No. 10, Patriarchs Militant, in uniform.
Members of Subordinate Lodges and Encampments.
Visiting Brethren.
Officers of Otonabee and Peterborough lodges.
Past Grands.

There were a number of Oddfellows present from Campbellford, Norwood, Port Hope and Belleville.

The procession moved slowly down the street to the music of the band. There were about 150 men in line, the majority of them not in uniform being tastily attired in black suits and silk hats, the bright buntings, sashes and badges and the floral emblems sent in by friends of the deceased contrasting vividly and lending a pretty effect to the general appearance of the parade. A long line of carriages followed in rear of the procession.

Arrived at the cemetery the prescribed ceremony was begun, the brethren forming in a circle in front of the chapel and singing "Nearer my God to Thee." Then Bro. W. F. Green, N.G. of Otonabee lodge, delivered the opening charge and Bro. H. P. Lindsay, Chaplain, said prayer. After this the graves were visited, each being adorned with the floral tokens brought along for the purpose. This concluded, the brethren re-assembled and the closing exercises were conducted by Bro. A. McIntosh, N.G. of Peterborough lodge, assisted by Bro. McElwain, Chaplain.

At the time of going to press the procession had not yet returned to town, some time being allowed for the purpose of strolling about the necropolis.

The decoration ceremonies were an even greater success this year than in the past, and the committee in charge are to be congratulated upon having everything so completely arranged.

The Sons of England.

A Gala Day Among the Englishmen—Their New Hall Described—A Concert To-night.

The Sons of England celebrated Coronation day on a large scale. The dedication of their new hall was to have taken place this afternoon at three o'clock, but at the hour of going to press the Grand Lodge officers have not yet arrived in town. The dedication will not take place till they come, which will probably be this evening. To-night a grand concert will be held in the new hall.

The new hall will be used jointly by Lansdowne and Peterborough lodges, and it is an evidence of the solid growth and harmony between the two lodges that they have been able to procure such handsome and expensive quarters. For several months past the work has been going under the supervision of a committee from both lodges, and it was not until to-day that the elegant new premises were completed. A description of the rooms is appended.

THE HALL

is situated on the top story of the Cox block on Hunter street, next the post office. It can be classed as one of the most completely and elegantly equipped, as well as commodiously laid-out lodge rooms in town. The hall proper is about 50x26 feet, and is furnished handsomely. Rich carpets cover the floor, the walls are done in buff extra, which, with the painting, was the excellent workmanship of Mr. W. M. Green, and are adorned with some fine pictures, including paintings of Queen Victoria, St. George and the dragon, Gladstone and Disraeli, and large floral engravings in magnificent frames. The officers' chairs are placed in elevated position, while along the walls are settees for the members. The state chairs and settees are of oak, upholstered in blue and red rep. Mr. D. Robertson supplied the chairs and Mr. A. Clegg the settees. Mr. Clegg also supplied most of the pictures. By throwing open folding doors at the rear end of the lodge room the dining room becomes available as the main hall, thus giving a large area for concerts or dancing, 50 feet in length. Behind the dining room are the kitchen and lavatory.

The ante and vestibules rooms are situated alongside the hall, and are roomy and finished in keeping with the rest. Each of these rooms are of good size; the anteroom will be used also as a reading room, while the other apartment will be for the purposes of committees."

The entrance to the lodge proper is by large folding doors directly at the head of the stairs. Over the doorway is a transparency, representing the Crown of England, which will be lighted up on special occasions.

The whole premises are most complete, and were to-day in gala attire for the dedication ceremony and concert to-night. Union Jacks and bunting were lavishly displayed with gorgeous effect, and altogether the new quarters of the Sons of England presented a rich and beautiful appearance. The Sons of England have every reason to be proud of their new hall.

The Market Building Matter.

Merchant Discusses the Subject.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I was rather surprised for the moment at the course Mr. Dumble took before the Board of Trade in reference to the new market building that the town council purpose erecting on the market square. If he was sincere in his remarks, I might have some sympathy, but to get at the bottom of the facts, it is well known that Mr. Dumble is solicitor for a Company which controls the stores on George street, and when their interests are affected, he thinks it is his duty to protect them.

Now Mr. Editor, if the council was going to erect an unsightly or an inconvenient building, I would say by all means oppose it, but having seen the plans, I am in a position to speak with authority. The building will have six stores below with an arcade from George street, 25ft. wide to the market square, in which there will be an easy stairway ten feet wide with an outside entrance from the verandah on the back, same width, which will take you into a commodious room 60x127 feet which will be well heated in winter and fall months. The building will cost about $15,000 which will be paid by debentures bearing 4 per cent. interest on an annual cost of $600, and the revenue from the stores will at a low estimate be $1800; add to interest, say $200 for insurance and extras and we have a net gain of $1000 per annum, which compounded yearly will pay for the whole building in 11 years. Now if Mr Dumble or Jane Jones who bears the same relation to Mr. Dumble, that Dr. Joykll does towards Mr. Hyde, wishes to put the ratepayers to a cost of $15 000 and a yearly ground rent of $635 which means a capital of $15.000 more, for the trouble of walking up 15 feet once a week, I think he had better go back to his native town where they have a standing monument of just such folly, and for which the town has been burdened in debt until recently, when, for reasons which are obvious, the Dominion Government cancelled their debt, and the Ontario Government has twice granted a compromise in respect of theirs.

Now, Mr. Editor, the town of Peterborough has never in the past gone into any such wild-cat schemes, nor do I think they will in this case advocate Mr. Dumble's and a few others'—principally strangers in town, some of whom have never paid one cent in taxes, and can lift their traps and go any day.

It is an old saying, Mr. Editor, that there are two classes of people who should never see work half done, and I will venture to say, when Mr. Dumble returns after his extended periodical summer vacation, that even he will say that the council have done a good work and are a credit to the ratepayers.

Mr. Editor, if Mr. Dumble's ideas of the building were carried out we should have a vacant building five days in the week, which would not strike a stranger entering town from either the G.T.R. or C.P.R. railway station as a very good advertisement of our enterprise.

I don't want to take up too much space, but I should like, in closing, to refer your readers back to some of Mr. Dumble's pet schemes in the past for running the town into debt—for instance the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, $150,000 and advance of some $2000 and Mr. Dumble's bond held by town council of that day, Cobourg Road, $100,000. Everything that comes along that will run the town in debt is among this far-seeing individual's schemes, who can see gathering "clouds when no bigger than a man's hand."

Yours, etc.,

MERCHANT.

Mr. Cahill Replies to "Mrs. Jones."

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

DEAR SIR,—The fact that, during nearly seventeen years of continuous service in the town council I have not written a single line to any newspaper in defence or justification of any position or action I may have taken during that time on any question that came before the council, will, I hope, be sufficient excuse to claim a small space in your valuable paper to say a word in reference to a communication in your issue of this evening over the nom de plume of "Jane Jones." As "Jane Jones" says she has a baby carriage and a baby, I presume it is the courteous thing to call her (or him) Mrs. Jones, alias Mr. D. W. Dumble. Mr. Dumble may be right in his views about the market; if he is, no one will question his ability to make the public believe so, and it is right that they should decide. But when a man of his high standing and judicial position in the community descends to the level of Mrs. Jones to "strike below the belt," a generous public, I feel confident, will not be in sympathy with him, his object in this case being so obvious that "he who runs may read."

The veneer is too thin; and when Mr. Dumble was writing the words "foul and game," he must have felt that he was playing a foul game indeed. I can tell him that he underestimates the intelligence of those he seeks to isolate me from, and with whose judgment I generally coincide, and that his subterfuge will avail not. I have always entertained a high regard for Mr. Dumble, and given credit to him publicly and privately for independence and manliness, but if, in the future, I must know him only as Mrs. Jones, I am afraid I shall have to admit to myself, however reluctant, that I have been deceived, and that I shall be forced to acknowledge the truth of the adage that "All is not gold that glitters."

I am, yours truly,

THOMAS CAHILL.

Special Inducements.

The managers of the Peterborough Business College expect to open out in their new rooms on Water street the first of July, and in order to increase their attendance, offer special reduced rates to students for the next month. They have every appliance for giving a first class business training—their new premises being large and commodious and well ventilated, and every convenience to insure the greatest amount of comfort to their students. Their rooms will be open every day after July 1st, and they extend a cordial invitation to the public generally to visit them and see their splendid premises. Those who do so will be amply repaid.

Parents will do well to take advantage of their special offer and send their boys and girls where, in a very short time, they will be given such a course as will fit them to fill lucrative positions. Their students, during the past six months, have been remarkably successful, many of their graduates obtaining positions as soon as graduated. They are constantly receiving applications from both business and professional men for bookkeepers and stenographers. The principals, Messrs. Bain & Rooney, will be pleased to give, personally or by mail, to all who desire, full information in regard to any point in the course of the College. dw

Gentlemen with Bald Heads.

What remarks as a rule attend the appearance of a bald head. It is not looked at that it is not his fault but his misfortune. There is not alone this annoyance, but a person with the scalp unprotected is more liable to diseases of the head. When a gentleman loses his hair he should take immediate steps to have it replaced with an artificial covering. It is a duty he owes to himself. If he is slow about it, his wife, sister, brother or friend should spur him on. Prof. Darenwood, of Toronto, will be at Phelan's Hotel on June 28 and 29, and will have a big stock of his famous wigs and toupees with him, which are just the things required. The least you can do is to call and examine the quality, whether you buy one or not. Physicians endorse them and you cannot afford to be without one. dw

Choice, Fresh and Cheap.

Another supply of choice, fresh and cheap groceries, provisions, etc., with a few special lines of teas at unusually low prices now being received and offered for sale at R. H. Green's grocery and provision store, corner Hunter and Aylmer streets, Peterborough. Also fresh flower and vege. seeds, spices, perfumes and other favorite groceries always in hand, which will be sold at the lowest cash prices and delivered to any part of the town.

Plant a Tree.

(From the Philadelphia Ledger.)

He who plants a tree
Plants a hope;
Rootlets up through fibres blindly grope;
Leaves unfold into horizontal lines.
See man's life mount climb
From the clouds of time
Unto heaven sublime.
Canst thou prophesy, thou little tree,
What the glory of thy boughs shall be?

He who plants a tree
Plants a joy;
Plants a comfort that will never cloy.
Every day a fresh reality,
Beautiful and strong,
To whose shelter throng
Creatures blithe with song.
If thou couldst but know, thou happy tree,
Of the bliss that shall inhabit thee.

He who plants a tree
He plants peace.
Under its green curtain Jargons cease.
Leaf and zephyr murmur soothingly;
Shadows soft with sleep
Down tired eyelids creep,
Balms of slumber deep.
Never hast thou dreamed, thou blessed tree,
Of the benediction thou shalt be.

He who plants a tree
He plants youth;
Vigor woos for comrades, in sooth;
Lets of time, that hints eternity;
Boughs their strength uprear,
New shoots every year
On old growths appear.
Thou shalt teach the stern, sturdy tree,
Youth of soul immortality.

He who plants a tree
He plants love;
Tents of coolness spreading out above
Wayfarers, he may not live to see
Gifts that grow are best;
Hands that bless are blest;
Plant: Life does the rest!
Heaven and earth help him who plants a tree
And his work its own reward shall be.

The Idea of Annexation.

The Toronto World says:—His Worship Mayor James Stevenson, M.P., of Peterborough, passed through Toronto last evening on his way home from a trip to Buffalo. "In the Queen City of the Lakes," said His Worship to the World, "I was introduced to one of the biggest politicians in town but unfortunately I have forgotten his name. He said:—'Your people over in Canada are making a great noise about Annexation. I might inform you that we intend to have Canada; peaceably if you will, but by force if necessary.'" Mr. Stevenson is not a big man, but he didn't scare the worth of a pint of cider.

TURNBULL'S

The first month of summer is an interesting period to the retail buyer. Keep your eye on this column, its newsy. Each week things will appear that ere the month passes will likely make you richer for the reading.

There is scarcely a weak spot in our Trimmed Millinery yet. The latest hat kind are turning up their pretty faces every day, and all the time floods of freshness and brightness keep pouring in new goods constantly.

This job line of untrimmed hats we spoke of last week is what pleases everybody—variety and prices right.

This week we have placed on our Dress Goods counter a dozen pieces of fancy dress cloths, 15c. a yard. The only reason we can conceive that these goods have not sold earlier at higher prices, is that they were too new. They ought to and no doubt will go out very fast now. Attention is called to them. Shantung pongee, the dustless kind. You know how the heathen Chinee crams dust into common run of pongees. He does not do it to the Shantung—pure silk and clean. These goods make up beautiful with our fine henriettas.

In the Tweed department we have a fine line of Halifax tweeds that handle soft and fleecy—just as they ought to handle. Sale price, 35c.

We expect to-morrow's train to bring us in a large shipment of Corsets We keep what our judgment says is the best make in the trade. We see representatives from all the factories. Our 50c. corsets are the best we believe ever shown in Peterborough for years.

We have been able to repeat that line of ladies' black hose, heavy weight, at 15c. pair, Those who have had these goods will be glad to hear they can get them again now.

Pink is the favorite color in Chambrays this season. Again a fresh lot just arrived.

We keep suits for boys and small boys, either with or without linings at all prices. See them before buying

FINE STATIONERY

Are you aware of the many important makes of writing paper that abide with us, and occupy a leading superiority over all other makes. We enumerate some of our Special Lines:—

The Original Milton Mills.
This celebrated writing paper now so much in demand, is made from the purest fibre, is firm of texture and is reduced to a moderate price.

The Brown Holland—Calico Grey—Canvas Cream
A triumph of writing paper—the success of the year. They have made a conquest wherever shown, and their ascendency in popularity has been marked and rapid.

Antique Parchment.
The high merit of this production being so well known all further exultation would be superfluous.

The Favorite Grey.
That has been so long in high favor.

Piries' Real Vellum.
Renowned throughout the land for its high repute for office and social correspondence.

The Crown Parchment and Ivory Vellum.
Distinguished for its dead velvety finish, and a society paper which, we are very vain of, and which has enshrined itself in the estimation of all lovers of beautiful papers, and is winning golden opinion every day.

The Bath—The St. Andrew—The Garter.
Excellent Medium Quality Paper, that will challenge comparison with very much higher priced papers, and always give satisfaction.

We are bold enough to assert that no practice so forcibly proves the existence of sound art tastes, of real gentility of mind, and of the fitness for high social positions, than the use of Fine Stationery. There never was a time when the best of Stationery could be so daintily offered as the present, when there are so many charming boxes to hold the materials—such pretty conceits in the mode of presentation, novel in design.

We have Envelopes to match all our Papers. We show the Newest and the Most Correct Styles. Later on we will tell you about other New Lines.

We will be pleased to send Samples of our Papers.

HAMILTON'S CROOKS.

The Ambitious City Authorities Warring Against Vagrants.

HAMILTON, June 28.—Patrick O'Brien, who was arrested three or four days ago on a charge of vagrancy, was brought up for trial at the Police Court this morning. He said that he had work and would leave the city to go to it right away if allowed to. His record showed two previous convictions, on both of which he served terms. The Magistrate sent him to the Central Prison for six months. The detectives and police are determined to rid the city of a number of such characters as O'Brien.

John Peterson was arrested last night on suspicion of larceny. It is alleged that he broke into a car on the railway and stole therefrom a roll of oilcloth. Peterson says he is a sailor and told the court this morning that he belonged to Port Stanley. When asked the names of some of the people of Port Stanley he was at a loss for a reply, and the conclusion was arrived at that he was yarning. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of larceny and elected to be tried by a jury. He was remanded.

At the Police Court this morning the formality of remanding Neanie Scraggs was again gone through. The unfortunate woman, it will be remembered, was arrested about six months ago on a charge of insanity.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Pierce Family in Court—Serious Charge against a Barrister.

TORONTO, June 28.—There was a big crowd at the Police Court yesterday to see the debut of the Pierce family. There was James, the father, and Maria, the mother with the sons Thomas, George and Edward and Andy Foley, alias Ennis. They were arraigned, charged with burglary, but no evidence was taken. They elected to be tried by jury and were remanded until next Wednesday. George and Edward Pierce and Andy Foley were asked to plead on the charge of attempted burglary of the residence of Mr. E. S. Cox, Wellesley-place. They put in a plea of not guilty. Among the witnesses examined was Sergeant Detective Reburn, who detailed a telltale conversation which took place between Edward and George Pierce while in the Wiltonavenue station cells and of which he was an unknown listener. They talked long enough to convince the listener that George was the man who shot at Policeman Lilly. The three were committed for trial, bail being refused. All the prisoners pleaded not guilty to the charge of entering the house of W. J. Gibson, Kew Gardens, and that of John Ross in Sherbourne-street, and their defence will be heard on Wednesday.

Mrs. Lawrence, widow of Rev. Geo. Lawrence, was seriously injured yesterday morning by the caving in of a temporary shed erected over the sidewalk in front of a new building in course of erection at 110 Queen-street west, the accident being caused by the weight of the lumber piled against the guard. Mrs. Lawrence, who was passing through, was caught beneath the timber and pinned to the ground. She was rescued as soon as possible and removed to her home in an ambulance. Last night she was reported to have had both ankles sprained and her back injured, causing her great suffering but no serious results.

The Federal Bank of Canada has entered a suit for $680,000 against Samuel Nordheimer, ex-president of the bank, and the Commercial Loan and Stock Company. This is the largest writ ever issued from Osgoode Hall.

The application for an injunction to restrain the city from proceeding with the erection of the new court house and municipal buildings until a commission is appointed was to have been made yesterday at Osgoode Hall, but was postponed until Tuesday.

A local barrister is accused of using without consent the name of a medical practitioner to secure bail for a client. The teachers will probably be asked to investigate.

The Swedenborgian convention was continued yesterday in the church of the New Jerusalem, Rev. Mr. Allbutt presiding.

Mr. Fred. D. Barwick has received the appointment of Postoffice Inspector for the Toronto division at last. Definite news was received from Ottawa yesterday, and his duties begin on July 2. The salary is some $2600. The present inspector, Mr. M. Sweetman, is to be transferred to Ottawa, as Chief Inspector for Ontario, to fill the place of Mr. J. Dewe, who has been practically superannuated. Mr. Dewe's salary is $2300.

The Reform picnic to-day and the Dominion Day celebration Monday promise to be the biggest events of their kind in the history of the Queen City.

AMONG THE POLITICIANS.

The Conservatives of Welland in Council at Port Robinson.

PORT ROBINSON, June 28.—An unusually large and representative meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association of the County of Welland was held here to-day, President John McDonough in the chair. Dr. Ferguson, M.P., explained the position he had taken regarding the O'Brien motion in the House of Commons. Resolutions of confidence in Sir John Macdonald, W.R. Meredith, M.L.A., and Dr. Ferguson, M.P., were unanimously adopted.

These officers were elected: President, John McDonough (re-elected); Vice-Presidents, Daniel Nagy, John Wilson, John Ramsden, T. F. Ellis (re-elected); Secretary, L. C. Raymond; Treasurer, Dr. Frank King.

East Huron Conservatives.

BRUSSELS, June 28. A meeting of the Conservative Association of East Huron was held here to-day at which resolutions of confidence in the management of the affairs of the country by the government of Sir John A. Macdonald and of approval of the course pursued by W. R. Meredith were unanimously carried. The selection of candidates and the Jesuit question were left over.

The Standard Complies.

OTTAWA, June 28.—The Detroit claims to have reliable information "that the producers' oil, which has caused so much complaint to the speculative trade, was sold to the Standard Company at the day's closing market.

IN GUARDED WHISPERS.

COONEY THE FOX TALKS WITH RECORDER BOLAND.

The Cronin Suspect Suddenly Appears in Court at Kansas City and Swiftly Disappears—What Boggs Says.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Young Carlson, whose parents own the cottage in which Dr. Cronin was murdered, declares two men came to the cottage yesterday and threatened him with death if he should identify Martin Burke, now under arrest at Winnipeg.

The special Grand Jury will probably finish its work to-morrow handing in a few indictments. It is probable John F. Boggs and Patrick Cooney, Burke's partner, will be in the list. Alexander Sullivan's friends say they do not fear his indictment, yet there is a strong feeling that a true bill will be found against the ex President of the Land League. So much evidence has been laid before the Grand Jury regarding the inner workings of the Clan-na-Gael that it is believed the Grand Jury has made up its mind to throw out a drag net. The foreman, P. O'Sullivan, has been "looking" right along and it is probable by this time there is little he has not told. His attorney is a man who has been engaged in a number of murder cases where conspiracy has figured largely, and it is a noteworthy fact that his clients have generally saved themselves by telling what they knew. O'Sullivan knows it will be easy enough to hang him on the testimony already gathered against him, so there is no merit in his being stubborn.

Dan Coughlin will not be asked to "squeal," but enough is known of him and his connection with the murder of Cronin to justify the prophecy that if anyone is hanged he will be one of the lot. The Illinois Conspiracy law is a fearful weapon, and in this case the State will use it for all it is worth. No difficulty is apprehended in inducing Burke to confess when he comes back.

The men who stand a chance of being placed on trial for the murder of Cronin are Daniel Coughlin, Frank Woodruff, Martin Burke, Patrick Cooney (when caught), Boggs and possibly Alexander Sullivan.

The Grand Jury to-day examined Edward Spellman, the Peoria distiller and district officer of the Clan-na-Gael. Mr. Spellman was called in to be examined about the alleged disbanding of Camp 20 since the murder. He told the Grand Jury the camp had not been disbanded. He said the records of the camp had not been destroyed and that any records pertaining to the camp were at the disposal of the Grand Jury.

D. J. Lyons, ex-police justice, was examined in regard to the bogus lawsuit tried before him in which Dr. Cronin was a witness. The suit was a trumped up affair, the sole object of which was to place the doctor on the witness stand so that on cross-examination his life from early boyhood could be gone over.

John F. Boggs, Senior Guardian of Camp 20 Clan-na-Gael, who was arrested Tuesday, was to-day allowed to see reporters. He denied that he has squealed and said that he had nothing to tell. He claimed his treatment by the police was brutal and that the police had not offered the slightest excuse for his detention, which he declared was illegal. Boggs attributed his arrest to the machinations of a local politician.

Cooney the Fox at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, June 28.—While Recorder Boland was holding court here to-day a stranger entered, sat beside the judge, and spoke with him for a few moments in guarded whispers. The judge looked much surprised and with difficulty controlled his agitation. The stranger soon left. A Chicago man who was in court recognized the stranger as Cooney the "Fox," the Cronin suspect. He hastened to notify the Chief of Police, but Cooney escaped and has not yet been found.

LIKE RATS IN A TRAP.

Six Persons Found Dead in a Paterson (N.J.) House of Ill-Repute.

PATERSON, N.J., June 28.—Four women and two men, all disreputable characters, were discovered dead to-night in a house of ill-repute here. Death was caused by asphyxiation. Three of the women were stretched out on the floor, half naked. The oldest, aged 40, was lying in a pool of blood, which came from any ugly wound in the head and covered her face and body. Her right eye was almost torn from the socket and the face was horribly swollen. The fourth woman, aged 17, was sitting in a rocking chair near the window with her arms folded. Goodfried, keeper of the dive, was found in the rear of the house lying on a cot with his tongue protruding and swollen to four times its normal size. His features were badly decomposed. He was about 30 years old. The second man was found in a sitting position with his head resting on the bed on which Goodfried was lying. Near him was a gas stove, which had evidently done the fatal work. The gang were last seen Wednesday night going into the dive. It is believed they have been dead since Thursday morning. The coroner and police are investigating the case.

AN ORGANIST'S SUICIDE.

The Well-Known Dr. Eugene Thayer Blows Out His Brains.

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 28.—Dr. Eugene Thayer, the well-known organist of New York, committed suicide this morning by shooting. He had been out walking with Mrs. Thayer. On returning she noticed that he had a parcel in his hand. She went to her room and about an hour later she found Dr. Thayer in a closet dead with a revolver in his hand. No noise had been heard. He had placed the pistol in his mouth and fired. Mrs. Thayer says the deceased had been mentally wrong for some time. The deceased was one of the best known musical writers in the country.

Fatal Conflict With a Lunatic.

KEOKUK, Ia., June 28.—W. McGinnis, living north of Cambria, has been showing symptoms of insanity. To-day Sheriff Ramsey, Deputy Rollins and a man named Blouse went to McGinnis' house to take charge of him. McGinnis drew a revolver, shooting Sheriff Ramsey through the head and killing him. Rollins then shot McGinnis through the jaw, inflicting a painful wound. McGinnis then shot Rollins through the arm, the ball passing into his side, inflicting a fatal wound. McGinnis then turned on Blouse, but the latter shot him through the head. McGinnis will die.

Destined for the Shoreshow.

KOKOMO, Ind., June 28.—On Tuesday two miles south of here Mrs. Henry Jones had born to her twin girls inseparably connected at the hips and lower abdomen. No vital organs are connected except the spinal columns, which is continuous from one end to the other. Each breathes and pulsates quite independently of the other, and both are perfectly formed and have free use of their limbs.

Once Here the "Cue."

CAIRO, Ill., June 28.—The northbound passenger train on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad struck a cow twenty miles below here yesterday and was ditched. All the coaches were turned over. Six passengers were slightly hurt and an old negress was fatally crushed.

The Connaught Camp Inspected.

KINGSTON, June 28.—Sir Adolphe Caron and Sir Fred Middleton visited Connaught to-day and inspected the camp of 1700 men. They expressed themselves as being pleased.

Three Boys Drowned.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 28.—At Sheffield yesterday Edward Camp, Fred H. Bryce and Frank Ovist, aged from 12 to 14, all of this city, were drowned while bathing.

A Serious Charge.

OTTAWA, June 28.—Henry Whitmore, a dead mute, aged 17, was arrested to-day on a charge of attempting to criminally assault Blanche Cote, a girl 8 years of age. The prisoner denies his guilt.

Rose's Wealth Left Behind.

OTTAWA, June 28.—The will of the late Wm. Dorth, [illegible], has been admitted to probate. The estate is valued at $787,-

Children' Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

FIRES OF A DAY.

Two Lumber Mill Men Lose One Hundred Square Miles of Pinery in Montana.

MONTREAL, June 28.—The Protestant school building at St. Louis De Mile End was partially destroyed by fire early this morning.

Another fire in Mrs. Penton's residence on Burnside-place did $2000 damage, covered by insurance.

The Shoestock Fire Victims.

MANCHESTER, June 28.—This morning the fourth victim of the Wilson fire horror was buried. She was Mr. Wilson's second daughter, named Mary. This morning a telegram from Ottawa announces Mr. Wilson's death at the hospital, making the fifth victim, and the boy Henry, now at the hospital, is not expected to live. The oldest girl, Rebecca, is at the hospital, and may recover.

A $250,000 Blaze at Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 28.—The Burton block, corner of Van Buren and Clinton-streets, a big six-story building, took fire at 5 o'clock this morning, and by 7 o'clock the big building was in ruins. Loss $250,000. Finished as it was with pressed brick and cut stone trimmings the building was regarded as the model manufacturing building of the neighborhood.

Montana on Fire.

HELENA, Mont., June 28.—A forest fire started in Cascade County, near Sand Coulee, two days ago and all efforts to check it proved unavailing. Last night the fire covered an area of over 100 square miles and had destroyed the best hay in the region. The loss will be very heavy. No lives are reported lost, but several ranchmen have been burned out.

A DESTRUCTIVE COMBINATION.

Cyclone, Waterspout and Hail Join Forces in Minnesota.

RUSHFORD, Minn., June 28.—A combined cyclone, waterspout and hail storm passed from one to five miles east of here last night, destroying everything in its path. The damage is estimated at $100,000. Some of the hailstones were as large as a man's fist. Two men were drowned in swollen streams.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT.

Yale Wins the Four-Mile Eight-Oared Race From Harvard.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 28.—The fourteenth annual four-mile straight-away eight-oared race between crews representing the Universities of Yale and Harvard was rowed this evening over the Thames River course from Winthrop's Point to Gales' Ferry and was won by Yale by six boat lengths. Official time—Yale 21.36, Harvard 21.55. The series of races between these colleges now stands: Yale 8 victories, 6 defeats; Harvard 6 victories, 6 defeats. Yale also holds the record for the fastest time over the course (20.10), made last year.

The start was at 7.20. At the word "go," Harvard snatched the water first and her shell forged ahead of Yale by half a length. Harvard started with a stroke of 34 and Yale 33. Harvard held her lead for about 150 yards, then Yale began to gain at every stroke and at the quarter they were on even terms. At the half the two shells were even. Just after passing the half Harvard took a lead of about 10 feet and as they reached the mile flag Yale spurted, rowing the stroke up to 39 and getting a quarter length in front, passing the mile flag in 4.47, with Harvard two seconds behind. This court sealed the race, as after passing the mile flag Yale gradually increased her lead and Harvard was unable to prevent it. Harvard was plainly distressed while Yale was pulling in perfect form. At the 3 miles Yale had a boat's length of clear water and the race was finished so far as Harvard's chances were concerned. At the 3½ Yale struck smooth water close under the bank and two additional lengths were quickly added to her lead. Harvard made a final effort to lessen the distance but to no purpose, as Yale crossed the line an easy winner by six lengths.

Canada's Proposition re Lumber Duties.

OTTAWA, June 28.—The Dominion Government, through the medium of the Foreign Office, has proposed to the United States Government that both Governments should consider the propriety of removing the import and export duties on lumber of all kinds, or in other words, that the Canadian Government will abolish the import and export duties on lumber providing the Washington authorities reciprocate. As an earnest of good faith the Dominion authorities have meanwhile reduced the export duty on pine logs from $2 to $1 per thousand feet, board measure, the figure at which it stood in November last, previous to the representations of the lumbermen asking for an increase. This reduction in the export duty takes place on July 1.

THE DELAGOA DIFFICULTY

TO BE CONSIDERED BY SALISBURY'S CABINET TO-DAY.

A Salvationist Procession Stopped in the Strand—Loss of a British Slave Auction Gang.

LONDON, June 28.—A special Cabinet council will be held to-morrow to consider the Delagoa Bay Railroad question. It is expected a portion of the Corps of Royal Hope symphon will participate in a mixed demonstration at Lisbon.

Portugal Said to Have Declared War.

LONDON, June 28.—A despatch from Durham says: The Governor of Delagoa Bay telegraphs that the decree cancelling the railway concession has been rescinded and the company will continue the building of the railroad.

The shareholders of the company whose concession to build the Delagoa Bay Railway has been cancelled by Portugal held a meeting in London to-day. It was resolved to resist any attempt on the part of Portugal to take the work out of the company's hands, as such action would result in a grave crisis. It was further determined, in the event of Portugal persisting in carrying out her threatened action, to call upon the British Government to demand from Portugal the payment of her debt to England of $15,600,000 incurred in 1884, and to ask that such sum be applied to the purchase of the railway. It was also decided that the company should claim from Portugal and request the British Government to enforce the claim.

Austria-Hungary's Policy.

VIENNA, June 28.—Count Kalnoky, addressing a committee of Hungarian delegates yesterday, objected to pessimist judgments on Austria-Hungary's eastern policy, which was founded upon a spontaneous development of Balkan independence, and is necessarily slow in its effects. He expressed doubts as to whether a Russo-Servian convention was mooted, and said he had no reason to distrust the Servian regents. He also said he approved the principle of Bulgarian development and accepted Roumania's zealous desires for independence. He had a firm belief in the formation of states possessing vitality in themselves as the closing phase of the Eastern question. He was ardently desirous of deferring war as long as possible.

LONDON, June 28.—The British bark Ecuador, Captain Hughes, from Buenos Ayres April 23 for Barbadoes, has been lost with all her crew.

Salvationists Dispersed.

LONDON, June 28.—The policy of forbidding street demonstrations, hitherto employed only against the Socialists, was applied yesterday to the Salvation Army. Their procession was dispersed in the Strand as being an approach to Trafalgar-square. A feature of the procession was 100 men and women in convict costume, who have been imprisoned for holding Salvation meetings in the streets.

The Loss of Life at Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, June 28.—The timekeepers in the Cambria offices estimate that from 400 to 500 of their workmen in the Gautier and Cambria Iron Works were lost. Consoling women and children dependent upon them they put their loss of people at 2000. They estimate the entire loss of life at 10,000. Four bodies were recovered this morning.

The situation here is growing brighter every day. Eighty thousand dollars arrived to-day to pay the men in the various departments. The registering of flood sufferers for the purpose of distributing local funds was finished to-night. The men in charge of the work do not think more than 4000 lives were lost. Rev. Mr. Beale, chairman of the Morgue Committee, has issued his official report. He has a record of about 2300 bodies. Ten bodies were recovered to-day. Property losses amounting to nearly $6,000,000 have been reported.

Two men with a forged order purporting to come from General Hastings to-day took away Leona Smith, aged 11, from the house of Mrs. Moses Kelly in Morrellville. It is feared the girl was kidnapped.

The St. George Victims to Continue.

WOODSTOCK, June 28.—Thomas E. Martin, Joliet, Ill., with J. H. Nelles, S. G. McKay and W. T. McMullen, legal gentlemen of Woodstock, all interested in the legal proceedings arising out of the St. George railway accident, state that the plaintiffs in the several suits against the Grand Trunk Railway for damages for injuries sustained in the accident will unite in employing counsel, and the cases will come up before the November session of the assizes in Woodstock. They declare that they will carry the matter to the Privy Council if necessary to secure a decision in their favor.

Short in His Accounts.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—George W. Wright, a well known business man prominently connected with several benevolent associations, is said to be short in his accounts as treasurer of the Order of Tonti and it is understood warrants for his arrest have been issued. In a circular issued by the President of the Order of Tonti Wright's default is stated to be $40,000. The order will not lose anything, being amply protected.

The Green Bug in Iowa.

CANADA'S NATAL DAY.

Next Monday, July 1st, Canada enters upon her twenty-third year of national existence, and, as is most fitting, the day is universally and heartily observed by all the classes that go to form our heterogeneous national citizenship. We are frequently told that there is in Canada a lack of national spirit, but the circumstances controvert the correctness of this assertion. The First of July is the national day of the Dominion; it is everywhere celebrated; every village and hamlet, every town and city recognize its claims; it is as universally and rightly regarded as a holiday as Sunday is regarded as a day of rest. During the past quarter of a century the Dominion has grown, not only in the addition to its component parts, but also in wealth and importance in every material respect. Every year the becomes more self-contained and self-reliant. Her national literature, her national art in all its branches, is gaining a position alongside the achievements of older nations. In almost every respect the greatness of Canada so much features a creditable past as to give warrant for hopes of an increasingly glorious future. To many enquiries upon the growth of Canada seems to be slow, but the patient believer in her destiny sees the evidences of substantial, rather than showy, progress. Every step forward the national foot is placed firmly, and there is no fear of retrogression. We have in us all the elements of a great nation; unbounded natural resources of forest, field and mine, and a people who have shown themselves peculiarly adapted to their position. The population of the country is composed of different nationalities, and racial questions to overthrow, which, with a less happily constituted people, would have resulted, in the wrenching of Confederation but the national common sense, the large grit of citizens, forbearance, tolerance has prevailed over many a difficulty and in spite of the antagonistic efforts of designing demagogues to incite to race and religious strife, to foment social distrust and weaken mutual confidence, it is probable that the national common sense will neutralize their endeavours, and subside their iniquity. An unwise government may temporarily injure a great country as a bad season might spoil a good farm, but the recuperative power of the young Canadian giant is large, and no doubt the country will continue to prosper in spite of bad government or by favour of good government, and at the end of another quarter of a century Canadians will have increased reasons to take pride and pleasure in the celebration of Dominion Day.

The following hymns are given as appropriate to the season. In Toronto, secretary F. A. Fenton of the Canadian Legion has sent a copy of them to all the clergymen of the city, with the request that they be used in the different services on Sunday next. The clergy are also requested to "refer to the material and spiritual advantages enjoyed by this young nation." Whether these hymns are used or not, we may expect the clergy of Peterborough to recognize the day in some way.

The hymns and prayer are as follows:—

Our Native Land.

God bless our native land!
Firm may she ever stand,
Through storm and night;
When the wild tempests rave,
Ruler of wind and wave,
Do Thou our country save
By Thy great might.

For her our prayer shall rise
To God, above the skies;
On Him we wait;
Thou who our shield will be,
Chasing with victory
Thy foes beyond the sea,
God save the State!

And not this land alone,
But be Thy mercies known
From shore to shore;
Lord, make the nations see
That men should brothers be,
And form one family
The wide world o'er.

National Thanksgiving.

Hark! the anthem, raise the song:
Praise to our God, all ye throng!
Praise and exult, fully the day
Thanks to the Lord we pay.

Blessings from His liberal hand
Ever around us in bounty land;
Fruits we from His love enjoy;
Praise and freedom we employ.

Happy Dominion, sky serene,
Bright with the sunbeam's sheen,
Fertile and free, long may'st thou be
Home sure and resting sea.

Hark! the voice of nations sings
Loud! the chorus upward rings
Through the blue dome of light
And the pulsing ocean replies.

Prayer for Our Native Land.

Lord, while for all mankind we pray,
Of every clime and every sway,
Our own dear land in special care
We would remember now.

O'er us may arms of mercy keep,
Our rulers guide, our statutes steep
In righteousness, that we may be
A people blessed by Thee.

Unite with the blessed love
Of Britain, mother land and Thee;
And let our faith and valour shield
The empire of liberty.

Lord of the nations, thus to Thee
Our country we commend with free
Hearts and high hopes, and trust in Thee,
And evermore shall be.

Special Inducements.

The managers of the Peterborough Business College expect to open out in their new rooms on Water street the first of July, and in order to increase their attendance, offer special reduced rates to students for the next month. They have every appliance for giving a first class business training—their new premises being large and commodious and well ventilated, and every convenience for giving the greatest amount of comfort to their students. Their rooms will be open every day after July 1st, and they extend a cordial invitation to the public generally to visit them and see their splendid premises. Those who do so will be amply repaid.

Parents will do well to take advantage of their special offer and send their boys and girls where, in a very short time, they will be given such a course as will fit them to fill lucrative positions. Their students, during the past six months, have been remarkably successful, many of their graduates obtaining positions as soon as graduated. They are constantly receiving applications from both business and professional men for bookkeepers and stenographers. The principals, Messrs. Bain & Rooney, will be pleased to give, personally or by mail, to all who desire, full information in regard to any point in the course of the College. dw

The New Party.

Everyone will vote for the new party—that is, the T party at Hawley Bros., where a large stock of the cheapest tea and best quality is kept constantly on hand. The firm makes a specialty of the tea business, and are able to give better bargains and better tea than any firm that deals in miscellaneous groceries can possibly do. Attend the T party at Hawley Bros., where you get "tea as is tea" at low prices. dw

Dominion Day Celebration at Port Hope

This year's programme for the celebration of Dominion Day in Port Hope is the best ever presented by that town. It comprises an immense gathering of firemen, a firemen's parade, special games for firemen, athletic sports, grand horse races, &c., during the day. In the evening, the "Pigs in Clover" will be practically illustrated by the real live article, the whole concluding with a grand display of fireworks. We would strongly advise our readers to make their arrangements to spend Dominion Day in Port Hope. The programme there is always fully carried out. Any information desired can be obtained by writing W. E. BRAMER, secretary of committee. did

MUNCASTER'S

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER

A TALE OF TEARS.

By now, more of the rector's daughters than one, than he heard of the rector's movements. The small figure, which seemed almost lost in the big square pew, greeted him with an odd sense of its childishness and half unconsciously, he found himself lingering through her voice as he mumbled the benediction. He could not help dropping with a big of pleasure on this slender form and face of coincidence on the subject of her first glimpse, she not so quickly in one corner of the largest pew, her pretty church-service in her hands, and her brown eyes upraised to her father.

When the service was concluded, it seemed they left the church almost together and on her way down the aisle, Prue saw the veil from before her; and as she passed out of the stone porch Lady Shuttleworth turned and bowed to her, and then, Shuttleworth himself, turning also, raised his hat with a fair deeply bend, and remained standing for a moment looking after her, smiling faintly.

During the last week Prue had lived in a constant state of overwrought expectation; but by the middle of the next, as the visitor had not made his appearance, the feeling wore off, and she neglected to watch the road anymore. He was not coming, she told herself. Perhaps he did not care to come, and therefore drew a little sigh at the thought of her castles in the air. She discussed him gayly with Marjory, who was her bosom friend general and constant adviser, and next to her father, nearer to the innocent young creature's heart than any one in the world.

"He is very handsome, Marjory," she would say naively, "and very grand; but I think, if he had cared about us at all, or about the poor people either, he would have called to see papa before now."

But whether he cared for the poor people or not, he came at last, though it would have been useless wrecking the road for his coming, for his visit was the oldest of surprises.

It was late in the evening when he called, and Prue was in the dining-room alone. The lamps had not been brought in, for the garden was chance, and there was no light but the blaze of the fire, which revealed to Shuttleworth, with the opening of the door, the most natural life picture he had seen in his life.

CHAPTER II.

Prue was kneeling upon the hearth, dressed in a little dusky house-dress; her neglected work-basket stood upon the table; her rich, disordered hair fell loosely around her half-childish figure, and with the ribbon which had tied it, she was teasing a sober grey cat of Marjory's, at whose dignified disturbance she was laughing softly.

It was rather a difficult matter to meet gracefully the horrified face she turned to her visitor, as she started up with Marjory's familiar in her arms, when his name was announced. It seemed an dreadful to her startled mind that this position, to be discovered in—such a position. I have no doubt, then, if she had known how she could have brought her forgotten words to recall to him in all the strength of timid deprecation with which the timid, poor child, to do honor to her father's name, had, no doubt, practiced and rehearsed them; but as it was, she could only look at him in dumb dismay, and really deem a hard one. The very thing which had driven him by every human law from her mind, and which, in the eyes of any one less simple and confiding, would have appeared the most absolute of effrontery. They were not all threatening, these long rounds of time, and the most unconscious of all, and the most natural life picture he had seen in his life.

"Miss Rendover, I conclude?" he said, quietly enough, and on receiving her startled bow of acquiescence, he extended the fair hand with good-natured unceremoniousness.

"I am Shuttleworth," he said. "I think we know each other a little already, Miss Rendover, and I for one am more pleased to improve the acquaintance."

His careless graciousness of manner put her more at ease. It was a peculiarity of his to be easy and unembarrassed on all occasions, and it was one of the peculiarities which made him always popular. Just now it helped Prue to recover her self-possession sufficiently to return his greeting with the same touch of calm dignity which was unimpaired.

"I am very sorry that her father was not at home, she told him. He would be disappointed. Probably, if his lordship would be seated, and obey her to ring for lights, he would not be long absent."

"He had only come to have calls to make, I believe," she added, "and is never very lately."

Shuttleworth smiled. The touch of grave dignity pleased him as much as her innocent young face had done. Looking down at her small figure, he could not help being impressed as much as if she had been some child playing the serious, oft-repeated game, of being a woman.

"I shall be glad to avail myself of your invitation," he said. "Indeed, I don't know whether upon the whole, my visit was not intended for you, Miss Rendover."

The brown eyes opened with a serious thankfully, which was like distress. What was he going to say?

"I have been a rover so long, you see," he explained, that I dare say my remarks feel that I have neglected them a little. My mother tells me that you have been very kind to the poor people—quite a Lady Bountiful, in fact, and I am anxious to thank you for it, if my thanks are worth anything."

He blushed slightly, in her innocent surprise at his position. She had lived her quiet life so wholly for these people, that she had never dreamed of being thanked for her labors.

"We—papa and I—try to take care of them," she returned, simply; "and I don't think I have done anything worth thanking. What I do is so little among so many, you know," with a deprecating upraising of her eyes.

"What you have done, I cannot sufficiently thank you for," he said, remarking like a child of circumstances round by her words. "Lady Shuttleworth says you ought to be a comfort to my father's house. It is my duty to look after these people, she tells me," smiling a little; "so you intend to step up as a colleague. I suppose I must give you up to you. If you will only promise to tell me when you want anything, Miss Rendover, and tell them they must, they will be very obedient to you. You will relieve me wonderfully. I can see that people call on sympathy powers. I believe, and my responsibilities are too much for me."

"I will promise that papa will," she said, with grave solicitude, "and I am sure the people will be very thankful. Some of them are very poor indeed, and—we are not very rich ourselves."

She had overcome her first awe of him by this time. She was too thoroughly simply childlike to be conscious for any length of time; and, besides, it pleased her to watch how kind her gentleness were to be valued for at last. Though it had never occurred to her, the life she had led, since she had been old enough to assume any responsibility, had really been a hard one. The very thing which had driven him by every human law from her mind, and which, in the eyes of any one less simple and confiding, would have appeared the most absolute of effrontery. They were not all threatening, these long rounds of time, and the most unconscious of all, and the most natural life picture he had seen in his life.

Very grateful people, but your Bills Plain and ... of the Estate, and would be more than ... all sticking one of them, than of doing anything else within human to have affectionate names. Finally, and this out in the course of the evening, and the soft-voiced little creature's notions of her responsibilities, almost seemed him. Her quaint affection for her father was one of these responsibilities, he discovered. It was not the common-place love of a commonplace girl; it was something more novel—something which was more the result of long companionship and trial-sharing; and it made her visitor feel that he had come upon a new phase of life.

THE causes of summer complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera, morbus, etc., are the excessive heat, eating green fruits, over exertion, impure water and sudden chill. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is an infallible and prompt remedy for all bowel complaints from whatever cause. 64w26

MANY of the worst attacks of cholera morbus, cramps, dysentery and colic come suddenly in the night and the most speedy and prompt means must be used against them. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the remedy. Keep it at hand for emergencies. It never fails to cure or relieve. 64w26

AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS.

If the Liver become torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Regulate

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Downsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Ealing, Richmond, Va.

The Epworth Anniversary Proposals.

There is a great deal of fun being created over the proposed market building, and if the members of the council change their minds as at present the market room on the ground floor will be "nigh on the grass." Whether or not the change is made or not the building will find on the ground floor of 370 George street, Hanley Bros' fine store where a large stock, choicest, cheapest stock of groceries now in the market dwells. Tea and their specialty and headquarters who wish to enjoy a cup of tea of the finest flavor and strength should call at Hanley Bros' and get a sample of their 25 cent tea. Their coffees are also unsurpassed. Their stock of canned goods is complete in every respect. Their prices are low. Their goods are fresh. Their store is clean and their clerks are polite and attentive. Hanley Bros' 370 George street.

THE COUNCIL'S DEFENCE.

Mr. Cahill Explains the Market Building Business.

The Matter Referred to the Committee—A Grant to the Pigeon Creek Bridge—An Appeal to be Entered in Behalf of the Quashed By-law.

A special meeting of the council was held Friday night, which was intended to take the place of the regular meeting next Monday night, July 1st. Mayor Stevenson presided, and there were present: Messrs. Hartley, Langford, Rutherford, Bagnis, Dawson, A. Hall, E. H. D. Hall, Kelly, Davidson and Cahill.

Mayor STEVENSON said that Messrs. McQuade and Fahrnham, of Scully township, had called upon him with reference to the maintenance of the Pigeon Creek bridge. Neither Victoria nor Peterborough county would undertake its support, but the township of Scully would meet the town and bear half the expense. Seventy-five dollars from the town and seventy-five from the township would keep the bridge, which was an important [illegible], in repair. Last year the town granted $75, but it had not yet been expended. If the bridge was kept in repair it would bring a large amount of business to Peterborough.

AN INSOLENT BAILIFF.

Mr. STEVENSON brought up the matter of powder being stored in hardware stores. One gentleman told him there were seventeen kegs of powder in a store on George street. This was not safe for the town, and he thought immediate steps should be taken to have a powder magazine built.

Mr. DAWSON said he had been spoken to about the same thing. He suggested a couple of quiet sites, near the rifle range on Mark Curtis' property and on Mr. Fraser's place in the west end.

Mr. E. H. D. HALL moved that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee with power to act. The motion was carried.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Mr. Geo. A. Morrison, agent of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company, offering to insure the fire brigade for $120.00 —Received.

From Muldrew & Davidson, asking for hydrants on the raceway.—Referred to the Fire, Water and Light committee.

From Mr. D. W. Dumble, asking for sidewalks to his new houses on Dublin street—Referred to the Street and Bridge committee.

From Inspector Corbrane, asking what the council intended to do regarding liquor license by-law.—Received.

The Toronto World Co. asked the town to procure 150 subscribers and they would "write up" the town.—Received.

From the Secretary of the Hamilton Summer Carnival Committee, asking the town to appoint a civic holiday during Carnival week. —Received.

From Mr. D W. Dumble and others, asking that the plans of the market building be changed.—Received.

From Mr. J. H. Burnham, Secretary of the Board of Trade, containing resolutions passed by the Board relative to the market building and Mr. Lee's Bridge Works. On motion the matter was referred to the Manufacturers Committee, with the request that Mr. Law meet and confer with them.

From Mr. Joseph Brunk, asking for sidewalk and water taken near his hotel.—Referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Mr. W. G. Morrow, Secretary of the School Board, asked the council to pass a by-law to raise $25,000 for Collegiate Institute purposes and $10,000 for public school purposes.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

FINANCE.

Mr. DAVIDSON presented the report of the Finance Committee, recommending payment of the following accounts:—A. G. Mortimer, $13 50; Kingan & Co., $26.26; Fortye & Phelan, $26.20; Review, $41.29; Geo. A. Cox, $1.45; Geo. I. Reazel, $2.75; County of Peterborough, $3.50; G. T. The report was adopted.

CHARITY.

Mr. A. Hall presented the report of the Charity Committee, showing disbursements during May to have been $54.75, divided as follows:—No. 1 Ward, $7; No. 2, $23.25; No. 3, $12.50; No. 4, $11.

Mr. RUTHERFORD objected to Mr. Hall taking the cheriken for No. 3 Ward out of his hands, for which he (Mr. Rutherford) was supposed to be responsible.

Mr. DAWSON said himself, the Mayor and Mr. Hall were responsible for part of the expenditure.

Mr. HALL said he was always very careful, and in many cases he gave orders when people could not find Mr. Rutherford. He had power to give orders when he thought necessary, and didn't think anyone could find fault.

Mr. RUTHERFORD said if Mr. Hall had power to give orders to whom he chose he did not wish to act any longer on the committee.

Mayor STEVENSON said he often met persons, who said they could not find Mr. Rutherford, to Mr. Hall for orders, and he had no fault to find with Mr. Hall.

The report was adopted.

THE HYDRANT QUESTION.

Mr. A. Hall presented the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, which recommended that the tender of the Canada Rubber Co. be accepted for the supply of two...y rubber coats at $4.40 each for the fire brigade; that the tender of Foot & McWilliams for the supply of 30 pairs of Wellington boots for the firemen at $4 per pair be accepted; the coats and boots to be the property of the town.

The report was adopted.

THE PIGEON CREEK BRIDGE.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that this council pay $75 towards the repair of the Pigeon Creek bridge, providing the townships of Verulam and Scully put the bridge in repair; and that Mr. Wm. Langford be appointed a Commissioner to see that the sum is properly expended.

Mr. Rutherford objected to the town undertaking the expense when neither of the counties would; but the motion was carried.

THE MAGAZINE.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that the question of procuring and fire and erecting a powder magazine be referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.

Mr. HARTLEY explained what was the matter with the old magazine.

The motion was carried.

SIDEWALK REPAIRS.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Dawson, that the Street Inspector renew with repair such portions of the sidewalks on Hiram Calcr streets that in his judgment is required; also move the sidewalk on Aylmer street, between Murray and McDonel streets, to a line with the curbs on either ends.

Mr. LANGFORD said that it was fair to the people on Aylmer street to have the sidewalk moved in, and that portion of the motion was about safe.

Some objections was also raised to the proceeding of the other aldermen referred to, and on motion the matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

MINOR MATTERS.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that the Street committee (Langford and Hall) be empowered to let by contract all works on streets and bridges that they in their judgment think best let, done to the advantage of the town.

Mr. Rutherford intimated that the gift being at the present past had now come full it about.

Mr. Langford said it had been done as cheaply as it was by tender.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that the Street committee be instructed to get a by-law authorizing the issue of debentures to the amount of $10,000 for the purpose of building a new market house, and that the by-law be submitted to the people before this, before the committee knew how much they wanted, they would be now in the same position as the school board, of which Mr. Dumble was an ornament. The building would not cost the people one cent, in fact there would be a small surplus over sinking and debenture fund. After twenty years the building would be paid for. Mr. Dumble contends that the market should be carried on down stairs as an advertisement; but he did not think it would be an advertisement to have the upstairs in darkness all the time. It would be better of course to have the market below, but it could not very well be avoided. He thought the council had acted wisely in this matter, but he was willing to bow to the people decide. The whole cry was at one time, "put up the finest building you can." Several men who signed that petition had told him they would not have done so had they known just what it meant.

On motion of Mr. E. H. D. Hall the petition was referred to the Market Committee.

The council then adjourned.

The Market Building.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—I have read the report of the proceedings of the town council at their meeting last night. I do not wonder at the conclusions they came to in reference to the new market building. When men are elected to a place calling for wisdom, they take it for granted that they are wise, and as naturally assume that the people out of the council are a little lacking—and so they resent any suggestions from the people as a censure. In this market building matter the council suddenly resolved to build the next morning without plan or estimates or approval of the ratepayers; they broke ground, three times they have changed their plans, and now the foundation calls for twice the quantity of stone they estimated for. They started with a $10,000 building; "Merchant" says it will cost $15,000; Mr. Cahill says it will cost $20,000—who knows? Won't it be the story of the Bank of Toronto building over again? If they had submitted their scheme to the people, got plans and estimates and the approval of the people, I would not be surprised at their obliging to their plan; but, inasmuch as they don't know where they are, they resent as impertinent the opinion of the Board of Trade and the opinion of the merchants of George street. Surely the council are not in a position to defy public opinion.

According to their estimates the rent of three shops will pay the interest of the entire cost. Why not then let three shops and the archway form a down stair affair, and rent the three square shops? It is said the stairs will be easy—perhaps so, but the ratepayer shows a climb of 16 feet, and that too by winding stairs, which offers the greatest facility for slipping. Two years ago Mrs. Hatton broke her arm by a fall on the old market steps. In no other town in Canada that I have heard of is there such a thing as an upstair market.

The market square thus given to the town for a market place, and to cover it with a cap and make the market a secondary consideration is a misuse of the ground.

We again respectfully submit to the council that the people will sustain them in a change of the plan, and that it is unwise to persist in ignoring the expressed wish of the people.

We consider that to spend the people's money in building a great hall upstairs with a 30 feet ceiling that never can be heated for a market, and to erect a great clock tower when we already have two—and to call this a market—it savors like a joke than the sober act of wise men. We are not children with a hobby; let us put our heads together and devise a plan which will give the most good to the most people.

Yours truly,
D. W. DUMBLE.

Peterborough, June 27th, 1889.

Sons of England at Home

In Their Elegant New Quarters—A Great Gathering of Friends of Gain and Their Friends—The Musical Entertainment—The May Queen Crowned.

The elegant new quarters of the local lodges of the Sons of England were thrown open to the sons of the "Right little Isle," their wives and daughters, sweethearts and friends who thronged the spacious apartments. The rooms had their ordinary beauty added to by special decorations, among which the mother flag was prominent, and bunting in the three imperial colors, red, white and blue. In the rear of the main hall two handsome seats had been erected by Mr. J. J. Turner, the great seat and evening builder. On the front of one was a shield composed of roses having on the face the little but great word, "England." This was dressed to the side of flowers in buttonieres and bouquets, and was presided over by Mrs. (Dr.) Pigeon, who supplied a bevy of lasses who made sales through the rooms. The other seat front bore a shield composed of maple leaves across which was the blazon "Canada." This was in charge of Mr. Thos. Hooper, jr., who dispensed cooling drinks and ices which the hot weather made in great demand.

THE MUSICAL PROGRAMME

was proceeded by a beautiful tableau representing Britannia (pronounced by Miss Brandreths), enthroned, with the traditional trident and a guard of honor composed of Canadian volunteers with fixed bayonets, and flanked by groups of replaced "Sons of England" who lustily joined in the chorus of "Rule Britannia," sung with excellent effect by Mr. Walter Stocker, attired as a miter and as looked every inch a jolly Jack Tar. The effect was beautiful and the tableau was greatly admired. Mr. Kempling Barrie, Supreme Grand President occupied the chair and announced the several numbers. These consisted of two instrumental trios, rendered by Messrs. W. E. Loch, K. G. Loch and Mr. Hoover, violin, 'cello and pianoforte, and two well sung songs each by Mr. M. Bowman and Mr. K. G. Loch. Mrs. W. H. Bowman also sang two songs, and little Miss Lily Jackson contributed a remarkably well sung selection. Mr. W. A. Dixon gave a highly appreciated ventriloquial exposition. A very fine pianoforte duet was given by the Misses Loch, but the solo (Mr. Geo. Varnes) and chorus, "The Union Jack of Old England," brought the audience to the highest pitch, the entire company joining with "heart and voice" in the chorus and making the walls tremble with the stirring strains of the refrain. The most beautiful feature of the evening was, however, the May-pole dance, in which twenty-five "daughters of England" took part, under the direction of Sergt.-Major Randle, to whose training the little girls did full justice. Mr. Randle deserves especial thanks for the liberal use of his special abilities in such matters, and if an opportunity of a public recognition of them should present, the occasion should be universally taken advantage of, for he has distributed his favours in every direction. The programme concluded with "God Save the Queen." Altogether the reception and entertainment passed off delightfully, and the Sons of England may congratulate themselves on the auspicious circumstances under which they take possession of their splendid new quarters.

After the departure of the general public the members remained, and took part in the dedicatory ceremonies, which were conducted by Supreme Grand President Kempling, Barrie.

Bicycle Races.

The second of the series of races held by the Bicycle Club were held on the P.A.A.A. grounds last night before a fair crowd of spectators.

The green race was run off in heats owing to the large number of entries. In the first R. Fife, Jas. McGill, W. Morgan and F. Matthews entered, Fife winning first place and Morgan second. In the next heats of contestants there were J. Dolan, W. Springer and the Holland Bros., W. Carr and H. Meredith, Dolan winning and all the others dropping out before the finish. In the final R. Fife, W. Morgan and J. Dolan entered and came in in the order named, Fife thus winning the race.

In the Two Mile Open, F. Might, R. Fife and W. Hendren competed, Might winning easily with Fife second.

The hundred yards foot race was won by D. Davidson, with W. Holland second and W. Hendren third.

The two-mile handicap brought out W. Hendren, F. Matthews, J. McGill, F. Might W. Morgan, J. Dolan, W. Carr and W. H. Meredith. Might won the race, with McGill second.

This closed the list of races, which were nearly all closely contested. Another meet will be held in two weeks.

Sporting Notes.

On Monday a cricket match, Peterborough vs. Rosedale, will be played on the P. A. A. A. grounds.

The Riversides meet the Beaverton Checkers in a championship game Monday afternoon on Riverside Park. The boys have been practising hard lately and will work hard to win. If they lose, their chances for the pennant are slim.

Monday forenoon a baseball match will be played at the St. Peter's pic-nic grounds between teams from the Lock Works and Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co.'s works.

The Troops Return.

This forenoon "C" troop of cavalry returned from the military camp at Gananoque, all the men browned and ragged looking after their outing. Lindsay company of the 45th Batt. and some men of the 46th came up and stepped off while waiting for train connection. The closing inspection took place at camp yesterday afternoon, and the troops left Gananoque at 8 p.m., reaching Port Hope early this morning, a special train bringing them out to Peterborough. The men report having had a good time at camp despite the prevailing wet weather. The officers say they were very kindly treated by the civilians of Gananoque. At noon the troopers were given dinner at the Snowden by the officers, Lt.-Col. Rogers and Lieuts. Kent and Strickland. The cavalry horses were tethered in Central Park, and at three o'clock mounted parade was held, after which the men were paid off and dismissed. Mr. R. M. Roy took a photograph of the troop. The Peterborough wing of the Durham Field Battery will arrive this evening on the 5.15 train from Port Hope.

Bellaghem and the Board of Trade.

Whether the council should decide to give the ladies the ground floor in the new market building to do their marketing, he occupies the ground floor of his furniture warerooms in the matter of basement prices for first class furniture. That's the beauty of it. Goods of the best quality at the most reasonable prices. That explains why he does such a large business. That's the reason he rings up the telephone so often and asks for the railway stations, to engage cars to ship furniture. He is in the right position to give a start in housekeeping, to furnish a house and to make home happy. In the first place, he supplies the marriage license, can furnish a parson on occasion, and is able to furnish a house better for the same money than any establishment in the district. Artistic furniture of the most solid make, of every description, for every department of a house, on hand in immense variety. When you want new furniture, ready for use, or wish to order any special piece, and when you want to be assured of complete satisfaction in every respect apply to D. Bellaghem, the furniture king, Hunter street—the furniture shop furthest west—Peterborough.

TURNBULL'S

The first month of summer is an interesting period to the retail buyer. Keep your eye on this column, its newsy. Each week things will appear that ere the month passes will likely make you richer for the reading.

There is scarcely a weak spot in our Trimmed Millinery yet. The latest hat kind are turning up their pretty faces every day, and all the time floods of freshness and brightness keep pouring in new goods constantly.

This job line of untrimmed hats we spoke of last week is what pleases everybody—variety and prices right.

This week we have placed on our Dress Goods counter a dozen pieces of fancy dress cloths, 15c. a yard. The only reason we can conceive that these goods have not sold earlier at higher prices,is that they were too new. They ought to and no doubt will go out very fast now. Attention is called to them. Shantung pongee, the dustless kind. You know how the heathen Chinee crams dust into common run of pongees. He does not do it to the Shantung—pure silk and clean. These goods make up beautiful with our fine henriettas.

In the Tweed department we have a fine line of Halifax tweeds that handle soft and fleecy just as they ought to handle. Sale price, 35c.

We expect to-morrow's train to bring us in a large shipment of Corsets. We keep what our judgment says is the best make in the trade. We see representatives from all the factories. Our 50c. corsets are the best we believe ever shown in Peterborough for years.

We have been able to repeat that line of ladies' black hose, heavy weight, at 15c. pair. Those who have had these goods will be glad to hear they can get them again now.

Pink is the favorite color in Chambrays this season. Again a fresh lot just arrived.

We keep suits for boys and small boys, either with or without linings at all prices. See them before buying

FINE STATIONERY

Are you aware of the many important makes of writing paper that abide with us, and occupy a leading superiority over all other makes. We enumerate some of our Special Lines:—

The Original Milton Mills.
This celebrated writing paper now so much in demand, is made from the purest fibre, is firm of texture and is reduced to a moderate price.

The Brown Holland—Calico Grey—Canvas Cream
A triumph of writing paper—the success of the year. They have made a conquest wherever shown, and their ascendency in popularity has been marked and rapid.

Antique Parchment.
The high merit of this production being so well known that further exultation would be superfluous.

The Favorite Grey.
[illegible] been so long in high favor.

Piries' Real Vellum.
Renowned throughout the land for its high repute for office and social correspondence.

The Crown Parchment and Ivory Vellum.
Distinguished for its dead velvety finish, and a society paper which we are very vain of and which has enshrined itself in the estimation of all lovers of beautiful papers, and is winning golden opinion every day.

The Bath—The St. Andrew—The Garter.
Excellent Medium Quality Paper, that will challenge comparison with very much higher priced papers, and always give satisfaction.

We are bold enough to assert that no practice so forcibly proves the existence of sound art tastes, of real gentility of mind, and of the fitness for high social positions, than the use of Fine Stationery. There never was a time when the best of Stationery could be so daintily offered as the present, when there are so many charming boxes to hold the materials—such pretty conceits in the mode of presentation, novel in design.

We have Envelopes to match all our Papers. We show the Newest and the Most Correct Styles. Later on we will tell you about other New Lines.

We will be pleased to send Samples of our Papers.

INTO THE JAWS OF DEATH.

A RAILWAY HORROR ON THE NORFOLK AND WESTERN ROAD.

A Train Running 30 Miles an Hour Plunges Into a Gulch Near Lynchburg, Va—Thirty Killed and Many Wounded.

LYNCHBURG, Va., July 2.—An accident involving great loss of life occurred on the Norfolk and Western Railway, at 2.30 o'clock this morning, one mile above Flaxton's switch and 31 miles about this city.

Rain had been falling almost continuously for 24 hours swelling the mountain streams. Several trains passed over the road during the night and it was thought the line was safe. At the place of the accident, however, the water undermined the roadbed, and caused a washout 80 feet long and 50 deep.

Into this gulch the engine leaped while running 30 miles an hour, carrying with it the tender and eight cars. As the engine struck bottom the water rushed into the locomotive fire box and exploded the boiler. Debris was thrown in every direction by the explosion, injuring some of those on the train by flying fragments and scattering firebrands which ignited the coaches. The flames destroyed a large amount of mail and express matter, besides spreading panic among the passengers.

It is supposed that some of the passengers, unable to extricate themselves from the wreck, were consumed but it is difficult to get accurate information, as the employes of the railway are reticent.

The most reasonable estimates place the number of killed at 25 to 30.

Thirty wounded have been taken to Roanoke, 13 to Bufordsville and 50 to Liberty.

There is no telegraphic communication nearer the wreck than Liberty. A relief train left here this afternoon and a number of physicians were flown on it.

A special despatch received about 11 o'clock by way of Liberty says: Six dead bodies have been recovered. The bodies of P. Donovan, engineer, and Postal Clerk Rose were recognized. The others are not known. The railway company has taken a large corps of physicians to the scene from Roanoke, Liberty and other points. It is thought a large number of bodies were burned.

A PULLMAN CONDUCTOR KILLED.

William McWood Falls From His Train in an Unknown Manner.

TORONTO, July 3.—William McWood, Pullman conductor on the G.T.R. between Toronto and Montreal, was killed at Lancaster on his way to this city late Monday night. Just how he managed to meet his death is not known. He left Montreal Monday evening on the express for Toronto. On the road up he sat in the smoking compartment for a considerable time, and among those with whom he conversed were Mr. James Harris of Toronto, Mr. David Horg of Stratford and Mr. Malcolm Morrison of Montreal. He apparently was very tired and at times seemed drowsy. Before reaching Lancaster he said that he would have to take the Toronto Lacrosse Club on at Cornwall and engaged himself seeing that their berths were all in order. Mr. Morrison was the last person he spoke to on the train. After this he passed to another car and was never seen alive again. Whether he fell off in passing from one coach to the other or was blown off cannot, of course, be stated.

The down train from Toronto was met at Brockville and the train hands were told to keep a lookout, with the result of finding his mangled remains at Lancaster.

Deceased was about 30 years of age, and had been on the Toronto-Montreal run for about six months. Formerly he ran from Montreal to Chicago. He was well known to travelers on the Grand Trunk and was very popular. He was the son of Superintendent McWood of the Grand Trunk car shops at Point St. Charles, where he resided with his wife and family. His remains were sent to Montreal for interment.

The "Canadian" Convention.

NEW YORK, July 2.—At the Canadian convention yesterday the question of [illegible] conventions was discussed. Rev. F. [illegible] man of Rochester favored [illegible] spoke. Rev. J. B. St. Germain, [illegible] Bosquedis These officers [illegible] presidents; L. A. [illegible] secretary; L. I. L. Ecuyer, [illegible]; Rev. R. A. C. Notebert of Rochester, chaplain.

The convention was continued to-day. The greater part of the morning session was taken up with discussion of the parochial school question.

The afternoon was devoted to discussing the way to protect the interests of French-Canadians in the States. A number of speakers favored naturalization to further this end.

A Murderer Apotheosized.

NEW YORK, July 2.—A Charleston, S.C. dispatch says: "Dr. McDow, the murderer of Col. Dawson, is the hero of the hour. His parlors are crowded with people offering him congratulations. They are fragrant with flowers presented to him, but it would be nothing surprising if within a week or two McDow should meet his end. Dawson's friends were legion. There was a murmur in the air all day Saturday and Sunday that McDow would be taken from his home and lynched. Thus far he has only been feted, but his head is in danger."

The Crops in East Grey.

MELANCTHON, Ont., July 2.—The crops on the high lying land which were not damaged by the frost promise to be heavy, though the harvest will probably be late, on account of so much wet weather in the forepart of the season. The fruit, though somewhat damaged by the frost, will be a fair yield, especially cherries. We are having very hot weather here just now.

AT CLAN-NA-GAEL'S DOOR

STILL ANOTHER MURDER ATTRIBUTED TO THE TRIANGLE.

Was Lomasney Also Removed?—The Burke Extradition Trial as Winnipeg—Martineau Fully Identifies the Fugitive.

WINNIPEG, July 2.—At the Burke extradition trial to-day the evidence taken before the Chicago Grand Jury was produced. It was objected to by prisoner's counsel, but the objections were overruled. It told the story already known, with many additional particulars which connected Burke with the crime.

Martineau, the expressman, gave evidence identifying Burke as the person who employed him to cart furniture to the Carlson cottage, where the murder was committed. The witness denied that he was coached for the occasion by any of the officers.

The case will be continued to-morrow.

LOMASNEY TOO.

John F. Scanlan Charges the Triangle With Another Murder.

CHICAGO, July 2.—"Dr. Cronin and Dr. McInerny are not the only enemies of the Triangle who have been removed because they held damning proofs of dishonesty and treachery on the part of that body," were the startling words spoken by John F. Scanlan to a correspondent to-day. "You remember that Capt. Lomasney of Detroit was supposed to have been killed while engaged in blowing up part of London Bridge. It was given out that he was in a boat under the bridge at the time of the alleged premature explosion. But his body was never found. There was another Cronin conspiracy back of poor Lomasney's death. I have it from an Irish-American living here that no such explosion occurred at the time Lomasney was reported to have been killed.

"My informant was at Swansea, Wales, when he read the false reports circulated in this country by the 'Triangle' that Lomasney had been killed by an explosion at London Bridge. He went at once to London and found that no explosion had occurred there and that Lomasney had not been seen in London by any of the revolutionists, who would have met him had he been there. I believe that Lomasney never left Detroit alive, because the Triangle had stolen the money which they afterwards charged to the myshical mission of Lomasney, and his death would bury the proof of their guilt forever. A Detroit saloon-keeper, who was an Irish-American compatriot of Lomasney, disappeared at the same time, and I have no doubt that he met the same fate as the zealous Captain. Nothing has ever been heard of him since."

"I have ordered an inquiry in the McInerny matter," said Chief Hubbard to-day, "but so far no reports have reached me on the case. It seems strange that if McInerny left New York April 21, his friends have not made his disappearance public until now. We are trying to find the 'Murphy brothers,' who rented the house at No. 18 Nixon-street about the time McInerny disappeared. Their movements, actions and sudden departure were of a suspicious character, but we found nothing to hold them on in the Cronin case and let them go. This may be another Carlson cottage conspiracy, and McInerny may have been the victim, but an investigation will soon settle the question."

Chief Hubbard reluctantly admitted to-night that John Kunze is behind the bars and had been under arrest for two weeks. The Chicago-avenue Police Station is believed to be Kunze's present abiding place. The fact that he has not yet been removed to the county jail along with the other indicted conspirators indicates that the authorities are trying to "sweat" a confession out of him before mixing him up with the more guilty ones. No other reason can be assigned for keeping him in a police cell on a Grand Jury indictment.

The State Attorney claims to have sufficient evidence to convict all the indicted men. The main object in working to get a confession out of Beggs, Kunze or Sullivan is to use one of them as a State witness, so that direct evidence may be secured against Alexander Sullivan. The authorities believe, and so did the Coroner's jury and Grand Jury, that Sullivan instigated the murder, that it was arranged in Camp 20 by his tools, Coughlin and Beggs under the pretense that Cronin was a spy, and was executed by fanatical members of that camp, Woodcock and Kunze playing minor parts. Police Officer Moore, who testified at the coroner's inquest against Alexander Sullivan, has received a letter signed "Clan-na-Gael," threatening his life unless he leaves the police force.

SECRET-SOCIETY MURDERS.

Death Decreed by Unknown Tribunals—A Leaf of Clan-na-Gael History.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The revelations in the murder case of Dr. Cronin have surprised many people, probably most people who have read the story from day to day. They should not have been surprised, however, for it they had run back in their memories to the horrible assassinations of the past ten years connected with the cause of Irish freedom, they would have seen that in every case they were directed by a secret society—whether in Ireland or this country, some unseen power decreed the death of traitor or spy, and in every case at least an attempt was made to obey. This secret society spread over both America, England and Ireland, for the agents of one country were always made welcome and given assistance in the others. Is this secret society the Clan-na-Gael? Who can tell? The minor branches have taken many names, such as the Irish Invincible Club, which ordered the Phœnix Park murders in 1882. The refugees from the other side of the water have always got a living here without much effort.

Here are some of the "executions" decreed by this powerful secret society which, whatever its name, for at least one year threw Ireland into chaos. In the Cronin case for the first time a murder has been traced to a large, well organized society with what is called an "open name," for the secret name of the Clan-na-Gael is the United Brotherhood, and this is still secretly indicated by the letters V. C. When the crimes in Ireland were traced to secret organizations the latter were generally small affairs, evidently mere camps of one large army. It is compact, well-drilled and well officered, and disobedience means death.

The question arises, did the men of Camp 20 in Chicago have to obey orders under [illegible] of death? Look at this list given [illegible] see how the orders given in [illegible] death been carried out [illegible] of them. death seemed to th[illegible] caused deep feeling

Th[illegible]t Britain were those of the [illegible]trim in 1878 and of Viscount Mountmorres in 1880. The latter was purely an agrarian crime. The first was due as much, perhaps, to the notorious liberalism of the victim as to his quarrels with his tenants. They are included in this list as they were both evidently decreed by a secret tribunal and were bloody in the extreme, as have been nearly all those so ordered. No trace of the murderers was ever found although large rewards were offered.

The year 1882 was indeed a bloody year in Ireland. Lord Frederick Cavendish, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, and the Under Secretary, Thomas Burke, were knifed to death one evening in May while Phœnix Park was crowded with people. There were several other murders ordered by secret societies in 1882.

The first of the victims were the Joyce family, five in number, who were shot down in their own house on the evening of Aug. 18, near Cong, in the County Galway. This assassination was probably the most horrible in the history of Ireland. It was very similar to the Cronin murder in the evident determination that it should be sure and bloody. The crowd stood around the house, and the five avengers shot everyone within. It was a lonely spot, and the shrieks of the victims could be heard far and wide, but there was no pity for any of them. All died but one of the boys and he was fearfully wounded. When the shooting was over the assassins entered the house and with hammers beat the brains out of those still living. In the morning when the troops arrived they looked upon a slaughter-house.

Three days later, near the beautiful Killarney, the most carefully plotted of all the secret society executions was carried out without a hitch. A farmer named Leahy had given information about some crime that had been committed in his neighborhood. During the night he was dragged from his bed and shot by a party of masked men.

James Carey, through whose evidence five men died for the Phœnix Park murders, on July 30, 1883, was shot dead while leaving the steamer Melrose at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, by Patrick O'Donnell. This avenger had dogged Carey's steps. He had followed the informer from London to the port of Dartmouth, had sailed in the same steamer with him, and at last had killed him. When this news reached Ireland there was great rejoicing. In Dublin a mob gathered in front of Carey's house and cheered and yelled and built bonfires. Many said the news was too good to be true. In this city it was not generally believed, for there was an impression here that Carey had gone to Montreal, although in the light of later events it became evident that this false news was purposely circulated here.

The scene now shifts to this city. On July 21, 1883, "Red Jim" McDermott, who had given information about some dynamite plots in Ireland, was attacked by James Gegacor, who drew a pistol and shot Red Jim in the head, [illegible]

"McDermott, you traitor, I've followed you 3000 miles to kill you, and I'll do it now."

The last and most brutal attempt of the secret society to do a murder before that of Dr. Cronin was the celebrated attack on Capt. Phelan of Kansas City by Dick Short, Jan. 9, 1883, in O'Donovan Rossa's office, at No. 13 Chambers-street. That day two men rolled into Chambers-street; one was covered with blood and soon fell gasping while a crowd gathered round him. That was Phelan. In a moment or two the police parted the crowd and led in the stabber. That was Dick Short, who, two years before, under the name of Gaynor, had tried to kill McDermott. Phelan was suspected of being a spy in the employ of the British Government.

Next the people of this country were startled by the revelations in the Cronin case, but it must not be forgotten that when the body of Richard Piggots was found in Madrid there were not wanting large numbers of Irishmen who denied the story that he had committed suicide, and averred that he had met the fate of all informers. It was asserted that he had been followed by an agent of the secret society and shot to death in his hotel. As the new facts in the Cronin case are brought to light men begin to see some of the secret machinery which may have caused the death of so many traitors to the cause of Ireland or spies in the service of Great Britain.

FROM ONE WHO KNOWS.

Michael Davitt Testifies Touching Crime and the Clan-na-Gael—What "Pen" Means.

LONDON, July 2.—Michael Davitt was examined before the Parnell Commission to-day. He declared there was no truth in the accusation given by LeCaron before the Commission concerning the proposals of John Devoy being submitted to Mr. Parnell. Mr. Parnell had nothing so do with witness' visit to America in 1878. Witness had intended to make another visit to America on a lecturing tour in order to raise money to help the agrarian movement. Mr. Davitt stated that while in America he had frequently addressed the Clan-na-Gael to win support for Parnell and the Land League. The Clan-na-Gael, he said, included some of the best men in America and was not a murder club. He could not believe Alexander Sullivan of Chicago, guilty of a dishonorable act.

With reference to the Phœnix Park murders Davitt said: Mr. Parnell came to me on the Sunday following the day of the murders utterly broken down at the news. He said: "Davitt, I shall send my resignation to Cork to-night. I refuse to stay in the movement when irresponsible men of whom we know nothing can come behind our backs and perpetrate such deeds." It took all my influence, said witness, to dissuade him from resigning. We immediately had circulated throughout Ireland a manifesto condemning the murderers. There was absolutely no ground for the suggestion that I or any of my colleagues were in any way privy to the crimes.

Mr. Davitt continued: "Beyond stating publicly in New York in July, 1882, that I had severed my connection with the revolutionary body I expressed no dissent from the Fenians. I did not attend any meetings of the Clan-na-Gael after 1880. I believe that murders were committed by members of the Clan-na-Gael, but the perpetrators certainly did not have the sanction of the governing body nor the approval of the leaders. When I was organizing secretary I communicated with the member of the supreme court for my district."

Attorney-General Webster: "Who was he?"

Mr. Davitt: "I can not tell you. It would be a gross breach of trust to divulge his name. If he is still in business in England he might be ruined if the fact of his connection with the council became known."

Witness said that in a letter which he wrote he had used the word "pen," meaning revolver. He declined to say to whom the letter was addressed.

The Attorney-General: "Was it Arthur Forrester?"

Mr. Davitt: "I can't say without possibly injuring a man who greatly wronged me."

Presiding Justice Hannen said the court respected the motive for witness' reticence, but could not recognize it as an excuse for not answering.

Mr. Davitt thereupon explained that the man to whom the letter was written had conceived a hatred of another member of the League and wished to murder him. Witness wrote to him offering to sanction the act he meditated but really to gain time until he could write to two superior officers and ask them to dissuade the man from carrying out his purpose. The expression used in the letter was: "whenever is employed do not let him use the pen we have been using." Witness wrote to the two superior officers about the matter. He could not tell their names. He believed both men were now in America. Mr. Davitt said the dear friend to whom he had addressed the letter in which the word "pen" appeared was not in America and he now publicly appealed to him to allow him to divulge his name.

KEELER COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Suicide at Ormstown—Villard's Project to Parallel the C.P.R.

MONTREAL, July 2.—Charles K. Keeler, the New York forger who imitated Mr. J. J. He was committed to the Court of Queen's Bench.

In connection with the project in which Henry Villard and a number of other Northern Pacific magnates are interested to parallel the Canadian Pacific by the Northern Pacific through its recently acquired Manitoba branches, Mr. Shaughnessy, Assistant General Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said to-day: "We have known for some time that the Northern Pacific, was buying in that direction, but we think the country is large enough to support any number of railways. IS THIS COONEY?

The Tragedy at Clappison's Corners—A Verdict of Suicide.

HAMILTON, July 2.—Last night Coroner McGregor of Waterdown held an inquest upon the body of the man whose death at Clappison's Corners, either by suicide or murder, was reported yesterday. The inquest was crushed through, and the jury at 1 o'clock this morning brought in a verdict of suicide. Dr. Courtenay of Waterdown made the post-mortem examination and found the body to be that of a well-developed man who had evidently lived well. The brain was one of the most healthy he had ever examined, and he does not think the man was crazy. Death resulted from the severing of the artery on the right side of the neck, and he thought the wound was inflicted by a penknife held in the right hand of the deceased. The handkerchiefs in the man's valise were marked with a "C." Scattered about the room was $27 in United States bills. The man had evidently destroyed every means of establishing his identity.

The deceased was a man about 5 feet 8 inches in height, 35 or 40 years of age, light-colored hair, inclined to be bald, red moustache, slim build, about 150 lbs., well dressed, tweed suit, small dark check.

Dr. McGregor thinks it is a very strange case. "I don't know what to make of it," he said. "I don't take much stock in the murder theory, and yet it is strange that a sane man, as he apparently was, should make an assertion like that when he knew he was dying. I was the first person to enter the room after the man died, and his money was lying all about the room covered with blood. Some of the bills were torn and others crumpled up in lumps. From all the circumstances that I have learned, however, I believe that the man was suffering from remorse for some crime committed, and that he determined to end his life and conceal his identity. I will have the body kept as long as possible."

By some it is thought the man may be W. J. Cosser, the missing cashier of the city club of Buffalo, who disappeared the other day about $1400 short in his accounts. A good many of those who saw the body, however, believe that it is that of the man Cooney who is wanted in Chicago for the murder of Dr. Cronin. The Chicago police have been searching for Cooney, but have not been able to find him. He is not in Chicago and the belief is that he fled to Canada.

Patrick Cooney was supposed to have attempted suicide in Arkansas City last week and is also reported as having committed suicide in Belvidere. It is scarcely likely that the Clappison's Corners' man is Cooney. The description of Cooney telegraphed from Chicago is as follows: About 25 years old, 5 feet 8½ inches tall, weight 135 pounds, full chested (40-inch girth), round face, sallow complexion, shrubby pomade-matted and freckled, light blue or grey eyes, brown hair and reddish [illegible] moustache, intelligent and [illegible] slight English accent, quick and [illegible] wants and eats as if he had a [illegible]

"NOTHING TO BEAT MOWAT."

A circular letter was read in all the Roman Catholic churches of Toronto on Sunday last, asking Catholics to be careful to see that their names are put by the assessors on the Separate School supporters. Otherwise they would be put down as supporters of the Public School. The letter also asks them to see that their assessment slips are properly filled in, as assessment amounting to $200,000 and $300,000 were put in the list last year. The unscrupulous tactics of the Tory party falsely accuse the Government of so amending the law as to force every Roman Catholic to be a supporter of Separate Schools. The writers know that the accusation is false, and don't believe their own statements as to Roman Catholics don't believe them either, or they would not have to issue such a warning as that cited above. "Anything to beat Mowat," involves lying, false-witness, slander and all sorts of politico-moral abominations. There is no honest zeal for the country's good, no honest zeal for the promotion or protection of Protestant principles; there is not one note of honesty in the howl raised respecting French in the schools. Through the thin veil of zeal for liberty of conscience, equal rights, etc., etc., shows the skeleton of the ogre which growls out with bated breath the real meaning of all the uproar that reigns among the ward-heelers, and pot-house and pseudo-plow-tail politicians—"Anything to beat Mowat."

THE FARMERS AND A STOCK MARKET.

On Saturday next, July 6th, at two o'clock in the annual meeting of the West Riding Farmers' Institute will be held in the council chamber, Peterborough. This will be a more than usually important meeting. In addition to the usual business, the consideration of establishing a stock market in Peterborough will demand attention. Though there may be some objection urged against the proposition, on the whole the advantages are in favour of a stock market. All the advantages, involved in the competition created by the assemblage of a large quantity of stock, and the presence of several cattle dealers, will be at the disposal of every farmer patronizing such a sale. The business of the principle has ample illustration on the cheese board. This has worked well and few have found who thought it wise to do away with the board for a time, hoped that all members of the Institute, as well as all farmers interested in the breeding of stock will be present to discuss the question in all its aspects. Their experience will, in such a discussion, help them to bring out all the advantage and disadvantages of the proposed stock sale and bring about a correct decision. The farmers are becoming every year more alive to their interests, and will on this occasion govern themselves in a manner to do justice to their own cause.

Interesting Theories of Railway Accidents.

Editor of the Examiner:

SIR.—While standing at the G. T. R. station the other day seeing our young men in the volunteer force off, to be prepared to defend our country by a foreign foe, a little incident which led me to think a little, and wonder we have so many accidents on railways of the country as we have had lately. Just as the conductor shouted, "all aboard" a gentleman, appointed to have charge of inspection at the station, asked him to wait until he would get a nut which he was holding one of the bolts which he was tightening it with. The conductor would not wait, but answer to more on which was told by the gentleman to stop or drop that nut. The conductor off the bolt and it would, no doubt, have caused the spring to break and of the car to come it is hard to say what might have been perhaps and then on there it was thought the time of the train to put both nuts and draw it, and then with men and the officers together and re-start. He at once said been to back apparent strike on to fell and it was with the officers and the train was started. Now, Mr. Editor, I am not a railway man, but I think that if the officers of the train had been provided with a proper wrench to screw up the nuts on the bolts, and had been instructed to do so, that many accidents would have been avoided. Yours truly,

A RAILWAY MAN.

ITCHING AGONIES.

Every Night I Scratched until the Skin was Raw.

Body Covered with Scales like Spots of Mortar. An awful Spectacle. Doctors Useless. Cure Hopeless. Entirely Cured by the Cuticura Remedies in Five Weeks

I am going to tell you of the extraordinary change your CUTICURA REMEDIES performed on me. About the first of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on, when it began to look like spots of mortar spotted on, and which came off in layers, accompanied by itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scales, being formed meanwhile, were scratched off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the country, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and purchased them from my druggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one, and have been fully cured. I had the disease thirteen months before I began taking the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. My disease was eczema and psoriasis. I recommended the CUTICURA REMEDIES to all in my vicinity, and I know of a great many who have taken them, and thank me for the knowledge of them, especially mothers who have babes with scaly eruptions on their heads and bodies. I cannot express in words the thanks to you for what the CUTICURA REMEDIES have been to me. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as nice and clear as a baby's.

Messrs. THE WILLIAM JOHNSTON CO., Montreal.

Dear Sirs—We beg to say that we have used large quantities of your Magnetic Oxide Paint during the past year, and we have much pleasure in stating that it has given entire satisfaction.

We find that your paint covers a greater surface with a heavier coating than any other oxides we have tested, and have tried nearly everything in that line during the past five years, but never could get a satisfactory article.

Although we are paying you fully 20 p.c. more per gallon than other paints have been offered us at, we consider that we have never before had as good value for our money as you are now giving us.

During the past year thousands of squares of our shingles and siding have been used throughout the Dominion, nearly all of which were thoroughly coated with your Magnetic Oxide, and so far not a single complaint has been received, in fact the majority of our old customers have complimented us on the improved painting.

We have no hesitation in recommending the same quality of paint as that supplied us as being the very best for all kinds of sheet metal, roofing, &c,, &c.

Yours truly,

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER

A TALE OF TEARS.

"How did you learn to know all these people so well?" Strathspey asked her on one occasion, when she had given them a much-desired piece of information.

"I visit them," she answered simply. "I am obliged to go to see everybody, you know."

"Is it because you like to go?" he asked, actually almost touched by his fancy of this gentle little creature, living her innocent life, in such constant loneliness and labor.

She blushed faintly under his earnest eye, and looked down.

"Sometimes it is because I like to do it," was her naive reply, "and sometimes it is because I think I ought to."

She was called out of the room by Marjory, shortly after this, on the behalf of some poor woman, who was waiting for her in the kitchen, so he only caught a glimpse of her as she passed out; and she looked up from the basket she was filling, to bid him a sweet good-morning; but he went away with a half-tender smile on his lips, and a curious feeling of pity for her, and admiration of her kindly, gentle ways, filling his mind.

Prue went back to the room, when she had finished her work, and, as she entered, she saw her father standing at the window, and she fancied that his face had a look of relief upon it. She went to him, and clasped her hands through his arm, in the quiet caressing fashion, which never failed to show itself when she was near him.

"Don't you think the people will be better for his coming back, papa, dear?" she said.

"Yes," he answered. "And we shall be better, too, my Saira, or, so he says."

She looked up with a little glow of grateful relief.

"Oh, papa! Did he really say so?"

"Yes," said the rector. "He tells me that he had never thought of the matter before, until he accidentally happened to have his notice called to it, and now he wishes to repair the wrong he considers has been done me.

The big, innocent eyes glared like a little child's as Prue nestled on her father's arm.

"How good he is!" she said, softly. "How good he is!"

And then her sweet gratefulness fell into silence, and lay in her heart, the germ of a fair flower, to burst, in after days, into passionate blooming.

CHAPTER IV.

The life in the brown-gabled rectory was a very quiet one, so quiet, indeed, that but for her responsibilities the rector's daughter would have been completely lost to the outer world, as if she had been shut up in some enchanted castle.

The rector was often absent, and, as little or no company came to the house, Marjory and her young companion lived their lives almost like ogress and fairy princess. But, after this second visit of Lord Strathspey's a gradual change came about. In the course of a few weeks, hardly a day passed without the tall, graceful figure lounging up the gravel-walk, the handsome, careless face always touched with a sort of amused admiration of the grave childish eyes and gentle voice. He called on the rector to discuss the improvements he was making on the church; he called on Prue to ask advice; he called to talk to her about Jamie Macdonnel, with whom he had struck up a sort of friendship; and last, but by no means least, he called to while away the hours, which now and then hung heavily at Coombe-Ashley. Why not? The innocent little creature touched and amused him with her faithful conscientiousness, and truth to tell, sometimes thrilled him not a little with her unconscious gravity and tender words. He brought her fruits and flowers, too, sometimes hot-house grapes and nectarines, and bouquets of hot house flowers; and when she thanked him, he would laugh in his careless fashion, at her pretty gratitude.

"Don't thank me," he would say, with a sort of indolent enjoyment of her. "Thank Lady Strathspey, her hot-house furnishes them, not mine, Miss Prue." But once he added suddenly, "No, thank me. I believe I must claim your thanks after all, even if I don't deserve them. They are so sweet to me." And Prue stopped, with a swift beat of her childish heart, and looked up at him gravely, and then looked down, the soft color creeping upward, even to the folds of her brown hair.

No one ever uttered such words to her before; no one had ever smiled down into her eyes with the tenderness which touched this fair, handsome face, and she remembered the words, and dreamed over them with a childlike thrill of happy wonder at their meaning. It never occurred to her that they were careless words, carelessly uttered.

Strathspey had smiled to himself, in his amusement at her blush and gravity. As I said at first, he allowed himself to be pleased, and the poor, ignorant child was pleasing him. He never paused to think where he was leading her to, he never asked himself what the result would be. It was enough that the days were dull at the Coombe, and that the rector's daughter made them pass less heavily.

"The little innocent!" he said to himself, as he sauntered home that evening. "How sweet she looked! How sweet she is really! She almost looked as if she believed me. I wonder if she did?"

But she had believed him seriously and tenderly enough. How could the poor, earnest, conscientious, truth-telling child do otherwise. Her old pleasure in his kindness was growing slowly into something newer and deeper. She never tried to fathom it—she was not woman enough for that; she only thrilled, and glowed, and dreamed, as if she had been a very child, reading a strange story, dwelling on every word, and forgetting that an end must come.

Her tell-tale face, with its blush and drooping eyes, brought him again and again. A girl of seventeen, who was so thoroughly unread in worldliness as this young creature, was a novelty to him, even though he had seen women of all countries and orders. Her grave, softly-spoken "My lord," gave him a vague thrill of pleasure every time it was uttered, it sounded so like the sweet speech of a child. In time, the people who knew them began to watch for the two figures passing together, the handsome head bending low over the little straw hat as they walked, for it rarely happened that she went out without meeting him somewhere or other. Sometimes it was upon the moor, with his rifle in his hand, and his game-bag slung over his shoulder; sometimes it was sauntering through the lanes, with a rather bored expression on his face, and something like a wearied frown knitting his white forehead; but wherever he was, or however intense the boredom had been, he never failed to brighten when he spoke to her. Sometimes he walked on a little by her side, talking graceful nonsense to her and watching her bright, serious little face. It was so easy to talk graceful nonsense to her, and so easy to bring that grave, shy silence upon her, which amused, even while it touched him. Her very simplicity of belief was her great charm for him. It was such a refreshing, curious thing to see her droop her brown eyes over the old platitudes which other women would have laughed at, for the reason that they had heard them a hundred times before. But Prue had not heard them a hundred times before—she had not even heard them once. She had read of such things, perhaps, in the one or two quaint novels she had met with in her father's library, and the men who said them had always been terribly in earnest in their love-making. How, I ask, could she be anything but utterly serious when the hero of her, who was, in her eyes, the most magnificent of unsaid beings, told her that his happiest hours were those in her side, and that the helped him from the boredom of Coombe-Ashley when nothing else could? So it went on, and she trusted and believed, and wondered that her romantic happiness was not a dream; and looking up at him and seeing with her own truthful, earnest eyes, saw no brighter than the careless, smiling lips and graceful speeches. Her father, full of his labors and kindly unconscious, only saw that her sweet face was growing sweeter, the soft voice softer, and the gentle, tender ways more winning every day, and so was content in her happiness. She never returned after an absence, without stopping in his room for a few minutes; but the thinking of her only as the "bairn" he had cherished in his sad heart and carried in his arms, it never struck him as singular that she rarely came in without mentioning his patron's name. "I saw Lord Strathspey, papa dear," she would say. "He was at Donald Ross's," Or sometimes, "Who do you suppose I met on the Brae? His lordship: and he told me to tell you that he would call to see you to-night about the church, if you were at liberty."

The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Last evening Mr. Michael Riley, of Enniemore, met with a painful accident. He was returning home, and when driving on the road back of the Barnardo Home his horse took fright and ran away. Mr. Riley was thrown out and received a painful bruise on his shoulder and a broken rib. The horse was caught before running far, but the buggy was badly damaged. Mr. Riley was brought back to the Phelan House, where he is under a doctor's care.

The Market Question.

The Market Committee met last night and considered the new market building question. It was decided to get estimates of the cost of the new building and submit a by-law as soon as possible for public vote. The ballot will also be arranged so as to get an expression of public opinion as to whether the market should be upstairs or down in the new building. A special meeting of the town council is called for Friday night, when the by-law will be presented. The time for receiving tenders for the erection of the new building has been extended.

The Hand of Nature.

Mr. Wm. Telford, poet laureate of Peterborough, exhibited at this office a natural curiosity of great interest in the shape of a cluster of pine roots growing in the form of a human hand. It is about the size of the average lady's hand, the thumb fixed at the proper angle and the fingers all formed with wonderful resemblance to the human hand. It is an odd freak of growth and a valuable curiosity. Mr. Telford has tried his muse on it, and the hand may be seen at McClelland's jewelry store with the following verse on the card attached to it:—

Here I am without a father,
And without a body, too;
Not of man, from nature, rather—
From a pine my form I drew.

The English Canoe.

Mr. Wm. English scored a point on the result of the Dominion Day canoe races at Toronto. A couple of Toronto men had Warren, the city boat-builder, working for several months upon an elaborate racing canoe with which they felt confident they could beat any other two paddlers who might enter. The McKendrick Brothers, of Galt, gave Mr. English a late order for a canoe for the purpose of entering the same race. It took him just two days to build the boat, but it was a dandy, and the McKendricks won the race. Out of compliment to its builder it was named the Wm. English.

STATE OF THE SCHOOLS

Not so Bad, and Likely to Improve.

Regular Meeting of the Board—A Permit To be Asked for a Teacher—Work Begun on the New Schools.

At the regular meeting of the School Board Tuesday night there were present Mr. Jas. Stevenson, chairman, and Messrs. O'Meara, Boucher, English, Weir, McWilliams, Denne, Hill, Wrighton, Rutherford (T.,) Kendry, Dumble, Hamilton and Burnham.

The monthly school reports were presented as follows:—

	No. on Roll	Ave. Att.
Central School (for May)	623	515
Central School (for June)	600	522
West Ward School	205	161
South Ward School	271	233

A communication was read from the teachers of the public school, recommending the adoption of Mr. Ketchum's method of teaching music in the schools.—Received.

A communication in reference to the boiler insurance was received.

Accounts of W. H. Robertson, $8.16, and the Gas Company for $4.35 and 70 cents were ordered to be paid.

THE SCHOOLS.

Dr. Tilley, Inspector of schools, presented his report, giving the results of his recent inspection of the rooms in detail. Mr Dumble in moving its adoption expressed his pleasure at having such a full report, showing exactly what work each teacher was doing, and Mr. Kendry in seconding it spoke in the same way. It was also decided to supply each teacher with that portion of the report referring to their individual rooms.

Dr. Tilley addressed the Board briefly, stating that while the report might appear to be strongly worded he did not wish the impression to go abroad that the schools were below the average. They were doing very well, and he had no doubt there would be a great improvement next term. There were some of the teachers, however, who had not certificates.

Mr. DUMBLE coincided with Mr. Tilley's views expressed in the report regarding the advisability of holding Teacher's Institutes more frequently, where teachers can learn a great deal in their own line of business.

In reference to drawing, which the report showed was poorly taught, Dr. Tilley said he regarded it as one of the most important subjects. Most of the teachers know little or nothing about it, but by attending Teachers' Institutes or getting lessons from some competent person they could easily put themselves in a position to teach it.

There was some discussion regarding the teachers without certificates. It was explained that a motion was already on the books requesting the withdrawal of all teachers without certificates, but as some of them were valuable, it was proposed to procure if possible, acting certificates from the Department.

Dr. TILLEY said he could not recommend this course as it interfered with the law and set a bad precedent.

THE REPAIRS TO THE SCHOOL.

Mr. STEVENSON said that the school by-law had not been prepared by the town solicitor on account of illness, but he believed from what he heard that the High School by-would not be carried this year anyway if submitted. It would be well for the board to put the Collegiate Institute building into repair so as to pass inspection this summer.

Mr. MCWILLIAMS asked that as Mr. Wrighton was with the inspector at the time the changes were noted, that he act with the Property Committee to have the Institute building repaired to meet requirements.

Mr. Wrignton declined to act.

Mr. DUMBLE said he wanted to see some definite plans made for the alteration of the building, and not have the whole alteration left to the discretion of a few men of the board. He also recommended that the Smead-Dowd system of heating be placed in the present High School building.

After some discussion the matter was dropped.

MR. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. HILL, —That the chairman of the Property Committee be instructed to procure the articles for the schools recommended in the inspector's report.

Mr. ENGLISH enquired if the Property Committee had power to make necessary repairs in the South Ward school building. The water was very bad for one thing.

It was stated that the committee had the power.

THOSE PERMITS.

Mr. KENDRY moved, seconded by Mr. RUTHERFORD,—That the Inspector request the Minister of Education to give Miss Irwin such permit as will allow the board to retain her in their service.

There was some discussion as to whether this would be a good precedent to adopt, even though Miss Irwin was a good teacher, and finally the motion was carried, only two objecting.

Mr. Hill moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that the Property Committee be instructed to have the necessary repairs made to the different school buildings.—Carried.

THE WORK BEGUN.

Mr. Rutherford presented the report of the Building Committee, that in accordance with instructions they had commenced the building of the North Ward School and also the addition to the South Ward School, giving the contract of the North Ward School to Mr. A. Rutherford and the South Ward School to Mr. Bogue, both contractors having furnished proper securities for the complete fulfillment of their contracts. They had also carried out instructions in employing Mr. A. Douglass as Clerk of Works at a salary of three dollars per day, he to look after the fulfilling of both contracts; salary to be paid monthly. They had also fixed the time of completion as follows:—The North Ward School to be finished by the first of December, and the South Ward by the first of November.

The report was adopted.

Dr. BURNHAM, Chairman of the Finance Committee, enquired what amount would be required to place in the estimates for repairs to the Collegiate Institute building.

It was explained that the Building Committee would be able to report on this matter in a few days.

Mr. Dumble moved, seconded by Mr. Denne, that this Board approves of the suggestion of the Inspector that Teachers' Institutes be held by the public school teachers as often as they can conveniently hold them, and that the teachers will be expected to attend them.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned till Tuesday next.

The Northern Mines.

Eagle Mount, in Stony Lake, to be Converted into a Granite Quarry—An Opening for Young Men.

Some time ago it will be remembered Messrs. Murray and Fraser, of Toronto, opened out a granite quarry at Lynch's Rock, a few miles from Lakefield, where a large staff of men are now working on stone for a $44,000 contract with Toronto. The firm are about to expand their business, and have purchased all of Eagle Mount, in Stony Lake, except that part occupied by cottages. A gang of about thirty carpenters are now employed erecting houses and preparing the island for the reception of the large staff of men it is intended to place at work in the quarries. The granite on Eagle Mount is said to be of the best quality. The company have now a number of stone cutters at work, but it is understood will increase their staff to 75 or 100 men. This will be a good opening for competent workmen, as well as for young men wishing to learn a good trade at high wages. The firm are ready to accept young men and give them good wages while learning the business.

During the summer the work at Lynch's will be discontinued and the whole force employed at the Eagle Mount quarries, from which the stone will be shipped to Lakefield and there transferred to the railway. In the winter work will be shut down at Eagle Mount and the quarries at Lynch's re-opened, from where the stone will be teamed to Lakefield for shipment.

Until the blood is cleansed of impurities, it is useless to attempt the cure of any disease. Rheumatism, which is traceable to an acid in the blood, has been cured, in numerous cases, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, external treatment being of no avail.

St. Andrew's Society's Excursion to Toronto.

The morn' was bright—Scots' hearts were light
With true Scotch adoration
As down George street they tripped their feet
To the C. P. R. station.

There, too, by gosh, Bill McIntosh
Stood with his bagpipes screaming
With lightning force the iron horse
In from the east came steaming—
For Scots that morn'.

Men raised their wives to save their lives,
The boys their sweet dears hustling;
Conductor roared "Spring all aboard"—
Off the train bounded whistling.

Scots had a place for every race,
And every creed but Quakers.
By train all might be killed—all right—
We had two undertakers
On board that day.

With joke and song we steamed along,
With train and bagpipes screeching;
With spirits high and some real dry
The fair Queen City reaching.

Quick out all spring, as if on wings,
To view the sights so charming;
The streets they pace with smiling face,
Lads their dear lasses arming—
Sweet words that day.

Street sights were grand. There I did stand
To view a fine trained monkey;
A funny youth told me for truth
He saw a real Scotch donkey.

Pleasures nor gold, nor joys can hold
The wheel of time from turning,
For home again we board the train,
With joy a lamp brightly burning—
On excursion night.

The bagpipes squeals, Jock kicked his heels,
Round heel and toe he whirls;
Up Maxie spoke, saying, "Weel done, Jock,
You beat the flying squirrels."

The cannie Scots near rent their throats
With Scottish songs victorious;
Close train hands drew, conductors too,
To hear the Scots so glorious—
On that same night.

With mirth and song the night air rang,
Not one inclined to sleeping,
Not tired nor lame the steam horse came
Into the station sweeping.

As sure as death, I smelled no breath
To prove they had been drinking;
True as the sun, I saw not one
From strong drink needed linking—
On excursion night.

Ashburnham Brevities.

The examinations in the junior division of the public school are being held this week.

There is one pupil from this school writing on the entrance examination.

The vote on the by-law to raise $1,500 for the erection of a new town hall was taken yesterday, very little interest being manifested in the matter. Only 59 votes were polled—44 for and 15 against, making a majority for the by-law of 29 votes. The by-law is therefore carried, and a new town hall will be the outcome of it.

St. Luke's Church Sunday school has arranged to hold their annual picnic on Wednesday, July 10th, to Jubilee Point. The steamer Golden-Eye has been chartered for the occasion. As the excursion this year is to be a congregational affair, a large attendance is expected. A committee has been appointed to make all arrangements.

The street leading to Riverside Park is being cribbed in and levelled up.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Session of the Grand Lodge of Ontario at Chatham.

CHATHAM, July 2.—The Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias of Ontario opened the 18th annual convention here at 9.30 this morning. In the absence of Grand Chancellor P. H. Drayton of Toronto, the chair was taken by Grand Vice-Chancellor L. S. Tate of Owen Sound. Among past grand officers present were G. H. Mitchell, Dr. John S. King of Toronto, D. J. Peace of Hamilton, James Smith, Alex. Gardiner of London, and F. D. McKellar of Chatham. After the report of the Committee on Credentials new representatives were introduced and received the Grand Lodge rank.

The reports of grand officers were submitted at the morning session. There has been a slight net increase in membership, one new lodge instituted, one death of a Grand Lodge officer—James Bradley, G.I.G., of Georgetown—is reported. The financial and numerical statements are satisfactory. This session is constituted by two representatives from each subordinate lodge instead of three as formerly and the plan is working well.

Mayor Malcolmson visited the Grand Lodge and gave an address of welcome to the town. Dr. King, P.G.C., replied on behalf of Grand Lodge.

The delegates and their friends excursed down the Thames to Lake St. Clair in the afternoon.

TO CONTEST WEST MIDDLESEX.

James L. Hughes Chosen as the Conservative Standard Bearer for the Local.

MT. BRYDGES, July 2.—A largely-attended Liberal-Conservative convention was held here to-day for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest West Middlesex for the Legislative Assembly with the Minister of Education, Mayor Alex. Johnston of Strathroy presiding. Among those present were Dr. Roome, M.P.; W. Swanland, Glencoe; Robt. Brown, John Morgan, reeve of Adelaide; Dr. Lindsay, Strathroy; P. H. Bartlett, Toronto; W. Stanley, Lucan; Dr. McLaren, Delaware; Alex. Cameron, Napier; J. R. Letch, Glencoe; Dougald Letch, Caradoc; Chas. Grist, Strathroy; Dr. Thomas Baker, Mount Brydges; J. F. McRault, Strathroy; Rev. Mr. Hughson, Delaware; Robt. Birmingham, Toronto.

Nine nominations were made, but all withdrew in favor of James L. Hughes of Toronto, who was, amid cheers, declared the unanimous choice of the convention. Speeches were made by many of those present.

On this score the bargains that we have prepared in our CROCKERY and GLASSWARE department, to last during midsummer, should appeal to the ladies of Peterborough and vicinity with particular emphasis. ATTRACTION
AT
TURNBULL'S

The first month of summer is an interesting period to the retail buyer. Keep your eye on this column, its newsy. Each week things will appear that ere the month passes will likely make you richer for the reading.

There is scarcely a weak spot in our Trimmed Millinery yet. The latest hat kind are turning up their pretty faces every day, and all the time floods of freshness and brightness keep pouring in new goods constantly.

This job line of untrimmed hats we spoke of last week is what pleases everybody—variety and prices right.

This week we have placed on our Dress Goods counter a dozen pieces of fancy dress cloths, 15c. a yard. The only reason we can conceive that these goods have not sold earlier at higher prices is that they were too new. They ought to and no doubt will go out very fast now. Attention is called to them. Shantung pongee, the dustless kind. You know how the heathen Chinee crams dust into common run of pongees. He does not do it to the Shantung—pure silk and clean. These goods make up beautiful with our fine henriettas.

In the Tweed department we have a fine line of Halifax tweeds that handle soft and fleecy—just as they ought to handle. Sale price, 35c.

We expect to-morrow's train to bring us in a large shipment of Corsets We keep what our judgment says is the best make in the trade. We see representatives from all the factories. Our 50c. corsets are the best we believe ever shown in Peterborough for years.

We have been able to repeat that line of ladies' black hose, heavy weight, at 15c. pair. Those who have had these goods will be glad to hear they can get them again now.

Pink is the favorite color in Chambrays this season. Again a fresh lot just arrived.

We keep suits for boys and small boys, either with or without linings at all prices. See them before buying

The Crown Parchment and Ivory Vellum.
Distinguished for its dead velvety finish, and a society paper which we are very vain of and which has enshrined itself in the estimation of all lovers of beautiful papers, and is winning golden opinion every day.

The Bath—The St. Andrew—The Garter.
Excellent Medium Quality Paper, that will challenge comparison with very much higher priced papers, and always give satisfaction.

We are bold enough to assert that no practice so forcibly proves the existence of sound art tastes, of real gentility of mind, and of the fitness for high social positions, than the use of Fine Stationery. There never was a time when the best of Stationery could be so daintily offered as the present, when there are so many charming boxes to hold the materials—such pretty conceits in the mode of presentation, novel in design.

We have Envelopes to match all our Papers. We show the Newest and the Most Correct Styles. Later on we will tell you about other New Lines.

We will be pleased to send Samples of our Papers.

TOPICS FROM TORONTO.

JAMES GILLAW DROWNED IN THE BAY YESTERDAY.

School Inspector Hughes and the West Middlesex Nomination—The New Law School Principalship.

TORONTO, July 4.—James Gillow of 65 Douro-street while bathing off the sand bar opposite the Queen's Wharf channel yesterday took cramps and was drowned in sight of his two companions before they could render any assistance. All the afternoon Esplanade Constable Williams dragged along the shore in the vicinity of the accident. The body was found at about 6 p.m. and taken to the morgue. No inquest will be held.

Mr. James L. Hughes, Public School Inspector and the nominee of the Mount Pleasant Liberal-Conservative association to contest the riding of West Middlesex against Hon. G. W. Ross, was interviewed by a number of pressmen yesterday. He said he had not yet received an official notification of his nomination but he would accept it if the party nominating him would adopt the Equal Rights platform.

The Benchers of the Law Society met again in close conclave for a long time yesterday, and finally appointed W. A. Reeve, Q. C., Principal of the Law School recently organized.

Richard and Fred Glover, brothers, got into a fight in 72 Lombard-street over a girl yesterday. Fred was so badly beaten that his removal to the hospital was necessary, and Richard is under arrest for aggravated assault.

Mrs. L. Darley, 90 Isabella-street, reported to the police yesterday that while boarding at the Hotel Dame, Bond-street, her trunk was broken into and $27.50 stolen. This is the third robbery of a similar nature reported at that institution within a month.

About 3 o'clock yesterday morning Henry Brown, 224 Beverley-street, awoke to find a stranger in his bedroom searching the pockets of his pantaloons. He jumped for him, but the burglar with the pantaloons in his hands made a break. He dropped the articles on the stairway and made his escape through the bedroom window, which he had forced open to effect an egress.

The now notorious Pearce family appeared before the Magistrate again yesterday morning. They were charged with burglarizing the house of W. J. Gibson at Kew Beach. They pleaded not guilty, and elected to be tried by a jury. On this charge they were all committed for trial with the exception of John, who was discharged. On the charge of breaking into the residence of John Ross, 623 Sherbourne-street, they were committed for trial. George and Ed. Pearce and Andrew Foley, alias Ennis, were charged with shooting at Constable James Lilley. They were committed for trial on this charge also.

"Round yet, boys; round yet; life in de ole man yet," said Old Man Tinsley yesterday morning as he walked down Yonge-street to King, his morning ramble. John Tinsley is a hearty, hale old man, and is 105 years old to-day. He was born at Richmond, Va., July 4, 1884, has been a resident of this city for over 40 years, and it is reported has accumulated considerable property by hard work and strict economy.

High solemn mass over the body of Reverend Mother Theresa, late Superioress General of the Institute of the Blessed Virgin Mary was celebrated by, Vicar-General Rooney yesterday morning at Loretto Abbey. The funeral procession was from the Abbey to Union Station, whence the body was accompanied by a number of mourners on the train which left for Niagara Falls.

The Bridegroom an Embezzler.

TROY, N.Y., July 4.—Frank A. Frings, book-keeper for Knowlson & Kelly, was married Wednesday last with great pomp to Miss Josie B. McElroy, a most estimable young lady, for years the leading soprano of the First Baptist Church choir. The ceremony took place at that church. Frings and his wife returned from their honeymoon trip yesterday. During his absence an expert examined Frings' books, and this morning it was discovered that he was a defaulter. A warrant was procured for his arrest, but he could not be found. His young wife is nearly broken-hearted by the revelation. The firm say they do not know what the amount of the defalcation is, but it will reach the thousands probably. Frings speculated in stocks and spent money freely in other ways. He was a member of several social organizations and had worked for Knowlson & Kelly only two years. Officers are now in search of him.

Searching For Her Husband's Slayer.

DENVER, July 4.—A woman claiming to be Mrs. Jessie Underwood of New York called at the police station, this city, last night and told a strange story. She says that about three years ago Albert Hunt and Charles Underwood of New York, both cousins, were suitors for her hand. She married Underwood, and Hunt carried out his threat and revenged himself by killing Underwood. She says that for two years she has been hunting for the murderer, and, hearing he was in Denver, came to this city, where she has been renewing the search. She told the Chief of Police last night that she had heard that Hunt had died in California and he need not bother any more about the case. Mrs. Underwood was carrying a little baby in her arms. There is no way of verifying the woman's story here.

A Madman's Terrible Plunge.

CHICAGO, July 4.—Persons passing along State-street in front of the Palmer House yesterday afternoon were horrified at seeing a man, clad only in a sheet, climb out of a window and walk along the projecting cornice. Suddenly, with a shriek, he fell to a projection below. A ladder was procured and an attempt was made to rescue him when, shrieking, he threw himself to the pavement below, fracturing his skull and receiving other injuries which will probably cause his death. He was evidently insane, and proved to be G. W. Howe, a prominent young civil engineer of Leadville, Col. He was on his way home from Washington where he had been in attendance as a delegate to the convention of the Patriotic Sons of America.

REV. DEPUTY POSTMASTER BURNS' FINANCING.

The Clappison's Corners Suicide—The Scott Act Wiped Out in Elgin—A Cause Celebre at Cobourg.

KINGSTON, July 4.—The most serious offence for which Rev. R. T. Burns could have been convicted was not pressed. Mrs. Connors has just learned that only $475 was put to her credit of $1000, the balance having been drawn by Mr. Burns and appropriated to his own purposes.

A. P. Northey of Toronto, who had the contract for the Napanee Waterworks, informed the council that the work could not be finished by Aug. 1, and asked to transfer the contract to Messrs. Hanover, New York, and Hinds, Watertown. The council granted the request, the new firm putting up $3000 guarantee to complete the work by Nov. 1.

A warrant has been issued to the police for the arrest of William Shannon, late deputy-postmaster. He has been residing in and about Kingston.

Must Not Use Their Own Boats.

OTTAWA, July 4.—The fishery question has assumed another phase as regards the encroachment of American citizens in the territorial waters of the Dominion. For several years past wealthy American gentlemen have rented streams and small rivers from the Dominion Government in Ontario and Quebec for fishing purposes. One American club has secured the exclusive right of 240 square miles in Quebec through which a valuable salmon stream runs; another club holds a lease of 300 square miles of similar territory in that province. These gentlemen with their friends, spend several weeks each summer enjoying the sport, generally taking their own steam yachts and boats with them. It is now represented that it is in direct violation of the fishery treaty of 1818 and subsequent fishery regulations, which stipulate that no American vessel or boat can take fish within three miles of the shore or in Canadian waters.

The attention of the Government here has been called to the manner in which the fishing waters of the interior are being disposed of to United States clubs and individual millionaires.

Victims of the Johnstown Deluge.

GUELPH, July 4.—In 1887 Theresa Howes was employed as a servant by Mr. Thomas Manderson of Guelph township, and won celebrity by preferring a serious charge against a well-known resident of this city. Before the case went to trial, however, she suddenly disappeared, and nothing was heard of her for some time. About a year ago she visited these parts in company with a carpenter, whom she had married after leaving here. She called on all her old friends and after a short stay left for the United States. About three months ago she wrote a letter to some friends in Guelph township, stating that she and her husband were going to Johnstown. No tidings can now be obtained of the pair, and it is thought they perished in the great flood.

Notes from the Capital.

The newly elected officers were installed by Dr. John S. King, P.G.C., and the session was concluded.

The Clappison's Corners Mystery.

HAMILTON, July 3.—This afternoon the body of the unknown man who suicided at Clappison's Corners was taken to the undertaker's place at Waterdown and will be kept there until the end of the week. The face will be photographed. A man giving the name of R. S. Porter of Milton arrived at Clappison's Corners this afternoon and said he was a relative of W. J. Coster of Buffalo. After viewing the body he said the deceased was not Coster. The Spectator has a picture of Cooney and says the suicide does not resemble the Cronin suspect.

Commerce v the C.P.R.

COBOURG, July 3.—Evidence in the celebrated case of Commerce v the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company closed this morning. Hon. Edward Blake, Q.C., commenced an eloquent and elaborate argument for the defendants at 1.30 this afternoon and had not finished when the court rose at 6 o'clock. It is said he will speak for two days longer. Dalton McCarthy, Q.C., and Donald Macmaster, Q.C., will reply for the plaintiff.

He Died to Death.

CHICAGO, July 4.—Thomas Bean, a young roofer, and William Hutchinson, quarreled about Minnie Ray, a friend of the former. Yesterday morning at 12.30 they met at Green and Randolph-streets and the quarrel was renewed. A fight followed in which several of Hutchinson's friends took part, and Bean was stabbed in the left sholder. He bled to death from a severed artery before a physician could be summoned. Hutchinson was arrested several hours later.

WHY UNCLE SAM WANTS CANADA.

Ben Butler Tells How Much Bigger and Better than the States We Are.

WATERVILLE, Me., July 3.—The feature of the day at the closing exercises of Colby University yesterday was an oration delivered by Benjamin F. Butler on the possibility, probability and advantages of the annexation of Canada. In the course of his address the veteran orator said:

The British possessions in North America which the Dominion of Canada holds within its boundaries have an area of 3,470,392 square miles, while the United States—not including Alaska, of which the limits are unknown—has an area of 3,970,000 square miles, or rising 500,000 square miles less than Canada. Canada and her surrounding waters contain quite one half of all the fresh water on the globe. Please bear this great fact in mind, for I repeat it is a foundation of the resources to make one of the greatest nations on earth.

Canada had quite one-quarter more land fitted for wheat cultivation than has the whole United States. The average production of wheat per acre in the United States in the year 1887 was a little over 13 bushels, while in the same year in Manitoba, where we hardly realize there is aught to support life, the yield was 12,500,000 bushels, at an average of 27 bushels to the acre.

You may ask and I will turn aside from the thread of my discussion, "Why should the lands be better wheat-producing lands than those of the United States?" Because its climate is colder in the winter and hotter in the summer. I will add that Canada has more timber of every possible description than herself and the United States can need in 100 years. She has more iron and coal in her borders than any other country yet known in the world. She has more copper than any other country, if not all others. The northern shores of Lake Superior are more capable of the production of that metal than the southern.

The climatic advantages of Canada are that it is cold enough to compel everybody to work if he would live, and the land is fertile enough to give every man abundant returns for his labor. Hence results the wealth of the nation and the enterprise of its people.

Mr. Butler's scheme for Annexation was so forth as follows:

Negotiations should be approached with a view of uniting the two adjacent English-speaking peoples lying side by side in America, in the same commercial and business conditions between each other, with or without a zollverein as may be determined, leaving Great Britain, whose institutions depend upon the same constitutional provisions, and whose laws of free dom give equal protection to their several peoples, later on, when her interest or safety demands, to come into like compact with the United States and Canada, a league against the world if any part of the world should see fit to take a stand, which none would or could successfully do.

ACCIDENTS AT GUELPH.

The Bursting of a Pulley Causes Serious Injuries—A Buzz Saw's Work.

GUELPH, July 3.—Wm. O'Connor, an employe in Robert Stewart's, while removing a piece of board from a circular saw to-day lost the index finger of his right hand.

This forenoon at Burr Bros.' cabinet factory, one of the pulleys burst and the fragments were hurled through the building, a piece striking Herbert Snider in the body, cutting him from the breast to the lower part of the abdomen and tearing open his forehead. His recovery is doubtful. Wm. Poole was also badly injured, and other employes had narrow escapes.

Harvey the murderer, remains about as usual. For the past few days he has appeared a little more cheerful. The old guards have been dismissed and new ones appointed to look after him.

MUST BURKE CROSS THE LINE?

Proceedings in the Extradition Case—More Evidence Needed.

WINNIPEG, July 3.—The Burke extradition case was resumed to-day, when the evidence of two Chicago reporters was given. No new facts were elicited. The case was adjourned until Friday. Counsel for the prosecution intimated that the case would be closed then and that some of his witnesses would be from Chicago.

The Carleons to Go to Winnipeg.

CHICAGO, July 3.—A despatch was received by State's Attorney Longenecker to-day from Assistant State's Attorney Baker, who is in Winnipeg, stating that to secure Burke's extradition stronger evidence will have to be presented before the Manitoba court connecting him with the Carleon cottage. Judge Longenecker conferred with Luther Laflin Mills over the unexpected obstruction, and it is understood that both the Carleons will be sent to Winnipeg at once.

The Extradition Demand.

OTTAWA, July 3.—The Department of Justice to-day received a demand from President Harrison for the extradition of Burke, now held at Winnipeg for alleged complicity in the Cronin murder. The papers will not be considered until the prisoner is committed by Judge Bain.

WOODSTOCK NEWS.

East Zorra Flooded and Much Damage Done—An Orderly Town.

WOODSTOCK, July 4.—The residents of East Zorra, about five miles north of Woodstock, were visited Tuesday afternoon by the greatest flood ever seen there within the memory of the oldest resident. The Mud Branch Creek, which runs through that part of the county, is ordinarily an insignificant stream, but it became swollen to enormous proportions by the heavy rainfalls, and as it tore through the country it carried with it bridges, culverts and fences. The number of bridges destroyed in a short distance was no less than seven, while almost every culvert on the route suffered. The bridge on the Port Dover Railway near Strathallan was carried away, and traffic on that road prevented for a time. Even adjoining fields suffered considerably. The earth was washed away in large quantities, and many a field was left in an upturn condition. There are no lives reported lost.

The barrooms of the Woodstock hotels were closed tight on Saturday night and Sunday for the first time in three years, and the police report that the town was not so orderly in many a day. The action of the hotelkeepers was voluntary, as licenses have not yet been granted.

SALE OF AN INCHOATE METROPOLIS

The Manchester Ship Canal Company Buy Nearly All Port Royal.

CHARLESTON, S.C., July 4.—The extensive Appleton property in Port Royal has been sold to the Manchester Ship Canal Company of England. Mr. Appleton has gone to England to conclude the terms of sale. The price to be paid has not been made known. The Appleton property consists of nearly the whole town of Port Royal. Mr. Appleton endeavored, just after the war, to build a metropolis near the finest harbor on the Southern coast. An enormous wharf and a grain elevator were built in the hope of handling grain from the West en route to Europe, but the sale of the Port Royal and Augusta Railroad to the Georgia Central cut off the prospective means of getting the Western grain to Port Royal and Appleton's plan languished. Of late years several attempts have been made to utilize the magnificent shipping facilities at this place, but some trouble always caused the project to fall through.

What the Manchester Canal Company proposes to do with its purchase is not exactly understood. It is thought, however, that it proposes to push further in and develop the country, deal in phosphates and lumber and run ships to Port Royal from England.

South Essex Conservative Convention.

KINGSVILLE, July 3.—At the Liberal-Conservative convention to-day Charles T. Fox, reeve of Gosfield South, was unanimously chosen the standard bearer of the party to contest the South Riding of Essex for the Local House.

Flour Statistics.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 4. The Northwestern Miller says: Last week the aggregate flour output was 115,000 barrels against 109,900 barrels the previous week and 152,500 barrels for the corresponding week of last year. There will be a quite general shut down for the 4th cutting a big slice out of the week's work. The wheat being ground at present, 475,000 to 500,000 bushels per week, is mostly coming from local elevators. Prices of flour have been advanced several times during the week to keep somewhere within the range of wheat, and while irregular, are 25 to 50 cents higher than a week ago. Jobbers hold light stocks of flour and are buying fairly well for prompt shipment but the movement is checked a good deal by the frequent raising of quotations. The available wheat is pretty much in the hands of a few strong holders and millers as a rule feel firm as to values of flour. The direct exports of flour last week were 31,470 barrels against 35,900 for the preceding week.

Burial of Maria Mitchell.

WAR AND RUMORS OF WAR

THE VATICAN ADVISED THAT A CONFLICT IS IMMINENT.

The Dervishes Defeated With Heavy Loss at Arquin—Prospects of a Central American Struggle—Conflicting Claims.

ROME, July 3.—It is rumored here that the Pope at the recent consistory informed the Cardinals that the Papal Nuncio at Vienna had advised the Vatican that war is imminent.

The Pope particularly resents Crispi's assertion that he is an enemy to Italy, and that he is endeavoring to excite foreign powers against her for the sake of recovering the temporal power of the holy see from the grasp of Italy by means of the agency of other nations.

A Bloody Battle at Arquin.

CAIRO, July 3.—An engagement has taken place at Arquin between a force of Egyptian troops under command of Col. Wodehouse and a body of dervishes. The dervishes were defeated and fled. Their loss was 500 killed or wounded. Seventy Egyptians were killed or wounded. Two English officers were also wounded.

The dervishes attempted to effect a lodgment on the river bank. Col. Wodehouse immediately advanced and attacked them with a field force. The dervishes made a stubborn resistance, but were finally forced to retire, fighting as they went. They were driven northward seven miles, but every foot of the ground was hotly contested. Two guns belonging to the enemy were captured by the British. It is expected further fighting will occur shortly.

Col. Wodehouse's troops continued the pursuit of the dervishes and captured 500 more.

Conflicting Claims in Upper Guinea.

PARIS, July 3.—The English have removed the French flag from the house of Sultan Bountoukou at Grand Bassam, Upper Guinea. France claims a protectorate over the Sultan's territory. Negotiations concerning the matter are proceeding between England and France.

Britain's New Warships.

LONDON, July 3.—It is rumored that a Tyne shipbuilding firm has obtained an order from the British Government for three warships. The vessels are said to be of the smaller class of those to be built.

AN AMERICAN BROIL.

Costa Rica and Nicaragua Likely to Build Over the Canal.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—News has been received of a probable war between Costa Rica and Nicaragua over the canal. The Nicaragua correspondent of The Panama Star and Herald says the war party has control of the Costa Rica Government, and urges the immediate invasion of Nicaragua unless heavy indemnity is paid for carrying the canal on the San Juan River for 60 miles along the Costa Rican boundary. This land, claimed by Costa Rica, has once been decided by treaty to belong to Nicaragua, but this treaty will be violated. Mr. Mascocal obtained from Costa Rica only a few months ago a concession to carry the canal along the river, but the new party gained power and repudiated the agreement. Costa Rica has a much larger army than Nicaragua, and their troops have recently been equipped with the best guns from Europe. The city of Managua is greatly excited, as troops have been massed on the Costa Rican frontier, and an immediate advance is feared.

Spain Grants the Pope an Asylum.

MADRID, July 3.—The Imparcial states that the Government received a telegram from the Vatican enquiring whether the Pope would be allowed a refuge in Spain in case he was obliged to leave Rome. Premier Sagasta, after consultation with the Queen and ministry, replied in the affirmative granting the Pope an asylum in Valencia.

Fatal Fire Damp Explosion.

PARIS, July 3.—An explosion of fire damp occurred in a coal pit at St. Etienne to-day. Three hundred miners are entombed. A number of bodies have been taken from the pit.

A later despatch says that 200 miners were killed by the explosion. Two pits were affected, by the explosion. One of them is inundated, the other is on fire. Sixteen bodies have been recovered.

The Sunday School Convention.

LONDON, July 3.—At the World's Sunday School Convention to-day the discussion on "Organized School Work" was resumed. Mr. Pool said that in India out of 50,000 children there are only 217,000 in mission Sunday schools and 100,000 in Sunday Schools. The French and Swiss delegates stated that the international lessons were not suited to France and Switzerland owing to the length of the Cycle and the difficulty of many subjects.

The "V" Horror Over Again.

LYNCHBURG, Va., July 3.—The scene of the terrible disaster near Thaxton's on the Norfolk and Western Railway is beyond description. There is hardly enough left of the train of eight cars that took the leap to the bottom of the awful pit so make one car. As soon as the boiler of the engine exploded the entire mass of debris took fire and those who were down who were not killed outright were burned to death. Portions of eight bodies have been taken out and it is believed fully fifteen others were entirely consumed by the fire. The few passengers left uninjured did all in their power to assist their less favored friends. The list of injured is a lengthy one, and many of the injured are very badly burned.

The debris at the wreck has been removed and a number of charred bodies have been found. The names of seventeen persons who were killed have been ascertained. This list of killed, which is official, is as follows: Pat Donovan, engineer; J. E. Bruce, fireman; A. M. James, road foreman of engines; M. S. Bruce, mail agent; S. W. Lapsey, train despatcher, Roanoke, Va.; Will Hopkins, express messenger. Passengers—Dennis Melton, Roanoke; W. D. Stevenson, Cleveland, Tenn

State of the Schools.

Portion of Inspector Tilley's Report on the Public Schools.

At the meeting of the School Board Tuesday evening Dr. Tilley, Inspector of Schools, presented his report, of which the following is an extract:—

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Education for the town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—I herewith respectfully submit for your consideration my second half-yearly report on the condition of your public schools for the half year ending the 30th June, 1889.

SCHOOL ACCOMMODATION.

As the board has now under contract important modifications and additions to the public school accommodation of the town, and, in addition, has submitted a by-law, which, if carried by the ratepayers, will enable the board to abandon the unsuitable basement-rooms at the Central as class-rooms, Peterborough promises soon to have as good public school accommodation as is to be found in any town in Ontario. I am pleased that the room most complained of in my last report has been abandoned as a class-room. In the interest of the health and the comfort of the little folks, I trust that the board will soon be in a position to remove the junior classes from some two or three other rooms at the Central, as they are much too dark and damp to be used as class-rooms, especially in a cloudy, wet season, as the past term has been.

FURNITURE AND EQUIPMENT.

The furniture in many of the rooms is far from being good or suitable. At present no room is furnished with single desks, and even the double desks in use were evidently placed in the rooms without due regard to the age and the needs of the pupils who were to use them. Your rooms are all large, the West Ward School excepted, and suitable for single desks. I would, therefore, strongly advise the board to use the greatest care in the selection of desks for the new rooms now being built, and would suggest that the plan of "furnishing one or more rooms each year with single desks of the best make," be considered by the board. The single desk plan of furnishing school-rooms is being adopted by the better grades of town schools throughout the province as tending to more independence in work on the part of the pupils and to greater ease in discipline and management on the part of the teachers, and hence to increased efficiency in school work generally. You need, also, a supply of new maps and globes. There should be modern maps of the World, the Dominion, and Ontario, and a good six inch globe, easily accessible to the teacher of each room where geography is taught. I would also suggest that a small cabinet be provided for each room, to contain such articles as an inch, a foot, and a yard measure; an ounce and a pound weight; a cube, a cone, etc., etc., together with such little articles as would in time be gathered together by the pupils in the various classes. With these things at hand the teaching could be made much more real, to the younger pupils at least, than it is at present.

CLASSIFICATION AND ORDER.

The classification as effected after my first report, six months ago, has, so far as I have been able to learn, given very general satisfaction. The only danger that I fear in connection with it is, that both parents and teachers may fall into the error of supposing that pupils should now pass through the various rooms in the same time as was formerly done, when there were eleven rooms below the Institute instead of six, as at present. The junior classes in some rooms at the time of my inspection were to small and weak to please me, indicating that the pupils had been passed rather freely from the junior to the senior classes during the term, thus leaving the junior classes small and creating a temptation on the part of the teachers to give too much time to the senior classes. In order that the present classification may produce the best results, it must be understood, that each teacher has two distinct grades to teach, that each grade is entitled to a fair proportion of the teacher's time while receiving instruction, and that each must do a just amount of seat work during school hours. I found the order in the various rooms, generally, very good, and perhaps the outside order at the Central better than at the time of last report. No one, in my opinion is to blame for the almost constant confusion on the grounds at the Central. It is the natural outcome of the present state of affairs—two institutions under separate management, in the same building, with but one play-ground and that one, small. I find too that the teachers are not, as a rule, in their rooms ten minutes before school opens in the morning, as they should be. Some of course are at their posts more than ten minutes before the opening of school, if all were thus prompt some of the confusion would be avoided.

GENERAL REMARKS ON THE WORK.

In a general way I may say that the work in your public schools the past half-year has been very satisfactory. At the time of my visit about the middle of the term, I was not pleased with the work in some of the rooms. The hints then given, however, have I believed been generally acted on by the teachers of these rooms, and hence at the time of my regular inspection at the end of the term, I found the work very much improved; Reading, writing and drawing are subjects that are not well taught in junior rooms of your schools, as a rule. Some of the teachers do not claim to understand the principles underlying these subjects, and hence make no attempt at giving their pupils instruction in them. Education is a progressive science and hence it is not difficult for teachers to allow themselves to fall behind the age both in the matter to be presented, and in the manner of presenting it, to their classes. These remarks are made in kindness and with no intention to hurt anyone, but all will admit that the difficulty must, in the interest of the children, be overcome. With the permission of the Board, it is proposed to hold teachers' meetings, at least two half days each term, to discuss these and other school matters in the hope that greater efficiency will be the result. Printed questions were set for promotion from one class to another from the second class up, at the end of the term. The examinations were held on the 26th, 27th and 28th days of June. A set of the questions accompanies this report. The remarks that follow on the individual rooms are the result of the conclusions arrived at by me partly from my inspection of the rooms and partly from the work of the pupils at these final examinations. After a careful review of the work of the half year I have no hesitation in saying that your teachers have worked hard, and especially so during the last three months. The limits and the styles of work expected of each teacher will be better understood next term, and I feel that there is every reason to hope that even better work will be done.

[The report concludes with lengthy remarks upon the individual rooms, which are only intended for the use of the Board and the teacher interested.]

SHE STOLE IN BOY'S ATTIRE.

Strange Story of Etta Gault, the Companion of an Itinerant Thief.

TROY, July 4.—Charles Smith, aged 45, and Clarence Smith, aged 16, were recently arrested in Schagticoke on the charge of robbing a saloon of $40. They claimed to be father and son, and the boy, a pretty, open-faced youngster, seemed to feel the arrest keenly. He was apparently a very devoted child and Smith treated him with an affection in striking variance to his usual hardened demeanor.

Both of the prisoners were committed to the Troy jail to await examination. When it was known that they must be parted the lad gave way and Smith begged to have the boy with him. The prison authorities, however, were firm, and Clarence was put in a cell with other boys. Jailer Miles became satisfied that Clarence was not a boy. He questioned the prisoner, who admitted she was a girl.

She told a strange story in which she claimed she did not know who her parents were. When nine years old she was put in an orphan asylum at Buffalo. After leaving this institution, she claims, she lived at Corey, Pa., and also in Brooklyn. She met Smith a short time ago, and he compelled her to wear male attire so she could better assist him in his thievery. Together they have visited most of the towns in the State, stealing what they could. The girl says her name is Etta Gault. She is pretty and apparently well educated. Her clothing was of the cheapest material and well worn.

WEALTHY BUT ACCUSED OF THEFT.

Though She Was Apparently Innocent the Law Took Its Course.

CHICAGO, July 4.—Mrs. James Clandine, a wealthy and respectable lady of Los Angeles, Cal., was arraigned in a police court yesterday morning charged with stealing two pairs of cheap stockings from the counter of a drygoods store in this city. It appears that she went into the store to make some purchases and laid her shawl on the counter and when she picked it up the stockings clung in the folds of it. There was no attempt to hide them.

Not the smallest case was apparent against Mrs. Claudius after the army of zealous employes had finished, and, as Mrs. Claudius was to resume her journey in the afternoon, a discharge was asked for. "The stuff, although of trivial value," said the Court, "was stolen. I must see that the law takes its course. Which do you want," he asked, "the grand jury or will you plead guilty to disorderly and take a fine?" After every plea had been denied them the lady and her husband paid a $5 fine.

No matter what may be the ills you bear from indigestion, a dose of Ayer's Cathartic Pills will ease you without question. Just try them once and be assured; they have much worse dyspeptics cured. You'll find them nice and amply worth the price.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible case of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

With Doctor's Approval

WITH doctor's approval I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, took two-thirds of it and was cured of my ailment (shingles). A friend much worse than I, with the same complaint, was also cured. I believe it to be a first class liver and blood tonic. J. HARRIS, Esq., Port Hope. 6dw26

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE

Some drink because they are hungry,
And some because they're dry,
Some drink to keep them in good health,
And some that they may thrive.

Some drink because they are too hot,
And some because they're too cold,
Some drink to strengthen them when young,
And some when they are old.

Some drink to keep them wide awake,
And some that they may sleep,
Some drink because they merry are,
And some because they weep.

Some drink when they do money gain,
And some because of loss;
Some drink when they are pleased,
And some when they are cross.

Some drink when they are hard at work,
And some when they do play;
Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all must own the proverb true:
"When iron's hot to strike it"—
I've just found out the reason why—
All drink because they like it!

MUNCASTER'S

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER

A TALE OF TEARS.

Now and then, instead of bringing his flowers himself, Strathspey sent them by one of the servants of the Coombe, and in that case there was always a graceful message or a dashing note, stamped with his crest of a gray falcon, and signed, "Yours friend, Strathspey." And on one of these occasions, the rector looked up from his sermon after the door had closed upon the messenger, to see Prue standing at the window with the gravest of young faces, the flowers in one hand, the open note in the other.

"What is it, my bairn?" he asked.

She turned with a little start, not coloring, only looking a shade more thoughtful than was even usual with her.

"I was only thinking," she said.

"Of what?" he asked again.

A tinge of color rose into her cheeks then.

"I hardly know, papa," she said softly.

Perhaps it was the only time she had concealed anything from him in all her life; nay, I am sure it was, but it was not so easy, in her girlish ignorance and uncertainty, to tell him that she was dreaming over the note she held in her hand.

"Coombe-Ashley is boring me again, Miss Prue," her hero said, "So I send you a bouquet, as a herald of my intention to throw myself on your mercy for the hundredth time. I wonder if you care enough for me to wear a cluster of these white fuchsias in your hair to-night.

STRATHSPEY."

She put the flowers into her prettiest vase, with the tender silence upon her. It was too much for her, poor child, this careless "I wonder if you care for me enough," over which—if she had only known the truth—the writer had smiled at his indolent fancy of how the little thing would droop her shining eyes over it, and flush in her lovable, half-frightened way.

She dreamed of it all through the day, and when night came, she went up to her room to dress, and when she had finished, looked at herself in the glass as she had never looked at herself before. The new dress had come in its good time; but it was not a very grand one, though really the brightest she had ever worn, being a gay little tartan plaid, almost coquettish in its brilliancy of color. It was wonderfully becoming too—the very contrast necessary to her brown eyes and snowy skin; and the knot of scarlet ribbon in her hair was almost artistic. It was not much of a toilet, after all; but when after fastening the drooping white fuchsias in the ribbon, she stepped back from the mirror to look at herself, I think it quite probable that there was not a woman in the land who might not have envied the young, sweet, dark-eyed face of the rector's fresh daughter.

When Strathspey came, the parlor was bright with fire and lamp-light, and in the rector's chair the slender young figure waited patiently. Such a face as it was which turned towards him—softly bright—expectant; everything yet still sobered, as it always was, with that touch of innocent gravity and reserve which always seemed like an unconscious shadow of her father's deeper restraint.

"Papa was obliged to go out," she began, with a faint little effort at self-possession.

"He was very sorry, and he told me to apologize to you." And there she stopped, for the handsome eyes were smiling her down with their glow of tender pleasure.

Inwardly, Strathspey was rejoicing in the absence which Prue had thought required an apology. The bright room and the soft voice, would be more enjoyable without the grave face looking on. He took his seat near her, with a certain sense of novel enjoyment of his position.—He wanted to talk to her, to please her, and make her show her pleasure in her simple way; he wanted to see the big, dark brown eyes fill with that fluttered, tender timorousness, and he addressed himself well to his work. It was so easy to please her, poor little thing, and it was so easy to make himself a hero and a demi-god in her ignorant eyes; and, besides, her grave, believing ignorance was sufficiently refreshing to him to throw a novel grace into his manner of describing old scenes, which, but for this sense of their being so new to her, would have been worn out and threadbare.

He did not speak of the flowers at first; but it was not very long, before rising from his seat to get a book from a side-table, he stopped near her chair, and touched the white cluster with his hand.

"Did you wear them because I asked you to do so?" he said.

She did not blush as he had expected she would; nay, her face was almost pale, he fancied, and she did not look up at him even—only answered lowly and softly like a child.

"Yes, my lord."

He went back to his seat smiling. Had Lady Strathspey been right, in saying that he must not talk nonsense to her. What would her ladyship say if she heard his pretty speeches? For a moment he was not quite comfortable, through a vague feeling, perhaps this innocent amusement of his was not so innocent after all. Still, there are few men who would have found it easy to resist the temptation, and Strathspey was not one of them. The faint impression was as soon dead as born, and, the next moment, he was smiling at her blushes again; and making fresh speeches, more gallant and careless than he had ever uttered before.

He paused at the door, as he bade her good-night; and, as she waited in her shy, silent way for him to relieve the fingers he held, her up-raised speechful eyes tempted him once more. Such a soft, slender little hand as it was to hold—such a soft, slender, fair little hand!

"Is there a spell upon the room, that I never want to leave it," he said, half-jestingly, half-tenderly, "or is it that you always make me so happy?" And then with his good-night, he raised the fair, little hand to his lips, and kissed it.

CHAPTER V.

A grave face old Marjory's, at the best of times—always a grave face; but the time came when its gravity was deeper than ever, and when even its many lines and furrows were deeper too. Women are quicker than men in the instinct of seeing danger ahead, particularly when the danger to one of themselves; and, in the case of her young nurseling, Marjory had been quicker to see the dangerous truth than her master had, dear as his one ewe lamb was to him in his lonely, laboring life. As the weeks followed one another, and the winter grew older, Prue's fate had been weaving itself out. The unceremonious evening visits, the chance meetings, the graceful idle speeches, could not be without a result, and their result was just a natural one. What had been easy at first, became easier as time passed on; for she had learned to love this man, through her very belief in him. The hours were scarcely long enough to dream her innocent day-dreams in, the undefined yet intense happiness filled her from morning till night; the old, quiet life returned to her mind as something lost for ever, something over which a great change had come, something to which she could never go back. With Strathspey it had been nothing more than drifting on, day by day. It had been a pleasanter winter than he had expected, or his rector's daughter had made it so. Circumstances had thrown him in her way, and circumstances had given her a charm for him, and he was a man whom circumstances governed completely; so it was that the spirit of the hour ruled him, and no day passed without some new move being made in the old, graceful, indolent, careless game.

But, whoever else was blind, Marjory was not. She had seen this old graceful game played before, and its ending had been one which filled her honest old Puritan heart with horror—not that she ever dreamed of such an ending to her nursling's story; but "The bairn is but a bairn after a'," she said to herself sadly, "and I canna stan' by and see her wranged."

It would have been a hard matter to speak to the "bairn" herself; nay, how could she? The sweet, serious face was so tenderly bright, in these days; the brown eyes were so full of a new belief and happiness. It seemed as though a new life had come to her. How could she cloud it with such a warning?

"I canna do it," the faithful old creature said to herself, after many sad hours of pondering. "I canna do it myself, an' I mann e'en speak to the rector."

The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This is especially true of a purge. The average man or woman does not precisely hanker for it, as a rule, but when taken, wishes it to be prompt, sure and effective. The Wheel.

The Peterborough wheelmen returned last night from the annual meet of the C. W. A. at St. Catherines. They report having had an enjoyable trip, though the sport was interfered with by the rain. The Peterborough contingent comprised A. Gibson, capt., Lieuts. Might and Matthews, Secretary Dolan, and Messrs. Meredith, McKim, McGill, Stratton and Kingan. Next year's meet will be held at Ottawa, and the Peterborough boys have strong hopes of bringing the Canadian wheelmen here in 1891.

The Sunday School's Outing.

The annual outing of the George street Methodist Sunday school took place yesterday per steamer "Golden Eye" and scow to Campbelltown. The boats were crowded with happy youngsters and a few elders. The trip both ways was pleasant, and a stay of about five hours was made at Campbelltown. A general table was spread, and after dinner the remainder of the time was spent in boating and playing about. A series of races was held and substantial prizes offered the winners, as follows:—

Boys under eight—1st Harold Carlisle, 2nd Fred Whitfield.

Girls under eight—1st Maggie Faux, 2nd Mabel Bradburn, 3rd Lottie Hudson.

Boys under twelve—1st Harry Pearson, 2nd Lorne McWilliams.

Girls under twelve—1st Lottie Deacon, 2nd Bessie Weatherhead, 3rd Clara Bellegham.

Boys under sixteen—1st A. Harvey, 2nd H. Walsh.

Girls under sixteen—1st Laura Bellegham.

About half past four the boat left for home, arriving at Peterborough at eight o'clock. Much of the credit for the success of the picnic is due to Messrs H. S. Griffin, W. H. Dingle, A. E. Scott and W. A. Mason, who undertook most of the labor in connection with it.

Summer Cooking.

The Thermometer Discounted — R. M. Wanzer & Co. Solve the Problem of Banishing Heat from the House — Thorough Cookery — No Discomfort from Heat.

The dining room of the Oriental Hotel last night presented a new attraction, the occasion being an exhibition of the capabilities of Messrs. R. M. Wanzer & Co.'s Summer Cooker. At five o'clock a dinner, consisting of a 9 lb. roast of beef, potatoes and fish, was placed in the cooker, and a lighted Wanzer lamp placed under it, and the lamp and cooker were left absolutely to themselves till 7.30, when the dinner was removed from the cooker, done to a teen, the beef nice and juicy; the fish, a lake trout, in perfect condition, deliciously juicy, and the vegetables also well cooked. Along with the fish were cooked some apples, and the latter had not the slightest taste or odour of the fish, and along with the potatoes were cooked onions, which did not impart a particle of odour to the other vegetable. A large number of ladies and gentlemen was present, and all were surprised and delighted at the result. All the food was done ready to serve at the same moment, and the taste of it was delicious. During the whole 24 hours of cooking not a hint of the smell of fish, onions or other food the cooker contained, escaped, nor was there the faintest smell of coal oil, the Wanzer lamp securing perfect combustion, as was shown from there being no deposit of carbon on the bottom of the vessel exposed to the flame for two or three hours. Everybody who witnessed the exhibition was favorably impressed with the undoubted merits of the cooker—its compactness, its convenience, its freedom from external heat, its suppression of all cooking smells, its perfect cookery and its cheapness, only a quarter of a pint of 20 cent coal oil, having been used to cook a dinner for a dozen. For summer cooking it cannot be surpassed—it has more than all the advantages, and none of the disadvantages, of other summer cooking apparatus. A housekeeper who has one of the Wanzer Cookers, can put her dinner in at half-past nine, start the lamp and then leave it perfectly alone, and go shopping, go gossiping, practice the music which the cook stove has kept her from so much, or, if so inclined, go to bed. At noon she will find her dinner done to a turn; while she is putting it on the table she has put the lamp under the coffee pot and a delicious cup of coffee, made in one of Wanzer's improved coffee pots, is ready when the dinner is ready to serve. Or the dinner can be put on at 9.30 Sunday morning, and the whole family can go to church, lock up the house, and return at 12 and find dinner ready without any heat or smell in the house. The Wanzer Cooker is equal to all the uses of an ordinary range, and has many other uses besides. It will broil a pound steak in five minutes, bake bread, cake and pie, steam puddings, heat sad irons, make tea, heat shaving water, or do anything that a stove or range can do. Yesterday at the Oriental a 14 lb. ham was steamed, and on removal was weighed and found to weigh within half a pound of its weight when put in—all the juices, flavour and nutriment being retained. This applies to all food cooked by this apparatus. The WANZER Cooker is simple, compact, takes little room, and, for summer cooking, is economical, comfortable and invaluable, a boon to the poor and a luxury to the rich. They have been on the Canadian market only four months, but in that time hundreds have been sold. They were sold largely in England last year and gave the greatest satisfaction. They are worthy the attention of every housekeeper. The price for a Cooker, lamp and complete outfit is, for family size, only $12. Before Mr. R. L. Wanzer, of the firm, leaves town he will have arranged to place them for sale with some local dealer or dealers.

Peterborough's Market Building.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—With your kind permission will you allow a ratepayer to express his views on the contemplated market building. I shall not shield myself under an assumed name, such as Mrs. Jones or even ratepayer, which I deem cowardly, as every ratepayer has a right to his opinions although differing with others, even at a risk of provoking displeasure. To my mind there is nothing deserving of more consideration than the erection of public buildings and more so of a building as contemplated by our council, that the same should be such as to meet the comforts of both the population of Peterborough and those who bring their produce for sale to that market, and that a consideration of dollars and cents cannot be the essential part, must be apparent to anyone. The importance of the work should have demanded a calling of a public meeting by the council to have the matter discussed, not on the ground of having or not having a market house but how it would be most advisable to build one, as even the most stingy of ratepayers must admit that Peterborough has been in want of such accomodation for many years. The ratepayers of the town are told repeatedly of the importance of Peterborough with its natural advantages to become a centre of prominence. Such a view I took when in 1861 I entered as a stranger, and seeing the fine school building and court house I decided to make my home here. With this in view, in my private building, I have tried to conform to my expectations of Peterborough's bright future, but the council's views must have been gloomy indeed when they purchased and fitted up their present chambers, which are less suitable than their former ones. I repeat my charge which I made at the Board of Trade meeting, that a great deal of bungling has been going on in our council, and such now seems to be the case. Had the building of a market house been brought up at the time of the purchase of the present town buildings, with the intention of using ground floor for a market, second for town offices and a third floor for public meetings or band purposes, I believe the ratepayers would have voted $30,000 for such a purpose. I have had occasion to be at Board of Trade meetings in council chamber and remarks were made at the smell coming up from the stable; and in receiving strangers in such a council chamber what an impression must they get of Peterborough. Now is the councillors' chance to rectify this blunder, as sooner or later the people will be asked for another grant to supply the wants of new chambers. In conclusion, my views are decidedly against the building of a market on the second floor, and I hope if the ratepayers will consider the matter more fully to what an inconvenience people in general and ladies in particular are subjected to in climbing up and down stairs for all time to come, then the plea of dollars and cents needs no second thought. Although I am a large ratepayer and personally practise economy, yet in this matter I consider the council's economy penny wise and pound foolish.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space, etc., I remain,

Yours, etc.,
W. LECH.

Baptist Church Affairs.

Notes From the Minutes of the Late Annual Meeting of the Peterborough Association

The following items of both local and general interest are taken from the minutes of the proceedings at the recent meeting of the Peterborough Association of Baptist churches, Belleville,

In connection with the Peterborough Association of the Baptist church it may be stated that it was decided to hold the next annual meeting of the Association in June in Norwood.

Rev. P. Clifton Parker was chosen clerk for the current year and also chairman of the Home Mission Board

All the churches this year, except three, reported baptisms.

Last year the numerical standing of communicants was 1,130, this year 1,318, being a net increase of 188. Of this number the churches included in the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Peer, Norwood, reported a net increase of 66. Rev. P. C. Parker's church, Murray street, town, came next with a net increase of 50.

The net increase over last year of Sunday schoolscholars in the Peterborough church was 95.

For Foreign Mission purposes, Port Hope church (Rev. D. Reddick) subscribed the largest sum, $216; and the Peterborough church had the largest collections for Home Missions $196.

The churches voted unanimously by a standing vote, for a resolution condemning exemption from taxation for church property of all descriptions. This represents the sentiments of 1400 communicants exclusive of ministers.

A resolution, in favor of prohibition and one in favor of the disallowance of the Jesuit Estates Act of the Quebec Legislature, was adopted.

Special Inducements.

The managers of the Peterborough Business College expect to open out in their new rooms on Water street the first of July, and in order to increase their attendance, offer special reduced rates to students for the next month. They have every appliance for giving a first class business training—their new premises being large and commodious and well ventilated, and every convenience to insure the greatest amount of comfort to their students. Their rooms will be open every day after July 1st, and they extend a cordial invitation to the public generally to visit them and see their splendid premises. Those who do so will be amply repaid.

Parents will do well to take advantage of their special offer and send their boys and girls where, in a very short time, they will be given such a course as will fit them to fill lucrative positions. Their students, during the past six months, have been remarkably successful, many of their graduates obtaining positions as soon as graduated. They are constantly receiving applications from both business and professional men for bookkeepers and stenographers. The principals, Messrs. Bean & Rooney, will be pleased to give, personally or by mail, to all who desire, full information in regard to any point in the course of the College. dw

AN ELECTRIC STORM.

Great Damage Done by Lightning at Hamilton Yesterday.

HAMILTON, July 1.—There was more damage done by the lightning during this morning's brief storm than has resulted from this cause in Hamilton for years. The fluid seems to have struck in several places along the lines of telephone, telegraph and fire alarm. The lighting struck the end of the frame stable belonging to Messrs. J. W. Murton & Co., at the foot of John-street. A portion of the building was torn away and the fluid played havoc with the horses, one of them, the finest animal in the place, was instantly killed. The inmates of the House of Refuge, close by, got a terrible fright.

Mr. Winnifrith of King-street east, while standing at his bedroom window, facing the west, a few minutes after 7, witnessed something very peculiar. Two round balls of fire about the size of walnuts, one from the north and the other from the south, passed rapidly through the air and met in the vicinity of Wellington-street. As they came in contact the report was very loud. Each ball appeared to flatten out and instantly disappear from view.

At the reservoir the storm was felt severely. The lightning struck the new residence of Mr. Calder, manager of the reservoir, and did considerable damage. The deluge of rain was in torrents along several of the streets. Wanzer's factory, in Barton-street, was flooded, doing considerable damage. On Tisdale-street the thoroughfare was covered with the water, and the cellars were inundated. On King street east the street railway track was also flooded. At Patterson Brothers' planing mills, Lower Cathcart-street, the loss will be over $1000.

The Northern Pacific's New Purchase.

NEW YORK, July 1.—It was learned yesterday that the Northern Pacific Company has purchased the Great Northwest Central Railroad, running from Winnipeg to Edmonton, N.W.T. The transfer is to be made July 16. The Northern Pacific will be extended to the Pacific coast, which it will strike at Skeena Bay.

T. E. Oakes, president of the Northern Pacific, was asked whether there was any truth in the report that this road had signified its intention of withdrawing from its Canadian relations or had sold out its interest in the Dominion. He replied:

"Absolutely none. Our contract with the Manitoba Government precludes our doing anything of the sort. Even if we desired to withdraw we could not do so. We are building new lines very rapidly all through Manitoba, and regard that as one of the most valuable parts of our whole sytem."

A WAIF'S GOOD FORTUNE.

From Dishwashing in a Hotel to a Comfortable Fortune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 4.—The Supreme Court yesterday affirmed the decision of the lower court giving the whole estate of $125,000 to Richard P. Jessup, natural son of Gershom F. Jessup, a well-known San Francisco bachelor. Jessup died three years ago, leaving a will bequeathing the property to his brothers and sisters. Its probate was opposed by a lawyer, who astonished all Jessup's friends, bringing proof that Jessup left a natural son by a young girl whom he had betrayed 25 ago while she was a student in a seminary across the bay. The girl afterwards married, but the boy was raised apart from his mother.

He never knew his father's name until on her deathbed, six years ago, his mother told him. He tried then to have his father acknowledge him, but failed, although the father for a time supplied him with money. His father had also provided for him until he learned the trade of a blacksmith. When Jessup died the young man was dishwasher in a private hotel here, and his story reached the lawyer's ears, with the result that after a three years' fight he has won a fortune.

A PENNY SAVED.
Ben Franklin's favorite axiom that
"A pin a day is a great a year,
A penny saved is two pence clear,"
should impress us not alone with the value of saving small things, but the great advantage of saving where dollars take the place of cents. On this score the bargains that we have prepared in our CROCKERY and GLASSWARE department, to last during midsummer, should appeal to the ladies of Peterborough and vicinity with particular emphasis. Each permits of the saving of several dollars over the prices usually charged or asked by other dealers. Look in and investigate for yourself.

TURNBULL'S

The first month of summer is an interesting period to the retail buyer. Keep your eye on this column, its newsy. Each week things will appear that ere the month passes will likely make you richer for the reading.

There is scarcely a weak spot in our Trimmed Millinery yet. The latest hat kind are turning up their pretty faces every day, and all the time floods of freshness and brightness keep pouring in new goods constantly.

This job line of untrimmed hats we spoke of last week is what pleases everybody - variety and prices right.

This week we have placed on our Dress Goods counter a dozen pieces of fancy dress cloths, 15c. a yard. The only reason we can conceive that these goods have not sold earlier at higher prices, is that they were too new. They ought to and no doubt will go out very fast now. Attention is called to them. Shantung pongee, the dustless kind. You know how the heathen Chinee crams dust into common run of pongees. He does not do it to the Shantung—pure silk and clean. These goods make up beautiful with our fine henriettas.

In the Tweed department we have a fine line of Halifax tweeds that handle soft and fleecy just as they ought to handle. Sale price, 35c.

We expect to-morrow's train to bring us in a large shipment of Corsets We keep what our judgment says is the best make in the trade. We see representatives from all the factories. Our 50c. corsets are the best we believe ever shown in Peterborough for years.

We have been able to repeat that line of ladies' black hose, heavy weight, at 15c. pair, Those who have had these goods will be glad to hear they can get them again now.

Pink is the favorite color in Chambrays this season. Again a fresh lot just arrived.

We keep suits for boys and small boys, either with or without linings at all prices. See them before buying

FINE STATIONERY

Are you aware of the many important makes of writing paper that abide with us, and occupy a leading superiority over all other makes. We enumerate some of our Special Lines:—

The Original Milton Mills.
This celebrated writing paper now so much in demand, is made from the purest fibre, is firm of texture and is reduced to a moderate price.

The Brown Holland—Calico Grey—Canvas Cream
A triumph of writing paper—the success of the year. They have made a conquest wherever shown, and their ascendency in popularity has been marked and rapid.

Antique Parchment.
The high merit of this production being so well known that further exultation would be superfluous.

The Favorite Grey.
That has been so long in high favor.

Piries' Real Vellum.
Renowned throughout the land for its high repute for office and social correspondence.

The Crown Parchment and Ivory Vellum.
Distinguished for its dead velvety finish, and a society paper which we are very vain of, and which has enshrined itself in the estimation of all lovers of beautiful papers, and is winning golden opinion every day.

The Bath—The St. Andrew—The Garter.
Excellent Medium Quality Paper, that will challenge comparison with very much higher priced papers, and always give satisfaction.

We are bold enough to assert that no practice so forcibly proves the existence of sound art tastes, of real gentility of mind, and of the fitness for high social positions, than the use of Fine Stationery. There never was a time when the best of Stationery could be so daintily offered as the present, when there are so many charming boxes to hold the materials—such pretty conceits in the mode of presentation, novel in design.

We have Envelopes to match all our Papers. We show the Newest and the Most Correct Styles. Later on we will tell you about other New Lines.

We will be pleased to send Samples of our Papers.

AN AWFUL WASTE OF BEER

FIFTY-TWO THOUSAND BARRELS DESTROYED.

A Big Brewery in Milwaukee's Western Suburb Burnt. Loss a Million Dollars. About One-Third Insured.

MILWAUKEE, July 4.—The big brewery of Falk, Jung & Borchert in Wauwatosa just beyond the city limits was burned to-day. Loss is $1,000,000, insurance $350,000. The brewery was closed to give the employes a holiday and only a few men were in the buildings. The fire spread so rapidly that they barely escaped. It is supposed the fire started in the malt house.

Nearly 52,000 barrels of beer were destroyed. When the big vats burst the beer ran out of five doors in stream 7 inches deep.

The Milwaukee fire department, owing to scarcity of water, could hardly do anything.

Two hundred men are thrown out of work. The firm had just completed a $100,000 addition and put in a $50,000 ice machine.

A Sawmill Burnt.

BLYTH, July 4.—This morning about 4:30 the sawmill owned by Isaac Rogerson was completely consumed by fire. The cause is unknown but supposed to be from a spark from the fireplace. The loss is between $4000 and $5000, insurance $2000.

A Sash Factory Burnt.

UTICA, N. Y., July 4.—The sash and blind factory of Charles B. Wood & Co. at Morris, Otsego County, was destroyed by fire last night. Loss $6000, with no insurance.

CABLE NEWS.

How the Shah Was Cuyed in London—The St Lifeanc Disaster.

LONDON, July 4.—Whatever could be done by British officials to make the reception of the Shah in London memorable was done, and so far as the authorities are concerned the Shah has nothing to complain of. But if his treatment by the London populace was entirely satisfactory to him, he possesses the one virtue at least of being easily pleased. The progress of the Shah to Guildhall excited among the throngs, which lined the streets along the route, no loftier emotion than risibility. There was no cheering, no words of welcome, no enthusiasm, nothing but broad grins, and she farther along His Imperial Highness proceeded the broader the grins became. Everything about the august monarch, his dress, his beard, his features and his suite was fair game for the sightseers, and every little peculiarity was seized upon for jocular comment.

So far as decorations are concerned along the line of march, there were very few indeed to be observed apart from those upon the public buildings. Upon these, it is true, no pains or expense were spared to deck them in gorgeous colors, but with the beautifying of the government and corporation buildings the attempt at display was stopped. So far as any popular sympathy with the Shah's reception goes it can be very well gauged by the loud complaints that rose from all quarters before the show began against the suspension of traffic in some of the principal streets which it would enforce. And so deep was the feeling among the business community that many of them are growling yet.

Deeply Grieved.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Persian minister, Hadji Hassein Ghooly Khan, leaves for London about July 12. There he will join the Shah. When a correspondent called at the legation last night and inquired why the minister proposed departing so suddenly, this was the reply he received: "The minister is grieved over the obnoxious articles which have recently appeared in English and American papers regarding the Shah. He is going to England to consult with His Majesty as to whether he ought not, under the circumstances, to be recalled. In London we can appeal to Lord Salisbury. Here every newspaper man is a Lord Salisbury. We beg of you not to let us leave with broken hearts." The attache said this very sorrowfully.

What Does It Mean?

LONDON, July 4.—The unprecedented gold shipments to France from New York is the enigma that puzzles the financial world, the amount from June 4 to June 21 aggregating $20,408,028, while to England the total amount in the same time was only $6,892,727. There is no trade or travel that tends to explain it. A close inquiry into all the reasons for the extraordinary flow of gold to France fails to disclose a satisfactory reason. There is, therefore, a disposition to believe that the true one is that France is fortifying itself against the possibility of an early war, and is making the United States a convenience for doing it.

The St. Etienne Disaster

PARIS, July 4.—The coal pit at St. Etienne in which the explosion of fire-damp occurred yesterday is still on fire. Many more bodies have been recovered, but the work is attended with great difficulty and danger. The scene at the pit is harrowing. President Carnot has ordered that measures be at once taken for the relief of the families of the dead miners.

Heated Deputies.

PARIS, July 4.—There was another heated discussion in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. M. Andrieux was supported by the Right in revising the charge of bribery against M. Rouvier, Minister of Finance, from which a committee of inquiry had exonerated him. M. Rouvier warmly denied any knowledge of the contract which it was sought to use as a weapon against him.

M. Thevenet, Minister of Justice, announced that the public prosecutor would institute an enquiry immediately from the double point of view of corruption and extortion. The Left applauded, and a motion expressing confidence in the Government was adopted.

Successful Artists.

LONDON, July 4.—The Art Committee of the Paris Exhibition have awarded first-class medals to Sir Frederick Leighton, Messrs. Burne-Jones, Herkomer, Hook, Orchardson Whistler, Forbes, Leader, Reed and Shannon; to the American artists Messrs. Harrison, Vail, Weeks and Hitchcock, and to the German artist Herr Leibl.

A Londoner Killed at Detroit.

DETROIT, July 4.—William Anderson, aged 50 years, a resident of London, Ont., while trying to cross the railroad track at the foot of Hastings street, about 9 o'clock last night, was struck by a freight train and knocked under the wheels. Both legs were run over. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital, where he died shortly after 10 o'clock. An inquest will take place on Saturday morning.

Drowned While Swimming.

ALBANY, July 4.—Joseph Harper, aged 22, was seized with a cramp while swimming in the river to-day a few miles below the city, and drowned.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

TOPICS FROM TORONTO.

AN OLD TRAGEDY RECALLED BY "MAY WHITE'S" DEATH.

Government Contracts Let—Sequel of the Tobacco Raids—New Ontario College o Pharmacy Council.

TORONTO, July 5.—There died at Port Huron, Mich., on Wednesday night a woman of the world who was well known to the gilded youth of Toronto a few years ago and who figured in a tragedy in 1884 that made her name notorious in every city on the continent: Mrs. Jonathan Morrison (May White) who kept a gay resort of infamy at No. 11 Nelson-street in this city for a number of years. In July, 1884, two well dressed boy-looking youths landed in Toronto and put up at the Queen's. They were George Hazeltine of Jamestown, N. Y., and E. L. Van Witzen, a wealthy, well connected youngster of Baltimore. The pair passed considerable of their time at May White's, bought champagne, at $6 per bottle, by the case and bestowed many favors on the landlady and her girls. At the end of two weeks the youths invited May White and one of her girls, Mamie Thorpe, alias Frankie Robinson, who came to Toronto from City Island, N. Y., to go to Baltimore with them and have a time. Thorpe's maiden name was Mamie Jackson, she being married to a man named Thorpe, with whom she did not live. May White's maiden name was Carrie Aurlbert, and she belonged to Utica, N.Y. When the party landed in the Monumental City they went to Paul Snow's establishment at 104 North-street, one of the fashionable resorts of Baltimore. They drank freely of wine there, and the wind-up was that Hazletine, who was almost crazy with what he had imbibed quarrelled with Mamie Thorpe about a ring he had given her and which she would not return Hazeltine drew a revolver on the girl and shot Mamie Thorpe dead. He also tried to kill May White and shot at her head. The bullet, however, struck her on the cheek and did no further damage than to pass through and leave an ugly scar. Owing to Hazeltine's wealthy connections and his influence at Baltimore he escaped with a year or so in the State prison of Maryland, and did not even serve his full term. He got off on the insanity plea. May White came back to Toronto after the tragedy and remained here until January, 1887, when she went to St. Thomas and there was married to Jonathan Morrison, the well-known centre fielder of the Torontos of 1886. This marriage, which was performed by Rev. Dr. Parkes, created a great stir in baseball circles. Morrison afterwards played with the Mets, of New York and other clubs, and he and his wife traveled around a good deal, landing up recently at Port Huron, where she was taken sick and died. Morrison belongs to London.

G. T. R. Constable Dixon was before the Police Magistrate yesterday for shooting Baggageman McLachlan, but the wounded man was too ill to appear and Dixon was remanded.

The Department of Public Works has let the contract for the erection of the additions to the School of Practical Science to Mr. Alex. J. Brown of Toronto. The estimated cost of the work is $50,000. Messrs. Kennedy & Son, Guelph, have been awarded the contract of rebuilding the farms at the Ontario Agricultural College, destroyed by fire last year. Mr. Geo. Ball, Barrie, has been awarded the contract for building a jail at Sault St. Marie and a courtroom at Gore Bay, Manitoulin Island, and another at Parry Sound.

At the Police Court yesterday William A. Elder, grocer, No. 67 Dundas-street, pleaded guilty to having in his possession eight pounds of tobacco without bearing the stamp of the Inland Revenue department. Mr. J. H. Macdonnell explained that the defendant was one of 80 dealers in tobacco who had violated the Inland Revenue Act. The department only intended to seize the tobacco as punishment, but Mr. Elder threatened the inspector, Mr. James B. Blair, saying that if he had a revolver all the police force wouldn't get the tobacco. The lowest fine, viz., $50 and costs or 30 days, was inflicted.

In the four-oared shell race for the Downing Cup the New York Athletic Club crew won in 8.01; Passaic Boat Club, Newark, 2d; Varuna Boat Club, Brooklyn, 3d.

About fifty yards from the finish the Ariels through wild steering ran into the New Yorks, knocking a hole in the former's bow. The shell rapidly filled with water and sank, the crew swimming to the judges' boat.

HALIFAX HAPPENINGS.

Lost at Sea and Fortunate Escape — Nova Scotia Medical Society.

HALIFAX, July 5.—A sailor who gave his name as Alfred Rockwell, sailing from Liverpool, arrived in town yesterday. He said he had been adrift in a dory for four days without food or water. The vessel to which he belonged, the Starlight, sent six dories out on the banks about two weeks ago when a heavy fog set in, which prevented Rockwell from finding his vessel. After drifting about for four days and nights at the mercy of the waves, he sighted the wrecking steamer Alert, which bore down to his rescue, taking him and his dory on board. When rescued the man was in a very exhausted condition, being too weak to stand up in the boat.

The dismasted brigantine, M. B. Daly, spoken off the harbor yesterday has been towed into port. She sailed from Ponce, P.R., on June 17. On Sunday, June 23, in lat. 37, long. 68, a heavy gale was encountered, during which she was hove down on her beam ends and in order to right her the spars were cut away. She lost foremast close to the deck, mainmast and bowsprit close to the knight heads, together with all sails and gear attached. After the gale moderated jury masts were rigged and the ship headed for Halifax. She is not leaking any.

The twenty-first annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Medical Society opened at the Halifax Hotel yesterday morning. There are thirty members present. Dr. D. A. Campbell, president, read an address on "Medical Legislation in Nova Scotia, Past, Present and Future," related the trials and tribulations of the profession from the time of the sieges at Louisburg and Grand Pre down to the present day, and told many anecdotes of old practitioners.

The Inland Revenue receipts at Halifax for June amounted to $20,556, a decrease compared with the same month last year of $1069. The receipts for the fiscal year were $248,212, an increase of $33,137.

BROKE UP IN DISORDER.

Father Drummond Prevented from Lecturing on the Jesuits at Plum Creek.

WINNIPEG, July 4.—Father Drummond was prevented from delivering his lecture on the Jesuits last night at Plum Creek by the interruption of the crowd which pushed past the doorkeeper and demanded the appointment of a chairman. It was explained that a chairman had already been appointed who was a Protestant and the reeve of the municipality. It was then stated that the crowd would listen to the lecture if Father Drummond kept within bounds. As the altercation progressed the ladies present took a hand in and in the disorder the lecturer disappeared. The meeting ended in confusion.

The steamer on which the American residents were celebrating to-day ran on the rocks four miles up Red River and the excursionists returned home in carriages.

A Winnipeg alderman attacked a city official, a brother alderman and a reporter yesterday while under the influence of liquor and will be reported to the council.

The Reform convention at Crystal City voted confidence in the Greenway Government.

Young Clegg, from Blyth, Ont., was perhaps fatally dragged by a horse at Calgary yesterday.

Personal Mention.

The report that John Ruskin is seriously ill is denied.

Hon. G. E. Foster, Minister of Finance, and Mrs. Addie C. Chisholm, the well-known temperance worker, were quietly married in Chicago on Monday by Rev. S. P. Benson, D. D., of the First Baptist Church. The minister and Miss Foster arrived at the Capital Wednesday evening.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS.

The Coming Sullivan-Kilrain Fight—Many Ball Games Yesterday.

CINCINNATI, O., July 4.—Jake Kilrain arrived by the Cincinnati, Washington and Baltimore train at the Central Passenger Station at 9.45 this morning. The train was more than an hour late. There was a large crowd at the depot and Kilrain's friends greeted him with a hearty cheer. There was some delay in his getting off the car, owing to the crowd which pressed about the door. Just as Kilrain put his foot outside on the platform some men placed two big cakes of ice at the top of the steps, which impeded his progress. A man on the platform remarked: "Jake, that's rather a cold reception, but you are all right." This was followed by a hearty cheer. Kilrain and his party left the depot and took carriages for the St. Nicholas Hotel, where they are quartered. They will remain until 5 o'clock this afternoon, when they will take the Queen & Crescent road for New Orleans. They will have an all-night ride to Chattanooga and reach New Orleans twelve hours behind the time fixed. When asked how he felt Kilrain said: "I am firstrate and could not be in better fix." "Do you feel that you can win?" "I am sure of it. I am all right in every way." His manner, however, was not gay. He sat quietly and had less to say than any of the party. "Will the fight certainly come off?" was asked. "Oh yes, certainly. All the arrangements have been made. Ask Charley Mitchell, he will satisfy you on that head. Our train was late, and I was afraid that we should miss connection here."

The Fight Will Come Off.

CHICAGO, July 4.—The News special from New Orleans says: The Governor of Alabama has replied to Governor Lowrey's dispatch granting him permission to pass troops through Alabama in order to head off and capture the pugilists if they attempt to fight in Mississippi. It is thought that Gov. Nichols will do likewise. The Renaud party that went out to look for a location for the fight returned last night. They had inspected a number of places that had been suggested for the fight, in view of the probable interference of the authorities and very determined action of the Governor of Mississippi. A telegram was received by Renaud upon his return, suggesting still another location and guaranteeing absolute freedom from interference. The proposition is under consideration. Though the difficulties of the managers increase with the activity of the authorities, they express the utmost confidence that the fight will come off. In order to provide against all contingencies they agreed yesterday to extend the time and the 200 miles limit if it should be necessary.

Rowing on the Schuylkill.

PHILADELPHIA, July 4.—The great event of Philadelphia's celebration of Independence Day was the Cup and the People's regatta. The races were rowed over the national course on the Schuylkill River, 1½ miles straight away. The water was high and swift and the best time on record was beaten in every one of the seven events. The first race was started in a heavy rain, which drove the spectators from the river banks.

The last and most important event was the eight-oared shell race for the Sharpless Cup, held by the University of Pennsylvania eight. Some difficulty was experienced in getting a start because of the swift current. In one of the attempts the Crescent and University of Pennsylvania shells collided a few yards from the stake boat, one of the University men broke an oar and the rudder of the latter crew's shell was snapped off. It was agreed to allow the university crew to go down the stream and borrow a shell. After an hour word was received that the crew was unable to row back against the current and requested a postponement. The remaining contestants decided to go ahead and at 8 p.m. the race was started. The Cornell University boat club won easily in 7.03, Crescent boat club of Philadelphia second in 7.17, Fairmount Boat Club of Philadelphia third in 7.21.

This afternoon's final heats resulted as follows:

Junior singles—W. E. Cody, Nonpareil Boat Club, New York, first in 8.53½.

Senior singles—E. J. Carney, Institute Boat Club, Newark, first in 8.46.

Pair oared shells—George Phillips and J. Hard of New York Athletic Club, New York, first in 46.

In the four-oared shell race for the Downing Cup the New York Athletic Club crew won in 8.01; Passaic Boat Club, Newark, 2d; Varuna Boat Club, Brooklyn, 3d.

About fifty yards from the finish the Ariels through wild steering ran into the New Yorks, knocking a hole in the former's bow. The shell rapidly filled with water and sank, the crew swimming to the judges' boat.

The St. Paul Cricketers Again Successful.

NAPANEE, July 4.—The cricket match here to-day between Napanee and the St. Paul's School, Concord, N.H., resulted in an easy victory for the latter. St Paul's School went to bat first and made 78 runs and in the second innings 98. Napanee in the first made 27 runs and in the second 15 for 4 wickets when time was called.

The Inquest Adjourned.

Coroner Johns on commenced an inquest on the body of Albert Edward Sanderson yesterday afternoon at St. Andrew's Hall. After examining several eye-witnesses, an adjournment was made until next Monday afternoon, in order to give the police time to procure other witnesses. So far the evidence has been favorable to Ed. McNaughton, the driver who ran into the lad, and he was released on bail.

A Nova Scotia Elopement.

HALIFAX, July 4.—A runaway pair from St. Margaret's Bay arrived in the city this morning in time to take the steamer Halifax for Boston. The man's name is David Johnston and he is married, while the girl's name is Sadie Boutiller, about 17 years of age. As near as can be learned the elopement was planned about a week ago. The couple had been frequently seen walking along the roads in the evenings at the bay. Johnston had been reprimanded by his wife, but all to no purpose. The elopers drove into town early this morning and registered on the passenger list under assumed names. The deserted wife is the mother of two children. Mrs. Johnston's father arrived in town just in time to see the steamer sail down the harbor.

Key Men and Equalization.

PITTSBURG, July 4.—The telegraphers are recovering from the defeat of 1883. It was stated last night by a telegrapher of reliable authority that they are organizing into what is known as the Commercial Telegraphers' Brotherhood, with an object to secure an equalization in wages. Railroad telegraphers are not admissible to membership. The telegrapher said that to-day there are $50 per month men working keys beside $100 per month men, and that the favorites of the managers are given big wages while others equally as expert are kept down. The brotherhood desires to obviate this discrepancy by bringing all capable men up to the highest standard.

Drowned While Bathing.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4.—This afternoon while bathing a lad named Samuel Stevenson, aged 16 years, was drowned. With two or three others he attempted to swim out to a boom, but he failed to reach it and the other boys could render no assistance. He was a son of James Stevenson of Hastings and was writing at the High School entrance examination here. The body has not yet been recovered.

MONTREAL NEWS.

THE REPORT ON INUNDATION PROTECTION.

The Collision of the Polynesian and Cynthia—The City's Fullest Meeting—The Romantic Outlaw Recovering.

MONTREAL, July 4.—Last night about 8.30 o'clock a crowd of roughs went to the Salvation Army Barracks, when their leader gave the door a heavy kick, and throwing the doorkeeper aside sprang into the hall. These present being at prayer the noise alarmed the whole meeting, and a stampede occurred. The intruder was thrown on the sidewalk, when a general free fight was indulged in, the Army men coming off best.

Mr. Alphonse Desjardines, M.P., succeeds Mr. Chaplean as President of the Northern Colonization Railway. The other directors are Mayor Grenier, Ald. Rolland, Thos. Brennan and Hon. Wilfrid Prefont. It is hoped that measures will be taken to build the road to the north of St. Jerome, as it is badly wanted by settlers in the parish of St. Agathe, north of St. Jerome. No less than 73 families left for Manitoba since last autumn.

A gentleman lately arrived from Donald Morrison's former home states that the outlaw is so far recovered as to be able to go around.

At the regular monthly meeting of the City Council next Monday, the first order is the report of the Special Committee on Inundation for a $1,000,000 loan to provide for the carrying out of the work. The total cost is about $3,200,000, of which the city's share would be $700,000. The reports recommend a loan of $1,000,000 for that purpose. Should the Council concur, the next step will be to obtain the concurrence of the citizens by a plebiscite. The City Clerk has ordered the ballot boxes in anticipation.

Health Officer Laberge is having a special report prepared on the causes of prevalent infant mortality. Inquiry reveals some startling facts. It will probably show that infant mortality is far greater amongst bottle-fed infants, and that the largest number of such deaths are amongst children of mothers who are natives of Montreal, and who before marriage spent their lives in factories and workshops. Next on the fatal list are said to come infants of women who have hereditary tendency to consumption.

The body of C. C. McFall has not yet been recovered. Captain Donnelly of Kingston is of the opinion that the body will not be found in the cabin of the Armstrong, on account of McFall not having had time to reach the cabin after making the attempt to get at the life boat, and he thinks the finding of his hat bears out this theory. Efforts will be made to-morrow to reach the vessel.

The inquiry regarding the Cynthia-Polynesian disaster has been concluded. The testimony covers over 200 pages of closely written foolscap. The main thing to prove was as to the true right of way and the rules governing it; were the vessels observing such rules, and, if not, on whom was the blame to be attached for the non-observance of them? All the witnesses for the Cynthia, of whom four were produced as "disinterested," swore positively that the ship was coming up on the right side of the river, directing her course so as to pass the Polynesian on the left hand, give them more room than is usual by keeping more to the right of her course. All the witnesses of the Polynesian deny entirely this story of the Cynthia.

FOUR MEN ON FIRE.

Serious Results of an Explosion in a Fur-Cleaning Shop.

NEW YORK, July 5.—There was an explosion followed by a fire yesterday afternoon in the fur-cleaning establishment of A. Bowsky & Sons at 220 East Fifty-first street. This is a four-story brick building fronting on Fifty-first street, with a two-story brick extension in the rear. On the ground floor of the extension are four large rotary drums, which are revolved rapidly by steam power. Into these drums the furs are placed with a quantity of mahogany sawdust and a certain proportion of benzine. The furs are cleaned by being thoroughly mixed up with the sawdust and flour and later being used are allowed to fall into the cellar.

At 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon four Italians named Forgozza Lottodo, 428 years of age, of 85 Sullivan-street; Rossi Gosprutti, 27 years old, of 206 East Forty-fifth-street; Antonio Rolandelli, 46 years old, of 165 Hester-street

TURNBULL'S

The first month of summer is an interesting period to the retail buyer. Keep your eye on this column, its newsy. Each week things will appear that ere the month passes will likely make you richer for the reading.

There is scarcely a weak spot in our Trimmed Millinery yet. The latest hat kind are turning up their pretty faces every day, and all the time floods of freshness and brightness keep pouring in new goods constantly.

This job line of untrimmed hats we spoke of last week is what pleases everybody—variety and prices right.

This week we have placed on our Dress Goods counter a dozen pieces of fancy dress cloths, 15c. a yard. The only reason we can conceive that these goods have not sold earlier at higher prices, is that they were too new. They ought to and no doubt will go out very fast now. Attention is called to them. Shantung pongee, the dustless kind. You know how the heathen Chinee crams dust into common run of pongees. He does not do it to the Shantung pure silk and clean. These goods make up beautiful with our fine henriettas.

In the Tweed department we have a fine line of Halifax tweeds that handle soft and fleecy just as they ought to handle. Sale price, 35c.

We expect to-morrow's train to bring us in a large shipment of Corsets We keep what our judgment says is the best make in the trade. We see representatives from all the factories. Our 50c. corsets are the best we believe ever shown in Peterborough for years.

We have been able to repeat that line of ladies' black hose, heavy weight, at 15c. pair. Those who have had these goods will be glad to hear they can get them again now.

Pink is the favorite color in Chambrays this season. Again a fresh lot just arrived.

We keep suits for boys and small boys, either with or without lininga at all prices. See them before buying

The Original Milton Mills.
This celebrated writing paper now so much in demand, is made from the purest fibre, is firm of texture and is reduced to a moderate price.

The Brown Holland—Calico Grey—Canvas Cream
A triumph of writing paper—the success of the year. They have made a conquest wherever shown, and their ascendency in popularity has been marked and rapid.

Antique Parchment.
The high merit of this production being so well known that further exultation would be superfluous.

The Favorite Grey.
That has been so long in high favor.

Piries' Real Vellum.
Renowned throughout the land for its high repute for office and social correspondence.

The Crown Parchment and Ivory Vellum.
Distinguished for its dead velvety finish, and a society paper which we are very vain of, and which has enshrined itself in the estimation of all lovers of beautiful papers, and is winning golden opinion every day.

The Bath—The St. Andrew—The Garter.

There never was a time when the best of Stationery could be so daintily offered as the present, when there are so many charming boxes to hold the materials—such pretty conceits in the mode of presentation, novel in design.

We have Envelopes to match all our Papers. We show the Newest and the Most Correct Styles. Later on we will tell you about other New Lines.

AN AWFUL WASTE OF BEER

FIFTY-TWO THOUSAND BARRELS DESTROYED.

A Big Brewery in Milwaukee's Western Suburb Burnt—Loss a Million Dollars, About One-Third Insured.

MILWAUKEE, July 4.—The big brewery of Falk, Jung & Borchert in Wauwatosa just beyond the city limits was burned to-day. Loss is $1,000,000, insurance $350,000. The brewery was closed to give the employes a holiday and only a few men were in the buildings. The fire spread so rapidly that they barely escaped. It is supposed the fire started in the malt house.

Nearly 52,000 barrels of beer were destroyed. When the big vats burst the beer ran out of five doors in stream 7 inches deep.

The Milwaukee fire department, owing to scarcity of water, could hardly do anything.

Two hundred men are thrown out of work.

The firm had just completed a $100,000 addition and put in a $50,000 ice machine.

A Sawmill Burnt.

BLYTH, July 4.—This morning about 4:30 the sawmill owned by Isaac Rogerson was completely consumed by fire. The cause is unknown but supposed to be from a spark from the fireplace. The loss is between $4000 and $5000, insurance $2000.

A Sash Factory Burnt.

UTICA, N. Y., July 4.—The sash and blind factory of Charles B. Wood & Co. at Morris, Otsego County, was destroyed by fire last night. Loss $6000, with no insurance.

CABLE NEWS.

How the Shah Was Cayed in London—The St Lilienne Disaster.

LONDON, July 4.—Whatever could be done by British officials to make the reception of the Shah in London memorable was done, and so far as the authorities are concerned the Shah has nothing to complain of. But if his treatment by the London populace was entirely satisfactory to him, he possesses the one virtue at least of being easily pleased. The progress of the Shah to Guildhall excited among the throngs, which lined the streets along the route, no loftier emotion than risibility. There was no cheering, no words of welcome, no enthusiasm, nothing but broad grins, and the farther along His Imperial Highness proceeded the broader the grins became. Everything about the august monarch, his dress, his beard, his features and his suite was fair game for the sightseers, and every little peculiarity was seized upon for jocular comment.

So far as decorations are concerned along the line of march, there were very few indeed to be observed apart from those upon the public buildings. Upon these, it is true, no pains or expense were spared to deck them in gorgeous colors, but with the beautifying of the government and corporation buildings the attempt at display was stopped. So far as any popular sympathy with the Shah's reception goes it can be very well gauged by the loud complaints that rose from all quarters before the show began against the suspension of traffic in some of the principal streets which it would enforce. And so deep was the feeling among the business community that many of them are growling yet.

Deeply Grieved.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Persian minister, Hadji Hassein Ghooly Khan, leaves for London about July 12. There he will join the Shah. When a correspondent called at the legation last night and inquired why the minister proposed departing so suddenly, this was the reply he received: "The minister is grieved over the obnoxious articles which have recently appeared in English and American papers regarding the Shah. He is going to England to consult with His Majesty as to whether he ought not, under the circumstances, to be recalled. In London we can appeal to Lord Salisbury. Here every newspaper man is a Lord Salisbury. We beg of you not to let us leave with broken hearts." The attache said this very sorrowfully.

What Does It Mean?

LONDON, July 4.—The unprecedented gold shipments to France from New York is the enigma that puzzles the financial world, the amount from June 4 to June 21 aggregating $20,406,698, while to England the total amount in the same time was only $6,892,727. There is no trade or travel that sends to explain it. A close inquiry into all the reasons for the extraordinary flow of gold to France fails to disclose a satisfactory reason. There is, therefore, a disposition to believe that the true one is that France is fortifying itself against the possibility of an early war, and is making the United States a convenience for doing it.

The St. Etienne Disaster

PARIS, July 4.—The coal pit at St. Etienne in which the explosion of fire-damp occurred yesterday is still on fire. Many more bodies have been recovered, but the work is attended with great difficulty and danger. The scene at the pit's harrowing. President Carnot has ordered that measures be at once taken for the relief of the families of the dead miners.

Heated Deputies.

PARIS, July 4.—There was another heated discussion in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. M. Andrieux was supported by the Right in reviving the charge of bribery against M. Rouvier, Minister of Finance, from which a committee of inquiry had been created him. M. Rouvier warmly denied any knowledge of the contracts which it was sought to use as a weapon against him.

M. Thevenet, Minister of Justice, announced that the public prosecutor would institute an enquiry immediately from the double point of view of corruption and extortion. The Left applauded, and a motion expressing confidence in the Government was adopted.

Burne-Jones, Herkomer, Hook, Orchardson Whistler, Forbes, Leader, Reed and Shannon; to the American artists Messrs. Harrison, Vail, Weks and Hitchcock, and to the German artist Herr Lenbi.

A Londoner Killed at Detroit.

DETROIT, July 4.—William Anderson, aged 50 years, a resident of London, Ont., while trying to cross the railroad track at the foot of Hastings street, about 9 o'clock last night, was struck by a freight train and knocked under the wheels. Both legs were run over. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital, where he died shortly after 10 o'clock. An inquest will take place on Saturday morning.

AN OLD TRAGEDY RECALLED BY "MAY WHITE'S" DEATH.

Government Contracts Let—Sequel of the Tobacco Raids—New Ontario College o Pharmacy Council.

TORONTO, July 5.—There died at Port Huron, Mich., on Wednesday night a woman of the world who was well known to the gilded youth of Toronto a few years ago and who figured in a tragedy in 1884 that made her name notorious in every city on the continent: Mrs. Jonathan Morrison (May White) who kept a gay resort of infamy at No. 11 Nelson-street in this city for a number of years. In July, 1884, two well-dressed, tony-looking youths landed in Toronto and put up at the Queen's. They were George Hazeltine of Jamestown, N. Y., and E. L. Van Witzen, a wealthy, well connected youngster of Baltimore. The pair passed considerable of their time at May White's, bought champagne, at $8 per bottle, by the case and bestowed many favors on the landlady and her girls. At the end of two weeks the youths invited May White and one of her girls, Mamie Thorpe, alias Frankie Robinson, who came to Toronto from City Island, N. Y., to go to Baltimore with them and have a time. Thorpe's maiden name was Mamie Jackson, she being married to a man named Thorpe, with whom she did not live. May White's maiden name was Carrie Hurlbert, and she belonged to Utica, N.Y. When the party landed in the Monumental City they went to Pearl Snow's establishment at 104 North-street, one of the fashionable resorts of Baltimore. They drank freely of wine there, and the wind-up was that Hazletine, who was almost crazy with what he had imbibed quarrelled with Mamie Thorpe about a ring he had given her and which she would not return Hazeltine drew a revolver on the girl and shot Mamie Thorpe dead. He also tried to kill May White and shot at her head. The bullet, however, struck her on the cheek and did no further damage than to pass through and leave an ugly scar. Owing to Hazeltine's wealthy connections and his influence at Baltimore he escaped with a year or so in the State prison of Maryland, and did not even serve his full term. He got off on the insanity plea. May White came back to Toronto after the tragedy and remained here until January, 1887, when she went to St. Thomas and there was married to Jonathan Morrison, the well-known centre fielder of the Torontos of 1886. This marriage, which was performed by Rev. Dr. Parkes, created a great stir in baseball circles. Morrison afterwards played with the Mets, of New York and other clubs, and he and his wife traveled around a good deal, landing up recently at Port Huron, where she was taken sick and died. Morrison belongs to London.

The Department of Public Works has let the contract for the erection of the additions to the School of Practical Science to Mr. Alex. J. Brown of Toronto. The estimated cost of the work is $50,000. Messrs. Kennedy & Son, Guelph, have been awarded the contract of rebuilding the farms at the Ontario Agricultural College, destroyed by fire last year. Mr. Geo. Ball, Barrie, has been awarded the contract for building a jail at Sault St. Marie and a courtroom at Gore Bay, Manitoulin Island, and another at Parry Sound.

At the Police Court yesterday William A. Elder, grocer, No. 67 Dundas-street, pleaded guilty to having in his possession eight pounds of tobacco without bearing the stamp of the Inland Revenue department. Mr. J. H. Macdonnell explained that the defendant was one of 80 dealers in tobacco who had violated the Inland Revenue Act. The department only intended to seize the tobacco as punishment, but Mr. Elder threatened the inspector, Mr. James B. Blair, saying that if he had a revolver all the police force wouldn't get the tobacco. The lowest fine, viz., $50 and costs or 30 days, was inflicted.

HALIFAX HAPPENINGS.

Lost at Sea and Fortunate Rescue—Nova Scotia Medical Society.

HALIFAX, July 5.—A sailor who gave his name as Alfred Rockwell, sailing from Liverpool, arrived in town yesterday. He said he had been adrift in a dory for four days without food or water. The vessel to which he belonged, the Starlight, sent six dories out on the banks about two weeks ago when a heavy fog set in, which prevented Rockwell from finding his vessel. After drifting about for four days and nights at the mercy of the waves, he sighted the wrecking steamer Alert, which bore down to his rescue, taking him and his dory on board. When rescued the man was in a very exhausted condition, being too weak to stand up in the boat.

The dismasted brigantine, M. B. Daly, spoken off the harbor yesterday has been towed into port. She sailed from Ponce, P.R., on June 17. On Sunday, June 23, in lat. 37, long. 68, a heavy gale was encountered, during which she was hove down on her beam ends and in order to right her the spars were cut away. She lost foremast close to the deck, mainmast and bowsprit close to the knight heads, together with all sails and gear attached. After the gale moderated jury masts were rigged and the ship headed for Halifax. She is not leaking any.

The twenty-first annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Medical Society opened at the Halifax Hotel yesterday morning. There are thirty members present. Dr. D. A. Campbell, president, read an address on "Medical Legislation in Nova Scotia, Past, Present and Future," related the trials and tribulations of the profession from the time of the sieges at Louisburg and Grand Pre down to the present day, and told many anecdotes of old practitioners.

The Inland Revenue receipts at Halifax for June amounted to $20,566, a decrease compared with the same month last year of $1076. The receipts for the fiscal year were $248,212, an increase of $33,137.

BROKE UP IN DISORDER.

Father Drummond Prevented from Lecturing on the Jesuits at Plum Creek.

WINNIPEG, July 4.—Father Drummond was prevented from delivering his lecture on the Jesuits last night at Plum Creek by the interruption of the crowd which pushed past the doorkeeper and demanded the appointment of a chairman. It was explained that a chairman had already been appointed who was a Protestant and the revs of the municipality. It was then stated that the crowd would listen to the lecture if Father Drummond kept within bounds. As the altercation progressed the ladies present took a hand in and in the disorder the lecturer disappeared. The meeting ended in confusion.

The steamer on which the American roadcats were celebrating to-day ran on the rocks four miles up Red River and the excursionists returned home in carriages.

A Winnipeg alderman attacked a city official, a brother alderman and a reporter yesterday while under the influence of liquor and will be reported to the council.

The Reform convention at Crystal City voted confidence in the Greenway Government.

Young Clegg, from Blyth, Ont., was perhaps fatally dragged by a horse at Calgary yesterday.

The Coming Sullivan-Kilrain Fight—Many Ball Games Yesterday.

CINCINNATI, O., July 4.—Jake Kilrain arrived by the Cincinnati, Washington and Baltimore train at the Central Passenger Station at 9.45 this morning. The train was more than an hour late. There was a large crowd at the depot and Kilrain's friends greeted him with a hearty cheer. There was some delay in his getting off the car, owing to the crowd which pressed about the door. Just as Kilrain put his foot outside on the platform some men placed two big cakes of ice at the top of the steps, which impeded his progress. A man on the platform remarked: "Jake, shad's rather a cold reception, but you are all right." This was followed by a hearty cheer. Kilrain and his party left the depot and took carriages for the St. Nicholas Hotel, where they are quartered. They will remain until 3 o'clock this afternoon, when they will take the Queen & Crescent road for New Orleans. They will have an all-night ride to Chattanooga and reach New Orleans twelve hours behind the time fixed. When asked how he felt Kilrain said: "I am firstrate and could not be in better fix." "Do you feel that you can win?" "I am sure of it. I am all right in every way." His manner, however, was not gay. He sat quietly and had less to say than any of the party. "Will the fight certainly come off?" was asked. "Oh yes, certainly. All the arrangements have been made. Ask Charley Mitchell, he will satisfy you on that need. Our train was late, and I was afraid first we should miss connection here."

The Fight Will Come Off.

CHICAGO, July 4.—The News special from New Orleans says: The Governor of Alabama has replied to Governor Lowrey's dispatch granting him permission to pass troops through Alabama in order to head off and capture the pugilists if they attempt to fight in Mississippi. It is thought that Gov. Nichols will do likewise. The Renaud party that went out to look for a location for the fight returned last night. They had inspected a number of places that had been suggested for the fight, in view of the probable interference of the authorities and very determined action of the Governor of Mississippi. A telegram was received by Renaud upon his return, suggesting still another location and guaranteeing absolute freedom from interference. The proposition is under consideration. Though the difficulties of the managers increase with the activity of the authorities, they express the utmost confidence that the fight will come off. In order to provide against all contingencies they agreed yesterday to extend the time and the 200 miles limit if it should be necessary.

Rowing on the Schuylkill.

PHILADELPHIA, July 4.—The great event of Philadelphia's celebration of Independence Day was the Cup and the People's regatta. The races were rowed over the national course on the Schuylkill River, 1½ miles straight away. The water was high and swift and the best time on record was beaten in every one of the seven events. The first race was started in a heavy rain, which drove the spectators from the river banks.

The last and most important event was the eight-oared shell race for the Sharpless Cup, held by the University of Pennsylvania eight. Some difficulty was experienced in getting a start because of the swift current. In one of the attempts the Crescent and University of Pennsylvania shells collided a few yards from the stake boat, one of the University men broke an oar and the rudder of the latter crew's shell was snapped off. It was agreed to allow the university crew to go down the stream and borrow a shell. After an hour word was received that the crew was unable to row back against the current and requested a postponement. The remaining contestants decided to go ahead and at 8 p.m. the race was started. The Cornell University boat club won easily in 7.03, Crescent boat club of Philadelphia second in 7.17, Fairmount Boat Club of Philadelphia third in 7.21.

This afternoon's final heats resulted as follows:

Junior singles—W. K. Cody, Nonpareil Boat Club, New York, first in 8.53½.

Senior singles—E. J. Carney, Institute Boat Club, Newark, first in 8.46.

Pair oared shells—George Phillips and J. Hard of New York Athletic Club, New York, first in 46.

In the four-oared shell race for the Downing Cup the New York Athletic Club crew won in 8.01; Passaic Boat Club, Newark, 2d; Varuna Boat Club, Brooklyn, 3d.

About fifty yards from the finish the Ariels through wild steering ran into the New Yorks, knocking a hole in the former's bow. The shell rapidly filled with water and sank, the crew swimming to the judges' boat.

The St. Paul Cricketers Again Successful.

NAPANEE, July 4.—The cricket match here to-day between Napanee and the St. Paul's School, Concord, N.H., resulted in an easy victory for the latter. St Paul's School went to bat first and made 78 runs and in the second innings 98. Napanee in the first made 27 runs and in the second 15 for 4 wickets when time was called.

The Inquest Adjourned.

Coroner Johns on commenced an inquest on the body of Albert Edward Sanderson yesterday afternoon at St. Andrew's Hall. After examining several eye-witnesses, an adjournment was made until next Monday afternoon, in order to give the police time to procure other witnesses. So far the evidence has been favorable to Ed. McNaughton, the driver who ran into the lad, and he was released on bail.

A Nova Scotia Elopement.

HALIFAX, July 4.—A runaway pair from St. Margaret's Bay arrived in the city this morning in time to take the steamer Halifax for Boston. The man's name is David Johnston and he is married, while the girl's name is Sadie Boutiller, about 17 years of age. As near as can be learned the elopement was planned about a week ago. The couple had been frequently seen walking along the roads in the evenings at the bay. Johnston had been reprimanded by his wife, but all to no purpose. The elopers drove into town early this morning and registered on the passenger list under assumed names. The deserted wife is the mother of two children. Mrs. Johnston's father arrived in town just in time to see the steamer sail down the harbor.

Key Men and Equalization.

PITTSBURG, July 4.—The telegraphers are recovering from the defeat of 1883. It was stated last night by a telegrapher of reliable authority that they are organizing into what is known as the Commercial Telegraphers Brotherhood, with an object to secure an equalization in wages. Railroad telegraphers are not admissible to membership. The telegrapher said that to-day there are $50 per month men working keys beside $100 per month men, and that the favorites of the managers are given big wages while others equally as expert are kept down. The brotherhood desires to obviate this discrepancy by bringing all capable men up to the highest standard.

Drowned While Bathing.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4.—This afternoon while bathing a lad named Samuel Stevenson, aged 14 years, was drowned. With two or three others he attempted to swim out to a boom, but he failed to reach it and the other boys could render no assistance. He was a son of James Stevenson of Hastings and was writing at the High School entrance examinations here. The body has not yet been recovered.

MONTREAL NEWS.

THE REPORT ON INUNDATION PROTECTION.

The Collision of the Polynesian and Cynthia—The City's Infant Mortality—The Romantic Outlaw Recovering.

MONTREAL, July 4.—Last night about 8.30 o'clock a crowd of roughs went to the Salvation Army Barracks, when their leader gave the door a heavy kick, and thrusting the doorkeeper aside sprang into the hall. Those present being at prayer the noise alarmed the whole meeting, and a stampede occurred. The intruder was dumped on the sidewalk, when a general free fight was indulged in, the Army men coming off best.

Mr. Alphonse Desjardines, M.P., succeeds Mr. Chapleau as President of the Northern Colonization Railway. The other directors are Mayor Grenier, Ald. Rolland, Thos. Brennan and Hon. Wilfrid Prevost. It is hoped that measures will be taken to build the road to the north of St. Jerome, as it is badly wanted by settlers in the parish of St. Agathe, north of St. Jerome. No less than 73 families left for Manitoba since last autumn.

A gentleman lately arrived from Donald Morrison's former home states that the outlaw is so far recovered as to be able to go around.

At the regular monthly meeting of the City Council next Monday, the first order is the report of the Special Committee on Inundation for a $1,000,000 loan to provide for the carrying out of the work. The total cost is about $3,200,000, of which the city's share would be $700,000. The reports recommend a loan of $1,000,000 for that purpose. Should the Council concur, the next step will be to obtain the concurrence of the citizens by a plebiscite. The City Clerk has ordered the ballot boxes in anticipation.

Health Officer Laberge is having a special report prepared on the causes of prevalent infant mortality. Inquiry reveals some startling facts. It will probably show that infant mortality is far greater amongst bottle-fed infants, and that the largest number of such deaths are amongst children of mothers who are natives of Montreal, and who before marriage spent their lives in factories and workshops. Next on the fatal list are said to come infants of women who have hereditary tendency to consumption.

The body of C. C. McFall has not yet been recovered. Captain Donelly of Kingston is of the opinion that the body will not be found in the cabin of the Armstrong, on account of McFall not having had time to reach the cabin after making the attempt to get at the life boat, and he thinks the finding of his hat bears out this theory. Efforts will be made to-morrow to reach the vessel.

The inquiry regarding the Cynthia-Polynesian disaster has been concluded. The testimony covers over 200 pages of closely written foolscap. The main thing to prove was as to the true right of way and the rules governing it; were the vessels observing such rules, and, if not, on whom was the blame to be attached for the non-observance of them? All the witnesses for the Cynthia, of whom four were produced as "disinterested," swore positively that the ship was coming up on the right side of the river, directing her course so as to pass the Polynesian on the left and give them more room than is usual by keeping more to the right of her course. All the witnesses of the Polynesian deny entirely this story of the Cynthia.

FOUR MEN ON FIRE.

Serious Results of an Explosion in a Fur-Cleaning Shop.

NEW YORK, July 5.—There was an explosion followed by a fire yesterday afternoon in the fur-cleaning establishment of A. Bowsky & Sons at 220 East Fifty-first street. This is a four-story brick building fronting on Fifty-first street, with a two-story brick extension in the rear. On the ground floor of the extension are four large rotary drums, which are revolved rapidly by steam power. Into these drums the furs are placed with a quantity of mahogany sawdust and a certain proportion of benzine. The furs are cleaned by being thoroughly mixed up with the sawdust and flour and after being used are allowed to fall into the cellar.

At 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon four Italians named Forgozza Lottozio, 28 years of age, of 85 Sullivan-street; Rossi Gosprutti, 27 years old, of 206 East Forty-fifth-street; Antonio Rolandelli, 46 years old, of 165 Hester-street, and Gardella Barsotti, aged 25, of 803 Third-avenue, were sent into the cellar to gather up the refuse dust and carry it out to a cart waiting in the street to receive it. Lottezio carried a lighted candle. As he passed under one of the drums some of the fine dust fell upon the flame of the candle. An explosion followed and in a

It Healthy Condition. With Paresis Lesions.

There are many well known men confined in our Asylums who but a short time ago were prominent among our business and social circles.

Why are they there?

Paresis!

Did it come on at once?

Not at all. It was a gradual but positive growth. They overtaxed nature. The drain on their vitality, their nerve powers, their brain tissue, was too great, and they gradually but surely sank under it. The things they did to bring this sad end about are precisely the same things that are being done by thousands of men and women to-day. It is not necessary to name them. They all end disastrously unless checked or regulated.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, knew this fully when he began his experiments which resulted in the discovery of the wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. He realized that paresis (consumption of the brain) was our great National weakness. He knew that the brain and nervous system must be fortified to meet the great strains which modern life bring upon it. He saw that men were becoming debilitated and women weakened by the pressure and demands of life, and he sought and discovered the remedy Paine's Celery Compound, if rightly taken, will renew the brain and build up nerve tissues as fast as they become exhausted. It is not a narcotic. It contains no drugs, no nostrums. It is perfectly pure. It is absolutely harmless. The high character of its discoverer guarantees this, and the indorsement of the medical and chemical Professions prove it.

The Minister of Education on the Schools.

Speech of Hon. G. W. Ross on Much Discussed Phases of Our School System—False Inferences Refuted—The Facts Plainly Stated.

On account of the prominence given in some quarters to the discussion of school matters, the speech of the Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education for Ontario, delivered at the recent Reform demonstration, will be interesting and instructive reading. The report states that the Hon. Minister of Education came forward amid loud applause. After an outburst of enthusiastic cheering, he said:—

One of the greatest responsibilities resting upon the Government of the day is to submit annually for the approval of Parliament such legislation as will contribute to the development of the country, the better administration of justice and the promotion of public morality. In the discharge of this duty, the Government of which I have the honor to be a member has modified the municipal laws of the Province, the laws with respect to property and civil rights—in fact all the laws coming within the constitutional limitations of the Provincial Assembly. It has neither permitted a revolutionary radicalism to accelerate unduly the wheels of legislation, nor allowed slow-paced Conservatism to retard their progress. You may examine, if you choose, the Revised Statutes from beginning to end, and I venture to say you can scarcely find a single page that does not testify to the fact that the Government recognized its first duty to be to keep pace with the in everything that concerns the Province of Ontario.

Among the many questions with which we have to deal, perhaps there is none more perplexing or requiring a greater knowledge of details than educational questions. The constituency especially interested in legislation of this kind is often learned, sometimes finical, but always critical. Notwithstanding this, we have been able, with some measure of success, I trust, to make changes in the Public Schools Act, in the High Schools Act, and even in the University Act, which will prove beneficial to the Province. We believe it to be our duty, where the interests of education required it, to amend and improve these Acts. We saw no reason why legislation should not be progressive in educational as well as in other matters. We were even vain enough to believe that the Separate School Act could be improved, that our Catholic fellow-citizens had not obtained perfection in the organization of their schools any more than our Protestants fellow-citizens, and we flattered ourselves, after several years had passed and one or two elections had been fought and won without any criticism in regard to these changes, that they were acceptable to all classes of the community. Vain delusion! While all parties, Protestant as well as Catholic, had accepted the changes made in the Acts respecting Public and High Schools as honestly intended to promote education, it is now charged that the changes made in the Separate School Act were prompted not by an educational but by a political motive. Our object was said to be not to improve the Separate Schools—that was above and beyond us altogether—our object was

TO CATCH THE CATHOLIC VOTE.

Now do not forget that we are not charged in this case with neglecting the educational interests of the children attending Separate Schools, or with injuring their mental growth, or with fostering wrong methods of teaching, but with angling for votes—with pandering to Roman Catholics. It is not charged that the Roman Catholics attending the Separate Schools do not receive a better education now than they did in '72. If such a charge were made and sustained, then we certainly deserved to be driven from office. If we failed to provide for the 30,000 children attending the Separate Schools of Ontario as good an education as we have provided for those attending our Public Schools, we would have been guilty of a breach of public trust which not only Catholics but Protestants should resent, and that in the most unmistakable way. The right to a good, thorough English education is recognised by the Constitution of the Province of Ontario as the birthright of every citizen, irrespective of creed, and, as I understand public sentiment, no Government could long exist that ignored, much less repudiated, this right. What are the charges in detail? First, it is said that under the Public Schools Act every ratepayer was presumably a Public School supporter; now because of our action, if such ratepayer be a Roman Catholic, he is presumably a Separate School supporter. Even if this presumption were true, it would only apply to municipalities in which Separate Schools are established, or to 193 out of a total of 710 municipalities in the Province. But let us see what the law is in this matter. If there were no Separate School in the municipality or within three miles of it, this part of the Assessor's duty would count for nothing. I am aware that the Public School Trustees of Toronto, who have shown such wonderful zeal in the maintenance of the Public School system, required the parents and guardians of children attending the city schools to sign a declaration

THAT THEY WERE PROTESTANTS,

and that their children were vaccinated before admitting them to the Public Schools of the city. Whether the vaccination referred to meant inoculation with those high Tory principles which usually culminate in wordy declarations on the 12th of July and then subside into subserviency to the will of the chieftain of the electi n day, I cannot say. But the declaration is likely at all events to be withdrawn, modified as at once illegal and in direct violation of the letter and spirit of the Schools Act. The School Law never intended to divide and does not now divide the people of Ontario into two camps. Any division that takes place is still left to the free, unfettered choice of the parties concerned. But what is the argument used by our opponents in this case. They say, quoting Section 48 of the Separate Schools Act, (1) "That the Assessors shall in the assessment roll set down the religion of the ratepayer, distinguishing between Catholic and Protestant, and whether a supporter of Public or Separate Schools, and (2) that the assessor shall accept the statement of, or made on behalf of, any ratepayer that he is a Roman Catholic, as sufficient prima facie evidence for placing such person in the proper column of the assessment roll for Separate School supporter; and (3) if the assessor knows personally any ratepayer to be a Roman Catholic, this shall be sufficient for placing him in such last mentioned column." And having quoted the statutes as I have just done, they say, "Does not that prove our case to a demonstration?" Of course it does, if that is all the law says upon the question; but

WHAT ABOUT SECTION FORTY,

which requires a Roman Catholic to give notice to the clerk of the municipality on or before the 1st of March that he is a Separate School supporter, or otherwise he must be rated as a Public School supporter? Is it possible to determine the whole law without giving force and effect to every section? Did you ever hear of a lawyer or a judge construing the law in this way? Do theologians so construe the Holy Scriptures? Do juries give verdicts on the evidence of one witness only, or the simple statement standing alone of one witness? Is it not the universally accepted rule in construing statutes that the purpose or intent of the legislature must be ascertained, not from one clause or one phrase, but from the statute as a whole? Now, if this rule be applied to the case before us there can be but one conclusion reached, and that is, unless the ratepayer gives the notice required by section 40, neither the act of the assessor nor of the clerk can compel him to pay rates for Separate School purposes. Speaking on this point in 1886, the Attorney-General, who is usually considered a good authority, said, "The preliminary notice has not been dispensed with; on the contrary, it has been expressly continued by the 41st (sec. 40, R. S. O., 87) section of the Act of last session, the section which gives Roman Catholics exemption from school rates; and any ratepayer of the municipality may object to the exemption before the Court of Revision on the ground that the necessary preliminary notice was not given, and he may do so without the consent and even contrary to the wish of the ratepayer whose case is in question."

But what are the objections raised to this interpretation of the law—objections raised

NOT BY LAWYERS NOR BY JUDGES,

who are the accredited interpreters of the law, but by the opponents of the Government? (1) They say that "if it were not intended that the assessment roll should be taken as the basis for levying the school rates, why require the Assessor to distinguish at all between Catholics and Protestants, between Separate and Public School supporters?" The answer to that is easy. By the Separate Schools Act of 1863, in addition to the notice to be given to the Clerk, under section 40 of the Separate Schools Act (that is section 14 of the old Act), "the trustees of every Separate School were required to transmit on or before the first day of June in each year a correct list of the names and residences of all persons supporting a Separate School under their management, and every ratepayer whose name shall not appear on such list shall be rated as a Public School supporter." In 1877 the Act was amended requiring the assessor to enter upon the assessment roll the religion of each ratepayer, and the option was allowed boards of trustees of accepting the entries made by the assessor in lieu of the list required by the Act of 1863. In 1879 it was further provided that where trustees availed themselves of the entries made by the assessor, "the assessor should accept the statement made by or on behalf of any ratepayer that he was a Roman Catholic as prima facie evidence that such person was a Separate School supporter."

(To be Continued.)

Redly the firelight shines through the room,
Chasing away all the shadow and gloom;
Light-hearted children are prattling in glee:
Father is as happy as can be,
For the wife and mother who suffered so long
Is getting her health back and soon will be strong.
And who is so happy as she is to-night,
As she thinks of the shadow that's taken its flight—

the shadow of disease that darkens so many homes, and makes the life of wife and mother one of terrible suffering. How pleased we are to know that at last a remedy has been found for all those delicate derangements and weaknesses peculiar to women. It comes to cheerless homes with "glad tidings of great joy." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for women what no other remedy has done, or can do, and it is not to be wondered at that women who have been cured by it are so enthusiastic in its praise. It is the only medicine for women sold, by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers of satisfaction, or money returned. c

MUNCASTER'S

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER

A TALE OF TEARS.

So it was that, watching her opportunity, she came into her master's study one evening, when he was alone, and broached the subject to him, with much faltering and grief.

"She's no a bairn any langer, master," she ended, smiling sorrowfully. "Canna ye see that this braw young laird has stepped in between us?"

A strong, sudden pang came upon her master, and he listened. He had never dreamed of this before, and here he had awakened from his fancied security, to find that his child was his no longer. Child! Nay, this faithful, ignorant woman, who had been quicker sighted than he, for all his lore, had been right in saying that their bairn had become a woman.

"She is only seventeen," he said, with a new recurrence of the sudden pain. "And yet—How blind I have been. Poor bairn! Poor little Prue!"

When Marjory went back to her kitchen, she heard her master's feet, in his room above, pacing slowly and heavily to and fro. She heard them for two long hours, never resting for a moment, only treading back ward and forward in dull monotony. When his pretty young wife lay dead in her chamber, Marjory remembered that she had heard his slow feet through the whole of the dreary winter's day, and remembered, too, how she had hushed the little brown-eyed baby closer to her breast, weeping silent, heavy tears over the sad echo.

Perhaps, as he pondered over the grave truth to which he had newly awakened, a sorrowful memory of his child's dead young mother stirred up his heart, and his old sorrow for the lonely life his little helpmeet had led, grew stronger as he thought of the difference a mother's care would have made.

When Prue returned, after her absence, it was almost dark, and, going up stairs, she opened the study door, to find her father sitting in his chair, by the dull embers, resting his head upon his hand. Something in his face struck her sadly, and, with a little pang of affectionate self-reproach, she went and knelt beside him upon the hearth. But it was not so easy to talk now as it used to be, and, besides, she felt half sad herself this evening. She scarcely knew why, sometimes such sadness came upon her—half-tenderness, half pain; but the time had not come yet when she could ask her self its meaning.

"I have been to the church, papa," she began to tell him. "It is getting along beautifully. It will be completed by Christmas, Lord Strathspey says."

"Was Lord Strathspey with you this evening, Prue?" he asked, gently.

She did not look up at him, and the red blood mounted to her cheeks, as she answered softly, playing with her gloves.

"Yes, papa." For his quiet voice held just the thoughtful sadness of his face.

He laid his hand upon the pretty brown hair with a gentle touch—a touch as gentle as her dead mother's could have been, and at last, as if unconsciously, he drew her head to its old childish resting place upon his knee.

"He has been with you very often of late, has he not?" he questioned. "True," with the same thoughtful sadness in his tone, "is this grand young laird coming between my bairn's heart and mine?"

"Oh, papa!" she faltered. "Oh, papa!" and broke down into a gush of tender, innocent tears.

There was a long silence then, and the poor child knelt with hidden face, tremulous, sorrowful, happy. How could he speak, and tell her his sad fears! How could he crush her fresh young dreams, by telling her that the chances were against her, and that if might be that a realization would never come: that there was scarcely a hope that a realization would come to a dream so romantic as hers. The warning had come too late. Man as he was, he saw that, and, in his great extremity, he could only stroke the bent, girlish head, with a stronger sense of pain. There was nothing more to be said. The wrong was done already, and, through his very tenderness for her trusting love, he could only hide his doubts, and hope for the best.

He tried to talk cheerfully to her during the remainder of the evening; but it was only the shadow of cheerfulness; and when he bade her good-night, he held her in his arms for a moment, with a tremor on his square mouth, which was strangely unlike his usual reticent self-control.

"Don't let us forget to trust each other, Prue," he said. "Don't let this strange lover make us forget what have been to each other all our two lives."

When Marjory came to bring his bedroom candle to him, he had gone back to his place at the fire, and was seated just as Prue had found him.

She came to his side, holding the candle in her hand, and with her usual quaint freedom and sympathy, spoke to him at once.

"Can it be helped, master?" she asked.

He raised his head with a faint smile—such a mournful ghost of a smile.

"No, Marjory," he said. "Our bairn is ours no longer. We were too late."

The winter ended as it had begun; the purple heath began to bloom upon the brae, and Strathspey was still at Coombe-Ashley. The quiet life among the quiet people had actually begun to have a sort of negative attraction for him; and, perhaps, the quiet little figure, which sat in the great rectory pew on Sundays, held a sort of attraction for him too. The sweet young face, with its belief and trustfulness, was not a face to tire a man soon, and, in some sort, it held him captive. Sometimes, in an idle way, he had even amused himself by fancying how it would look at the stately old Coombe, and had pictured to himself the sweet, startled happiness, which would leap into the brown eyes, if he made his careless love-making a truth, and told her that it was so. Not that it had ever been anything more than an idle, whimsical day-dream, this fancy of his. It would have needed more moral courage than ever Lord Strathspey had possessed, to have faced out such a proceeding with the world—his world, which was a world not easy to face, my reader, after committing a romantic absurdity. What would Lady Strathspey have said, if he had announced his intention of ending his career, by marrying his rector's daughter. Lady Strathspey alone would have been too much for him to cope with. Besides, how would the little creature look in London, among women who would envy her for her beauty, and snub her for her humility. Poor, little, brown-eyed Prue, she was afraid of Lady Strathspey, who was more gracious to her than to any living being, and how would she be able to meet the sneers and patronage which she would have to encounter, as the inferior party, in a mesalliance in society, to which she was only admitted on sufferance. Even his idle day-dream never ended without such additional thoughts as these; and yet he could not quite make up his mind to flee the temptation. So the spring came, and he still lingered: one day half inclined to bring his trifling to an end, the next half touched by an indolent regret that his fate had not been a different one, that he had not been more chary. Some faint twinges of conscience struck him now and then, when the shadow of the possible result passed through his mind. It could not last for ever, and an end must come, in the natural course of events. I wonder if it is possible, that but for the interposition of a cooler hand, this quiet story of mine might ever have ended as happily as other stories have done; if it is possible that the tender girlish face would ever have wrought upon him, so as to arouse his stronger nature to its best. (Let us, at least, give each other comfort of believing, that even in the weakest of us there is a "best.") It might have proved so; but it was not to be. The simple life was fated to hold its quiet tragedy, and it worked itself out.

The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dinner and the usual amusements occupied the time of the party for about five hours, after which the return trip was begun, home being reached about eight. The picnic was a successful and enjoyable affair. Those principally concerned were Messrs. Andrew Russell and R. J. Weir, who were also assisted by Messrs. Theodore Joy, Thos. Dawson and Mr. Chrowe. Sporting Notes.

Next Monday the St. Paul's School team of cricketers, of Concord, N. H., will visit Peterborough. This team is a strong one, and has already defeated Ottawa, Kingston and Napanee with ease. The following eleven will oppose the American cricketers here:—Messrs Stratton, Attewell, Ray, Rogers, Rutherford, Parker, Long, Hamilton, Macdonel, Burnham and Sailsbury, with Mr. Gower twelfth man.

Next Friday July 12th, the Association baseball team plays two games, at Hastings in the forenoon and at Campbellford in the afternoon. The train connections are such that the two matches can be played in one day.

The regatta of the Otonabee Canoe Club, to have been held this evening, has been further postponed till Friday next.

The July Match.

The monthly match of the Rifle Association took place at the ranges Thursday. A heavy wind from the left rear and shifting shadows from the clouds made shooting at long ranges difficult. However the scores are on the average good, and quite ten points ahead of last month's. The score is as follows:—

Fraternal Farewell.

Last night about a score of Oddfellows of Otonabee lodge met at the rooms and tendered Mr. Hugh Quirk a fraternal farewell. Mr. Quirk has been an active and esteemed member of Otonabee lodge for a long time, but has decided to remove to Hamilton, where he has a situation in the cigar factory of H. Simon. Refreshments were served by Bro. H. Long and afterwards there were the usual toasts and speeches. Bro. W. F. Green, N.G., occupied the chair, with Bro. R. M. Roy, V.G, in the vice chair. Mr. Quirk made a feeling reply to the toast to "the guest," stating that he was very sorry to leave Peterborough, but his business demanded it. However he would retain his membership in Otonabee lodge, and would always have warm remembrances of Peterborough and its Oddfellows. Mr. Quirk leaves town with his family on Saturday. His removal will be sincerely regretted by his large circle of friends and acquaintances, both as an Oddfellow and citizen. They will however wish him a hearty God speed and a prosperous business career in the Ambitious City.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Monthly Meeting of Executive Committee.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met yesterday afternoon and transacted their business, and purpose having an excursion towards the end of the present month; definite action will be taken at their meeting Monday afternoon at 4 p.m.

The monthly meeting of the Executive Committee was held last night, the President, Mr. G. M. Roger, occupying the chair. Reports of work for the month by the Devotional, Finance, and Invitation Committees were presented; these were very encouraging. The General Secretary read his first report, which showed the past month had been, through the blessing of God, a very prosperous one for the Association, as the following items will show:—1,140 visited the reading room, 230 have attended the Saturday night meetings, 27 attended the Bible class Sunday morning, 335 were present at gospel and song services, 125 attended family worship, 135 calls were made, 476 letters and cards were written, 4 have been introduced to other associations, directed to boarding house 1, accepted Christ 1.

As an Association we are greatly indebted to Miss Gordon for her Bible readings, which have been a great blessing to all and we are seeing their beneficial results in our work and workers, and we feel very grateful for her generous donation to our building fund. We trust others will go and do likewise, and leave behind them such a monument which will live and be a great blessing to our young men when they have gone to their reward.

We have been delighted at the great success of our Ladies' Auxiliary, and their garden party at Mrs. Joseph Dixon's has shown what united effort can and will accomplish to bring about Christian union.

Our encampment at Stony Lake on August 1st has taken hold of our members in a way which shows it is just what they wanted, and our sister Associations are entering very heartily; by the favorable replies we have received many will be present. All who intend to go from Peterborough will kindly let the General Secretary have their names at once, so we can complete arrangements. Very generous terms have been made with the boats. Single fare for round round trip, canoe and camp equipment carried free. This will be a very profitable outing.

An Organist Remembered.

The Choir and Congregation of the Mark Street Church Present Miss Smith with an Address and Purse.

Wednesday evening after the usual prayer meeting in the Mark street Methodist church Ashburnham, Miss Emma Smith, the organist, was presented with a complimentary testimonial, in shape of an address, and accompanying purse of money. Mr. H. Armstrong before reading the address remarked upon the pleasing duty he had to perform, and Rev. A. C. Wilson, pastor, added a few words in commendation of Miss Smith's abilities and disinterested services in connection with the church. Miss Smith was taken quite by surprise, but feelingly expressed her thanks to the kind friends surrounding her.

The address referred to Miss Smith's punctuality, real and disinterested services to the church in her capacity of organist, of which the accompanying purse was a slight token of their appreciation. The congregation also expressed the hope that Miss Smith would continue her connection with the choir and church.

The EXAMINER congratulates Mr. John McKee, druggist, on his being elected, by a high vote, a member of the Council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

Closing Exercises of the Scholastic Year—A Delightful Evening at the Convent of the Congregation de Notre Dame—The Musical Programme—The Presentation of Prizes—Episcopal Congratulations.

On Thursday evening the closing exercises of the scholastic year took place at the Convent of the Congregation de Notre Dame, and the occasion had most pleasing and successful results. The hall of the Convent was fitted up for the event with great taste. The walls were beautifully decorated with banners bearing pious and moral mottoes, and over the middle of the triple archway separating the two compartments of the hall, there was placed among their evergreen garniture, the word "Welcome," in gilt letters. At the west end of the hall tiers of seats rose, and on these the pupils, clad in white, were closely placed, and a pretty sight, indeed, they presented.

There were present His Lordship Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Connor, the Cathedral clergy, members of the Separate School board, several prominent citizens, some of the parents of pupils and a few past pupils.

THE PROGRAMME

opened, as the episcopal party entered the room with an entree duet, pianoforte and organ—pianoforte, Misses E. Crummy and E. Howden, and organ, Miss Kate Calcutt. This was followed by a well sung welcome song, in which the soli were taken by Misses Annie Simmons, Gertie Sullivan and M. Begley. "The Little Ones Expectations" was a very interesting and delightful addition to the programme. A pianoforte solo—"The Valley lay Smiling Before Me," and "The Girl I Left Behind Me"—was excellently performed by Miss Essie Crummy, the winner of the silver medal presented by Rev. Father Rudkins. To this succeeded a delightful little divertisement, an "operetta" contributed by two or three young ladies and several little girls. The several parts were well taken, in a rhetorical and elocutionary point of view, while the moral imparted was most edifying. The pianoforte solo, "Aerian Caprice," by Miss Howden, the winner of the Bishop O'Connor silver medal; was given with much fidelity and brilliance. Miss Jennie McCabe, a former gold medallist in music, sang, with taste and feeling, the sweet vocal solo "Answered." An eight-hand march (on one piano) was brilliantly and spiritedly given by Misses J. McCabe, L. McWade, I. Mahoney and M. Butler.

Miss Maggie Doherty played the accompaniments to the songs, very correctly and sympathetically.

THE DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES

followed. The prizes were given by the Mother Superior and were presented by His Lordship, each being accompanied by some congratulatory and felicitious remark. The prize list given below shows the names of the prize winners and the merit that won the prize.

The most interesting feature of the presentation were the silver medals won by Miss Essie Crummey and Miss F. Howden for proficiency in music. Miss Crummey won that offered by Rev. Chancellor Rudkins, and Miss E. Howden that presented by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor. The medals, which are beautiful pieces of workmanship were supplied by Mr. R. W. Muncaster. At the close of the programme, the pupils received His Lordship's blessing, which he followed with a few congratulatory remarks upon the success of the exercises of the evening and the proof these indicated of both the diligence of the pupils and the conscientious care and attention of their teachers, the good nuns. He hoped the pupils would enjoy a happy holiday season, and receive that recreation and relaxation which was necessary. His Lordship urged them to practice the lessons of amiability gentleness and piety they had learned in the convent, in their play. Other gentlemen also gave brief addresses referring to the creditable manner in which the pupils had acquitted themselves, and the excellence of the instruction both mental and moral, given the pupils.

The exercises of the evening closed with "God Save the Queen" and this concluded one of the most pleasing and successful closing exercises of this flourishing school.

Ashburnham Brevities.

Mr. William Packenham, teacher of English and modern language in the Smith's Falls high school, is home for his holidays.

The public school closed for the holidays yesterday, and will re-open the last Monday of August. This will be a season of delight for every boy and girl, but for the mother who has the task of subjugating half a dozen unruly youngsters, the holidays to her will not be a source of unalloyed happiness.

The Mark street Sunday school excursion yesterday, to Jubilee Point, was a decided success. The boat left the wharf at 8.15 in the morning, arriving at the Point about eleven. The party left at 4:30 and reached town before night. The Mark street Sunday school which a few years ago counted but a small number of scholars is now grown to large dimensions. This growth, in a great degree, is due to the untiring energy of the superintendent, Mr. A. Russell. While the Sunday school has been making rapid growth the congregation has also been rapidly progressing and particularly is this so during the regime of the present pastor, the Rev. A. C. Wilson, who is an indefatigable worker for his church.

A Mysterious Death.

A Young Man Shot in His Own Chamber—Supposed to be an Accident.

A shocking affair occurred in the township of Emily last night. William H. Weir, a son of Mr. Robt. Weir, of the eighth concession, retired to his room just about dark, and in a couple of minutes afterwards the report of a pistol was heard. The young man's sister ran up to his room to ascertain the cause of the report, and, on pushing open the door, saw her brother lying on the floor. She spoke to him, but, receiving no answer, went closer to the prostrate body. She was horrified to perceive that he was stone dead, with a bullet hole in his breast.

The only tenable conjecture as to the cause of the young man's death, is that it was the result of accident. He had worked as usual all day, and in the evening had a long talk with his cousin, Mr. Robt. Leary. He was to all appearances in a cheerful, contented frame of mind, and as was his custom retired at an early hour, just at dusk. It is presumed he was examining the pistol when it was accidentally discharged. The weapon was found in the room with the dead body.

The parents and family of the deceased are greatly distressed over the affair and scarcely know what to think. The supposition of murder is, however, out of the question, while suicide is equally improbable.

He was but 29 years of age. His bereaved relatives will receive the sincere sympathy of all their neighbors and relatives, of whom there are quite a number in town, in their sad and sudden bereavement. The funeral takes place to-morrow at two o'clock.

A Sad Affair.

A Young Woman Deserted and Left to Die.

Last March a couple who called themselves Mr. and Mrs. Edward Green entered the boarding house of Mr. Lacheur, Aylmer street. They were both strangers in town, the man being well up in years and the woman about 25 years of age. After two or three days Green left the town and has not been seen since, though the so-called Mrs. Green remained at Lacheur's. Last night she was confined and gave birth to a girl baby, and to day is reported to be dying, with neither friends nor relatives about her. It is now believed almost to a certainty that she is not married to Green at all, but was brought here by him for the purpose of getting rid of her. It has been ascertained that her maiden name was Georgie Nelson, and her widowed mother lives on Coleman street, Belleville. The police are corresponding with the Belle will authorities with a view to notifying Mrs. Nelson. The doctors say the young woman cannot live.

Green, it is said, is a married man with a large family, but very little is known about him. He is reported to be working with Mr. Buck, the Norwood lumberman.

Their Eighth Victory.

The Association Baseball Team Add Fresh Laurels to their Record.

The Association team scored another win yesterday afternoon, when the Athletics were defeated. The game was very ragged at times, both sides being guilty of rank errors and loose playing. Each club put about their strongest nines in the field, and the Association team was strengthened by Cox and Sanderson, two former Peterborough boys who are at present in town.

Taber pitched throughout for the Athletics, but their opponents had a variety of twirling. Brennan was in the box the first three innings, and Allison took the fourth and fifth, Brennan resuming in the sixth. Then Cameron pitched the last three and few runs were made of his curves. Sanderson caught a fine game throughout.

Following is the score:—

The Lindsay Excursion per Steamer "Cruiser."

(From a Correspondent.)

On Tuesday morning at 8.15 we left Lakefield on the str. "Cruiser," and a pleasant, rapid run was made to Burleigh, thence to Lovesick, Deer Bay and Buckhorn.

On leaving Buckhorn, Capt. Grylls placed the boat in the hands of Capts. Eden and Tobico as pilots, who guided us safely through to our destination. We arrived at Lindsay at five o'clock.

After tea we strolled through Lindsay, viewing its public buildings, churches, market, customs house, business places, etc. Their main street is a fine one; in many respects they are ahead of us, but we can boast of electric light, which as yet they do not possess, while their streets and sidewalks are a long way behind ours.

In the evening the Lakefield Fencing Club gave a performance in the Opera House to a rather slim crowd, owing to defective advertising. The boys as usual did well, and were well applauded by those who were present.

Next morning was drizzling a little, but at 8.45 we steamed off on the homeward trip, taking in Sturgeon Point, which is a very pretty place.

Everyone was delighted and pleased with the varied scenery of the trip, a very pleasant time being spent by everyone, while to break the monotony, singing was indulged in, accompanied by an organ, which the manager had placed on board for the occasion. So delighted were we all with the trip that the following testimonial was got up and presented to Mr. Henderson, the manager, for himself, the captain and crew of the steamer:—

We the undersigned passengers on the trip to Lindsay, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 25th and 26th, per steamer "Cruiser," desire to say that we have enjoyed the pleasures and beauty of the trip from Lakefield to Lindsay and back, and would convey our thanks to the Manager and crew for their efforts to secure our pleasure and comfort on the trip:—

A GROUP OF MILLIONAIRES

THE NITRATE KING OF LONDON PASSES THROUGH TORONTO.

Something About England's Most Noted Financier—His Great Belongings—Other Queen City Topics.

TORONTO, July 6.—Col. John Thomas North, the Nitrate King of London, Eng., a party of ladies and gentlemen, all millionaires like himself, passed through Toronto last evening en route from Niagara Falls to Kingston and Montreal. The party represents over $100,000,000 in wealth, says a New York paper of yesterday. Col. North has been down on the South American coast, where his great nitrate mines are located, and he and his friends are now doing the northern country and enjoying its cool breezes. Col. North's income is now said to be about $10,000,000 a year. It may be about $100,000,000 a year within a twelvemonth. The man is a marvel, a "modern Monte Cristo." What he touches turns to gold, not only in his own hands but in those of his friends, partners and associates. Even the poor "widows and orphans," who are popularly supposed to pay so much into and get so little out of the London share market, have never so far failed to glean a handsome profit on investments in the Nitrate King's companies.

Col. North was a mechanical engineer in Leeds about thirty years ago. He is now about 48 years of age. At he sits with his son Fred., a bright, earnest, thoughtful-looking young Englishman, on one side of him, and his wife, a charming matron of about forty, on the other, "the marvel of modern financiering," as Baron Alfred de Rothschild called him, loves like a hard-working, unassuming Englishman, whose brain is as quick as his light-blue eye, and whose heart is as open as his smile. Col. North's nose is quite prominent, "the nose of success," a physiognomist would call it, and his face is burned to a fiery hue by South American suns. His figure is stout, his height about 5 feet 9, his closely trimmed whiskers ruddier by a good deal than the brownish hair he brushes carefully over the protuberant baldness of a head which houses great enterprises.

Arthur North, the rosy lad at his side, is a manly fellow of 22, already developing an inherited aptitude for affairs. Campbell North, the Colonel's brother, is not so stout nor so rosy as his brother, but a handsome and able fellow withal. The three belles of the party are Miss Emma North and her friends, Miss Smith and Miss Hunt. A charming trio of fresh-colored English lasses, clear-eyed and fair and smooth of complexion, simple in dress and unaffected in manners.

Miss North, who now, at the age of 20, may be rightfully considered one of Great Britain's chief heiresses, is a tall, slender girl of finely modelled figure, eyes of a dark, grayish blue, a very straight and captivating nose and a glance as frank as a peasant's maid might be. Anybody would vote her a pretty girl.

Others of this party are, besides Mrs. North, Mr. Taylor, who married Mrs. North's sister, and who looks like the pictures of John Bright in his younger days; Mr. Jewell, Col. North's partner in many enterprises, a dark, good-looking, stalwart Englishman of some 47 years of age; "Jack" Cardwick, Col. North's sporting friend, a high-colored, sharp-nosed and very clean and pleasant-looking young man—who will "bet you two to one" on almost anything; Mr. Smithers, Col. North's chief broker, a big, tall, very dark Englishman, very dignified in manner, smooth-faced save for bushy black whiskers under his ears and clear-eyed, as a man of such various business affairs ought to be; Mr. Spenser, an able young member of Parliament from West Bromich, whose blonde, fresh face belies his 40 years, and his wife, a handsome, dark woman in a blue check dress.

What are the nitrates? Nothing more than a fertilizer in which nitrate of soda is the chief constituent, and which is found on the mountain plateaux of Chili. There at Iquique, a city of 30,000, half way between Callao and Valparaiso, for example, where the Nitrate King employs thousands of workmen, he is indeed a king, with his factories, his waterworks, his shipping and his railroad. He has large interests in Belgium, company after company in London, steamship lines and railroads in many places. So rapidly does he develop what comes into his hands Col. North actually forgets what and where some of his properties are. Primitiva-a-Tarapaca is the site of one of his great nitrate works. The railway he has built from Iquique to Pisaqua is a most wonderful road. It zig-zags up and down the Cordilleras in the solid rock for forty-eight miles. The engines that draw cars on that road are "double-enders" in reality—exactly alike at both ends, with two smoke-stacks and only one cab.

The party will arrive in New York in time to sail for England on the Servia a week from to-day.

The millers of Ontario will meet in Toronto on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. It will be the most important gathering of those engaged in the milling interests that has ever taken place in Canada. Many questions affecting the interest will be discussed, but the great and vital one is that of tariff revision. A united demand will be made for some change more favorable to the flour manufacturers.

Preparations for the convention have been going on for several weeks. Yesterday the general committee met and issued their supplementary circular, which informs the incoming delegates on all points relative to the convention. The Board of Trade and the City Council are making arrangements to entertain the visitors.

A tall, slim, stylishly dressed and quite good-looking young lady, accompanied by a nattily attired young man, were among those who got off the G. T. express from the south last evening. They went to the St. James' Hotel, where the young lady indited the following line on the register: "Miss M. Heeney and husband, Hamilton."

A boy named Edward Gillam, 13, whose grandfather keeps the restaurant at 31 Jarvis-street, while bathing at the foot of Frederick-street yesterday afternoon at 5.30 was seized with cramps and drowned. John Kelly, 141 Berkeley-street, recovered the body, which was taken to the Morgue but afterwards surrendered to the grandfather, Coroner Johnson not deeming an inquest necessary.

These appointments for Ontario have been made:

James Deacon, Lindsay, to be police magistrate for Victoria, salary $600 per annum.

Dr. R. E. Struthers, Algoma Mills, to be an associate coroner for the District of Algoma.

CANADA'S BIG RAILWAYS.

MAKING UNITED STATES LINES HUMP THEMSELVES.

"Some Scheme Must be Devised to Stop This Cruel Competition," Say the American Railroad Magnates

BOSTON, July 5.—The United States Senate Committee on Inter-state Commerce, which has under investigation the relation of Canadian railways to inter-state commerce, began its session in this city to-day. Senator Cullom presided. President Bliss of the Boston and Albany Railroad was the first witness. Mr. Bliss said he did not believe the Grand Trunk Railway should be prevented at this late day from doing business in the United States, provided they are subjected to all the rules and regulations to which American roads are subjected. It was wise to restrict the coastwise trade, and had it not been restricted it would have been in just about the same condition as the foreign trade now was. He had no personal knowledge that the Canadian roads were making reduced rates, but it was the general opinion they were. If they made reduced rates to individuals he considered that they failed to comply with the provisions of the Inter-State Commerce Act. If the system of granting subsidies to the Canadian roads was continued it would be an injury to Boston, as it would divert trade from Boston. If it was just to regulate the American roads so that they could not compete with water lines it was just also to regulate Canadian roads so they could not prey upon the American roads after they were tied up. If there is to be a regulation at all, all should be regulated.

Senator Blair tried hard to make President Bliss say that if Canadian competition was removed the American roads would surely increase their charges, but witness would not do so, stating that if Canadian roads were subjected to the same regulations as American roads the latter would have to take their chances in competition. He was not disposed to think the Canadian roads the public benefactors that the people thought them. If American roads raised rates the Canadians would probably raise theirs to such a point as would take business away from the American roads. He was in favor of uniform rates and thought they should not be changed oftener than twice a year.

Canadian roads should not be allowed to enter our territory unless under the same regulations as those to which American roads were subjected, unless they paid duties. Considering the greater length of the roads in Canada and other existing conditions on both sides, if the law were fairly enforced on both sides and both sides carried out its provisions honestly, the business of the American roads would be so increased as to enable them to deliver their commerce and travel from the west into Boston and vice versa cheaper than they were now enabled to do and cheaper than Canadian roads could do.

President Choate of the Old Colony road was next called. He said his road was probably less affected by the Interstate Commerce Act than any other road in the United States. He doubted if any law regulating the competition of Canadian roads could be enforced, though it would be a good thing to subject them to the same laws as our roads He believed there had been an increase of business over the Canadian lines since the passage of the Interstate Commerce Law. A large portion of the shipments of New England mills to China was carried over Canadian roads at much less rates than on American roads.

General Traffic Manager Whitman of the Fitchburg Road said the Canadian roads should be regulated in some way to control what they do south of the line from Portland to White River Junction. The people of New England were very little benefited by the Canadian lines and could get along without them. American roads were being seriously injured by the competition of the Canadian Pacific.

C. S. Mellen, General Traffic Manager of the Union Pacific, said the competition his road felt in connection with Canadian lines was in transcontinental traffic. The Canadian Pacific's increase in traffic was due to the too large differentials allowed it. If the differentials were done away with the Canadian Pacific would come in as a free lance and make such rates that no other road could do business at a profit. It could afford it on account of Government aid. The Canadian Pacific also had an advantage from the fact that it did not have to scale through rates according to local rates as the American roads did.

CONMEE V. THE C. P. R.

The Hearing Closed and Judgment Reserved on the Main Case until Aug. 1.

COBOURG, July 5.—The cause celebre, Conmee v. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company, which opened here before Chief Justice Armour on May 14, was closed this afternoon. It is the biggest and costliest civil action ever tried in the province. In the tie branch of the case a verdict was entered for the plaintiff, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company agreeing to pay Mr. Conmee $6000. Judgment on the North Shore contract, the main part of the case, was reserved by his lordship till Aug. 1.

SHE HAS FIVE LIVING EX-HUSBANDS.

Mrs. Johnson-McCane-McElmore-Halton-Furgerson Wanted a Sixth.

CHARLOTTE, N.C., July 5.—Samuel Nickson appeared before Registrar Cobbs to-day and requested a marriage license for himself and Isabella Davis. The license was promptly issued, but investigation soon revealed the fact that the woman was a polygamist, and she was arrested.

She was arraigned before a Justice of the Peace this evening. It was speedily proven that she now has living five husbands, four of whom reside in this State and one in South Carolina. Isabella is only about 32 years old and has a son of about 16 years, who testified against her.

She was married first in 1872 to Amos Johnson and they seperated the following year. In 1875 she became Mrs. O. B. McCane and lived with McCane until Christmas, 1876. In 1878 the Rev. Abram McElmore married her, and she left him in 1879. In 1885 she was married to Paul R. Halton, whom she abandoned the same year. William R. Furgerson was her catch last year, but she lived with him only a few weeks. All the ex-husbands are now living.

Paul R. Halton, after being separated from Isabella, married Jane Alexander, and he, too, must now answer the charge of bigamy. All the parties have been bound over to the Criminal Court.

Attempted Suicide on a G. T. Train.

PORT HURON, Mich., July 5.—A well-dressed man about 30 years old arrived here on the 10 o'clock train from the west last night and got aboard the 7 o'clock Grand Trunk train for the east this morning. Just as the train was pulling out of Point Edward he took a knife from his pocket and drew it across his throat. The train was stopped and physicians dressed the wound, which is thought to be dangerous. He cannot be identified and is supposed to be insane.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 152 in the United States this week against 211 last week and 149 this week last year. Canada had 13 this week against 35 last week. The total number of failures in the United States Jan. 1 to date is 8037 against 5401 in 1888.

Grover Was Not in the Carriage.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Joseph Jefferson telegraphs The Herald with reference to the reported accident to Mr. Cleveland and himself.

The account of the accident was exaggerated. No one was in the carriage when the horses ran away. Consequently no one was injured.

Murder Confessed.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Robert Russell, a burglar serving a long term in Joliet, confessed to-day that he was one of four men who killed Fred Clarke, a druggist, whose mysterious death caused a sensation some months ago. Clarke came here from Chatham, Ont.

An Oshawa Picnic.

OSHAWA, July 5.—A union picnic of 13 schools was held in Darlington to-day, the number present being over 4000. Wm. Smith, M.P. for South Ontario, occupied the chair, and among the speakers was J. J. Clark, the bootblack orator.

THE JESUITS' ACT.

Another Big Meeting at Montreal on the Equal Rights Basis.

MONTREAL, July 5.—The Anti-Jesuit meeting held in the lecture hall of St. James' Methodist Church was well attended and much enthusiasm was developed. The meeting was called under the auspices of the Citizens' Committee, and Dr. Davidson presided. Rev. Principal Caven was the first to speak, after the chairman had read the resolutions of the Toronto convention, upon which the Equal Rights Association was founded. He looked upon the passage of the Jesuits' Estates Bill as the culmination of a system rather than an isolated fact and indicating the dominancy of ecclesiastical power in such a way as to be dangerous to freedom. Provincial rights had come to be a fetish. While the provinces held a right to legislate for themselves, they had no right to injure the country at large, and if the Dominion was to be more than a rope of sand it must be prevented.

Dr. J. C. Antliffe then addressed the meeting and affirmed that if no other good came of the agitation they would have done their duty like British subjects. They did not wish to excite any feeling against the French-Canadians nor deny their rights, but when ecclesiastics or semi-ecclesiastics under the guise of politicians were seeking to dismember the empire they would have to act.

Rev. Dr. Douglas answered the question whether the Tri-color or Union Jack should wave in Canada in a few strong words.

Hon. Wm. McDougall dealt with the constitutional aspect of the case and asserted that there was a remedy in the Quebec courts, though Dr. Davidson expressed a contrary opinion.

It was resolved to form branch associations throughout the Province.

HON. JOHN NORQUAY DEAD.

Manitoba's Ex-Premier Passes Away Suddenly at Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, July 5.—Hon. John Norquay died suddenly this evening of fatty degeneration of the heart.

[John Norquay, M. L. A. for Kildonan, ex-Premier of Manitoba, was a native Manitoban, born at St. Andrew's, in that province, May 8, 1841. Mr. Norquay first came to the front after the troublesome times of 1869-70, his peculiar position as one in whom both whites and half-breeds—he had a strain of Indian blood in his veins—could have confidence, together with a forcible way of stating moderate views, marked him out as a leader. He was made Minister of Public Works in the first ministry after the settlement of the troubles in 1871. In 1872 he was an unsuccessful candidate in Marquette for the Commons. In the Assembly he sat for High Bluff from 1870 to 1874, since which he represented St. Andrew's continuously until the last election, being three times returned by acclamation and twice by large majorities. At the last election he presented himself for Kildonan and was one of the few Conservatives returned. He resigned with his colleagues, in 1874, but became Provincial Secretary in the following year and resumed the Public Works office in 1876. In 1878 he became Premier, being the head of the Norquay-Royal administration, in which he held the Treasurer's portfolio. In 1888, owing mainly to complications resulting from the failure to build the line of railway from Winnipeg southward to the United States boundary to connect with a branch of the Northern Pacific, Mr. Norquay resigned his place in the administration. Mr. Norquay owed his long continuance in power to a combination of talents, prominent among which were moderation, boldness tempered with judgment, eloquence and a capacity for ceaseless work.

At one time Sir John Macdonald took very kindly to Mr. Norquay, but in the latter days of the big Manitoban's power, the Old Man seemed to have gone back on him, and with this he "lost his luck." Deceased was a frequent visitor to Toronto and whenever he was in town his room at the Queen's was generally besieged with politicians and callers. After the downfall of his government in 1888 he never seemed to be the same man, and he suffered keenly from anxiety and worry, the Prairie Province being in a bad financial state at the time.]

THE COMING BATTLE.

Officials Trying to Prevent the Sullivan-Kilrain Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, July 5.—A. E. Ferris, Adjutant-General of the State militia, arrived in New Orleans this afternoon and was driven post haste to the office of Captain Benham, commander of the Louisiana Artillery. He ordered Captain Benham to call out his company to prevent the Kilrain-Sullivan fight taking place in Louisiana. It is said Governor Nicholls will not permit the inertness of the sheriff to overcome his proclamation forbidding the fight.

CINCINNATI, July 5.—Kilrain and his party left this morning on the regular train for New Orleans. A goodly party assembled to see them off. Kilrain was very animated in his talk concerning a report in a morning paper that he had yesterday indulged in nine or ten rounds of beer with his party at a saloon and never decreased the size of his glass. He said it was a mean lie intended to injure him in the estimation of his friends in the East. He declared he was in excellent condition, that he had not been fairly treated in this Sullivan town, but they would all hurrah for him after he had whipped Sullivan, as he proposed to do. Other members of the party denied the drinking story except that on the assurance of Dr. Wainwright that it would do him good Kilrain drank one glass of beer.

The party was much troubled this morning by the appearance in the car of a well-known Ohio detective. The notion seized them that he was going to ride with them to Mississippi and there make an arrest in the hope of getting a reward. They questioned him and he pretended ignorance of the presence of the Kilrain party, but afterwards said he was only going to Lexington to arrest a man. The party cheered lustily as the train moved out and a faint response came from the spectators.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 5.—The Kilrain party passed through this city to-night. Detective Norris of the Pinkerton force was on the train. The impression prevails that he is going to accompany Kilrain to Mississippi and arrest him there so as to obtain the reward offered by the Governor of Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., July 5.—Governor Lowry has sent the following telegram to all sheriffs on the southern border of Mississippi where it is possible for the Sullivan-Kilrain fight to take place: "Do not allow the prize fight to take place in your county. Take steps to be at State line if necessary on both the Northeastern and Nashville and Louisville roads. Send a reliable man to New Orleans to telegraph you on what road and what moment the excursion starts. If your force is distant from telegraph office have relays to give you the information. If the fight takes place on Mississippi soil I will pay one thousand dollars for the arrest and delivery of Sullivan and Kilrain to the sheriff of the county of its occurrence. The payment of this reward applies to officers as well as to private citizens."

Suicide Near Enfield.

OSHAWA, July 5.—Jeremiah O'Leary, second son of John O'Leary, a well-to-do farmer residing near Enfield in the Township of Darlington, has been slightly ailing and in low spirits for some time. Between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning he got up and went out. His people had no suspicion of anything wrong, thinking he had gone after the cows to milk as was his custom. Not returning search was made and his body was found hanging from a beam in the hayloft. He was 29 years old, single, and of a quiet disposition. An inquest was deemed unnecessary.

The Dakota Wheat Crop.

ST. PAUL, July 5.—According to reports received by the Northern Pacific and the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railways, the wheat crop in Minnesota, South Dakota and North Dakota, although not as encouraging as early indications led farmers to hope, is being considerably improved by good rains within the last three or four days. It will hardly be an average crop, but is by no means a failure in any district.

Diphtheria Epidemic.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., July 5.—The report comes from Albany, 20 miles west, that black diphtheria has broken out in 113 families. Both churches and the schools have been closed, and the celebration yesterday was abandoned.

IN THE PAY OF THE POLICE

HERD'S LEAGUE DENOUNCED BY MR. DAVITT'S WITNESS.

Part of their Policy Was to Shoot Land Leaguers—The Canadian Wimbledon Team—A Crisis Averted.

LONDON, July 5.—Mr. Davitt opened his own case before the Parnell Commission to-day. The first witness he called was Mr. Loudon, ex-M.P., who testified that periodic famines occurred in County Mayo owing to rack rents. Witness assisted in founding the Mayo branch of the League. It never voted a farthing to foment crime. The murders of Lymes, Hudd and Kavanagh were the work of the Herds League, a part of whose policy was to shoot Land Leaguers. Herds League was in the pay of the police. It was organized by Whelan, who lost his life in consequence. Presiding Justice Hannen questioned the witness, who persisted that the police incited the outrages perpetrated by the Herds League. Witness said he did not inform the authorities because he would not put himself on a level with an informer. He had frequently denounced the Herds League publicly.

A Collision Averted.

LONDON, July 5.—The Daily News says that communications between the English and American Governments have resulted in an understanding which will avert any collision in Behring Sea during the seal fishing season.

The Canadian Wimbledon Team.

LONDON, July 5.—The Wimbledon team is securing excellent practice at Cambridge. This being vacation the customary match with the University team is impossible, but a contest was held yesterday with the Third Cambridge Battalion, in which the Canadian total was 906, being 90 3-10 per man. The Cambridge score was 805. Sergeant Mitchell scored 97 and Captain Rogers 96, Colonel Bacon writes the hope that this presages a good future at Wimbledon, where the team arrives to-morrow.

Toronto's the Place for It.

LONDON, July 5.—The closing meeting of the world's Sunday School convention took place to-night. Lord Kinnaird presided. The next convention will be held in 1893 somewhere in America.

Crofter Colonization.

LONDON, July 5.—The Commons Colonization Committee is taking evidence which will likely lead to important results. Mr. McNeill, the Imperial crofter emigration commissioner, declared that hundreds of families in Lewis, Harris, Uist, Benbecula, Barra and Skye are anxious to emigrate to the Northwest on terms similar to those granted to the recent party. A terrible state of misery is prevailing in many crofter districts. Mr. Celmer, secretary of the Colonization Board, strongly urged that £120 is inadequate to settle a family. It is said that Sir Charles Tupper also took this view after his recent visit to the Northwest. Sir Robert Herbert, the permanent secretary of the Colonial Office, while realizing the success of the crofters in the Northwest, urged Newfoundland as a desirable field for crofter emigration. The committee will report shortly, though it is hardly possible that the Government will propose a further colonization scheme till next session.

Distinguished Visitors En Route.

LONDON, July 5.—Lord William Cecil, a brother of the Marquis of Exeter and nephew of the late Lord Adelbert Cecil, sailed on the Parisian yesterday with Lady Cecil. Hon. Waldegrave, son of Lord Radstock, also sailed.

The Lake Winnipeg sailing to-day takes valuable Shropshire sheep and other stock for Ontario.

Bismarck Grumbles.

BERLIN, July 5.—The Reichsanzeiger publishes despatches from Prince Bismarck to the German minister at Berne, in which the Chancellor denounces the settlement of the treaty under which the Germans settling in Switzerland should be provided with a certificate of good conduct and indicates an intention to obtain a subsidiary treaty.

The Post, referring to the continued stay in Berlin of the British commissioners to the Samoan conference, expresses the belief that it is connected with the negotiations relating to the questions concerning the common sphere of influence of the three interested powers in Samoa.

Still Another French Cabinet Crisis.

PARIS, July 5.—The Gazette de France and The Cocoard assert that M. de Beaurepare, the Procureur-General, refuses to prosecute Boulanger for corruption, and that he has resigned. The same papers say DeFreycinet, Minister of War, refuses to consent to holding a court-martial on the case of Boulanger. It is also asserted there are other serious dissensions in the Cabinet and that a Ministerial crisis is imminent.

A Rise in Breadstuffs.

VIENNA, July 5.—There has been a large rise in prices of wheat and rye in this city and at Buda-Pesth.

The Dervishes' Flight.

CAIRO, July 5.—The Dervishes defeated at Arquin by Col. Wodehouse's troops have fled to the hills. The gunboats have cut off the Dervishes' water supply.

HAVANA, July 5.—Numerous fissures have suddenly appeared in the earth near Matanzas and have created great alarm among the inhabitants. Some fissures are 600 feet long, 24 feet wide and 20 feet deep.

A WRIT FOR $20,000.

Issued Against the Grand Trunk by a St. George Victim.

HAMILTON, July 5.—This morning proceedings were started in a suit arising out of the St. George railway accident. Mrs. Mary Jane Evans, who is represented by W. E. Sanford, had a writ issued against the Grand Trunk Railway for $20,000 damages for personal injuries sustained in the accident.

The body of the Clappison's Corners suicide was buried last evening. No one has yet turned up to claim the body.

THE LATE PROF. PHELPS.

The above is a portrait of the late Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., of Dartmouth College. He was a strong, able man, who stood high in the literary and scientific worlds. It is not generally known, but it is, nevertheless, the truth, that Prof. Phelps was the discoverer of what is known to the Medical Profession and Chemists universally as Paine's Celery Compound, unquestionably one of the most valuable discoveries of this century. This remarkable compound is not a nervine, an essence, a sarsaparilla or any devised article, but a discovery, and it marks a distinct step in medical practice and the treatment of nervous complications. It has been freely admitted by the best medical talent in the land, and also by the leading chemists and scientists, that for nerve troubles, nervous exhaustion, insomnia, debility, senility and even the dreaded and terrible Paresis, nothing has ever been discovered which reaches the disorder and restores health equal to this discovery of Prof. Phelps

Paine's Celery Compound is now being prepared in quantities, and can be procured at any reputable druggist. An attractive bunch of celery is to be found on every wrapper. It has become specially popular among professional men, mind workers, ladies burdened with exciting social duties and frequenters of the leading clubs.

The Minister of Education on the Schools.

Speech of Hon. G. W. Ross on Much Discussed Phases of Our School System False Inferences Refuted — The Facts Plainly Stated.

The reason for these amendments is obvious. When the trustees made up the list they knew, of course, who were Catholics, and consequently who were likely to be Separate School supporters. The assessor, if he possessed the same knowledge, was required to use it in the same way. By the consolidation of the statutes in 1886 trustees were relieved of the duty of sending to the clerk annually a list of the supporters of that particular school, and the duty of making this report to the clerk, which they were previously required to make, was withdrawn absolutely and transferred to the assessor. Now, as the duty of the assessor has been clearly substituted by the statutes for that of the trustees under the Act of 1863, it must have the same force—no more and no less—as the power conferred upon the trustees for which it has been so substituted. It follows, therefore, that as the individual ratepayer had to give notice under the old Act, in addition to the notice given by the trustees, so the individual ratepayer must give notice now, in addition to the entries made by the assessor. In a city like Toronto, with perhaps 1,000 ratepayers supporting the Separate Schools, it would be absurd to require the trustees for the Clerk, particularly when a complete list was necessary, whether there were any additions during the year or not.

TO MAKE A LIST ANNUALLY

But it is objected, secondly, that under the Act as it now stands any person may direct the Assessor to enter any ratepayer as a Separate School supporter and that the Assessor is obliged to act upon that direction. The words of the statute are, "The Assessor shall accept the statement of, or made on behalf of, any ratepayer that he is a Roman Catholic as sufficient prima facie evidence for placing such person in the proper column of the assessment roll for Separate School supporters, etc." It is alleged that under this provision of the law many Roman Catholics who prefer the Public Schools are coerced by their clergy into supporting Separate Schools, and we are charged with being parties to this coercion. Mr. Chairman, I cannot undertake to say whether the clergy of the Roman Catholic Church are coercionists or not; I have no reason to think they are; neither can I undertake to say how far they control their people in matters of this kind. But I do say that if any ratepayer goes before the Court of Revision and asks for proof that any Catholic desires to become a Separate School supporter and the proof is not forthcoming in the form of a notice from the Catholic himself or his agent (I am now quoting the Act of 1863, which in this respect has never been altered), then such Catholic cannot be assessed as a Separate School supporter. It is not a matter of assent or dissent or coercion. It is purely a matter of law, and without notice or its equivalent the status of the ratepayer cannot be interfered with.

It is said, however, thirdly, that His Honor Judge Sinclair decided that certain Roman Catholic ratepayers of the Town of Dundas should pay their taxes to the Separate School although they had given no notice to the Clerk before the 1st of March, as required by statute. But on what principle was this decision based? These men had for two years allowed themselves without objection to be rated as Separate School supporters—they had acquiesced in the act of the Assessor, and Judge Sinclair held that acquiescence was equivalent to notice, and in so doing he simply recognized a principle of law by which you could forfeit your title to every square foot of real estate you own. Instead of setting aside our interpretation of the law it

CONFIRMS IT, AS FAR AS IT GOES.

It therefore follows (1) that the law still presumes every ratepayer to be a Public School supporter; (2) that no man can become a Separate School supporter except by his own act or the act of his agent. And you must remember in this case that agency was allowed under the Act of 1863; (3) that the assessment roll does not bind the Court of Revision; (4) that the only evidence by which the status of a ratepayer who desires to become a Separate School supporter or vice-versa can be absolutely determined is notice by himself or agent, or, if I accept Judge Sinclair's decision in the Dundas case, the equivalent of such notice; (5) that this has been held to be the law by the Attorney-General, whose authority as an exponent of the Constitution very few will question.

It is said, next, that we provide by law for the representation of Roman Catholics on High School Boards, but make no provision for the representation of Methodists, Baptists or any other denomination. Now I want you to notice the disingenuous character of this objection. If we had denominational schools in Ontario as they have in England, the objection would be well taken. True, we have Protestant schools, whose claim might be similarly recognized, but they are in effect fully represented on all our High School Boards already. For some reason or other, which I have never yet seen fully explained, municipal and county councils in their appointments to High School Boards. The clergy of all other denominations ask the Houses to divide upon them; but now, maddened and chafed by seventeen long years of political obscurity, they have become reckless enough to repudiate their own acts and pretend—and after all it is but a pretence—to be custodians of liberties, which, if sacrificed at all, were sacrificed in their presence and with their sanction. This, sir, is the political warfare with which we have to contend; this the humiliation to which the great Conservative party for a place on the treasury benches.

ALMOST ENTIRELY IGNORED ROMAN CATHOLICS

IS PREPARED TO SUBMIT

I come next to consider that most disturbing of all questions—French and German schools—and I bracket these two because every objection that applies to one applies to the other. From an Anglo-Saxon standpoint they are both foreign languages, and national characteristics have very little to do with the question. In the first place I may be permitted to say that there appears to me to be a great deal of needless alarm about the so-called French invasion. So far as I have yet been able to learn, the indeed everywhere, have not taken possession of the lands they occupy by violence; they have not with arquebus or rifle driven out the original settler and entered upon his estate without fee or reward. Their practice so far has been to buy the lands they occupy and to pay for them the price agreed upon, and if they have multiplied in numbers and replenished that portion of the earth they occupy, they have the sanction of a pretty high authority for so doing. Even if they were as dangerous and obnoxious as they are represented to be, I think we have little to fear when we consider that according to the last census they number only 142,743, the population of the whole Province being almost two millions.

FRENCH PEOPLE IN EASTERN ONTARIO,

The existence of French and German schools is not of recent origin. They were recognized by the old Council of Public Instruction in 1851, when teachers were allowed certificates on passing an examination in the French or German Grammar in lieu of English Grammar. Indeed, so liberally was this discussion construed at that time that we find an instance in which the Board of Examiners for the County of Essex was directed on the advice of the Council of Public Instruction to grant a certificate to a teacher who was reported entirely ignorant of the English language.

Further prominence was given to the use of both French and German in 1854 by the authorization of certain text books in these languages, and in 1874 County Councils were authorized to appoint inspectors for every forty schools where the French language prevailed. Local superintendents in their reports to the Department make frequent reference to the use of the French language as far back as 1854.

I do not mention these matters to censure my predecessors. I am merely stating historical facts.

Redly the firelight shines through the room,
Chasing away all the shadow and gloom;
Light-hearted children are prattling in glee:
Father is as happy as can be;
For the wife and mother who suffered so long
Is getting her health back and soon will be strong.
And who is so happy as she is to-night,
As she thinks of the shadow that's taken its flight
the shadow of disease that darkens so many homes, and makes the life of wife and mother one of terrible suffering. How pleased we are to know that at last a remedy has been found for all those delicate derangements and weaknesses peculiar to women. It comes to cheerless homes with "glad tidings of great joy." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for women what no other remedy has done, or can do, and it is not to be wondered at that women who have been cured by it are so enthusiastic in its praise. It is the only medicine for women sold, by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers of satisfaction, or money returned. o

ITCHING AGONIES.

Every Night I Scratched until the Skin was Raw.

Body Covered with Scales like Spots of Mortar. An awful Spectacle. Doctors Useless. Cure Hopeless. Entirely Cured by the Cuticura Remedies in five Weeks.

I am going to tell you of the extraordinary change your CUTICURA REMEDIES performed on me. About the first of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on, when it began to look like spots of mortar spotted on, and which came off in layers, accompanied by itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scales, being formed meanwhile, were scratched off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the country, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and purchased them from my druggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one, and have been fully cured. I had the disease thirteen months before I began taking the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. My disease was eczema and psoriasis. I recommended the CUTICURA REMEDIES to all in my vicinity, and I know of a great many who have taken them, and thank me for the knowledge of them, especially mothers who have babes with scaly eruptions on their heads and bodies. I cannot express in words the thanks to you for what the CUTICURA REMEDIES have been to me. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as nice and clear as a baby's.

MUNCASTER'S

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER

A TALE OF TEARS.

"I cannot let you talk nonsense to the little creature," Lady Strathspey had said at first; but when, in the course of time, she found that her warning had been disregarded, and that the wrong was done, her slight feeling of annoyance became something very much stronger. This would never do, she decided, in some matronly trepidation. Men have been led into more absurd things than ever this might prove, she told herself, as the result of propinquity and country visits. This little daughter of the rector's was a sweet, lady like creature, and, if no one interfered, Angus might carry his amusements too far, and do something absurd and romantic. She was too thoroughly a high-bred woman, and let me add—too thoroughly a diplomatist, to let her anxiety and annoyance reveal themselves to either of their objects; on the contrary, she extended her really good-natured condescension to the Renfrews more cordially than ever. She talked to Prue about her pensioners as unceremoniously as her natural statliness of manner would permit; she called at the rectory once or twice, and never failed to send some graceful message of remembrance, through the rector, to his daughter; but, in the meantime, she did not forget that she had rather a difficult and delicate matter to dispose of.

Strathspey returned to the Coombe one evening, after a few hours' absence, to find her ladyship seated at her desk, writing a letter. He was not in the most cheerful of humors, and he scarcely remarked it at first; but, after a few moments' silence, she raised her head.

"I am writing to Gwendoline Framley Angus," she said. "I believe I forgot to mention to you that I received a letter from her yesterday, in which she speaks of coming to Coombe Ashley. Here it is—read it." And she handed him a double sheet of thick cream-colored paper, crossed and recrossed with delicate, flowing chirography, perfumed faintly with wood-violets, and stamped with a pretty monogram.

Strathspey opened it with a slightly heightened color. He remembered the young lady, well, as a superb, fair girl, with whom he had spent the pleasantest month of his life one summer a few years before, when he had chanced to meet her party at a wonderful little, many-balconied hotel, on the shores of Lake Geneva. She was a beautiful young creature, the belle of her first season then, as she had been the belle of the two seasons since; and, in spite of his claim of a distant relationship, Strathspey had only been one of a dozen others who were ready to fall at her dainty feet and worship. Still he could not help feeling a slight thrill, as the faint odor of wood-violets floated up to him, for he remembered she had been very fond of wood violets, had sentimentalized over them in a pretty, girlish way.

It was a very charming letter; graceful, full of pretty phrases, and nice little turns of speech; lady like, elegant—all that could be desired, and withal, tinged with a little spirit of delicate satire, which gave it a piquant sort of flavor.

"I am weary of amusing stupid people, and being stupidly amused, dear Lady Strathspey," she write, "and I believe that a visit to Coombe Ashley would be a means of recruiting me for next season's exertions. Even debutantes are allowed a few weeks' rest from their difficult labor of charming and being charmed, and I am not a debutante, you know. Pray do be good enough to invite me to spend a month among the barcken with you."

"I am writing to repeat my old invitation," said her ladyship, carelessly, as Strathspey returned the missive to her. "I shall be very much pleased to see her. She is a very charming girl, I believe, though I only remember her as a child."

Nothing more was said at the time. She finished her letter, and the next day it was on its way to England; but regarded, as a stroke of diplomacy, the double sheet of cream-colored paper, with its soft fragrance of wood violets, had been a success. For a moment it had blotted out the innocent face and tender eyes, the winter evenings spent in the rectory parlor were forgotten, the rector's daughter was a myth, and Strathspey had gone back to the time when he sauntered on the shores of Lake Geneva, talking graceful nonsense to Gwendoline Framley, and carrying her dainty parasol.

But still the impression was not strong enough to destroy the older fancy completely, and in the course of a few days, he was at the rectory again.

CHAPTER VI.

"We are going to have a visitor at the Coombe," he said to Prue, during the evening. "You must come and see her, Miss Prue. She is a belle and a beauty; as great a belle as any of the heroines of the stories I tell you sometimes. I dare say she has even been presented at court," with a light laugh, "and broken as many hearts as there are buttons on that pretty dress of yours."

The brown eyes softened into that sober gravity which was so quaintly natural of them.

"I think I should be afraid of her," said Prue, staidly. "I am not accustomed to grand people, and I am always afraid of them."

"So am I," said Strathspey, laughing again. "It is quite natural, Miss Prue."

It was a lovely evening. To this poor, ignorant child it was the loveliest she had ever known; certainly it was the last in which she experienced unalloyed happiness. She sat in a low basket chair before the open window, the moonlight streaming in upon her white dress and fair face—a face so very fair and pure, contrasted in the mystic light with her great soft eyes, that watching her, Strathspey forgot himself, forgot the world, forgot even Gwendoline Framley, and spoke to her as man will often speak under the influence of a fair face and a sweet voice.

She listened to him with a wild thrill of happiness, her great, innocent eyes lifted up to his, as he leaned against the window, and looked down at her, more perfect and glorious, she thought, than he had ever seemed before. She looked forward to nothing—the future was nothing; it was quite enough to sit in the moonlight, and thrill at every word he uttered.

There was a box of mignonette on the window-sill, and as he was going away, he bent and broke a spray from it.

"Do you know what it means" he asked.

He had just bidden her good-night then, and she was standing at his side, a quiet little ghost of a white-robed figure, with a fair, hallowing face.

"No," the sweet, serious voice answered him.

"It means 'my little darling,'" he said softly. "Stay; let me fasten it in that ribbon at your throat."

He bent to secure it, and she raised her face a little—the fair girl's face, tender, innocent, truthful; and as the moonshine fell upon its pure gravity, it thrilled him so that everything else was lost to him. He stooped a shade lower; the big, golden mustache brushed her lips—he had kissed her once, twice, thrice.

"Forgive me, little Puritan angel," he whispered; "your sweet eyes were too much for me. Good-night."

And in a minute more she was standing alone, watching his tall, slender form, as he strode down the road, her heart beating in great slow throbs of tremulous happiness and pain.

She carried her mignonette up stairs to the little white bed-room, and laid it between the leaves of her Bible, as if it had been some sacred thing, and then she knelt down in the moonlight, and prayed a tender, girl-like prayer. There was no single doubt or fear in her pure trustfulness.

His sudden, tender kisses could mean only one thing to her—he loved her—he loved her!

As to Strathspey, he went home with a slight sense of discomfort upon him. Possibly he had made a fool of himself, he began to think, after a few minutes' deliberation. The temptation had been a great one; but, perhaps, after all, it had been rather an indiscreet thing to give way to it. He was not an absolute villain, of course; and the idea that he had probably gone somewhat too far had made him feel slightly uncomfortable.

It was not an impression likely to last long, but still it was there for the time being.

The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 883 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Monday's First Class Cricket.

The public are reminded of the match game of cricket on the Association Grounds on Monday between the home team and the St. Paul's School eleven. The latter so far on its tour has carried everything before it, and on Monday, when it meets the strongest batting team in Eastern Ontario a fine exhibition of cricket may be expected. This is the first of the half dozen first class matches which the home team has arranged for this month—and on their own grounds, too. The public can discharge the debt of gratitude they owe the home club by attending these matches. They cannot be put to without considerable expenditure, and the only means of recouping consists in the gate receipts at matches. Will the public who admire the noble game and wish to promote its interests, take the hint, and put on a full field of spectators to witness the first class match on Monday?

As Usual, the Best.

After numerous enquires, the Canton and Band answer by announcing the date of their annual excursion to Burlington Beach, via C.P.R., to Toronto, thence by the new Clyde built steamer, "Modjeska," to the Beach, on Tuesday, July 23rd. Fare for the round trip (good for two days) $2. Ferries will leave the Beach for Hamilton every fifteen minutes; return fare, 15c. This is with doubt the cheapest and most varied excursion that ever left Peterborough, combining the fastest rail and water route to this picturesque spot. The "Modjeska" has no equal for palatial demensions and speed on lake Ontario, her regular service between the two cities being scheduled at twenty knots an hour. The 57th Batt. Band and Canton, in uniform, will turn out to a man and do all in their power to insure the comfort and pleasure of those accompanying them. 1d

A Sad Fate.

The young woman named Georgie Nelson mentioned in yesterday's EXAMINER as having been cruelly deserted and left to die in a strange house with neither friend nor relative about her, died about half past four this morning. Chief Roszel to-day got a letter from the girl's mother in Belleville, stating that she was herself too ill to come out and care for her daughter, but asking the Chief in case the worst happened to procure a coffin and send the body home to her, along with her trunks, and she would bear the expense. When Georgie Nelson came here with the man who soon afterwards deserted her, she had with her a little girl, who, when the young mother took sick, was taken charge of by a kind-hearted married woman in good circumstances. The child's grandmother wrote from Belleville that she could not keep the little girl herself, but if she was sent down she would find a home for the little one. The child may, however, remain where she is and be adopted by the lady who is caring for her at present. The body of the dead woman is being prepared for shipment to her sorrowing mother at Belleville.

The Evangelists.

Messrs. Crossley and Hunter closed their fifth year of evangelistic work on June 25th, and are now in St. Thomas. The Journal of that city publishes a resume of their work during the past year. The entire number of names of converts received during the year was over 4,500, as follows:—Oakville, 340; Windsor, 700; Winnipeg, 1,052; Brandon, 445; Port Arthur, 50; Detroit, 700; Peterborough, 1,024; Woodstock, 400; Exeter, 750. Nearly all of those converted joined the churches. A few days will be spent by the evangelists in St. Thomas, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and family and Mr. Crossley will spend a few weeks on their Island Fairview, in Muskoka, two miles from Beaumaris. They need rest. They are engaged for union services for all of the next conference year, i. e., till July 1890. The places to be visited are: The city of Brampton, Montreal, Hamilton, Kingston and Brantford. They expect to open their first campaign about the 18th or 25th of August, and then on till conference. We wish them life, health and still greater success in the coming year.

The Bridges are Safe.

The Warder says:—Many enquiries are made regarding the safety of the bridges between Omemee and Peterborough. They are perfectly safe. The fact that many times daily freight trains laden with corn and square timber cross them, should satisfy the most timid of their stability. The number of corn cars that could be placed on each bridge would be more than four time as heavy as the number of passengers coaches filled with people would be. In short, a freight train would weigh from 900,000 to one million pounds, while the longest passenger train laden would not go beyond four hundred thousand pounds. Moreover the bents, or piers of the bridge are only sixteen feet apart, thus a coach would always be over three and possibly four piers at once. Further, every day there is a careful examination by skilled men of every part of each bridge. Those advancing the argument of the bridges being "weak," are hard up for a cry to prevent Orangemen coming to Lindsay. It is understood that before the crossing of any passenger train, much more large excursion trains the bridges are carefully examined. But they are as safe as any other part of the line. But we have written Chief Engineer Macklin, requesting that extra precaution be observed on the 12th July.

Aiding an Industry.

The Manufacturers' Committee of the town council met last night and conferred with Mr. W. H. Law, of the Central Iron and Bridge Works, regarding the proposed extension of his buildings. There were present the Mayor and Messrs. Cahill, Davidson, Kelly, A. Hall, E. H. D. Hall, Rutherford, Baptie, Kendry and Hartley. Mr. Law proposes to erect a large frame addition about double the size of his present building, at an estimated cost of $5,000. He finds this necessary in order to accommodate his rapidly increasing business. He is frequently obliged to refuse contracts because he has not the capacity to turn out the work. He has just been awarded a $30,000 contract with the city of Toronto for the supply of steel pipes, and in order to fulfil it he must enlarge his premises. Mr. Law thought the council should assist him, as they are assisting other industries, for as soon as the new buildings were put up he would increase his staff to 100 or 125 men, almost double the present force. This would be a direct benefit to the town. The committee looked with favor upon Mr. Law's request, and decided to recommend the council to grant him two year's interest on the money he borrowed in order to erect the new buildings, and also exemption from taxation of his whole premises for ten years.

Belleghem's Bulletin.

Every week Belleghem, the "Furniture King" makes a multitude of people happy. He starts them off with a marriage license the minister makes the matrimonial race a tie, and at the home stretch Belleghem greets them with a van load of furniture, and a life of happiness, in a cosily furnished home, begins, and continues too. There's nothing maintains the serenity of a wife's temper so much as neat well made furniture that is easily kept in good repair, and Belleghem's is that kind exactly—he never keeps anything else. And you won't find anything but first class goods in all the immense and varied stock that crowds the capacity of the three spacious floors of his warerooms. Every variety. Expensive for the wealthy, less expensive but equally strong and good for the less wealthy, and less expensive still for those lightly blessed with boodle. Don't run away with the idea that because the warerooms of Belleghem are gorgeous, grand and extensive that he has no goods suited to a poor man's purse. For he has goods that a navvy can afford to buy, as well as goods fine enough for a nabob. Rich or poor, it's all the same, can find the level of their purse at Belleghem's Warerooms, 188 and 190, Hunter street, Peterborough.

Music in the Schools

Prof. Ketcham, choirmaster of St. Andrew's church, is endeavouring to secure the introduction of the teaching of vocal music in the public schools. That he is well qualified to impart instruction successfully, the following from the Deseronto Tribune indicates:—"On Wednesday Prof Ketcham completed his term as instructor of music in the public schools of Deseronto. He proved himself an exceedingly capable teacher, the pupils having made wonderful progress since he took them in charge. Principal Cole and the other teachers in the school all bear testimony to the success which has followed Prof Ketcham in the various departments." Another issue of the same paper says:—"A visit to the public school reveals the gratifying fact that the pupils of the different departments are making rapid progress in the study of vocal music. Prof. Ketcham is a diligent and enthusiastic instructor and the new branch of study has, therefore, become very popular in the school. The children show wonderful aptitude in learning to read music and are already ahead of half of the choirs of the Province in this art so necessary to make efficient choristers. There can be little doubt that the study of music in the schools must prove very beneficial in its results. Not the least will arise from the fact that it tends in a most marked manner to impart to pupils a more distinct enunciation both in reading and speaking."

$25,000 DEBENTURES

To be Issued for the New Market Building

A Special Meeting of the Council Considers the Matter—A By-law Also to Aid the Pump Company—Providing a Market in Years to Come.

At the special meeting of the town council Friday night there were present Mayor Stevenson and Messrs. Cahill, Davidson, Kelly, E. H. D. Hall, A. Hall, Baptie, Rutherford, Kendry and Hartley.

The town clerk read a communication from Mr. E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, expressing his thanks to the council for their kindness in attending the funeral of his late wife.

THE MARKET BUILDING.

Mr CAHILL then moved the first reading of the market by-law. He stated that the Committee met the other evening and decided to leave the question of placing the market upstairs or down in the new market building to a vote of the people. The by-law presented by the committee provided for the issue of $25,000 debentures, to cover a period of 30 years, at 4 per cent. interest, with a clause providing that no more debentures shall be issued than are actually required. If only $18,000 was required, only that amount of debentures would be issued. He did not think all of the amount asked for would be required, but even if it was the revenue derived from the stalls would more than pay the interest and sinking fund. It was gratifying to know that the people were unanimous in their approval of the erection of the new building, and he could say that at the end of thirty years the town would own one of the finest market places in Canada. It was contemplated also in time to remove the town clock from its present location to the new building. The expenditure was a very necessary one and would benefit the town largely, besides, it would not cost the town a cent.

Mr. RUTHERFORD in seconding the motion, said that the erection of a new market building was recognized as a necessity, as the old one had been in use for 38 years, and it had not been satisfactory from the start. There was no dissenting voice against the erection of the building nor its location, but as to the market being upstairs or down. An argument in favor of the upstairs proposal was that there would be much better light upstairs, while if downstairs during five days of the week the building would be shut up and no business done. If the stores were downstairs the building would be always open and the place given a business-like appearance. He was surprised that Mr. Dumble and others raised so much objection to it being upstairs on the ground that it would be hard upon farmers wives climbing the stairs. He did not think this building should be erected just for the farmers, who had never done much for the town. The town built schools, railways and markets and the farmers come in and reap the benefit. In the old building the complaint had not been against climbing stairs, but that it was too small. He thought it was folly to talk about climbing stairs. Talk about "niggers in the fence," he thought there were a good many niggers in the fence, and there seemed to be a good deal of self-interest in the discussion that was going on. The people had asked for a good building, and the council intended to erect one that would be an ornament to the town.

After the first reading of the by-law, the council went into Committee of the whole on the second reading, Mr. Rutherford in the chair.

The by-law provided for the issue of $25,000 debentures, on the conditions as already stated, $1,000 to be levied on the assessment every year for interest and $450 for sinking fund. The by-law will be voted on on the 29th of July, at the same places as the municipal elections are held. The by-law is to receive three publications in the Morning Times, and a hundred copies will be posted about the town. The by-law was passed on the second reading.

CUTTAIRS OR DOWN.

Mr. CAHILL moved, seconded by Mr. DAVIDSON,—That a vote of the ratepayers, who vote on the by-law for raising money for erecting a public market, be taken at the same time and places, to ascertain whether they want the market for butter, eggs, etc., downstairs or upstairs; and that the clerk be instructed to provide ballots and any other papers necessary for that purpose.

Mayor STEVENSON made a statement concerning the towns financial position, which was excellent. In 1893 the debt would be lessened by $72 000, by the wiping out of municipal compound debt without touching the railway indebtedness of $57,000, which brings in $3 432 per year interest. As to the market, he thought it foolish to build a blank building, without any revenue, on such valuable land as that on the front of the square. He was anxious to draw some revenue from it. He thought the council should buy up all the leases of the ground on the market square as soon as they expired, for now the corporation was getting only a nomial $1.50 to $1.75 a foot ground rent for land worth at the least $2.50 a foot. This could be done with the money accruing as interest on the railway debt. Referring to the market building he proposed an elevator in the new building, and if that would not do as the market must be on the ground floor, build a one-story house on the back of the square where it would not be seen.

Mr. Cahill's motion was carried.

LOOKING AHEAD.

Mr. E. H. D. HALL said that the question of providing a new market place must soon come before the people of Peterborough, and this was another argument in favor of having stores in the new market place. In time the present square would be too small, but the market building would still be useful. In view of this contingency, he moved, seconded by Mr. Cahill,—That, it being desirable that the town should acquire the land lying between the C. P. R siding to the Dickson mills and the reservation for road along the river bank, extending from Sherbrooke street to Hunter street, the following be appointed to take such steps as may be necessary to secure the same for the town, viz., the Mayor and Councillors Davidson and Cahill. The motion was carried.

THE EARTH GIVES AWAY.

Mr. Davidson moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry,—That the trustees of the Nicholls Hospital be allowed to take what earth they require off Argyle and Sunnyside streets, to be taken off to the satisfaction of the Street Inspector.—Carried.

Mr. A. Hall moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly,—That the Town Treasurer be instructed to pay the Collector D. Menzies' taxes for 1889.—Carried.

THE PUMP CO.'S BONUS.

Mr. Davidson moved the first reading of the by-law to grant aid to the Ontario Pump Company, providing for an annual grant of $650 per year for ten years, the first payment to be made Dec. 31st, 1890, the company to employ at least 35 men for not less than ten month in the year. Voting is to take place on this by-law on July 29th, the same date as the market by-law.

After the by-law received its second reading the council adjourned.

"Accidental Death."

The Verdict of the Jury of Inquest into the Cause of Death of William Weir.

As announced in the issue of the EXAMINER yesterday, an inquest was held to inquire into the cause of the death of Mr. William Weir, of Emily, who was found dead in his room a few minutes after retiring with a bullet wound in the upper part of his breast. After a careful inquiry the jury arrived at the verdict—"Accidental death, caused by a defective revolver." The evidence disclosed the facts that the deceased retired early on the night of his death, he having been up late on the previous night. The evidence showed, also, that the young gentleman was in his usual health a short time before the accident, and in unusually good spirits. Five minutes before the catastrophe he was laughing and joking with the rest of the family. A defective revolver found near the body doubtless justified the jury in arriving at a verdict of accidental death. It appears that Mr. Weir had a revolver that did not work satisfactorily, having a trick of going off with great difficulty at one time and of discharging suddenly at another, and only the day before his death Mr. Weir was discussing the weapon and its peculiarities with a neighbour, and arrived at the conclusion that it must be repaired. It is supposed that on the fatal night, on entering his room, he casually took up the weapon to examine it, and that it suddenly discharged with the fatal result already known.

Ashburnham Brevities.

Some of the residents living in the neighborhood of the business part of the village are complaining of being unduly annoyed at night by drunken men hooting and creating a general disturbance on the streets. If this state of affairs is allowed to continue it will be a disgrace and the authorities should put such rowdyism down at once.

The river drivers in charge of the Rathbun drives of logs are moving to the common on the lake shore.

The corporation haymakers are on their annual trip round the streets. The crop this season is unusually good. This is not at all to be desired as it will cause extra labor and this, of course, means an increase of taxation which is sure to strike the hearts of some philanthropic souls, and constitutional grumblers.

That means that outdoor sports now supplant indoor lessons with the average young Canadian. These are subjects that are sure to occupy the mind and attention of the housekeepers, and make prominent their necessities at this season of the year. A PENNY SAVED.

Ben Franklin's favorite axiom that

"A pin a day is a groat a year,
A penny saved is two pence clear,"

should impress us not alone with the value of saving small things, but the great advantage of saving where dollars take the place of cents. On this score the bargains that we have prepared in our CROCKERY and GLASSWARE department, to last during midsummer, should appeal to the ladies of Peterborough and vicinity with particular emphasis. Each permits of the saving of several dollars over the prices usually charged or asked by other dealers. Look in and investigate for yourself.

25c. Fancy Striped Chambrays for 17c., handsome goods and perfectly fast color. The only reason why 25c. Chambrays are selling to-day for 17c. is one of our large wholesale houses imported more than they were able to find a market for at their value and were glad to sell them now, being late in the season, for what they would bring.

Our 5c. Lawns are of good serviceable quality, in fast colors, and as pretty patterns as we ever had in cheap goods. A problem how much did the operator earn a day that made them, and who paid for the dye, seeing there is 32½ per cent. import duty on colored lawn.

20c. Ginghams for 12½c. These goods are fra Glasgae. The patterns are large checks and fine hair stripes. Nothing you can buy will be lighter or wear better.

See our south window of Flannelettes, every desirable color to be seen at a glance, the very appearance of these Goods suggest coolness and comfort. Price 10 and 12 1-2c.

What do you say to fine soft finish light-colored prints, full width, at 5c. a yard. Those that see this notice and believe it will reap the benefit.

Prints opened out this week—50 new patterns in Prints in light and dark grounds. A fine assortment of Prints for children, cream grounds with fine hair lines and polka spots.

MILLINERY.—The millinery room is bright, with cheerful bits for children. All the light, airy shapes, aspangle with flowers and allutter with ribbons. If your fancy is among the little lot left of pattern Hats or Bonnets you can save all you would expect by buying now.

FINE STATIONERY

Are you aware of the many important makes of writing paper that abide with us, and occupy a leading superiority over all other makes. We enumerate some of our Special Lines:—

The Original Milton Mills.
This celebrated writing paper now so much in demand, is made from the purest fibre, is firm of texture and is reduced to a moderate price.

The Brown Holland—Calico Grey—Canvas Cream
A triumph of writing paper—the success of the year. They have made a conquest wherever shown, and their ascendency in popularity has been marked and rapid.

Antique Parchment.
The high merit of this production being so well known that further exultation would be superfluous.

The Favorite Grey.
That has been so long in high favor.

Piries' Real Vellum.
Renowned throughout the land for its high repute for office and social correspondence.

The Crown Parchment and Ivory Vellum.
Distinguished for its dead velvety finish, and a society paper which we are very vain of, and which has enshrined itself in the estimation of all lovers of beautiful papers, and is winning golden opinion every day.

The Bath—The St. Andrew—The Garter.
Excellent Medium Quality Paper, that will challenge comparison with very much higher priced papers, and always give satisfaction.

We are bold enough to assert that no practice so forcibly proves the existence of sound art tastes, of real gentility of mind, and of the fitness for high social positions, than the use of Fine Stationery. There never was a time when the best of Stationery could be so daintily offered as the present, when there are so many charming boxes to hold the materials—such pretty conceits in the mode of presentation, novel in design.

We have Envelopes to match all our Papers. We show the Newest and the Most Correct Styles. Later on we will tell you about other New Lines.

We will be pleased to send Samples of our Papers.

THE GOSPEL OF DYNAMITE

MR. DAVITT ARMS HIS ENEMIES WITH WEAPONS.

Combination a Game That Two Can Play At A Rupture Reported Between Bismarck and Von Waldersee.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Mr. Smalley in his London cable to The Sunday Tribune says: Irish news is not of a kind to please Irishmen in America. Agitation is almost at a standstill. Mr. Smith Barry's tenants, who came to London to invite him to abandon his fellow landlords, have gone back with a plain answer and a flea in their ear. The landlords have learned from the tenants the secret of combination, which has become a less popular game with the tenants now it is seen that two can play at it. Mr. O'Brien's new crusade has brought him instantly into collision with the authorities, and it seems likely to be brief in consequence. The confirmation of Mr. Conybeare's sentence to three months' imprisonment draws tears and shrieks from The Daily News, which informs its readers this morning that there has long been no justice in Ireland, and that now there is absolutely no law. Perhaps not; but there is peace in the House of Commons.

Mr. Davitt's examination and cross-examination have revived some interest in the Parnell Commission. He proves on the whole to be a damaging witness for the cause of Home Rule. His frankness, honesty and sincerity, his readiness to avow extreme opinions, his assertion of his own preference for complete separation between England and Ireland, his defence of the Manchester murderers—these and many other things have been so many weapons in the hands of his enemies which they have not been slow to use. They have startled the English public and dismayed the English Liberals most of all, who know what political use will hereafter be made of these materials. When Mr Davitt insists that the use of dynamite and the preaching of a dynamite crusade are consistent with Christian character, his more moderate comrades, who hold no such opinions, will escape with difficulty from the suspicion of holding them. The result, on the whole, of Mr. Davitt's testimony is to increase general respect for him and to show him to be a dangerous ally in a movement whose sole chance of success is in convincing the English public of its moderation.

A Gladstonian Victory.

LONDON, July 6.—An election was held yesterday in the West Division of Fife to fill the Parliamentary seat made vacant by the resignation of H. P. Bruce. Mr. Birrell, Gladstonian, was elected, receiving 3551 votes against 2758 for Wemyss, Radical Unionist.

Mr. Gladstone at Cardiff.

LONDON, July 6.—The freedom of Cardiff was presented to Mr. Gladstone to-day. Mr. Gladstone's speech referred to the American Constitution as a marvel of political wisdom, exhibiting the benefits of a devolution in contrast with the evils of too great centralization, of which France and Italy were examples. Mr. Gladstone spoke of the addresses sent him from New York and Illinois and said these and similar expressions of opinion on the Home Rule question from a nation rapidly advancing to the position of the primary power of the English-speaking races ought to give every prudent Englishman material for reflection.

A Row in the Spanish Chamber.

MADRID, July 6.—Yesterday in the Chamber of Deputies the Marquis de Armijo, Minister of Foreign Affairs, was defending the Government against an attack upon it by Senor Martos, when the members of the Opposition raised such a tumult that the speaker was compelled to stop. The excitement spread to the galleries. The President's cries for order were unheeded by the members, and the ushers were unable to restrain the visitors in the galleries. Finally the police were summoned, and with great difficulty they succeeded in restoring order, when the debate was resumed.

Discord in High Quarters.

LONDON, July 6.—A few days ago The Cologne Gazette startled its readers by giving a graphic account of how some Russian officers who were attending the jubilee banquet of the King of Wurtemburg at the barracks in Stuttgart, refused to drink the health of the German Army, which was proposed by the German officers present. The Gazette completed the account of the alleged incident by stating that upon being reproved by the Germans for their discourtesy, the Russians rose from the table and left the mess room. The report of the "Russian outrage" fired the entire German press, many of whose editors were anxious to declare immediate war with the country of the offenders. Two days after the report was published, however, Gen. Alvensleben, who was present at the banquet, in order to quell the excitement caused by the account of the incident, sent a correction to the press denying the report. The Cologne Gazette thereupon declared that although its information came from an unimpeachable source, nevertheless it would accept Gen. Alvensleben's statement, which it printed. The Hamburg Nachrichten, inspired by the German Foreign Office, now leads an attack on The Cologne Gazette, which it accuses of being a Russophobe. The Gazette retorts by saying that as an honorable paper it must insist upon the truth of the affair. The quarrel between these two papers, each of which is closely connected with the Government, proves that discord prevails in high quarters and lends truth to the report of a rupture between Bismarck and Count von Waldersee.

More Warships for Delagoa Bay.

LISBON, July 6.—Two vessels belonging to the Mozambique squadron will join the Portuguese corvette at Delagoa Bay.

Uncle Sam's Crops.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—During the past week the weather was especially favorable for growing crops throughout the corn and wheat belt. The winter wheat harvest is well under way with a good yield reported.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE CANADIAN RAILWAYS

NEW ENGLANDERS FAVOR OUR BIG CARRIERS.

Evidence Given on Saturday Before the United States Senate Commission on Inter-State Commerce.

BOSTON, July 6.—The United States Senate Commission on Inter-State Commerce continued here to-day. President Spear of the Boston Chamber of Commerce drew a statement to the committee. It included resolutions passed by the Boston Executive Business Men's Association deprecating any interference with the competition of Canadian roads with the New York lines. Mr. Spears gave figures to support this position and detailed the efforts of various trade organizations for relief from the unfair discrimination of the lines against Boston and in favor of New York before the interference of the Canadian lines. After this appeared, he said, the matter began to assume a different aspect and the American roads became more accommodating. The privileges between Canada and the United States should be exactly reciprocal. If Canadian competition were eliminated New England trade would suffer. Witness thought it would be a good thing to let Canadian roads locate their termini in this country. Mr. Spear said that in case of war if we had their termini their roads would not be of much use to them with the termini under the jurisdiction of the United States. Whatever commerce develops in Canada will be for the benefit of the United States. If the Canadian roads could be placed under the regulations of the Inter-State law it would be agreeable to New England. New England, however, was satisfied with the present condition of things and would like to be let alone.

President Goodwin of the Boston Executive Business Men's Association detailed Boston's disadvantages as compared with New York, and said these disadvantages would be increased should Canadian competition be withdrawn. Forty per cent. of the grain coming to New England comes by Canadian roads in winter. In summer the proportion is larger. The Grand Trunk was the pioneer in giving accommodations to the produce traffic and the American roads were forced to fall in line. The Inter-State Commerce Law affects New England adversely because all its traffic is inter-State, while New York has one line entirely within its borders. After the passage of the Inter-State law through rates were taken from a large number of New England points. The Canadian traffic tended to equalize the effect this had. The trunk lines had seemed to consider New England a ground for preying upon. Witness favored repeal of the Inter-State law rather than extension of its provisions to Canadian lines.

Wm. L. Putnam said the sentiment of Portland business men was against legislation interfering with the present bonded system of the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific roads. Mr. Putnam spoke of the connections west which Maine had established via Ogdensburg through Canada, and said they felt their investments were as much entitled to the protection of the United States as any investments made on our side of the line.

President Westcott of the Portland and Rochester road urged the retention of the present bonding system. S. M. Thaxter and Judge Cleaves of Portland supported the position taken by Messrs. Putnam and Westcott.

M. L. Sargeant of Boston, representing the Arkwright Club, and T. S. Edwards, Treasurer of the Cocheco Manufacturing Company of Dover, N.H., said that until the Canadian roads got into New England the mills had to pay an arbitrary rate of 25 cents per bale on cotton, but after the Canadian roads came in the American roads abolished this rate. The commission adjourned until Monday.

The B. & O.'s Cut.

CHICAGO, July 6.—The Chicago committee of the Central Traffic Association met to-day to further consider the situation in the light of the Baltimore & Ohio's reduction in the rate on corn and wheat. During the forenoon the Pennsylvania road issued a supplementary tariff applying its reduced rates to Boston and other New England points. The committee, after full discussion, decided not to meet the action of the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania at once, some members preferring to wait for instructions from the managers of their lines, and others holding off until after the meeting of the joint committee in New York next Wednesday. A meeting of the trunk line presidents will be held in New York Monday, when an effort will be made to induce the Baltimore & Ohio to withdraw its reduced rates. It is generally believed, however, that the Baltimore & Ohio has made big contracts with shippers at the reduced rates and cannot recede from its position until they are fulfilled.

CANADIAN CA..S.

The Solicitor of the U. S. Treasury Favors Their Admission Without Duty.

NEW YORK, July 6.—A Washington despatch to The Herald says the Solicitor of the Treasury is in favor of allowing Canadian cars to enter the country loaded without paying custom duties, provided proper guarantees are given that they will be returned empty. He believes in collecting duty on those cars which are used in American traffic and go back across the Canadian border loaded. They would probably be classed as carriages, which are assessed at 35 per cent. ad valorem.

Gen. Batcheller, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, said yesterday he was not especially familiar with the question, and did not know whether he should approve the Solicitor's findings or not. The Solicitor is a pronounced advocate of protecting American interests in every possible manner. He sympathises with those American railroads which hope by the assistance of customs regulations to divert much of the traffic, which now goes over Canadian lines to themselves. There are grave phases of the matter, which have probably not been fully weighed by the Solicitor of the Treasury in considering the purely legal points of the case. It is understood the attention of Assistant Secretary Batcheller will be directed to them with sufficient force so that he may at least act with full knowledge.

The Alton's Proposed Reduction.

CHICAGO, July 6.—It developed to-day that the Chicago and Alton's proposed reduction in rates from Kansas City to Chicago applies not only to cattle but to other commodities. The idea is to make the rate on cattle 22 cents a hundred instead of 27½ cents as at present, on dressed beef 23½ instead of 28, on packing house products 18 instead of 20, on live hogs 18 instead of 25. The Alton also proposes to reduce the minimum car load weights by 1000 pounds on cattle and 2000 pounds on sheep.

FIREBUGS AT COBOURG.

Hotel Stables and Sheds Burnt—A Lumber Yard Scorched.

COBOURG, July 7.—A fire which broke out about 3 a.m. Friday in the rear of the Queen's and Commercial Hotels burnt the Queen's sheds, the Commercial's stable and did much damage in Jones and Barnum's lumber and coal yards adjoining. George Plunkett of the Queen's loses about $800, insurance $400; James Griere of the Commercial $1500, insurance $700; Jones & Barnum $1200, insurance $500.

It is believed the fire was incendiary.

The "African Princess."

BUFFALO, July 7.—The following rather peculiar letter was received by License Clerk Jamieson of the Mayor's office yesterday morning. It will cause the bosoms of the dudes to swell with anticipation:

TORONTO, Ont., July 7, 1889.

GENTS.—I thought I would like to write you a few lines to see what is the best you can do for me for a love license a week or by day. I would like to exhibit the African princess.

Please drop me a card at once and let me know what you can do for me and oblige.

Sullivan and Kilrain Both Confident—What the Pugs Did Yesterday.

NEW ORLEANS, July 7.—Kilrain arose at about 9 o'clock this morning after a refreshing sleep and appeared bright and fresh. He was in excellent humor and conversed freely with his attendants and visitors. He remained in his room nearly the entire forenoon but about 11 o'clock went into the gymnasium, where a large number of members of the Southern Athletic Club and guests were assembled. At noon he, Mitchell, Murphy and "Pony" Moore breakfasted at a restaurant and then strolled about town, returning to the gymnasium about 2 o'clock.

Kilrain's condition had visibly improved. His eyes were bright and his movements much more quick and active than on Saturday. Mitchell appeared to be well contented with Kilrain's condition and said: "If Sullivan don't lick him in 20 minutes he won't do it in a month."

The members of the club, some of whom were disappointed with Kilrain's appearance on his arrival, changed their minds to-day and expressed themselves astonished at his development as well as at the improvement in his demeanor. Said one: "He's the most deceiving man I ever saw. To look at him you would take him to be a loose-jointed, round-shouldered fellow, about 5 feet 10 inches tall, with a small chest, long arms and not at all athletic, yet you should see him under excitement as I did. His form appeared to lengthen fully 3 inches, his chest bulged out, his eye flashed and he appeared able to knock down a mule with his fists."

Kilrain acknowledged the introductions to those present in a graceful yet quiet manner. After a time it was announced that carriages were in readiness to take the party out for a drive. Kilrain, Mitchell, Murphy, Moore and the others then retired to their rooms and packed their grips eeks. It had been given out the party was going to West End for a drive and no unusual excitement was occasioned by the departure of Kilrain. A large crowd was outside the gymnasium to watch for him but this has been the case since his arrival. At 3.11 o'clock the party entered a carriage and a committee of the Southern Athletic Club entered two other carriages.

When Kilrain and party appeared with their grips it was seen that the party was bound for the scene of the coming battle and not for West End. As Kilrain left the gymnasium, in reply to the adieus of the club, he said:

"Good-bye, boys, I'll be back with you soon and I'll bring you good news."

These confident words, accompanied as they were by a smile and a look of determination, evoked loud cheers. The party was driven direct to the Queen and Crescent depot, where a train consisting of a locomotive, a baggage car and two passenger coaches was found in waiting. Kilrain and some of his friends entered one coach and Sullivan and seven of his friends took the other coach. At 4 o'clock the train departed for the field of battle. At 6.30 o'clock this evening the arrival of both principals and their friends on the battle ground was wired.

The Artillery Under Arms.

NEW ORLEANS, July 7.—Last night Capt. Benham, commanding the Louisiana Field Artillery, received orders from Governor Nichols to hold his command in readiness to move at a moment's notice. The Field Artillery consists of about 50 men. At 3 o'clock this afternoon these had assembled at their armory. The men are armed with Springfield rifles. The appearance of the troops in their armories caused some doubts as to whether the fight would take place. Crowds gathered on the streets discussing the coming fight but good order prevails.

Sullivan's Fine Pitch Plaster.

NEW ORLEANS, July 6.—Sullivan continues to improve with the approach of the momentous day. Muldoon's watchfulness and scientific care show no abatement. Men who have seen Sullivan in all his battles have declared that he was never more fit in all his fistic career. Muldoon this afternoon was serenely confident. He said: "Sullivan is all right. I have more at stake than anyone else—even than Sullivan himself—and I am satisfied with his condition. If the fight is prevented by any cause we will go on training till the fight does come off. I have no doubt of the honesty and sincerity of Kilrain, but the men behind him I regard as tricksters. Sullivan weighs 202 pounds to-day and will probably take on two pounds a day more until the fight begins, which will bring him up to about 207 pounds. He is ready now and anxious to begin earnest work."

Sullivan will go into the ring wearing a plaster of pine pitch, which will encircle his body like a woman's corset and cover almost as much space. It was constructed in New York after a design furnished by Muldoon. It is made of buckskin lined with white muslin and covered with pine pitch. It fits tight like a belt and is about 12 inches wide all the way around. Kilrain will probably also wear one like it. Mitchell to-day said the wearing of such a plaster would not furnish ground for a technical objection.

Sullivan's seconds were decided upon six weeks ago, but the choice is kept a secret. Sullivan continues a hot favorite.

The "Genteel" People Favor Kilrain.

NEW ORLEANS, July 7.—There was nothing of a Sunday character about the aspect of this city to-day. St. Charles, Canal, Rampart, Washington and Prytania streets were alive with people, mostly non-residents, who have come to witness the great mill, and who are anxious not to miss any detail of the encounter. The demand for seats in the inner ring was so great this morning that by 10 o'clock the entire capacity of the ring, 800 seats, had been disposed of. Then it was whispered about that inner ring tickets could be purchased from speculators at from $25 to $40. Several tickets were disposed of at prices midway between the figures but in one or two cases outside prices were paid.

Col. Garrett, general Southern passenger agent of the Queen and Crescent, estimates there will be 2500 people on the ground and that the gate receipts will approximate $50,000. Of this the railway company only receives $2 a ticket—say $5000 in all—the remainder will be divided between the combinations after first deducting expenses. The understanding is that if from any cause the fight is prevented purchasers of tickets will get all their money back but $2 for railroad fare. The net receipts of the gate will be divided as follows: Sixty per cent. to the winner and forty per cent. to the loser.

Sullivan continues the favorite of the talent, but public sentiment is generally in favor of Kilrain. The genteel element of the community are almost unanimously in favor of Kilrain. At the club to-day the general sentiment was, "We hope Kilrain will win," but when a bet was offered the club men wanted 2 to 1. Even the ladies' sympathy are with the Baltimorean.

At Sullivan's head-quarter's to-day there was no departure from the usual air of quiet confidence. Among the visitors were Sheriff Mallory, Chief of Police Hughes of Louisville, Jack Barnett of New York and Charles T. Johnson, one of Sullivan's backers. They were entertained in the parlor by Muldoon while Sullivan remained in seclusion on the floor above.

Sullivan passed a lazy and luxurious day. After breakfast Muldoon gave him a shave, during the course of which he fell asleep and in that condition Muldoon left him. At 1 o'clock he dined—consuming three chickens with rice and chicken broth and a half loaf of bread. At 3.15 Sullivan, Muldoon, Cleary and Dan Murphy drove to the Queen Crescent depot.

To Fight at 8 (our time).

NEW ORLEANS, July 7.—Sullivan and Kilrain will have a quiet night and will enter the ring at 7 a.m. refreshed by a good night's sleep at Rickburg near which point the ring has been pitched, 103 miles from New Orleans.

WILL BURKE BE SENT BACK?

The Case to Close To-day—A Significant Statement by the Judge.

WINNIPEG, July 7.—The Burke extradition trial was continued Saturday, when certificates of Chicago doctors were put in proving the death of Dr. Cronin from Malenca. Though the prisoner's counsel objected the case was enlarged till Monday morning, the judge saying that all the evidence the prosecution had should be laid before him. The case will close Monday and if extradition is ordered the matter will come before the full court at once by way of habeas corpus.

A FATAL FIGHT AT DULUTH

SHARP SKIRMISH BETWEEN POLICE AND STRIKERS.

The Latter the Aggressors—Several of the Combatants Shot Dead and a Large Number Wounded.

DULUTH, July 6.—This afternoon about 4 o'clock the police were at Seventeenth-avenue on Michigan guarding 70 men at work in a sewer trench when two bodies of strikers came along and made a rush with clubs and rocks. The police stood their ground. A single shot was fired by a striker, and then crack, crack, crack went the rifles of the police, followed by a fusillade from the strikers' revolvers. A brief lull followed. On the walk lay a man shot through the heart and several more bleeding from wounds. Then the strikers, scattering themselves around various buildings, poured in a steady fire on the police. From 4 o'clock until after 5 the bloody work went on, and during that time the wounded were unable to leave the field. At least 35 men are badly wounded, some fatally. Many innocent bystanders were injured. Five strikers were arrested, all being ringleaders. Company K, 2d Regiment, assisted the police in dispersing the crowd.

The killed are Ed. Johnson, a leading striker, shot through the brain by Detective Benson when half a block away; George Peterson, beaten to death by policemen after he had attempted to kill Officer Hayden. The injured include George Contin, shot in right shoulder, not fatal; Edward Cummings, bayonet wound in groin, not fatal; Tom Fitzsimmons, aged 18, shot in the abdomen, will die; A. Falater, street car driver, shot in head, not fatal; Louis Nelson, shot in calf of right leg, not serious; Nat Hack, shot through body, bullet passing through thigh bone and coming out through the left groin, will die; Severin Nelson, bullet in head, will probably recover; Mike Olsen, one bullet through left leg above knee, three through scalp on left, part of head, and another in right forearm, very serious, but not fatal; Ole Stamprid, 18 bullet holes in clothes, scratched, not seriously injured; Officer Walkoviak, shot through hips; Officer Kilgore, shot through shoulder; John Shay, a spectator, one finger shot off while carrying away the boy Fitzimmons; Capt. McLaughlin, shot in hip, not serious; Sergt. Clements, shot in hand, wound slight; Officer Donovan, two bad wounds, one on hip. Private Farrel was seriously injured by an exploding cartridge.

Four thousand men were employed on the street and sewer improvements at $1.50 per day till last Thursday, when 1300 struck for an advance of 25 cents per day. The contractors refused to accede to the demands and the strikers have since assembled daily and marched, trying to intimidate other laborers to join them. There were many recruits daily, and the mob finally increased to 2500 or 3000. There had been rumors of impending trouble all day and the police were prepared for an emergency. Most of the damage was done by the first terrible firing.

GETTING READY TO EASE OFF.

The N.Y. Republican Organ on the Behring Sea and Fisheries Questions.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The Tribune (Administration organ) says editorially to-day: The important announcement is made by a London journal that an understanding has been reached between the American and British Governments by which the danger of a collision of naval forces in Behring Sea during the present season will be averted. As the British Minister at Washington has taken a special interest in this question, and as the State Department is believed to have exchanged communications with him before the sailing of the revenue cutters, it is possible that a temporary adjustment of the controversy has been arranged. It is not probable that there has been final action by the State Department with reference to the report of a Senatorial committee favoring the retention of the Behring Sea territories in dispute as a series of questions which can properly be included in a general agreement or treaty with Great Britain. Whether the conditions are favorable for the negotiation of such a convention is a point which Secretary Blaine may be trusted to determine. The British Minister undoubtedly would be well pleased to undertake the settlement of all outstanding questions at issue between the two Governments; and if the Canadians were moderate in their demands it might be practicable to settle the North Atlantic fisheries troubles along with the disputed Behring Sea jurisdiction and other commercial matters. But the Canadians are not disposed to be reasonable and hence the negotiation of such an omnibus treaty would probably be premature at present. We have no doubt that it will come in time, and if American rights are neither compromised nor surrendered it will be of lasting benefit to all branches of the English-speaking race.

White and Rowe Will go to Pittsburg.

BUFFALO, July 7.—After all the talk and excitement concerning the refusal of Deacon White and Jack Rowe to go to Pittsburg, they have finally decided to go and will leave to-night for New York. They will upon arrival sign with the Pittsburgs, take $1250 each of the Detroit release money, and draw $500 a month salary. They expect to play in one or more of the games against the New Yorks, and have left the management of Buffalo affairs to Will White, the pitcher.

The team will probably be strengthened soon; it will, at any rate, if players can be found. The Deacon says that the Detroit release money will be used by Rowe and him to strengthen the Buffalo team. They have offered Rochester a big price for Pitcher Callahan, Second Baseman Collins, and either Phillips, shortstop, or Griffin, centre fielder. The

The Market Building; a Compromise Suggested

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR—I like the idea of Mayor Stevenson to put an elevator in the new market building. Since there seems to be so much bitter feeling between the the first and second floor of the civic family I think the elevator idea a happy compromise. By its adoption one party will have their shops on the ground floor and the market room on the second, and the elevator will give the fifteen feet hoist to the contesation of the ground floor market room party. The first cost of an elevator will be the chief—the expense for water to furnish the motive power will be merely nominal, the elevator only requiring to be used two half days in each week during the year for market purposes. By using the elevator we retain the rental of the stores with all the advantages of a ground floor market room—the weak kneed will be gently elevated to the spacious second floor without effort and then everybody will be pleased. I think the ground floor better than the second with stairs, but with the elevator the second floor is just as good, and besides we have a large revenue from the stores below. Yours truly,

The Market Matter.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I have occasion to move around among the people of the town a great deal and have, therefore, an excellent opportunity of hearing the sentiments of the people, being inclined to converse with them in a gossippy, easy way. From them I learn that the prevailing sentiment, in regard to the new market buildings, is in favour of a ground floor market room. Everything is in favour of such a plan—the comfort, convenience and financial profit of the town patrons of the market. If we make the farmers' wives comfortable, we make them good natured. If good natured, they will give us townspeople fair prices. But if we force them to climb fifteen feet of break-neck straire, their temper will be soured and there will be a corresponding rise of the thermometer of prices. It is all very well to talk of the revenue from the rental of shops under the market building, but everybody is not disposed to sacrifice everything to money. If money making was the chief thing, we should rent our drawing rooms and dining rooms to boarders and get revenue from them and enjoy the discomfort of sitting and eating up stairs. Besides, it does not seem fair that the corporation should enter the list as landlords against private individuals. What encouragement is it to capitalists to build up the town if the town itself enters the lists as competitors with all the advantages a town possesses. The public don't want to sacrifice everything for money. The people demand a ground floor market room and they should have it. There is no reason they should be compelled to struggle up stairways in order that the council, which has made a mess of the finances, wish to increase the revenue, which, if properly expended, is quite sufficient. I hope the people will turn out en masse and cast their votes in favour of a ground floor market.

Yours, etc.,
AGENT.

Farmers' Institute.

Annual Meeting of the West Peterborough Institute — Election of Officers and Other Business.

The annual meeting of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute was held Saturday afternoon in the council chamber. Mr. Dawson Kennedy, President, occupied the chair, and there were present the Secretary, Mr. John A. Davidson, the Treasurer, Mr. John Stothart, and Messrs. T. E. Bell, H. C. Garbutt, G. W. Mann, Edward Kerr, J. Netherly, G. J. Galvin and Thos. R. Mann.

There was some discussion over the question of establishing monthly stock fairs, all those speaking being in favor of the scheme but differing somewhat as to the best means to carry it out. As the meeting was not a large one further discussion was postponed till another meeting, when a fuller attendance will be present.

The officers were then elected as follows:

PRESIDENT—Dawson Kennedy.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT—H. C. Garbutt.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT—T. E. Bell.
SECRETARY—John A. Davidson.
TREASURER—John Stothart.
DIRECTORS—G. W. Mann, Otonabee; G. J. Galvin, Wm. Garbutt, Dcaro; M. E. Sanderson, Hugh Davidson and Wm. Graham, Smith; Wm. Crough, Eanismore; Jas. Tully, North Monaghan; Wm. Rutherford, South Monaghan.

The President and Secretary were appointed delegates to the Central Institute.

The President said that the Central Institute wished all the Farmers' Institutes to consider the advisability of establishing winter dairying in the county, a subject which was to be introduced at the next public meeting by Prof. Robertson. Mr. Kennedy himself was in favor of it.

There was little discussion on the subject.

The President stated that the expenses in connection with the Union Farmers' Institute picnic amounted to $10, or $2 to each of the five Institutes participating. The Secretary was instructed to send out accounts to each of the Institutes and pay the West Peterborough Institute's share.

The Secretary read his report of the year's proceedings, and the meeting adjourned.

WEATHER NOTES.—June will long be remembered for its amount of rain-fall, sudden and extreme changes, coming in with a little rain, after our severe storm on the last of May. On the morning of the 2nd the thermometer stood at 40° and on the verge of a white frost. During the next three weeks little change took place, not amounting to 10° any night or morning, when, again on the morning of the 23rd, the thermometer again stood at 40°, giving indications of frost, but from that to the end of the month a higher temperature prevailed, on the 27th, at 2 p. m., reaching 90° in the shade, the 28th at 84°, the 29th at 90°, and on the 30th, at noon, the thermometer stood at 90°, leaving the average of the month at 63°, exactly the same as June of 1888. Rain fell on 15 days to the depth of 3 inches and 7/100 of an inch, while June of 1888 had only 1 inch and 87/100 of an inch. We had thunder 3 times but always at considerable distance, fog on 5 mornings and auroral lights on the 27th. The first head of clover was seen on the 5th, the first timothy on the 8th, first fall wheat on the 9th, and first barley on the 17th. The following are the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month, respectively, namely:—South east 5 days, north east 4 days, east 4 days, south west 6 days, north west 4 days, west 6 days, and north 3 days.

DRINKING

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE

Some drink because they are hungry,
And some because they're dry,
Some drink to keep them in good health,
And some that they may thrive.

Some drink because they are too hot,
And some because they're too cold,
Some drink to strengthen them when young,
And some when they are old.

Some drink to keep them wide awake,
And some that they may sleep,
Some drink because they merry are;
And some because they weep.

Some drink when they do money gain,
And some because of loss;
Some drink when they are pleased,
And some when they are cross.

Some drink when they are hard at work,
And some when they do play;
Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all mustown the proverb true:
"When iron's hot to strike it"—
I've just found out the reason why—
All drink because they like it!

MUNCASTER'S

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER

A TALE OF TEARS.

Once or twice during his acquaintance with his rector's daughter, he had actually found himself almost unwisely in earnest; and that he had been unwisely in earnest to-night, cool reflection showed him. A vision of Lady Strathspey rose in his mind, and then—shall I acknowledge it—came the remembrance of the cream-colored letter, with its odor of wood-violets. It was odd how, as this recollection became stronger, his thoughts veered and faltered. Perhaps a few minutes before he had been nearer the dangerous weakness of doing something absurd and romantic, as Lady Strathspey put it, than he had ever been before; but the memory of the odor of wood-violets brought him back to the world of realities. This little creature, with her gentle Puritan ways, was not the woman to be Lady Strathspey, fair and pure as she might be; but Gwendoline Framley was another person. "I am afraid of grand people," Prue had said. Gwendoline would have "cut" the Dowager Duchess of Bucclough herself, if she had deemed it necessary, as calmly as she would have ignored Mrs. John Smith at a charity ball.

The windows of the Coombe were brightly lighted, he saw, on reaching the lodge-gates, and, on entering the house, he suddenly remembered that his mother had told him that her guest would be likely to arrive at a late hour. It was quite possible that she had arrived a day or so earlier than anticipated. He crossed the hall with a quick sense of expectation, and opened the door.

Yes, she had come. She was standing near a table, turning over a portfolio of engravings, the light shining upon her hand and delicate profile, even the simple posture which she had fallen into showing the perfection of thorough-bred grace, from the turn of sloping shoulders to the sweep of her light dress.

She had been beautiful as a girl of seventeen, he remembered; but at twenty, her beauty had more than fulfilled its promise. Her delicate face had more repose; every feature was as clear cut as a cameo; her blue-gray, velvet eyes, under their thick lashes, had that almost translucent darkness which no other eyes ever have.

She looked up as he approached, uncertain a moment, and then her face lighted as only a pretty, graceful girl's can.

"I don't think it would be easy for us to have forgotten each other," she said, answering his welcome, by giving him her slender hand. "That month on Lake Geneva would be hard to forget."

It was nothing more than a graceful, idle, girlish speech; but the translucent eyes, and the patrician face made it worth the remembering. Gwendoline Framley belonged to this world of his, which he feared so much, and probably, the first sound of her clear, musical, thorough-bred voice, sealed the fate of the rector's daughter.

He did not call at the Renfrews again that week. As Lady Strathspey had expected, Gwendoline Framley filled his time, and, in a certain graceful fashion, held him at her side. Time did not hang so heavily at the Coombe, after her arrival, he found. A morning spent in the great parlor, with the windows thrown open, the breeze from the sea coming over the hills fresh with an added scent of heather, and the fair face bending over some pretty work, as he read aloud, was not so wearing after all. Gwendoline was possessed of the wonderful gift of listening well—possibly it had been a part of her young ladylike training; but however that was, she certainly acquired the art to perfection. She never spoke at the wrong time, never made remarks unadvisedly, always looked interested, never indifferent. Her interest was a graceful, well-trained, well-cultivated interest, and even when assumed, as in the course of her experience had frequently been unavoidable, it had never betrayed itself. Since she had been "out" she had listened to men who had bored her, and men who bored themselves; but she had always listened well: and now that she had encountered a man who was in no danger of proving tedious, she was naturally very charming. Strathspey found her so in more ways than one. Even the perfect, elaborate toilets, which appeared so adaptedly at all times, with their flower-like freshness, were an additional charm to him. Prue had pleased and amused him. Gwendoline ruled him with her conscious, in-born self-possession; and when such a man is so ruled, by such a woman, his fate is sealed for him. There was no fear of the world's opinion in this case. Gwendoline Framley held her place from her childhood among the very people whom he feared. She had been the most popular belle of her season, and the men who would have snarled at the romance of a marriage with his rector's daughter, would envy him, almost savagely, if he won her for his wife. He was less a hero than anything else, I believe I have said already; and so, letting all these things drift before him idly, he forgot his uncomfortable sense of having done a wrong, and remained at the Coombe, playing the pleasant role of cavalier to his mother's guest, while Prue waited patiently for his coming, and her patient waiting was in vain.

She had heard of the arrival of the expected guest, and made it his excuse. Lady Strathspey would wish him to remain with them, she told herself, and it was but right that he should remain; but still she could not restrain a soft little sigh, at the remembrance of the quietly happy days, when there had been no one to come between them.

She was half afraid, when Sunday morning arrived, at the prospect of meeting this beautiful new comer, and she dressed herself with no small amount of trepidation. The Strathspey pew was not filled when she entered the church; but it was not long before the party from the Coombe made their appearance, and the quiet little figure in the square pew near the pulpit was the first object which met Gwendoline Framley's glance. Prue looked up, and saw her as she followed Lady Strathspey up the aisle, and her first glance at the fair, reposeful face, and translucent eyes, struck her with a sudden, strange pang, so unlike her usual quiet, that she was almost frightened at it.

The sweet voice was not so clearly ready with the responses this morning, and the sweet face was not so bright. A faint, presageful shadow had fallen upon it. She looked across the church at the beautiful figure, in its rich, elaborate dress, and her heart fell—the gulf which lay between their two girlish loves was as wide as one.

She passed out of the little stone porch, just as Strathspey handed his mother's guest into their carriage, and perhaps her first doubt came upon her at that moment. There was something of scarcely to be defined admiration in his eyes, as the girl smiled her grateful thanks—a something Prue had never seen before, and the faint presageful shadow grew deeper, and fell upon her sadly as she turned away.

CHAPTER VII.

The quiet young figure of the rector's daughter stood at the rectory parlor-window, with folded hands, the quiet, young face looking steadily at the hills, fast growing purple in the deepening twilight.

It was not the face which had smiled up at Lord Strathspey, on the brae, a few months before. There was a slight pallor upon it, the sweet serious mouth had a listless droop, the brown eyes were strained and sad, the fresh untried look was gone.

It was only two months since Strathspey had left her standing in the moonlight, with his kisses on her lips, and yet, in these two short months the curtain had swung slowly upward, and the old, helpless, worn-out tragedy which has been played so often and so cruelly, was beginning to act itself out once more.

John Smith is the happiest man that I know. But wasn't he blue, though, not three months ago?

"My wife's running down just as fast as she can,
And the doctors can't help her," and then this poor man
Almost cried as he thought of the poor suffering wife
Who seemed to be losing her hold upon life.

"Smith, I know just how you feel," said a friend to whom he told his sad story. "My wife was troubled precisely as yours is. I don't just understand it, because I'm not a woman, but her back pained her, and she complained of dragging-down feelings, and a general weakness and I know that she had some of those diseases women are subject to, and had 'em bad, too. I read about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription one day, and the first time I was at the drug store I bought a bottle of it and took home to her. It worked wonders. In a short time she said she felt like another woman, and she began to hope that there was relief for her, after all. She kept on taking the medicine for a time, and now she's well. Get a bottle of the 'Prescription' and try it on your wife."

"I will," said Smith. And he did, and it cured her and that's why he's so happy today.

The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Orangemen's Thanks.

After the Orangemen returned to their lodge room Sunday night a resolution of thanks was passed to the Rev. E. F. Torrance for his able and appropriate sermon, to the choir for the music, and to the managers of the church. They also desire to thank the ladies who provided boquets for the 'Prentice Boys.

Our Manufacturing Industries.

The Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company are about to erect another large addition to their premises in order to meet the requirements of their business. Plans are being made out for a new brick moulding shop 300x50 feet. It will be situated on the opposite side of the street to the machine shop, on the south side of the railway track. The old buildings on the site are to be torn down.

Wedding Bells.

This forenoon a wedding ceremony which has caused quite a stir of pleasurable anticipation in social circles was celebrated at St. Luke's church this forenoon, when Miss Daisy Morgan, daughter of the late Wm Morgan, and adopted daughter of Mr. H. T. Strickland, was married to Mr Gerald Donaldson of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, Miss Blomfield of Lakefield, being bridesmaid and Mr. Church, of Toronto, assisting the groom. The wedding took place about eleven o'clock, and the young couple took the C.P.R. express half an hour afterwards for Montreal, where they will take the steamer for Europe on a honeymoon tour of several months duration. The bride was a handsome and accomplished young lady whose many friends will wish her and her husband a longlife of connubial happiness. They will reside in Toronto on their return from Europe.

The Carpenters' Trouble.

This forenoon the men employed in Baptie's and Donel's mills quit work and refused to go on unless their bosses consented to the nine hour system of labor. Several months ago the local union of Carpenters and Joiners, No. 375, adopted the nine-hour system of labor and so notified their employers. All the contracting carpenters and factory owners agreed, with the exception of Mr. Baptie, and later Mr. Donel also refused to accede to the demands of the men. On the first of July the new regulation came in force, and the carpenters and joiners throughout the town worked only nine hours a day all last week, receiving therefor their usual wages. With the exception of Messrs. Donel and Baptie, all the boss carpenters were agreeable. At the two named factories the men were plainly told that this week the ten-hour rule would again come into force. An open meeting of the union was held in the union hall Saturday night, at which strong speeches were made, the men expressing their determination to fight the non-conforming bosses to the last. This morning the men went to the factories and waited about to see what their employers would do. As the latter did not yield, the men went away again and to-day are not working. A meeting of the Union is to be held this evening, at which some definite plan of action will be mapped out.

The Central Exhibition.

A meeting of directors of the Agricultural Society was held at the Morgan House Saturday afternoon for the purpose of revising the prize list of the Peterborough Central exhibition, which will this year be held September 24th to 27th inclusive. There were present, President Wm. Rutherford, Secretary Wm. Collins, and Messrs. Vance, Tully, Fitzgerald, Elliott and Baptie. The prize list was partially revised and the remainder left over till the next meeting, two weeks hence, the 20th inst. Committees to look after the various departments were also appointed and the following superintendents:—General Superintendent, Jos. Tully; Lady Superintendent, Miss Caldwell. The directors are annoyed at the action of the East Durham agriculturalists in appointing the dates of their exhibition this fall on the same days selected over a month ago by Peterborough. The Port Hope men chose their dates only a couple of weeks ago, and after the date of the Peterborough exhibition had been published in the Industrial Fair list, so that they cannot plead ignorance. Their action must have been prompted by pure "cussedness," at least that is the way the Peterborough men think of it. The Port Hopers should as a matter of courtesy and justice cancel the present dates and choose others which will not clash with any exhibition in the same district.

St. Paul's School and Peterborough Cricket Club Playing To-day.

St. Paul's School Cricket Club, of Concord, N.H., arrived here this forenoon and play was begun at 10 o'clock. The American visitors have carried everything before them so far, their latest victory being over Toronto on Friday and Saturday, where the home team was beaten by 34 runs.

This evening the visitors will be entertained by the local club. The two opposing teams will be driven out to Chemong Lake, where the yacht "Empire" will be in waiting to convey the party on a short moonlight excursion. The Amateur Orchestra will also be aboard to supply music.

It looks at present as if the home club will hold its own in to-day's game. Peterborough went first to bat and score only 51 runs, to which Rutherford contributed 19 and Rogers 13 got out. The visitors then went to bat and put up 81 runs before the last wicket fell.

After lunch Peterborough essayed another trial, and at the time of going to press are making a good showing. Stratton and Macdonnel went in first, and before they were parted 27 runs had been rolled up, Stratton securing 7 of these before being bowled out. Rutherford took his place, and at half past three he and Macdonel were still at bat, the total score being about 40 runs. They are playing steadily.

Church Chimes.

The Mark Street Sunday School Anniversary Sermon to the Orangemen—Among the Churches.

On Sunday the anniversary services of the Mark street Methodist Sunday school, Ashburnham, were conducted by Rev. G. Dewey, of Lindsay, who preached to large congregations both morning and evening and addressed the pupils in the afternoon. The Mark street Sunday school is growing steadily with the church, and, as Rev. Mr. Dewey says it should, is the means of fitting many young people to be "good soldiers of Jesus Christ." This was the subject of the morning's address, the text being II Timothy, ii, 3:—

"Thou therefore endured hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ."

Before beginning his address Rev. Mr. Dewey sang a solo illustrative of the subject. His sermon was highly practical and pungent. He pointed out the characteristics of the regular soldier, and likened him to the soldier of Jesus Christ, who resembled him in many ways. The soldier of Christ must be loyal, patriotic, earnest and ever prepared for conflict with Satan. He must wear Christ's armor and be wholly devoted to his God, as the regular soldier is to his country and his king. The "good" soldier of Jesus Christ needed plenty of courage—courage to own up his own weakness, to be exactly what he was and not try to sham appearances; courage to be kind to and recognize the poor, courage to resist the assaults of Satan in whatever form they come. Rev. Mr. Dewey urged his young hearers, and older ones too, to enlist in God's army and be good soldiers of Christ. Their's would be a grand service and glorious reward. At the conclusion of the service Rev. Mr. Dewey sang another song.

In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Dewey addressed the children for about half an hour, and in the evening delivered another excellent sermon. The church was crowded. His text Psa. 1 15:—"And call upon Me in the day of trouble, I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify Me."

During the day the choir rendered specially appropriate music. The choir of the Mark street church, like everything else about the prosperous little meeting place, is growing larger and better every week, and their services on Sunday were greatly appreciated.

SERMON TO ORANGEMEN.

As is the annual custom, the Orangemen and other Orange societies of the town attended divine service on Sunday, the Sabbath immediately preceding the Twelfth of July. This year the sermon was preached by Rev. E. F. Torrance in St. Paul's church. The Orangemen paraded to church over 150 strong, headed by the Battalion Band. The procession included the Peterborough, Smith and Nassau Orangemen, Jubilee Lodge of Prentice Boys and King William Lodge of True Blues. The church was filled and the service was very interesting.

Rev. Mr. Torrance took two texts as the basis of his sermon, I Cor. xiv, 20:—"Brethren, be not children in understanding; howbeit in malice be ye children, but in understanding be men." And II Cor. xi, 3: "But I fear lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtilty, so your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ." In one sense a Christian should be a child and in another a man—children in morality, in gentleness, in humility, and trust in the Heavenly Father; but men in intellect, in the sound common sense and vigorous understanding which belongs to the most highly cultivated man.

Rev. Mr. Torrance then proceeded to point out a few differences between the Protestant religion and the teaching of the Roman Catholic Church. The latter holds that there are some essential doctrines not included in the Bible, but preserved by tradition and made known through the writings of the Fathers, and by councils, and these traditions are recognized by them as unwritten chapters in Christ's life. The Protestants agree with them that the Holy Book is inspired, but hold that it is complete and contains all the doctrines taught by God. Then the teaching of the two churches differs as to the perspicuity of Scripture and the right of private judgment. Protestants maintain that the Bible is open and easily understood by all, while the Roman Catholic church holds it is so obscure as to require an infallible interpreter. The church of Rome, did not, he claimed, favor Bible reading among the people as a rule, though a great deal had been said lately in this town regarding the church's position on this point. The reverend speaker quoted passages to prove that the Bible was easy of understanding by even the most simple minded. But while admitting the benefit one might receive from the interpretation of those better experienced, he did not see how it interfered with the right of private judgment, which, he said, was the safeguard of civil and religious liberty. The church of Rome denied this privilege to her people.

A second difference was as to the nature of the church. The Roman Catholics hold that the church is the external visible organization consisting of those who profess the Christian religion, who are united in communion on the same subjects and subject to the authority of their pastors and especially to the Pope of Rome. Protestants admit the necessity of meeting together for worship, but hold that the church is the company of true believers. Even admitting the church was the visible external organization, must it be organized on any one plan and that plan the Episcopal form. But even granting that, there was no reason for believing that submission to the Pope as the vicar of Christ is necessary to the church.

The views of the Romish church as to the infallibility of the church is well adapted for the convenience of men, as it relieves them of all personal responsibility, but it was disastrous to the moral character and gave rise to a parasitic habit. The church's claims as to infallibility in point of history were equally groundless. This subject, said Rev. Mr. Torrance, was appropriate not only in view of the anniversary the Orangemen were celebrating, but also in view of the present agitation before the people. He referred to the Jesuit bill as one "appropriating money, dishonouring to the Queen and dangerous to the country. They should therefore oppose the church of Rome whenever she seeks to advance at the expence of Protestants. But they did so with the kindest feelings towards the Catholics, for he recognized that some of the holiest persons that have ever lived were in that church.

To the Orangemen he said, their mere connection with any society would not bless them unless it had a visible effect upon their lives. You as Orangemen and Protestants, he said, show that you have a religion which has permeated your character and has an influence on your daily lives.

After the sermon the Orangemen, Prentice Boys and True Blues returned to their lodge rooms, the band playing them down street.

Stewart's, Otonabee.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PICNIC.—The picnic under the auspices of Stewart's Sabbath School, which was held on Thursday, July 4th, at Savigny's landing, on the bank of the picturesque Otonabee, was one of the most successful of the season. Shortly after ten o'clock the pleasure-seekers began to arrive, but by far the greater number came after dinner. The afternoon was spent in playing football, baseball and croquet, pitching quoits, sailing and swinging, while some ladies and gentlemen, in groups of two, seemed to enjoy themselves on a football team was expected from Mather's Corners to play a match with the Crystal Spring's club of this neighbourhood, but the former failed to put in an appearance. After tea had been served by the ladies, a match lasting one hour was arranged between two picked elevens, and resulted in a tie, so far as the number of goals scored by each was concerned. When the match was finished all departed for home perfectly satisfied with the day's enjoyment.

SULLIVAN AND KILRAIN.

Contradictory Reports About the Great Fight.

Sullivan and Kilrain Both Given the Fight—The Despatches as They Come In.

(Special to the Examiner.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—Reported that Sullivan won in ninth round.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Private advices say Sullivan won in eighth round.

BALTIMORE, MD., July 8.—The American's special correspondent at Richburg, telegraphs that Sullivan won the fight, knocking Kilrain out in the eighth round.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 8.—A private despatch received later says the sheriff has arrested the prize fighters and will not permit them to return to Louisiana.

BALTIMORE, July 8.—Special from New Orleans says despatch from there announcing victory for Sullivan was sent by gamblers to influence the betting.

CINCINNATI, O., July 8.—It is reported here from a reliable source that Sullivan and Kilrain were fighting at 11.45 a.m. The contest was a long one and Sullivan was having the best of it, and was sure to win.

The Latest.

BALTIMORE, July 8, 3.30 p.m.—The American has a bulletin out saying that the rumor at New Orleans is that Kilrain has won, and that Sullivan's backers have possession of the wires to give them time to hedge bets.

Very Latest.

NEW ORLEANS, July 8, 4 p.m.—It is reported that Sullivan won in the seventy-second round. The fight ended at 1 p.m.

The Standard Life Assurance Company.

To show the Standard Life Assurance Company, of which Mr. Charles Cameron, agent, and Mr. G. H. Allen, Inspector, are the local representatives, is highly worthy of the patronage of the insuring public, the following, from the June number of the Insurance and Finance Chronicle, is given:

"In life assurance circles the name of the Standard is synonomous with solidity and liberality. The company is too well known and too highly appreciated to require any endorsement from us. Wherever there is a colony of Great Britain, there there is an agency of the Standard Life, for its distinguishing principle is to assure Englishmen wherever they are to be found within the Empire. The public are accustomed to see only reports of the most satisfactory kind issued by the Standard, and that for 1888, of which we give a summary elsewhere, is no exception to the rule. It is in fact one of the best. Applications for £1,874,703 (over $9,000,000) were received during the year, and policies issued and paid for amounting to £1,496,362 (nearly $7,500,000). This is, with one exception, the largest amount ever issued in one year. The average amount of the new policies has been lowered somewhat, and is now £504, showing that the company is gradually reaching down into the middle classes, and obtaining its support in a greater measure from this section. This is a most encouraging feature. The total amount now in force exceeds one hundred millions of dollars, while the assets amount to the large sum of thirty-five millions.

"There is probably no company in existence which has done more to liberalize the practice of life assurance in the British Empire than the Standard. It has always been foremost in removing the restrictions which formerly burdened life assurance policies, and it was, we believe, the first company to issue a practically unconditional policy, which is to-day surpassed in liberality by that of no other company.

The success of the Canadian Branch is no doubt due to Mr. W. M. Ramsay, who is the most popular manager in Canada to-day. He is esteemed, not only for his executive and financial ability, but also for his unswerving honor and kindly courtesy. The Standard has over investments in the Dominion amounting to about $4,000,000, and it has thus largely assisted in building up the country, which should commend it to Canadian assurers.

THE DOMINION'S FINANCES.

Statement of Revenue and Expenditure for the Fiscal Year.

OTTAWA, July 7.—The statement of revenue and expenditure for June shows: Revenue $3,162,163, expenditure $2,047,599. For the 12 months ended June 30 the figures are:

Revenue	$37,396,601
Expenditure	31,635,023
Surplus	$5,761,478

As the operations of the fiscal year overlap into the succeeding year, and the particulars of certain items of revenue and expenditure of last year will not reach the department for some time, it will be three or four weeks before the amount of the actual surplus will be ascertainable. For instance, last year $4,000,000 had to be added to expenditure after the publication of the June statement, and it is a fair inference, judging from the past, that such will be the case this year. In that event the surplus would be about $1,750,00, but as other unforeseen expenditures may arise it will be safe to place the surplus of the year at $1,500,000. In his budget speech last session Mr. Foster estimated the revenue at $38,500,000, and the expenditure at $36,600,000, leaving a surplus of $1,900,000. The Finance Minister's calculations have been borne out on the main items of revenue, that is Customs and Inland Revenue, the difference between his estimated surplus and what is likely to be the actual one being accounted for by the falling off in certain items of what is termed miscellaneous revenue. Under any circumstances the surplus, $1,500,000, is one with which the country has every reason to be satisfied.

The Government has decided that the rate of interest to be allowed on deposits in the Postoffice and Government Savings Banks shall be 3 1-2 per cent., a reduction of 1-2 per cent. as compared with the existing rate. The change will go into effect Oct. 1.

The District Magistrates Act, which was re-enacted by the Legislature of Quebec at its last session, has again been disallowed by the Governor-in-Council. The recent enactment contained all the objectionable features of the act disallowed last year. The Minister of Justice had reported in reference to the disallowed Act that its principal provisions were clearly in excess of the powers conferred on provincial legislatures by the British North American Act, and were invasions of the powers conferred exclusively on the Parliament of Canada and the Governor-General. Both acts purported to confer upon the Lieutenant-Governor authority to appoint judges, under the colorable title of stipendiary magistrates, to exercise in the new court established by it the large powers which the judges of the Superior Court had and exercised in relation to the Circuit Court before the union and since, and they both purported to regulate the qualification, salaries and tenure of office of such newly created judges.

Their students, during the past six months, have been remarkably successful, many of their graduates obtaining positions as soon as graduated. They are constantly receiving applications from both business and professional men for bookkeepers and stenographers. The principals, Messrs. Our 5c. Lawns are of good serviceable quality, in fast colors, and as pretty patterns as we ever had in cheap goods. A problem how much did the operator earn a day that made them, and who paid for the dye, seeing there is 32½ per cent. import duty on colored lawn.

20c. Ginghams for 12½c. These goods are fra Glasgae. The patterns are large checks and fine hair stripes. Nothing you can buy will be lighter or wear better.

Kilrain Manages to Stay Out 75 Rounds—Neither Brute Seriously Injured—The Loser Weeps Like a Child.

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—The Sullivan-Kilrain fight occurred this morning at Richburg, Miss., 105 miles distant from New Orleans. Sullivan won in the 75th round. Neither of the combatants was seriously injured, although Kilrain was very weak. Kilrain won the first fall and first blood, Sullivan the first knock-down. The fight lasted 2 hours 16 minutes. The first information of the result was brought to New Orleans by a special train, which made the run of 105 miles in 3 hours and 10 minutes. There was no attempt at interference and Kilrain was the first to shy his castor in the ring. He was seconded by Charley Mitchell and Mike Donovan, John Murphy, bottleholder. Sullivan followed a minute later and was roundly cheered. His seconds were Wm. Muldon and Mike Cleary, Daniel Murphy of Boston bottleholder. R. Kenrick of New Orleans was suggested for referee by Kilrain and John Fitzpatrick, also of New Orleans, by Sullivan. After slight wrangling Fitzpatrick was mutually agreed upon as referee. Kilrain won the toss for position and selected the northeast corner, Sullivan taking the southwest. Just before time was called Kilrain stepped over to Sullivan and offered to wager $1000 on the result, which was promptly accepted by Sullivan and the money placed in Referee Fitzpatrick's hands.

OFF FOR THE BATTLE-GROUND.

The Mississippi Militia Jeered by the Crowd—Details of the Fight

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—The scenes which attended the departure and the progress of the first train to the scene of to-day's fight were substantially repeated in the case of the second train. The train was delayed considerably because of lack of coal and the locomotive's lack of power. Crowds at various stations wanted to get aboard but no stop was made. The crowd on the train jeered as the train passed the state line and where the Mississippi militia, who had been ordered out to prevent the fight, were drawn up. In the last coach were a number of prominent sports from the east, including Joe Coburn, Dominick McCaffrey, Bird Foley and Billy Madden. The crowd was orderly, although it comprised many rough characters. The train reached the battle ground at 9 o'clock.

There was great excitement at the ringside as Bud Renaud, Mike Donovan and Johnny Murphy made their appearance at 9.50 a.m., and it became apparent that the fight was actually to occur. After the toss up for position the sheriff of the county appeared and in the name of the State of Mississippi commanded peace and retired, this being the only effort of the authorities to interfere with the fight. At this moment the flag of Sullivan, brought from Boston, was placed in his corner amidst great enthusiasm. As about 10 o'clock, the sun having gone behind a cloud, there was no perceptible advantage in either corner.

Kilrain, when he appeared, was greeted with applause, but wore a very serious air, as if fully realizing the work before him. As Sullivan jumped into the ring the cheers were deafening. He looked in marked contrast to Kilrain, seeming to be perfectly at his ease regarding the result. After he was agreed upon as referee, Fitzpatrick said he was not very familiar with the rules. He decided that the thirty seconds between the rounds should commence from the time the man falls. Mitchell examined the spikes in Sullivan's shoes, Cleary doing the same to Kilrain.

Both men being stripped there was apparent to everyone present Sullivan's great superiority over his antagonist in the matter of size and development.

At 10.10 the principals and seconds advanced to the centre of the ring and formed a Maltese cross in shaking hands, the latter retiring outside the ropes and the principals to their respective corners. At the call of time Kilrain and Sullivan advanced to the centre of the ring, the latter wearing a confident smile and Kilrain looking serious, and the great battle for the World's Championship began.

The champions met each other with nature's own weapons, under London prize ring rules. There is no limit as to weight when the struggle is for the heavyweight pugilistic premiership; yet the men were very evenly matched in every respect. Kilrain stands 5 feet 11½ inches in height, weighs, when trained, 196 pounds, and is four months Sullivan's junior. The "Boston Boy" weighs 200 pounds trained, and stands 5 feet 10½ inches high in his stockings. No two men more evenly matched ever fought for the championship of the world.

When the Boston Boy vaulted over the ropes and faced his ambitious foe his second displayed in his corner the same colors Sullivan used when he fought Paddy Ryan and also in his encounter with Mitchell in France. He floats the American flag with his own initials blazing from the left upper corner downward, a shamrock in the left corner and an Irish harp in the opposite corner. This new commingling of the Irish and American never fails to fetch the crowd, and it was shrewd policy, whether it originated with Sullivan or any of his backers, to adopt such a device.

Kilrain's colors were even more conspicuous. In the centre is a portrait of the pugilist himself in fighting trim and attitude. The left upper corner contains the American flag and the opposite corner has the coat of arms of the State of Maryland. The lower corners have an Irish harp and a shield of stars and stripes. Just below the portrait is an eagle with outspread wings, bearing the trophy in its beak.

The Fight.

FIRST ROUND—Kilrain madea vicious pass at Sullivan with his right, landing on the left of the neck. Both clinched and Kilrain gained the fall.

SECOND ROUND—Sullivan feinted with his left, which Kilrain dodged; a clinch followed, Sullivan throwing Kilrain heavily.

THIRD ROUND—Kilrain rushed in and clinched, Sullivan avoiding the clinch and dealing Jake a short arm blow in the neck, Sullivan followed with blows on the neck and ribs. Kilrain struck Sullivan twice below the belt. Cries of "Foul." Not allowed.

FOURTH ROUND—Kilrain led, landing lightly; a clinch followed, Sullivan on top.

FIFTH ROUND—Kilrain began sparring for wind. Sullivan rushed and gained a cross buttock lock but Kilrain broke away, John leading and landing on the neck. Jake here began Mitchell's tactics, retreating all around the ring. Kilrain landed slightly on Sullivan's neck, Sullivan cross-countering heavily on the head. Kilrain went down in his corner.

SIXTH ROUND—Short arm fighting was indulged in, Kilrain attacking John's ribs, and gaining first blood by a blow in the left ear.

SEVENTH ROUND—Sullivan appeared bleeding. He landed viciously on Kilrain's face, gaining first knock down.

EIGHTH ROUND—Sullivan led, Kilrain countering slightly, doing no damage. Kilrain again went down to avoid punishment.

NINTH ROUND—Sullivan led with his left, Jake countering slightly and Sullivan returning with interest on Kilrain's ribs. The latter again went to grass.

TENTH ROUND—Kilrain rushed at John and was met by a heavy right-hander in the jaw, falling heavily.

ELEVENTH ROUND—Sullivan rushed the fighting, Kilrain going down to avoid punishment.

TWELFTH ROUND—Kilrain rushed and clinched, trying to throw John, but failing. Kilrain's blows lacked strength, the round ending with John clinching and throwing Jake heavily.

THIRTEENTH ROUND—Sullivan landed on Kilrain's ribs, the latter playing for the stomach, striking foul blows repeatedly. John returned on the jaw and ribs, Kilrain slipping down to avoid punishment. In this round Kilrain badly spiked Sullivan's left foot.

FOURTEENTH ROUND—Kilrain again started around the ring, the round ending with a clinch, in which Sullivan slipped, going down under the ropes.

FIFTEENTH ROUND—Sullivan feinted, Kilrain retreating, Sullivan following him all over the ring, finally landing a rooster on the ribs. In the rally that ensued Kilrain went down to avoid punishment.

SIXTEENTH ROUND—Kilrain landed on Sullivan's ribs, John countering, Kilrain again going down.

SEVENTEENTH ROUND—Slight exchanges, Kilrain going down without a blow.

EIGHTEENTH ROUND—Kilrain went down without receiving a blow and Sullivan claimed foul; not allowed.

NINETEENTH ROUND—Both sparring for wind, Sullivan finally landing on Kilrain's ribs, the latter countering on Sullivan and going down from a slight return on the head.

TWENTIETH ROUND—Sullivan hit Kilrain a rooster in the ribs, Kilrain going down.

TWENTY-FIRST ROUND—Kilrain landed on Sullivan's stomach, Sullivan returning on the neck. Kilrain again resorted to hugging, Sullivan landing on Kilrain's jaw, the latter falling.

TWENTY-SECOND ROUND—Sullivan landed on Kilrain's ribs, the latter going to earth.

TWENTY-THIRD ROUND—Sullivan had to chase Kilrain round the ring. The round ended with a clinch, Sullivan on top.

TWENTY-FOURTH ROUND—Sullivan began by swing to get in a knock out. Kilrain hugged and finally fell without being hit.

TWENTY-FIFTH ROUND—Sullivan landed on Kilrain's ribs and repeated the dose again, when Kilrain fell as usual.

TWENTY-SIXTH ROUND—Sullivan feinted and Kilrain rapidly retreated. Kilrain landed lightly on Sullivan, hugged and went down.

TWENTY-SEVENTH ROUND—Both sparring for wind, Kilrain landing on Sullivan's jaw and clinching. Sullivan knocked Kilram down in the latter's corner.

The next eleven rounds were but a repetition of the former ones, Sullivan getting the best of them all, landing several heavy blows on Kilrain's side and the latter failing to avoid further punishment.

THIRTY-NINTH ROUND—Sullivan followed Kilrain around the ring, calling to the referee to make him stand and fight. Kilrain went down without being struck and Sullivan claimed a foul, which was not allowed.

FORTIETH ROUND—Sullivan landed heavily on Kilrain's ribs, the latter ending the round by falling.

FORTY-FIRST ROUND—Slight exchanges and Kilrain fell to avoid punishment.

FORTY-SECOND ROUND—Sullivan opened heavily, hard in fighting followed, Kilrain going down from a slight blow, Sullivan stumbling over him. Kilrain's seconds made loud claims of foul, which the referee would not allow.

FORTY-THIRD ROUND—Sullivan landed on Kilrain's ribs and after a few passes Kilrain went down without receiving a blow. Sullivan himself appealed to the referee claiming a foul, not allowed.

FORTY-FOURTH ROUND—As soon as he reached the centre of the ring, Sullivan began vomiting freely and it looked as if his stomach was weakening. Kilrain acted him to make the fight a draw, but Sullivan refused and responded with a heavy blow on Kilrain's ribs, knocking him down.

FORTY-FIFTH ROUND—Kilrain showed pain in the [illegible] Sullivan following him down [illegible] claim of foul, [illegible]

FORTY-SIXTH ROUND—Kilrain landed on Sullivan's stomach, [illegible] followed, Sullivan falling heavily on Kilrain's [illegible] seconds claiming a foul. [illegible] Moore accused Referee Fitzpatrick of having money on the result and the latter called Moore a liar.

In the forty-eighth and forty-ninth rounds Kilrain fell to avoid punishment.

FIFTIETH ROUND—Sullivan led viciously, Kilrain returning lightly and running away, Sullivan following and begging Kilrain to fight. The latter went down from a slight blow. The seconds of Kilrain knew their man must lose after this round unless a chance blow could save him. Sullivan, though slightly winded, was able to deal sledge hammer blows and Kilrain was gradually growing weaker. His blows had no strength in them and his left side was evidently giving him considerable pain. He pursued his usual tactics of retreating whenever Sullivan advanced and the jeers of the crowd against the alleged Champion of the World became more and more marked. Kilrain would smile, but there was a ghastliness in his alleged good humor that was painful to witness. His strength was surely going and none knew it better than Kilrain.

FIFTY-FIRST TO FIFTY-SIXTH ROUND.—Kilrain resorted to retreating tactics to the disgust of the crowd, going down repeatedly without a blow to avoid punishment.

In the sixtieth round Kilrain went down without receiving a blow and loud cries of foul were heard on every side but disallowed.

In the 65th round Johnson offered to bet $500 to $50 that Sullivan would win, but could not find a taker.

SIXTY-SIXTH ROUND—Kilrain led with the right, but missed; Sullivan feinted, then led, landing slightly, Kilrain going down.

SIXTY-SEVENTH ROUND—Kilrain retreating, Sullivan followed and knocked him under the ropes with a left-hander in the ribs.

SIXTY-EIGHTH ROUND—Sullivan ended the round by knocking Kilrain down with several upper and under cuts.

SIXTY-NINTH ROUND—Kilrain was knocked down with a severe right-hander in the jaw.

SEVENTIETH ROUND—Kilrain very weak, Sullivan landing repeatedly. Kilrain tried to throw Sullivan by catching him by the legs, then slipped and fell.

SEVENTY-FIRST ROUND—Kilrain growing weaker, feinted and ran away, Sullivan finally knocking him down with a blow in the ribs.

SEVENTY-SECOND ROUND—Sullivan forced the fighting, leading and landed slightly several times, Kilrain again going down to avoid punishment.

SEVENTY-THIRD ROUND—Kilrain repeated all around the ring. The round ended with Kilrain going down to avoid punishment.

SEVENTY-FOURTH ROUND—Kilrain led, landing slightly on Sullivan. The latter finally went down with a slight blow.

SEVENTY-FIFTH ROUND—Kilrain went down with a slight blow in the jaw and was cautioned by the referee.

Kilrain's Second Throws Up the Sponge.

When time was called for the seventy-sixth round Mitchell ran over to Sullivan's corner and asked if he would give Kilrain a present if they would throw up the sponge. Sullivan generously answered: "Of course I will," but Mike Donovan, seeing the condition of his principal, to save him further punishment threw up the sponge, and Sullivan had again proved his title as the Champion of the World.

The only marks on Sullivan were a slight cut under the right eye and another on the left ear. Kilrain's body showed the effect of Sullivan's blows and he was bleeding at the ears, nose and mouth. Both men were hurriedly conveyed to the train by their friends and given attention. Sullivan's condition was superior to Kilrain's, the latter looking as if he had been over-trained. At no time excepting when Sullivan's stomach gave evidence of weakness was there a doubt as to the final result of the fight.

Kilrain was losing the scratch when Donovan, his second, threw up the sponge. Kilrain was not satisfied, but notwithstanding his protestations he was bundled up in a black shawl and hurried to a carriage and taken to the train. When he had seated himself in the car he was surrounded by a host of sympathizing friends, who consoled him for his misfortune.

Kilrain went like a child and continually exclaimed: "I'd him beaten."

A large crowd stood around the coaches in which Sullivan and Kilrain were. Stevenson remained by Kilrain's side and sponged him occasionally, giving him a drink of whisky and water. Kilrain would not be consoled but continued to bemoan the loss of the battle. Donovan, "Prof." Butler of the Southern Athletic Club and Johnnie Murphy relieved one another in ministering to Kilrain. None felt the defeat as he did. Donovan stated he threw up the sponge because Kilrain was exhausted. Mitchell, Kilrain's trainer, held aloof from him. Soon after the pugilists went aboard the train moved off at a rapid rate. Kilrain appeared to suffer more from mental than physical injuries and was very gloomy. At times he would brighten up a little and smile.

His face did not betray the great punishment he had received. He had a cut under the nose across both lips and his left eye was [illegible] head had been injured by a blow on Sullivan's head and his left instep had been cut by the spikes in Sullivan's shoes. He had received terrible punishment about the ribs and doubtless suffered considerable pain, but he gave no voice to his agony. He claimed to have been more overcome by the heat than by the blows of Sullivan. Kilrain said he had not been properly trained and he was not in condition when he entered the ring. This seemed to be the impression of everyone who saw him when he entered.

He would, he said, once more make a trial for the championship. He had Sullivan "done up" twice but had not been properly trained and was unable to take advantage of this. He was willing to fight Sullivan again. He was under the impression he had been drugged. He could stand any amount of punishment but couldn't inflict any, and he could see his blows were not hurting Sullivan. He complained of the manner in which Sullivan jumped upon him with both feet while he was down. He said he had trusted too much to his friends.

Kilrain lay down on the sea with his feet stretched across to the opposite seat and coats being placed over him he fell asleep. When the train was about 18 miles from the city Mitchell for the first time entered the car and Kilrain awoke. Further on Kilrain approached Mitchell for the condition he was in when he entered the ring. Mitchell replied and quite a crowd gathered around the men. Mitchell attributed Kilrain's defeat to his being one of his off days. Johnnie Murphy said it was not Sullivan who knocked Kilrain out but the sun.

When the train reached the station at the head of Press-street two carriages were procured for the Kilrain party, and Kilrain, Stevenson, Donovan, Murphy, Butler, Mitchell and "Pony" Moore were driven up town. Kilrain was conducted to a Russian bath and afterwards he repaired to his quarters at the Southern Athletic Club and retired to rest.

The Pope to Reside in Spain.

ROME, July 8.—The preparations are well advanced for the departure of Pope Leo XIII. from the Vatican. He is now completing the list of the court personages who will accompany him. He has arranged a council for next Thursday. The Cardinal Vicar will remain in Rome with part of the Papal household. Senor Goizard, the Spanish Ambassador to the Vatican, arrived in Madrid yesterday and reported to the Spanish Government the decision of the Pope to quit Italy and his desire to reside in Spain.

Britain's Bountiful Crops.

LONDON, July 8.—Prospects for bountiful crops in England, Scotland and Ireland are quite favorable. The reports furnished by special correspondents of the condition of crops in farming districts of England are very full and also very cheerful. Reports from Ireland are also gratifying, and the crop prospects in Scotland were more than usually favorable until the drouth set in; but even in Scotland the farmer has not given up the battle. Appearances indicate extraordinary crops in Kings County, Ireland, but some farmers predict crop failures unless rain soon falls. An immense crop of hay has been gathered in Derry and Donegal. The crops are the best for many years and give promise of being from one to ten per cent. above the average. A general report from Dublin states that crops never looked finer.

Two Men Killed.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Two men were killed this morning by the falling of a trestle in the power house of the Milwaukee-avenue cable railway.

Young's Claim

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 7.—Charles C. Young of Watertown, N.Y., will bring suit to-morrow against the commissioners of Mahoning county, Ohio, and the city of Youngstown, for possession of the site upon which the courthouse is located at Youngstown and $100,000 damages.

From Johnstown.

NEW YORK, July 8.—A dispatch from Johnstown says: James B. Scott, a member of the state relief commission, expressed the opinion that by Oct. 1 the 15,000 homeless people in and around Johnstown will all have been housed in buildings suitable for occupation all the year round. Main-street, which was so completely blocked by debris that reporters walked along it upon the roofs of houses, is now clear, and business men are opening their stores again.

A FATAL BAR-ROOM BLOW

CARPENTER JAMES SMITH'S DEATH IN THE RONAN HOUSE.

The End of a Toronto Quarrelling Bout—Contractor Hugh McKay Held on a Charge of Murder.

TORONTO, July 9.—The Ronan House, at Queen-street and Beaconsfield-avenue, is surrounded by a tragic and morbid interest. In the barroom yesterday James Smith, an able-bodied carpenter, sank to his death beneath a single blow dealt probably with no murderous intent by Contractor Hugh McKay. The latter will no doubt be remembered as having taken a somewhat questionable part in a financial transaction some months ago. At that time he was paid $100 in place of $16 by a man named Davison for services rendered. Instead of rectifying the error McKay refused to return the $90 over. For this he was sent to jail for 60 days by the Police Magistrate.

Yesterday afternoon Smith and McKay, together with several others, were drinking at the Ronan House, when some words passed between the two relative to a trifling debt. It seems that as an outcome of this Smith slapped McKay across the face, and the latter coming up behind the man who is now dead, struck him either over the temple or in the back of the head. From this blow he never recovered, but sinking gasping from the bar rail breathed his life away on the bar room floor. Whether his death was the direct result of the blow or was caused by heart disease, from which it is said he suffered, will only be known when the coroner's jury give their verdict this afternoon. A post mortem was held at the house of deceased, 79 Beaconfield-avenue, this morning about 1 o'clock. McKay surrendered himself to the officers at the Dundas-street Police Station last night.

A discussion arose over the amount and after some angry words McKay said "I will bring you before Denison." Smith replied: "I don't care whether you do or not; you and Denison can — —." If you bother me any more I will slap your face," and he at once suited the action to the word. Both men then clinched and Ambrose Keogh, assisted by Dan Keenan, a boarder at the Ronan Hotel, endeavored to part the combatants. They separated and for a short time all seemed well. Smith, in a laughing sort of way, went up to the bar to finish his glass of beer. But McKay had evidently not got over the insult to which he had been subjected, and approaching to the bartender's assistance came up behind Smith as he was drinking and struck him from behind. Smith leaned over the bar as though he were sick, and then gradually sinking lower and lower finally fell beneath the bar. He was carried into an adjoining room by the barsender and others present, who still believed that his injury was but trifling. Dr. Orr was summoned and said that life was extinct.

Robert Vogan, baker, at Brookfield and Queen-streets, a brother-in-law of the deceased, was seen by a reporter. The reporter was there informed that Smith was born in England, that he had been in Canada over 20 years and that he was about 45 years of age.

The bartender, Ambrose Keogh, was seen at the Ronan House. Said he: "I was in the bar about 5 o'clock. There were three or four persons in the room. They were Archie Irving and John Haydn, carpenters; Charles Cooper, a painter, and Dan Keenan. Keenan is a powerful, well-built man." Keogh then related the altercation given above and continuing said: "After Smith was struck he stood at the bar for a few moments then bent forward and sank slowly to the ground. Hayden, Cooper and myself carried him into a back room. Then Dr. Orr came in and said 'He is dead.' Smith groaned three or four times before he died. Dr. Orr said he died of heart disease. In fact, he has been treating treating him, I believe, for that complaint for some time."

At 79 Beaconsfield-avenue, the late home of the deceased, the reporter knocked at the door and was informed by Captain Wm. McSpadden, school trustee, that no information could

THE BRAIN (from a photograph.)
In Healthy Condition. With Paresis Lesions.

There are many well known men confined in our Asylums who but a short time ago were prominent among our business and social circles.

Why are they there?

Paresis!

Did it come on at once?

Not at all. It was a gradual but positive growth. They overtaxed nature. The drain on their vitality, their nerve powers, their brain tissue, was too great, and they gradually but surely sank under it. The things they did to bring this sad end about are precisely the same things that are being done by thousands of men and women to-day. It is not necessary to name them. They all end disastrously unless checked or regulated.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, knew this fully when he began his experiments which resulted in the discovery of the wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. He realized that paresis (consumption of the brain) was our great National weakness. He knew that the brain and nervous system must be fortified to meet the great strains which modern life bring upon it. He saw that men were becoming debilitated and women weakened by the pressure and demands of life, and he sought and discovered the remedy Paine's Celery Compound, if rightly taken, will renew the brain and build up nerve tissues as fast as they become exhausted. It is not a narcotic. It contains no drugs, no nostrums. It is perfectly pure. It is absolutely harmless. The high character of its discoverer guarantees this, and the indorsement of the medical and chemical Professions prove it.

A Deaf-Mute Race.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—You have doubtless noticed in various newspapers articles stating that a deaf-mute variety of the human race is likely to be the result, in the near future, of the marriage of deaf-mutes. From the information I have been able to gather up to this time, I have only learned of one deaf child in Ontario (a little boy now about four years of age) whose parents are deaf and dumb. Of the hundreds of children who are now attending, or have attended, this Institution, there is not one congenitally deaf child who has deaf-mute parents. I would like to obtain full and accurate information in regard to this matter, and if you or any of your readers know of any deaf-mute married persons, with or without children, if you or they will kindly send me their addresses, I shall feel obliged.

There are deaf children of school age in the Province that I have not heard of, and I am making an effort to get them into this Institution, where they may receive an education that will fit them for the duties of life. The condition of an uneducated deaf-mute is more deplorable than that of any other human being. Will you be good enough to help me to bring these children to school? You can do more than any other person I might address. The parents of some are not aware that an Institution exists where their deaf children can be taught to read and write. There are others who have heard of the Institution but are probably not acquainted with its real character, or from other causes, fail to send their children to us; these might be induced by a little effort to send them. Deaf children between the ages of seven and twenty are admitted, educated and boarded at the expense of the Province. It is only required that the child shall be of sound mind and that the parents, or the municipality, if the parents are unable, pay the railroad fare and provide necessary clothing. Application papers may be had by writing to me at Belleville, and any information required will be cheerfully supplied.

Yours faithfully,
R. MATHISON,
Superintendent.

THE STANDARD'S DEEP PLOT.

It Ruined the Fidelity Bank to Control the Cottonseed Oil Trust.

CINCINNATI, July 4.—The Harper wheat deal and the consequent collapse of the Fidelity Bank have been traced by detectives to the Standard Oil Company, which merely made dupes of Harper and Hopkins. The investigation has been conducted under the supervision of a committee of the creditors of C. J. Kershaw & Co. of Chicago, Harper's brokers, the creditors of Kershaw & Co. having, in making a settlement, reserved the right to proceed against Kershaw's principals. They have left a trusting down these principals and have found them in the Standard Oil Company.

The plan laid had acted vainly to secure control of the American Cottonseed Oil Trust, a rival which was rapidly encroaching on its field. It therefore sought to smash it by ruining its president, John V. Lewis of this city, who was a heavy speculator and a friend of Harper. The Standard (which met Harper, Lewis and others at dinner at the Queen City Club and arranged then the Fidelity Bank should bull the wheat market and call on them when money was needed. When Harper had bulled wheat to about 90, the Standard then secretly sold out through other brokers, broke the corner and reaped vast profits from doing so. They also started the report that the Fidelity Bank was shaky, and inspired the circular of June 11, 1887, in regard to its affairs. Thus they broke the bank, ruined Harper and Lewis and gained control of the Cottonseed Oil Trust as a consequence. Lewis is now a broken-down hotel-keeper in Boston. Harper and Hopkins, knowing that they had ruined the bank, were not in a position to expose and it as the real principals escaped.

The committee which obtained this information reported at a meeting of creditors at Chicago yesterday and was authorized to commence suit against the real principals, among whom will doubtless be H. M. Flagler and J. D. Rockefeller of the Standard Oil Company. An assessment of 1 per cent. on $1,100,000, the amount due the creditors, has been ordered.

A Blaze at Simcoe.

SIMCOE, July 5.—About 2 o'clock this morning a fire broke out here that ultimately did considerable damage, and which for some time threatened to destroy a number of the finest business blocks in town. The fire was first discovered in the stable of Mayor Hayes, which is situated immediately behind the Battersby House. It was surrounded on all sides by frame outhouses and the flames spread with lightning rapidity in all directions. The Battersby House, a fine three-story block, was repeatedly on fire, but by persistent work was saved. The livery, barn and residence of Archie Hillier, owned by Dr. Hayes, were burned with a portion of the contents, including $180 in cash. Next to these stood the fine brick American Hotel, owned by Wallace McQueen, which, together with its big brick barn, was totally consumed. The bake shop of Charles Misner was burned, as also was the rear portion of Marshall Bros.' pork packing establishment. The Arthur block, containing Stevenson's tailoring shops, Arthur's photograph gallery, McIntosh's barber shop, and Sirrell's billiard parlor, also suffered considerably. As near as can be ascertained the following are the losses: Battersby house, $1600, insured; Dr. Hayes, $2300, partially insured; Thomas Marshall, $3300, insured for $2100; Chas. Arthur, $2000, insured on building but not on contents; Wallace McQueen, American hotel, $10,000, insured for $2000; A. Hillier, $500, no insurance; F. Stevenson, $250, insured; Chas. Misner, $750; J. D. McIntosh, Lot Stroud, J. Clouse and M. R. Steele, goods slightly damaged by removal.

Cold, cough, coffin, is what philosophers term "a logical sequence." One is very liable to follow the other; but by curing the cold with a dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the cough will be stopped and the coffin not needed—just at present.

Cutting Down Departmental Expenditures—Personal Notes.

OTTAWA, July 8.—A stringent order-in-council has been passed by the Dominion cabinet in reference to the various departments of the government here. All supplies under previous orders have been stopped and new orders have been issued on a much more economical scale. It is expected this step will reduce the expenditure on the stationery account 30 per cent.

A mass meeting of the Orangemen and Orange Young Britons was held in the Orange Hall on Saturday evening when arrangements were completed for attending the celebration at Stittsville on Friday next. A resolution was passed condemning The Orange Sentinel for an attack made on the Ottawa Orangemen a fortnight ago, and styling that paper a political hack. Several warm speeches were made condemning the pope.

WAITING FOR A WITNESS.

The Burke Extradition Case Again Adjourned for a Day.

WINNIPEG, July 8.—The Burke trial was postponed till to-morrow at the request of the prosecution to enable them to bring young Carleton from Chicago to identify the prisoner as the man giving the name of Frank Williams when renting the cottage.

Judge Bain said the prisoner and the court had good reason to complain of the unterminable delay in getting testimony, and no doubt the Judge will force the matter on to-morrow, as every testimony has already been shown the presumption in the way of postponement.

The Last Honors to Mr. Norquay.

WINNIPEG, July 8.—The funeral of the late Hon. J. Norquay to-day was the largest ever seen in Manitoba. All places of business were closed and many were draped with mourning.

Ambitious City Notes.

HAMILTON, July 8.—A Cuban, who professes to be a teacher of languages, is trying to work the Masonic fraternity in this city. He is known as Prof. Verona, Antonio Cassado, and has several other names. He asks for money for board and traveling expenses, saying he desires to go to New York and thence to Cuba. He came from Omaha, and has cards endorsed by prominent Masons in Milwaukee and other places.

AFTER suffering for three weeks from Cholera Infantum so that I was not expected to live, and, at the time, would even have been glad had death called me, so great was my suffering, a friend recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which acted like magic on my system. 25 REASONS
FOR DRINKING
ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE

Some drink because they are hungry,
And some because they're dry,
Some drink to keep them in good health,
And some that they may thrive.

Some drink because they are too hot,
And some because they're too cold,
Some drink to strengthen them when young,
And some when they are old.

Some drink to keep them wide awake,
And some that they may sleep,
Some drink because they merry are,
And some because they weep.

Some drink when they do money gain,
And some because of loss;
Some drink when they are pleased,
And some when they are cross.

Some drink when they are hard at work,
And some when they do play;
Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all must own the proverb true!
"When iron's hot to strike it"—
I've just found out the reason why—
All drink because they like it!

A TALE OF TEARS.

There was novel or dramatic in her dawning sorrow. It was only a helpless, vague one—only the skeleton of a plot, without any stage accompaniments to make it startling. It had made no change in her life as yet; there were the same things to be done, and she did them as conscientiously as ever; the same quiet, domestic duties to be performed, and not one of them were neglected; but her contentment in their management was gone. She went about the house with the same gentle attention to the everyday wants, but sometimes Marjory looked up to see her standing silent and dreamy, faint little lines showing themselves on her white forehead and her brown eyes fixed far away.

"I don't think I am very well, Marjory," she had said once or twice; but she had never acknowledged, even to herself, that there was any cause for the change which had come over her.

She had waited, with trustful patience, at first, not understanding its being possible, that what had seemed the realization of her happiness could be a mockery. She could not believe it in her ignorance, and no shadow of the truth crossed her mind. She had seen Strathspey once or twice as Gwendoline Framley had come to the Coombe; but their short meetings had only left her bewildered, stricken, and wondering. He had called at the rectory, if the truth must be told, in the hopes of stifling an occasional twinge of conscience; but, not finding the visits satisfactory, they became fewer and farther between, and in the end, dropped almost entirely. "It must come to an end sometime," he told himself, with a slight recurrence of the sense of discomfort, "and why not now, when there was a not too palpable apology." Every day, with the help of his new enchantment, led him farther away from the memory of the kisses he had stolen from the pure, girlish lips, in the moonlight; and with such a man, the fading of the strongest impression life can leave, is only a question of time. Perhaps she had thought as rightly of them, as she had, he tried to persuade him self, and with constant repetition, the argument became sufficiently plausible to be almost believed. "Almost," I say, not quite. So weeks passed, and Prue saw nothing of him, unless with his mother and Gwendoline Framley at church, or driving through the village, and day by day found her awakening to a new dread. She had never dreamed until now that it was very possible that the kisses and tender words had held no meaning, but that the time had passed slowly with him, and that her ignorance and trust had helped it onward. She had made every excuse for his absence which faith could suggest; she had even tried to believe in the old palliation, that it was right that his mother's guest should occupy his time and attention; but now a new feeling was dawning upon her, which as yet she was unable to grasp in all its magnitude.

She was pondering over it, as she waited for her father, this evening. He had gone to the Coombe, a few hours before, at Lady Strathspey's request, on a matter of business, and now Prue was waiting for his return, with an expectation that was almost pain. She scarcely knew why she expected him so eagerly. He knew nothing of her trouble, she fancied, and could tell her nothing; but the fact that he had perhaps heard the careless, indolent voice, and seen the careless face, was enough to thrill her from head to foot.

She waited so eagerly, and with so much of vague anticipation, that when at last the door opened, and her father entered, the face she turned to him was almost feverish in its expectant anxiety.

"I thought you were never coming," she said, with a little flutter in her voice. "Tea has been waiting for an hour, papa."

She was at his side in a moment, ready with the slippers and dressing-gown, with which she never failed. She helped him to put them on as usual, and drew his easy-chair to the fire; but her hand trembled a little as she assisted him to remove his coat, and there was a hot spot of color on her cheek, as she took her place behind the tea-service.

There was never any alteration in her affectionate manner toward him, and she never forgot one thing which might add to his comfort; it would not have been like her to let her trouble reveal itself; but still, in these days, there was a faint, sad feeling of restraint between them. Perhaps it had arisen from their mutual desire to ignore the truth, or perhaps, from their mutual pain; but it was there nevertheless, and in spite of their endeavors to conceal it, ruled them. The innocent childhood was a thing of the past, at least, and each felt it to be so.

The deep lines on the rector's face were deeper this evening than they had ever been, and his grave, resolute mouth had a sadder gravity. Lady Strathspey was a thorough diplomatist, woman as she was, and had known very well what she was saying, when she made her visitor pastry her confidant on the subject which was nearest to her heart.

"Coombe Ashley will scarcely be neglected again, I fancy," she had carelessly said. "If Angus is married, as soon as I hope he will be, I have no doubt he will make it his home, and then of course he will feel his responsibilities."

Her confidence had merely appeared accidental; but it had been sufficiently well arranged, and had at least conveyed the information she intended it should, namely, that her desires were likely to be consummated.

The rector thought over it, as he drank his tea, and glanced at the slight figure before him. He knew enough of the world to understand what her ladyship's speech had meant, and he was thinking of what it might mean to his daughter.

Prue sat at the head of the table, with the spot of color burning on either cheek, and an eager shadow in her eyes. She could not ask him anything. What could she ask? So she waited, with a feverish pain, to hear if he would speak of what he had seen. But when the meal had ended, and he had said nothing, her restlessness grew too much for her.

She went out to Marjory to the kitchen, and gave her orders for the night, and then lingered for a few minutes, half fearing to return to the room. She did not know, poor child, that he feared to see her come.

She went back to the parlor at last, and found her father sitting there in silence, and almost darkness. He had taken his summer seat in the deep old mullioned window, and was watching in the shadowy darkness for the rising of the moon. She went and stood near him, looking out for a few moments in silence, but at last she spoke to him.

"Did you see Miss Framley, papa?" she asked. She did not look at him as she spoke, and the little flutter in her voice made it sound strangely low and unsteady: that it gave her hearer a dull pang.

"Yes," he answered, "and Strathspey, too, Prue."

Her heart beat heavily. It always did beat at the sound of that name; but now its echo forced it to a stronger throb.

In the pause that followed the rector pondered gravely. If she was clinging to any hope, she must be undeceived, and who but himself could undeceive her. She was too young to feel the pain long, after the first wrench was over; but it had been her first young dream, and the pang must be a strong one which tore it from her. He did not understand that, young as she was, this quiet girlish romance of hers might be as hard to kill as the romance of a woman. He pitied her; but he pitied her as the innocent child he had loved, whose childhood was now to it to her. He had not wakened to the full truth yet. "Poor little bairn," he said to himself, and then glanced upward at the slight figure in the shadow, with its face to the window.

John Smith is the happiest man that I know. But wasn't he blue, though, not three months ago!

"My wife's running down just as fast as she can.

And the doctors can't help her," and then this poor man

Almost cried as he thought of the poor suffering wife

Who seemed to be losing her hold upon life.

"Smith, I know just how you feel," said a friend to whom he told his sad story. "My wife was troubled precisely as yours is. I don't just understand it, because I'm not a woman, but her back pained her, and she complained of dragging-down feelings, and a general weakness and I know that she had some of those diseases women are subject to, and had 'em bad, too. I read about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription one day, and the first time I was at the drug store I bought a bottle of it and took home to her. It worked wonders. In a short time she said she felt like another woman, and she began to hope that there was relief for her, after all. She kept on taking the medicine for a time, and now she's all. Get a bottle of the 'Prescription and try it on your wife."

"I will," said Smith. And he did, and it cured her and that's why he's so happy today. s

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. — Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, thin, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal. — Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the appearance of the hair, may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff. — Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

Mr. Baptie told the deputation he would run his factory with the few hand he has now employed for some time.

Being very hot and thirsty after their circuitous tramp, they plunged into the water as soon as they arrived at the shore and struck for the other side with a bold determination. Some boys, noticing them out in the water, launched one of the river drivers' large punts and by a good deal of exertion succeeded in overtaking them and getting them in. The pigs were completely exhausted, and had it not been for the timely aid, would have had a watery grave, and Mrs. Swanston would have been that much worse off.

The Calgary Tribune says:—Mr. George Wainwright arrived in town from Peterborough, Ont., on Friday with a car load of settlers' effects. He has three teams of splendid horses, and has come to stay. He also brought up a pair of rat terriers, which will have lots of fun after the gophers.

Willow and Wicket.

Peterborough vs St. Paul's School. Concord, N.H.

"A Yankee proved too much for us, today," was the sad plaint of the Peterborough players last night. "That old man Morley is a daisy"—and so he is. For a man of his age he bowls and bats wonderfully well, using his head with great judgment.

It is not necessary to say much about yesterday's match. San Ray won the toss, went in first himself, was bowled first ball. Stratton fell without scoring, and with these two mainstays gone, the bottom dropped out of the team, Rutherford and Rogers being the only ones who made much.

The School headed by 30 in the first innings, Morley, Gordon, Kerner and Conover all doing well, although their batting was not at all stylish. Stratton was the most successful bowler, but Attewell bowled with very hard luck.

The home team had a huge tail in the second innings. Three wickets were down for 45, all out for 53. Comment on this is unnecessary. MacDonell played the best cricket of the day for his 32, which was obtained in very nice style.

The School won by eight wickets, but at their request the game was continued. Of course all interest in the game was gone and the field became very lazy, although the bowlers bowled very steadily, Attewell bowling a great many maidens. Conover got 30, Gordon 17, Bowler 16, Kerner and Morley 13 each, and Fisher 12, and the runs were all well obtained, although several easy catches were dropped. The innings amounted to 106, St. Paul's School thus winning by 83 runs.

A Faithful Quarter of a Century.

Address to T. Eastland, Esq., on the Occasion of the Dominion Dispensing with Services Satisfactorily Performed for Twenty-Five Years.

The following address to T. Eastland, Esq., fully explains itself. Mr. Eastland's removal by the Government is to be deplored, but it is not without its bright side—it has brought a most flattering expression of confidence and appreciation of past services from his neighbours and fellow citizens.

T. Eastland, Esq.,

SIR,—We, the undersigned residents of the section of country through which your stage line for so many years has been carrying Her Majesty's mails, desire thus publicly to express our confidence in you, and more especially to record our appreciation of the courteous, diligent and faithful manner in which you have discharged the numerous duties devolving upon you in the capacity of mail carrier during the past twenty-six years.

We regret to learn of the late decision which has deprived you of the position and as of a tried and trusted friend and our mail service of a reliable employee.

Some of us have lived long enough near the northern terminus of this route to know of the days of arduous travelling and nights of laborious toil which you experienced in order that our mails might reach us, bearing their messages of hope, of happiness, or of home. Many of us know the thrill of gratitude that filled us when we saw the snowshoe tracks of our mail carrier; when the road, impassable for horses, was tramped from Burleigh here by yourself bearing the entrusted burthen of Her Majesty's mail. Not alone in winter were toils endured and perils braved by yourself and your trusty employee, Mr. H. Sutherland. The spring, with its freshets, undermining crossings and sweeping away causeways and bridges; and summer brought with it the terrible scourge of fire. We remember, sir, the frightful ravages this element caused throughout the country and to the roads between Young's Point and Apsley, and that through a country passable by one road alone.

We feel, sir, scarcely less strongly that the late decision of the Department will deprive another of employment, who by his faithful discharge of duty through twelve years of service, and no less generous and kind consideration has won a place in our regard and confidence that no other can attain—we refer to Mr. H. Sutherland. While we admit somewhat of selfishness in desiring the services of one whom the past has shown we can trust, we do regret most deeply for his sake on account of the natural infirmities which hinder him in the pursuit of laborious physical toil and in active locomotion.

We have been taught by our political teachers of both parties that rigid adherence to duty should be and is the garantee for continuance in service. Surely, sir, the Department have overlooked the fact that in twenty-six years of service but one complaint was lodged and that was passed without even a reprimand. They must have forgotten that in the past twelve years—in which tri-weekly trips have been run—only three trips were lost. Burleigh so often being the ONLY mail reaching Peterborough that "Burleigh never fails" has been the office encomium for years, on the energy and persistency with which obstacles have been overcome.

We desire also sir in this open letter to express to our parliamentary representatives our desire that you who have so long been identified with us and whose financial interests in this part of the constituency are still a guarantee to us for faithful service, should receive the contract in preference to any other competition not so circumstanced and of whom we know nothing.

We have sir,
The honor to be yours.

The Market Building.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—The effects of the hot weather suggest the only explanation of the utter nonsense written by those who like "Mechanic" in your Mondays edition, oppose a market building on the second floor. It is absurd on the ground of a mere fad to drop a revenue of $1000 per year. I believe the council are acting right in the matter. They have a right to do the best they can for the town and it is only a monopolist cry disguised in the shape of pretended solicitude for the public interest that prompts the opposition to a market building on the second floor. To throw away the annual interest in a capital of $25,000 for the sake of having a ground floor building used two half days in the week is sheer lunacy. A thousand dollars a year is pretty big rent for the town to pay for the use of a market building 52 days in the year—for farmers' wives, who would not mind walking a mile if they could get a cent a pound more for their butter. Neither farmers' wives nor town wives are so weak that they can't climb a few steps to do their marketting. The elevator idea might work all right, but I think it is a rather costly concession to laziness or self-indulgence.

Yours truly,
FIDELIS.

25c. Fancy Striped Chambrays for 17c.; handsome goods and perfectly fast color. The only reason why 25c. Chambrays are selling to-day for 17c. is one of our large wholesale houses imported more than they were able to find a market for at their value and were glad to sell them now, being late in the season, for what they would bring.

Our 5c. Lawns are of good serviceable quality, in fast colors, and as pretty patterns as we ever had in cheap goods. A problem how much did the operator earn a day that made them, and who paid for the dye, seeing there is 32½ per cent. import duty on colored lawn.

20c. Ginghams for 12½c. These goods are fra Glasgae. The patterns are large checks and fine hair stripes. Nothing you can buy will be lighter or wear better.

See our south window of Flannelettes, every desirable color to be seen at a glance, the very appearance of these Goods suggest coolness and comfort. Price 10 and 12 1-2c.

What do you say to fine soft finish light-colored prints, full width, at 5c. a yard. Those that see this notice and believe it will reap the benefit.

Prints opened out this week—50 new patterns in Prints in light and dark grounds. A fine assortment of Prints for children, cream grounds with fine hair lines and polka spots.

FINE STATIONERY

Are you aware of the many important makes of writing paper that abide with us, and occupy a leading superiority over all other makes. We enumerate some of our Special Lines:—

The Original Milton Mills.
This celebrated writing paper now so much in demand, is made from the purest fibre, is firm of texture and is reduced to a moderate price.

The Brown Holland—Calico Grey—Canvas Cream
A triumph of writing paper—the success of the year. They have made a conquest wherever shown, and their ascendency in popularity has been marked and rapid.

Antique Parchment.
The high merit of this production being so well known that further exultation would be superfluous.

The Favorite Grey.
That has been so long in high favor.

Piries' Real Vellum.
Renowned throughout the land for its high repute for office and social correspondence.

The Crown Parchment and Ivory Vellum.
Distinguished for its deadly velvety finish, and a society paper which we are very vain of and which has enshrined itself in the estimation of all lovers of beautiful papers, and is winning golden opinion every day.

The Bath—The St. Andrew—The Garter.
Excellent Medium Quality Paper, that will challenge comparison with very much higher priced papers, and always give satisfaction.

We are bold enough to assert that no practice so forcibly proves the existence of sound art tastes, of real gentility of mind, and of the fitness for high social positions, than the use of Fine Stationery. There never was a time when the best of Stationery could be so daintily offered as the present, when there are so many charming boxes to hold the materials—such pretty conceits in the mode of presentation novel in design.

TOPICS FROM TORONTO

ONTARIO MILLERS DISCUSSING THEIR GRIEVANCES.

The Voters Decide Against a Court House Commission — Manslaughter Under Great Provocation.

TORONTO, July 10.—The millers of Ontario, to the number of nearly 200, gathered in the Board of Trade rooms yesterday to discuss matters of vital interest to their business. Mr. Charles Whitlaw of Paris, President of the Dominion Millers' Association, was in the chair. In his opening address the chairman said the Ontario millers were suffering severely from competition with American flour in the Lower Provinces. This meeting was called to consider their grievances, to come to some conclusion and to press that conclusion on the Government. The millers had suffered severely during the last twelve months, and it was thought that $1 a barrel duty would have alleviated it very much, protecting their industry as the other national industries of the country were protected. As there had been no election of officers for five years the first order on the agenda paper was "reorganization." The election of officers took place as follows: President, J. C. Hay, Listowel; Vice-President, John Brown, Toronto; Treasurer, Michael McLaughlin, Toronto. The membership was placed as follows: $5 a year for a 100 barrel mill, $10 a year for a 200 barrel mill and $15 a year for a 300 barrel mill. Mr. J. Warcup, Oakville, led the discussion on "The Present Critical Condition of the Milling Industry, its causes and remedies with reference to the flour and wheat duties." Mr. Plewes of Brantford followed. He thought that if the course were adopted not to vote for a man who did not favor the millers' cause their grievances would be remedied at the next session of Parliament. After further discussion by Mr. James Stark of Paisley, Mr. W. R. Wadsworth of Weston, Mr. Emory of Port Burwell and Mr. McGoldis of Guelph, this resolution offered by Mr. McLaughlin was carried: "That this meeting is aware of the efforts made during last session of Parliament by the miller's committee to have the error in the wheat and flour duties corrected and that we do further assert that the prime object of this meeting of millers is to endorse the work done last winter, and perfect the organization of Canadian millers for the purpose of obtaining justice." Other resolutions with reference to the disabilities under which the trade is said to be languishing were passed. Mr. Plewes was elected secretary. An evening session was held at which, in spite of the heat, there was a lot of business transacted.

The bylaw appropriating $165,000 for various public improvements was carried yesterday by a vote of 516 to 427, that for the appointment of a court house commission was defeated, 375 to 638.

Hugh McKay, the carpenter who is accused of administering a fatal blow to Contractor James Smith in the bar-room of Ronan's hotel Monday evening, was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday charged with wilful murder. The Crown applied for a remand until the 12th, which was acceded to. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of "manslaughter under great provocation."

Robert Sproule, at the Police Court yesterday morning, narrated the particulars of the robbery in which he was a victim at an early hour Monday morning. He first partially recognized the prisoners William Ward and Thomas Fahey as the parties who held him up. The robbers seized him in Nunn's-lane, and silenced him by threats of killing. Having overpowered him they proceeded to relieve him of his wealth, taking about $170 in cash and four promissory notes for $50 each, together also with two pocket-books. The prisoners were committed for trial.

James Gorman, the foolish fellow who swallowed a dose of carbolic acid in a petty tiff over a dispute with his wife, is very sick. He was taken to the General Hospital and the doctor administered powerful emetics. He is too ill to be moved.

Toronto wood-workers are agitating for shorter hours.

An Island ferryboat that floats the Stars and Stripes is in bad odor thereat with the residents, and a boycott has been instituted.

There were several cases of prostration from the heat yesterday. A man named Patrick Kearney, residing in Deer Park, was seized with sunstroke in Yonge-street. He was carried into the Deer Park Hotel and Dr. Armstrong called, but no hope could be given of his recovery. At last accounts he was still insensible and will probably die. John Boliver, assistant cook in Thomas' European Hotel, was taken to the Hospital in the police ambulance in an unconscious condition. Early in the day he had taken several drinks of ice water, afterwards complaining of severe pains in his stomach. He gradually lapsed into a state of insensibility, in which condition he was removed to the hospital. Boliver is an Englishman, 40 years of age. But faint hopes are entertained of his recovery.

DR. WATERS' EXPERIMENT.

He Takes Poison to Commit Suicide and Makes Notes of Its Effects.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Dr. John Waters committed suicide Sunday evening at his lodging-house in College-place. The record of his forty-eight hour experiments with poison is contained in a letter found yesterday in his room. Dr. Waters was 65 years old, was at one time the leading physician of Carson City, Nev., where he had a fine house and a practice worth $20,000. He came to New York, and after losing his money in Wall-street, became reduced in circumstances and finally concluded that life was not worth living. In a letter to Dr. Wells, Dr. Waters gives a detailed account of his sensations after he had swallowed poison enough to kill three men. He intended that it should be a contribution to medical science. The doctor took 56 grains of morphine and several doses of cocoaine. For more than 36 hours he endured the agony the poison caused him. Although his hand trembled so much that much of his writing is almost illegible, he coolly jotted down his observations on the effect of the poison. It failed to kill him, and he put an end to the horrible tragedy with two shots from a revolver.

COLONIAL "HONORABLES."

THE QUESTION OF TITLES AGITATED IN LONDON.

Sir Charles Tupper's Proposal for an Imperial Convention to be Fully Considered by the British Government.

LONDON, July 9.—The Canadian and Australian discussion of the recent Colonial Office regulation, forbidding the use outside of a colony of the colonial title of Honorable, is attracting much attention here. The feeling seems to be fairly general that the Colonial Office acted most unwisely, and that colonial legislators should be honorably recognized in every part of the empire. Sir George Baden-Powell will raise the question in the House of Commons shortly.

Mr. Howard Vincent's question regarding the proposal of Sir Charles Tupper for an Imperial convention was down in the House of Commons for last evening, but was postponed until July 22, doubtless at the request of the Government. This is believed to indicate that the Government is anxious to fully consider the proposals, and hope to come to a definite conclusion in the fortnight's time.

Two new Canadian companies have been registered, namely the Canadian Syndicate (limited), capital £20,000, whose object it is to secure important mineral and other properties in Canada, and the Vancouver City Land Company (limited), capital £28,000 whose object it is to acquire real estate in Vancouver.

Mr. Byrne's Alibi.

LONDON, July 9.—At the meeting of the Parnell Commission to-day Mr. Byrne, M.P., was a witness. He was questioned concerning a speech which, according to a statement of The Times, he had made at Waterford. Mr. Byrne declared he had never been in Waterford and therefore could not have made a speech there. This answer evoked a laugh from the people in the Court room.

To Fight the Canadian Copyright Bill.

LONDON, July 9.—The English Publishers' Association have determined to use every effort to fight the passage of the Canadian Copyright bill. They claim that Canada is only a colony and has no power to pass its own copyright laws, that the Imperial Act is paramount and that the English Government will vest the bill.

Another Fight with Dervishes.

CAIRO, July 9.—Advices were received here to-day that Col. Wodehouse's cavalry occupied the camp of the enemy and found it deserted by all except several men, women and children, who were dying from thirst and exhaustion. The enemy surprised and killed a picket belonging to the 9th Battalion. No reinforcements for Col. Wodehouse had as yet passed Wady Halfa.

Other advices say the Egyptian force under Col. Wodehouse arrived at Adendan last night. The dervishes occupied a position on the opposite bank. A sharp engagement ensued; the dervishes were after water and managed to procure a supply, though many of their number succumbed to the fierce artillery and rifle fire kept up by the Egyptians. There were also several casualties among the Egyptians.

The Terrible St. Etienne Disaster.

PARIS, July 9.—Thirty-seven more bodies have been taken from the coal pits at St. Etienne, in which an explosion occurred last week.

Hudson Bay Company's Meeting.

LONDON, July 10.—At the Hudson Bay Company's meeting yesterday Sir Donald Smith, chairman, moved the adoption of the report proposing a dividend of 14s. per share. Mr. MacLean moved in amendment, proposing a dividend of twenty shillings. The motion lost on a show of hands and a poll was then taken, which will be declared to-day. Among other motions was one by Mr. MacLean, proposing the total separation of the Land and Trading Departments. This was carried by a show of hands, but a poll was demanded by the directors. The report was then adopted.

Two M. P.'s Acquitted.

DUBLIN, July 9 — The court at Drogheda has dismissed the case against Messrs. Cox and Gill, M. P.'s who were brought from London for trial on a charge of conspiracy.

Forty Persons Drowned.

LONDON, July 9.—Despatches from India say the river Indus has overflowed and the adjacent country is under 10 feet of water. Forty persons have been drowned at Larkhana.

Coal Miners on Strike.

BERLIN, July 9.—The workmen at the Saar coal mines have again gone on strike, owing to the dismissal of the delegates who attended the recent miners' conference.

Reducing Production.

LONDON, July 9.—The council of the United Cotton Spinners met at Manchester to-day and resolved that owing to the present state of trade all spinners shall reduce their production by one-half for a month.

Ordered to Assouan.

CAIRO, July 9.—Three battalions of British infantry and a squadron of hussars have been ordered to Assouan.

A Switchman's Fatal Blunder.

BUCHAREST, July 9.—A passenger train collided with a freight train near Ulmita to-day. Fifteen persons were killed and many injured. The accident was due to the mistake of a switchman.

The Wartime Kaiser.

BERLIN, July 9.—It is stated that Emperor William has forbidden the officers of the German army to visit the Paris exposition.

PANGANI BOMBARDED.

A Ruthless Act of Destruction by German Gunboats—The Town Captured.

ZANZIBAR, July 9.—The German gunboat Pfiel arrived here this morning from Pangani. She reports that that place was shelled yesterday by five German men-of-war. Four ships of Lieutenant Wissman's expedition and the despatch boat Kutch were also before the town. After the bombardment Lieutenant Wissmann's force, numbering over 1,000 men, landed, supported by 400 German sailors. In doing so they lost two boats. All the Arabs and black men had retired. The Germans declare they had no losses, which is improbable. Lieutenant Wissmann and his force have occupied Pangani.

No German was even killed there in the recent outbreak, and this ruthless destruction of the place seems unwarranted. Mombassa is not unlikely to feel the effect, and the British ship Torquoise is stationed there permanently with her crew under arms day and night.

Mutual Live Stock Association.

SEAFORTH, July 9. The first meeting of the Board of Directors of the Mutual Live Stock Association of Ontario was held here to-day. All the directors were present except Mr. Robert Beath of Bowmanville, and Mr. Graham, of Whitby, both of whom are in the Old Country. Mr. John MacMillan, M.P. for South Huron, was elected President; Mr. D. D. Wilson, Seaforth, Vice-President; Mr. John Avery, Stanley, Secretary, and Mr. M. V. McLean, Treasurer. The other officers will be appointed at the next meeting of the Board.

Will Raise the Price of Meat.

MONTREAL, July 9.—The Canada Meat Packing Company, which is commencing business here, has petitioned the City Council to be allowed to draw water from the Lachine Canal for use in its processes instead of drawing from the city's supply. This has met with opposition from all quarters and will probably be refused. The company claims that in consequence the price of its meat will be increased 1 cent per pound.

A Tripple Crime.

PITTSBURG, July 9.—Richard Lewis, who boarded with Mrs. Elmira Mosely, to-day called her to his room and shot her dead as she entered. The woman's sister, Emeline Myers, ran in to see what was wrong and Lewis shot her fatally. He then blew his brains out. The parties were all colored. The cause is a mystery, but it is said Mrs. Mosely had refused to marry Lewis.

MONTREAL, July 8.—A Frenchman attired in garments of the Trappist Order and claiming to have but just arrived from across the sea, entered the Montreal Seminary and made the acquaintance of Father Stewart of the Trappist Order at Oka. While mass was in progress the stranger stole $400 and disappeared.

THE CROPS.

Reports From all Parts of Ontario Full of Encouragement.

TORONTO, July 10.—Crop reports from all over the Province, are full of hope for the farmers and full of encouragement for the business community.

The effect of the recent rains seems to have been largely overcome by dry weather, and all the cereal crops promise a good average yield.

The reports as to fall wheat are especially hopeful, and spring wheat seems also to promise a fair average.

The reports as to barley, peas and oats are fairly satisfactory.

Hay will perhaps hardly be an average crop.

Apples and small fruits seem to be a comparative failure.

It is perhaps rather early to speak with confidence as to vegetables, but the great majority of the reports received are of an encouraging character.

Upon the whole there is strong reason for congratulation that the outlook is so bright and some reason to expect a good business year.

A MICHIGAN SENSATION.

Rev. Mr. Woodford Throws Brickbats Through a Neighbor's Window.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 10.—Considerable excitement has been occasioned in Episcopal circles here over the conduct of Rev. S. H. Woodford, rector of Trinity Church. Saturday afternoon he acted so strangely and became so violent that his wife went to the house of Mr. Winsor, a friend and member of the parish. Later Mr. Winsor went to the rectory and informed Mr. Woodford that Mrs. Woodford would remain at the Winsor house all night. A few hours later the minister went to Mr. Winsor's house and raised a terrible rumpus, the first intimation of his presence on the premises being a fusilade of brickbats against the door and through the windows into the conservatory.

The ladies were terribly frightened, and Mr. Winsor went out and forcibly asked the pastor what he meant. The reply came by means of a brickbat thrown against Mr. Winsor's head, cutting a three-inch gash in his scalp, and a yell of "I want my wife! I want my wife;" Then the infuriated preacher ran around the house, throwing bricks through the doors and windows. At last, having battered his way into the kitchen, he became more quiet, and a posse of neighbors went in and secured him and he was taken to jail.

Of course it is considered that he is insane, and it is well known that he has had fits of what have charitably been considered exceedingly bad temper before. Once he knocked a book from the hands of an ordinable lady during a session of the Sunday school, whose singing did not please him. Some years ago he also got into trouble at Grand Haven, and was suspended from duty, but was afterwards restored.

He is being closely watched, so that his mental condition can be carefully considered. Mr. and Mrs. Woodford have four children, the eldest being a lovely daughter, 17 years of age. Just what started this deplorable breaking down on the part of Mr. Woodford is not known.

IN THE HANDS OF BLACK FIENDS.

Horrible Treatment of a Young Wife in the Wilds of South Carolina.

BISHOPVILLE, S.C., July 10.—On Friday, June 28, two young white people, Mr. and Mrs. Daniels, appeared in the neighborhood of Bethlehem Church, about three miles above here, and stopped over night with one Ransom J. Anderson, a colored man. On Monday morning they started for Bishopville. On their way to town they were met by one Ned Williams, a young negro, and were decoyed to his house, where he said they could remain during Saturday and he would then pilot them to their destination.

On Sunday morning Ned Williams, joined by four of his companions, Ed. Scott, John Williams, his brother, Tom Carter and Preston Johnson. In the evening Williams started with the young couple as he had promised, but had only gone about 200 yards from the house when Ned's four companions jumped on young Daniels and beat him and drove him away. Then the five with drawn pistols assaulted the woman, each abusing her horribly.

The poor creature, half dead, was forced back into Ned Williams' house, and there kept until the next morning, when Williams' wife carried her to the house of Preston Jefferson, and he took her to the house of June Cupid, who resides on Mr. O. C. Scarborough's place. Cupid and his wife are kind colored people, and she remained with them until last night, when the white people of the vicinity got the first inkling of the crime.

Investigation followed, and Mr. R. E. Carnes, trial justice, issued warrants for four men, three of whom are the parties wanted. The fourth, being innocent, was discharged and two more were secured. At the preliminary examination all the parties made statements, which amount in fact to a plea of guilty.

The town is in a fever of excitement and knots of men, both white and colored, are seen all about the town discussing the question, and a large guard is placed over the prisoners to prevent any possibility of lynching.

A Michigan Tragedy.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., July 10.—Mrs. A. T. Blackmar, resident of Blackmar, Saginaw County, 14 miles distant, returned Saturday from a visit to Buffalo, where her husband is in business. Her son Charles Blackmar, while under the influence of liquor, during a family quarrel, pulled a revolver from his pocket and shot his mother in the shoulder, causing a painful but not dangerous wound. A nephew of the man who did the shooting was so enraged that he procured a gun and shot his uncle in the thigh and abdomen. His wound is possibly fatal. There has been trouble in the Blackmar family for some time. The son who did the shooting is said to be very intemperate in his habits.

Further details of the tragedy came by telephone from Dr. Benjamin of Bridgeport, which is seven miles from Blackmar. He says both victims are living with fair prospects of ultimate recovery unless in the case of the son, who is aged 40, and whose wound in the abdomen may inflame owing to excessive heat, internal hemorrhage, etc. The nephew is still at large but the Sheriff started yesterday morning to capture him if possible. The family is well known here and much respected. The Blackmars were wealthy once and resided in this city.

The Alton's Cut.

CHICAGO, July 9.—At a meeting of the Western Freight Association to-day the proposition of the Chicago and Alton to reduce rates on cattle, dressed beef and packing house products from the Missouri River to Chicago was voted down. The Alton thereupon gave ten days' notice of its intention to put the reduced rates into effect.

A NEW CABLE COMBINE.

Against the Old "Pool"—A Revolution in the Cod Fishing Business.

HALIFAX, July 9.—It is reported that the Mackay-Bennett and French Cable Companies have been amalgamated, and will be operated in opposition to the "cable pool." The French land lines from Louisburg to Sydney have been dismantled, and a new cable laid from off Louisburg to Canso, where both cables are now operated from the Mackay-Bennett cable station. Independent connection will be made with the United States by laying a new cable from Canso to Boston. The Canadian Pacific are pushing forward to early completion their land line to connect with the Mackay-Bennett and French cables at Canso.

St. Pierre fishermen are greatly excited over a discovery that promises to revolutionize the cod fishing business. Three French ships, instead of going to St. Pierre for fresh, fitted themselves out with flat bottomed, round baskets, with a small hole at the top. These they sunk in water seventy to eighty fathoms and they were quickly filled with periwinkles of a large size. The shells were smashed on deck and the trawls baited with live periwinkles. Codfish took to these most ravenously and the vessels were soon loaded down to the gunwales and sailed for France with full cargoes the first week in July instead of October, as usual, thus saving three months' time and hundreds of dollars in the purchase of bait. If the new method proves successful it will go far to solve the fishery problem between Canada and the States.

TERRIBLE DISASTER AT JOHNSTOWN IN THAT STATE.

Many Lives Reported Lost—Four Dams Washed Away—The Wires Down and Only Meagre Particulars Obtainable.

TROY, N.Y., July 9.—There are reports here that three big dams were washed away near Johnstown, N.Y., that crowds of people got on a bridge to watch the flood, that it was carried away and several people were drowned. A complete prostration of wires makes it impossible to communicate with Johnstown.

A Cloud-burst.

SCHENEC LADY, July 9.—A cloud-burst washed away the Central railway tracks between Aiken and Tribes Hill stations, about five miles west of Amsterdam, this afternoon causing another delay to all trains. A wrecked freight train which blocked all four tracks in the morning had just been cleared and delayed trains began to move both east and west when some of them were caught by this new mishap and a second blockade occurred more serious than the first. The west bound limited and two other express trains which left here about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, came back here between 7 and 8 o'clock and were sent west over the West Shore road. It seems impossible to get any particulars here this evening as to how bad the break is or how long it will take to repair it. Some of the trains hurrying to make up lost time narrowly escaped the cloudburst but all did escape. One house was partially washed away but no lives have been lost.

Nine Bridges Washed Away.

TROY, July 9.—A telephone from Johnstown says the town is in total darkness and nine bridges were washed away.

Assuming a Terrible Aspect.

TROY, July 9.—At 12 o'clock rain is falling in torrents in Johnstown and the flood is assuming a terrible aspect. Mills and sheds are being carried rapidly away.

A Startling Rumor.

TROY, July 9.—One of the rumors circulated here is that 50 to 75 persons were drowned by the carrying away of the bridge at Johnstown.

A Telephone Account.

SARATOGA, July 9.—The telephone people at Amsterdam state that a washout at Aiken, N.Y., three miles west of that place, has torn up 600 feet of track and cut off communication with the west. Whether the washout was caused by a cloudburst at Aiken, or by the breaking of a dam at Johnstown, N.Y., as rumored, cannot be ascertained.

A Floater at Deseronto.

DESERONTO, July 9.—This forenoon a body was seen floating in one of the slips of the Rathbun Company and it was hauled on shore. On examination no papers were found by which it might be identified. The person was evidently about 26 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches tall and would probably weigh about 160 pounds. The body was dressed in a black frock coat, black vest and dark brown pants, and a Derby hat was found soon after the body was secured. In the vest pocket was a watch case, imitation silver (no works in the case) and a heavy brass chain with a charm. On the coat lapel was a bouquet. Evidently the body was that of an excursionist on Dominion Day, as the nine days have elapsed in which a drowned body is supposed to rise. Pending the identification of the body, it will remain at the undertaking rooms of Mr. J. Dalton.

The Finding of Mr. Grothe's Body.

MONTREAL, July 9—Le Monde publishes the following story of the finding of the body of Mr. Grothe who was drowned while fishing on Dominion Day:—"After long and fruitless searches, some one proposed to try the experiment of floating a cross on the water, and placing upon it a piece of bread blessed at last Lent. They did this and launched it on the water watching it with the keenest interest. After descending the current for about forty yards the cross stopped suddenly and commenced whirling round in a circle and to the astonishment of all the body of Mr. Grothe rose to the surface. The widow of the drowned man is keeping the cross as a precious souvenir."

The Ancient Capital.

QUEBEC, July 10.—The body of an unknown man was found drowned at Cap Rouge yesterday morning and will be brought to the morgue for an inquest.

Hon. John Costigan was tendered a complimentary dinner last night by a number of his political admirers.

Mrs. Chouinard, aged 85, died at her residence last evening from the effects of an accident by falling off a gallery at the back of her house.

To Bring Texas To Terms.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 9.—Leland Stanford and C. P. Huntington have decided to withdraw the Southern Pacific Railway from Texas. A late law in the state provides that no railway company operating roads within its borders has any legal status unless it maintains its principal office therein. The Southern Pacific officials say they cannot comply with the law.

No Trains.

TROY, July 10.—A reporter who started on the 11 p.m. train from Albany to get facts about the storm near Fonda and Johnstown has not been heard from since. Amsterdam telephones that there are no trains west of that point on account of the washout.

Drowned.

LONG BRANCH, July 9.—Wm. Kirby was drowned here to-day while swimming out to rescue Wm. Hirsch of New York City, who was in danger of drowning. Another man rescued Hirsch.

The evidence was read over to the prisoner to-night.

Burke was then asked if he had anything to say. He replied: "Not guilty, my lord. I know nothing about the matter."

The court rose at 11 o'clock till morning, when the argument will be proceeded with.

THE LATE PROF. PHELPS.

The above is a portrait of the late Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., of Dartmouth College. He was a strong, able man, who stood high in the literary and scientific worlds. It is not generally known, but it is, nevertheless, the truth, that Prof. Phelps was the discoverer of what is known to the Medical Profession and Chemists universally as Paine's Celery Compound, unquestionably one of the most valuable discoveries of this century. This remarkable compound is not a nervine, an essence, a sarsaparilla or any devised article, but a discovery, and it marks a distinct step in medical practice and the treatment of nervous complications. It has been freely admitted by the best medical talent in the land, and also by the leading chemists and scientists, that for nerve troubles, nervous exhaustion, insomnia, debility, senility and even the dreaded and terrible Paresis, nothing has ever been discovered which reaches the disorder and restores health equal to this discovery of Prof. Phelps

Paine's Celery Compound is now being prepared in quantities, and can be procured at any reputable druggist. An attractive bunch of celery is to be found on every wrapper. It has become specially popular among professional men, mind workers, ladies burdened with exciting social duties and frequenters of the leading clubs.

ESTIMATES BROUGHT DOWN

Over $12,000 Required for School Purposes.

The Estimates of This Year Ahead of Last—A Motion to Separate the Two Boards Work to be Begun on the Collegiate Institute Repairs at Once—Music will be Introduced in the Public Schools Next Term.

At the special meeting of the School Board last night there were present Chairman Stevenson and Messrs. Burnham, O'Meara, Kendry, Weir, McWilliams, English, Denne and Dumble.

The Secretary read the report of Inspector Hodgson upon the result of his inspection of the Collegiate Institute May 14th and 15th. In his general remarks the Inspector said:—"A gymnasium has been built and partially equipped, but the school building is as it was on the occasion of my last visit of inspection. I therefore again recommend that the continuance of the Collegiate Institute grant be made conditional on the provision of better accommodations." The report was received.

THE ESTIMATES.

Dr. Burnham, Chairman of the Finance Committee, presented the estimates for the year, which provided for a demand from the town of $15,040.00, an increase of $3,500 over last year. There was some discussion over the figures, and the estimates were finally adopted as follows:

THE TWO BOARDS.

It was moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that Dr. Boucher be appointed upon all committees on which Mr. J. R. Stratton acted.—Carried.

Mr. DUMBLE said that in view of the difficulty that existed in adjusting affairs between the public and high schools, he gave notice that at the next meeting he would introduce a motion separating the high and public school boards.

REPAIRS TO THE INSTITUTE.

Mr. Blackwell, architect, presented for inspection plans of the proposed improvements to the Collegiate Institute, in widening the halls and providing cloak and hat rooms, at the same time leaving the building in a position ready for the introduction of the Smead-Dowd system of heating when the board decided to put it in. Mr. Blackwell thought the first part of the improvements could be made for about $1,500.

There was some talk about the tardiness of the Property Committee in getting to work, and Mr. McWilliams moved, seconded by Mr. Denne, that as the holiday time is too short to make the repairs to the Institute building according to the plans and specifications proposed by the architect, that the Property Committee be instructed to widen the halls and make the cloak rooms as requested by the Inspector's report.—Carried.

Mr. Denne moved, seconded by Mr. Weir, that Messrs. McWilliams and Dumble be added to the Property Committee for the purpose of making these improvements.—Carried.

MUSIC IN THE SCHOOLS.

On motion Mr. J. H. Ketchum was given an opportunity of addressing the Board with reference to the teaching of music in the public schools. He stated that he usually spent half an hour each week in each room of the public schools, and taught the pupils to read and sing music at sight. He taught by the notation system. He would probably spend five hours a day for three days of the week, and he thought it would be worth about $400 a year. He had been teaching for a few weeks in the Central school, and the teachers were satisfied with the work.

Mr. DUMBLE favored the teaching of music in the schools, and considered the money would be well spent. He moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that Mr. Ketchum be employed to teach music in the public school for three days of the week, full school hours, at a salary of $400 a year.

Mr. MCWILLIAMS proposed to add one hour on Saturday for the benefit of the Collegiate Institute pupils.

Mr DUMBLE incorporated Mr. McWilliam's suggestion, and the motion was carried.

The Board then adjourned, with the understanding that the Property committee would meet this evening to take steps towards beginning the work on the Institute building.

MONTREAL MATTERS.

Canada's Big City Becoming a Favorite Summer Resort for Americans.

MONTREAL, July 10.—A meeting of the Windsor Hotel Company was held yesterday. Statements were submitted to show that during last month the volume of business was the largest in ten years. American travel is now commenced and the influx of visitors is very large. American physicians are sending their patients to Montreal to avoid hay fever and the city is proving a rival to the White Mountain resorts. Where formerly traffic was transient now it is permanent and a general effort is being made to develop the tourist travel and encourage Americans to make Montreal a stopping place.

Sidney Gates, an old man, entered the Protestant House of Refuge yesterday. He had evidently been drinking and shortly after going in he swallowed a quantity of carbolic acid. He was taken to the Montreal General Hospital and died a few hours after admission.

The Religieuses Ursulines have obtained from the Pope through Cardinal Taschereau a full indulgence for the first of August. All the mills manufacturing grey cotton cloth have agreed on a minimum price and several are making a special grade for China. The exports this year amount to $250,000. This has caused a firm home market with light stocks. The new machinery for the extension of the Hochelaga Cotton Company has arrived and will be running by September with appliances for printing. The outlay for machiney is $150,000 and 700 hands will be employed. The Merchants Cotton Company are putting in 50 new looms at St. Henri, which will bring the mill up to its full capacity. Cotton men speak hopefully of the situation and think a successful season is assured.

ITCHING AGONIES.

Every Night I Scratched until the Skin was Raw.

Body Covered with Scales like Spots of Mortar. An awful Spectacle. Doctors Useless. Cure Hopeless. Entirely Cured by the Cuticura Remedies in five Weeks.

I am going to tell you of the extraordinary change your CUTICURA REMEDIES performed on me. About the first of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on, when it began to look like spots of mortar spotted on, and which came off in layers, accompanied by itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scales, being formed meanwhile, were scratched off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the country, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and purchased them from my druggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one, and have been fully cured. I had the disease thirteen months before I began taking the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. My disease was eczema and psoriasis. I recommended the CUTICURA REMEDIES to all in my vicinity, and I know of a great many who have taken them, and thank me for the knowledge of them, especially mothers who have babes with scaly eruptions on their heads and bodies. I cannot express in words the thanks to you for what the CUTICURA REMEDIES have been to me. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as nice and clear as a baby's.

MUNCASTER'S

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER

A TALE OF TEARS.

"She is a very beautiful girl, this Miss Framley, Prue," he said, at last.

"Yes, papa," she answered, without moving.

"Lady Strathspey was telling me to-night," he went on steadily, "that she had heard that she would be a bride of Coombe Ashley. I have no doubt the two, when they are married, as I think they will be."

The slender figure stirred faintly, but very faintly, and then Prue made her reply.

"It will be better for Coombe Ashley," she said, slowly.

He had not anticipated that she would display any great emotion, but he had expected to see more than this. It almost relieved him, and his fancy that her youth would make her pain lighter for her, returned to him with more of reassurance than it had offered before, and made him speak more cheerfully.

"Yes," he said. "It will be better for Coombe Ashley, and better for all of us. Miss Framley is a very fitting Lady Strathspey."

Prue made no reply. She stood silently watching the clouds brighten above the hill-tops as the moon rose. She was thinking steadily of the one thing.

The rector rose from his seat at last. It would be best to leave her alone, he thought.

"I have some work to do," he said to her, "so I must go to my room. Good-night, Prue."

"Good night, papa," she answered steadily, and then he left her.

She did not stir after he was gone, and she found herself alone. The moon was just flooding the rowan trees with its shining light, and she watched it movelessly, and in silence.

Men had amused themselves with women often before, as women had amused themselves with men; other women had awakened from foolish, tender, delicious dreams of happiness; but few women had ever awakened with such a shock, leaving behind in the past so much of innocent faith and ignorant trust as this poor little desolate Prue. Until the morning she had met Gwendoline Framley in church, she she had never dreamed that the wide difference between herself and her lover could be an obstacle; she had thought of nothing but her love, and this love had been so girlish, so trusting, so pure. She saw it all now. She had been led on blindly to this end, while he—she stopped here, remembering the handsome, careless face, and the eyes which had smiled her down. Her heart began to beat wildly—it was only a girl's heart, and the handsome face and smiling eyes had won it from the first. She could not blame him yet—a woman might have done so, a girl never. I almost think that if it had been possible to blot out all the remembrance, with all its present and future pain, she would have chosen to keep the memory, rather than stand where she had stood twelve months before, losing the recollection of the blonde, cavalier face, and the great thrills of foolish bliss it had brought her. There were so many memories. There, upon the hearth, he had kissed her hand the night she wore the white fuchsias in her hair; here, at this window, she had waited a hundred times, only to see him pass by with his gun over his shoulder; the box of mignonette still bloomed upon the sill; the faded, little brown sprig lay between the leaves of her Bible up stairs, and this moment she felt the touch of the great golden mustache upon her lips, and heard his footfall ring upon the walk as he passed out in the moonlight. Would he never come back again. Perhaps not. She found herself imagining blindly how the old life would seem when she returned to it, and looking forward, with a great shuddering pang, to the time when Miss Framley would come to the Coombe as Lady Strathspey, and sit in the velvet-lined cushioned pew, week after week. She could go no farther than that, without the wild heart-beating, and she slipped upon her knees before the empty basket-chair, flinging up her arms—she was so crushed, so stricken.

The shadow of the trouble had been upon her so long, with its constant torture of changing hopes and fears, that she was too weak to bear it. Now it was becoming more than a shadow, and she felt her strength drifting away from her, so she knelt. The helpless, hopeless wearing had been too much for her.

She rose at last. It would not do to remain there any longer, she told herself, and she must go to her room. She heard Marjory moving about in the kitchen for an hour, making preparations for retiring, and she went out to her, as she always did, to bid her good-night.

But at the kitchen door she paused, strangely dazzled by the light, and Marjory looked up at her to see her wavering, with white lips.

"Don't call papa, Marjory," she said, helplessly. "Please don't call papa;" and the next instant Marjory had caught her as she fell.

CHAPTER VIII.

Lady Strathspey sat in one of the parlors of the Coombe with a faint shadow of anxiety on her handsome, well preserved features. She had just returned from church with her son and their visitor, and she was pondering, one might have fancied from her expression, upon a subject which caused her some misgivings. She was a worldly woman, this Lady Strathspey, but at her coldest and worldliest, she was never a hard-hearted one; and for the last few weeks something of distrust had been creeping over her before perfect contentment. It was a shade deeper than usual this morning, and it showed itself in her handsome eyes, and in her handsome Strathspey face, with its patrician Saxon features, and last it reached the surface.

"Did you notice little Miss Renfew this morning, Gwendoline?" she asked.

Gwendoline was interested at once. She always did notice little Miss Renfrew, and had always noticed her from the first; the brown eyed face of the rector's daughter had touched her heart the morning she had caught sight of it under the plain little straw hat in the square pew, and she had a girlish sympathy for it.

"Yes, she answered. "How pale she was, Lady Strathspey. She looked positively ill, I thought, poor little creature."

"She looked very ill," said her ladyship, decidedly, the shadow deepening upon her countenance. "I must go and see her."

She had been watching the rector's daughter keenly during the last month or so, and the result of her scrutiny was not very satisfactory. Naturally, she had told herself, the girlish face would lose something of its brightness under the dispelling of its first romance. She had seen girls grow pale before now, when an unpractical fancy had been overruled by wiser and more matronly heads; but in her experience the fancy had always died away in no great length of time, and in the end its death had come to be regarded as a natural and fortunate result. But here was something new—something new enough to trouble her. The shadowy sadness in the girl's face was deeper than she cared to see; and there was nothing of the atmosphere of girlish sentiment about it which, in most cases, with its slight tinge of love-lorn ludicrousness, generally counteracts the outsider's sympathy. In this it drives they often shet her carrying the little basket and the well-worn Bible which her pensioners knew so well; and she always returned their greeting with the sweet gravity which was naturally her own; but the faint pallor was a faint one no longer, and the slender figure looked a thought more slender; and as the summer advanced, Lady Strathspey found herself feeling strangely anxious.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

She was not a hard-hearted woman, as I have said, in spite of her very natural weakneses, and Prue had always possessed a great attraction for her. She had liked her simple, innocent ways, and had warmly admired the unfailing sweetness which made the girl such a favorite with the poorer class. Her childlike faithfulness to her duty had touched her ladyship's heart, and her constant care and affection for her father had often drawn a sigh form her in its contrast with her own idol's amiable indifference. In fact, she had come as near cherishing a sort of well trained affection for her as was in accordance with her nature.

Sporting Notes.

This evening the regatta on Little Lake takes place, under the auspices of the Otonabee canoe club. There will be some good races, particularly the double canoe event, in which there are four or five entries. The tournament will be an amusing feature. The races are called at 7.30 o'clock.

To-morrow the Peterborough and Galt cricket clubs meet on the home grounds. It will likely be a good match.

The Foresters' Excursion.

Whatever the Foresters of Court Peterborough undertake they generally succeed, and their annual excursion to Jubilee Point on July 25th, promises to be a repetition of their former record. Calcutt's steamer and palace barge have been engaged for the occasion and every preparation will be made, for ample space so that there will be no crowding. Calcutt's whole fleet will be engaged if necessary. Good music provided. Tickets only 50 cents; children half price. d

Binding Twine.

In conversation with an agricultural implement man, he said it was probable that binding twine would be scarce this season. The crop of grain to be harvested will warrant nearly every farmer to purchase double the quantity of twine than in former seasons. The best quality is the only reliable article to purchase, as poor twine causes a great deal of trouble with binders, especially in heavy grain. Farmers having a large area of grain to cut will do well in purchasing early, for although dear now, if a shortage occurs, it will be impossible to purchase it at a reasonable price.

The Fireworks.

The firemen exhibited their fireworks last night to a good-sized crowd of spectators. The display was quite satisfactory, some of set pieces being unusually fine. That of "Our Firemen" and the crown were specially good. The ballon "Peterborough" was also sent up amid the plaudits of the crowd. There was, besides, the usual quantity of smaller pyrotechnics. The firemen marched to the grounds at eight o'clock, and looked well in their neat uniforms. They were headed by the band, which played on the way over and also at the grounds. On the return march there was a torch-light procession by the firemen. Altogether the firemen scored quite a success, though their profits are not as large as they would have been had there been no postponements.

The inestimable value of Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier should be known to every wife and mother. It corrects irregularities, gives tone and strength to the vital organs, and cleanses the system of all impurities. The best family medicine.

A Fatal Accident.

A Young Son of Mr W. H. Meldrum Fatally Injured—Richard Morgan Hurt.

Tuesday afternoon about four o'clock a shocking accident happened in Meldrum & Davidson's flour mill. Arthur, an eight year-old son of Mr. W. H. Meldrum, was playing about the mill and finally turned his attention to the grindstone, which is operated by the mill power. He tried to put the belt on the shaft, and, it is thought, used his foot for the purpose, when his leg was caught between the belt and the shaft and the little fellow was whirled around. The leg was torn off just above the knee, and when picked up the dismembered part was lying a considerable distance from the body. The sight of the twisted bones and ragged, bleeding flesh on each of the stumps was sickening. The poor little fellow was conscious all the time, and was at once taken home and Drs. Halliday and Boucher summoned. Everything was done to make the sufferer easy, and it was intended later in the evening to properly dress the wound, but the little fellow sank rapidly and died shortly before nine o'clock.

The afflicted parents will receive the sincere condolence of every one in their sad and sudden bereavement. Mr. Meldrum was in Toronto yesterday and did not arrive in time to see his little boy alive. Both father and mother are shocked beyond expression at the dreadful death of their darling boy. Arthur was a particularly bright and attractive little fellow, and all the friends of the family will be deeply pained to learn of the sad affair.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT.

Tuesday afternoon Richard Morgan, of Ashburnham, fell from a heavily laden wagon on which he was riding, and the wheel passed over his head, cutting and bruising it severely but not crushing the skull. It is said Morgan's fall was the result of sunstroke.

Peterborough Presbytery.

Rev. Mr. May to Go to Cobourg The Mission Fields.

The session of the Peterborough Presbytery was concluded Tuesday afternoon.

Leave was granted the Presbyterians of Havelock to mortgage their church for $1,500.

It was reported that the union of the first and second Cartwright congregations had taken place.

The Presbytery was authorized to transfer the church of Kinmount to Lindsay Presbytery and that of first Cartwright to Whitby Presbytery.

Mr. Oswtid, missionary at Harvey, was continued under the superintendence of the Presbytery.

Appointments were made of ministers to visit the mission fields, Rev. R. Bennett to visit Harvey, Rev. Mr. Thompson, Chandos and Burleigh, and Rev. Mr. McEwan, Havelock.

The report of the committee on the rearrangement of stations under the pastoral charges of Rev. Messrs. Ewing and Bennett, was that no action had been taken.

Rev. Mr. Carmichael was appointed to visit Janetville, Ballyduff and Pontypool, and explore the field with a view to the formation of a new congregation.

Several session records were examined and ordered to be attested as carefully and correctly kept.

THE CALL TO COBOURG.

Rev. J. Hay accepted the call to Cobourg, and his induction was appointed to take place July 30th at 2.30 p.m., Rev. Mr. Cleland to preside, Rev. Mr. Lord to preach, Rev. Mr. Carmichael to address the minister, Rev. Mr. Gilchrist to address the people, and Rev. Mr. Sutherland to expound Presbyterian polity.

Rev. Mr. Thompson was appointed to preach the pulpit vacant on July 28th, and to be Moderator of the session during its vacancy.

The next meeting of the Presbytery will be held in St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, the third Tuesday in September.

Baptist Sunday School Excursion.

The annual picnic of the Baptist Sunday schools of the town took place yesterday to Jacob's Island. At the Midland station about 400 persons boarded the train and were rapidly bowled to the terminus of the Chemong valley road, where the big party met the Sunday school of the Communication Line Baptist Church, numbering about 250, under the superintendence of Mr. William Mann. This made the total strength of the excursion party about 650. The party speedily embarked upon the steamer Dominion, Capt. Crandell, and the palace barge Paragon. There was a little crowding, the boat accommodation being a little inadequate to the accommodation of the excursion party, which was larger than was expected. A short sail brought the party to Jacob's Island about eleven o'clock, where the party dispersed in search of shady nooks wherein to take dinner, which demanded the first attention, and—got it, too. After dinner the people devoted themselves to the pleasure of keeping cool, which, the day being excessively warm, provided abundance of employment. There were swings for the children and boating and fishing for the elders. Altogether the day was pleasantly spent, considering the intense heat. The pastor, Rev. P. C. Parker as well as Rev. J. B. Huff, of the Communication Line Baptist church, were present, and they, as well as the officials and teachers of the Sunday School, were energetic in promoting the pleasure of the children. On the return home the party reached the terminus at 6 o'clock, arriving in town about seven o'clock, the day being spent without an accident. The officials of the railway and steamer were courteous and attentive, and in no small degree contributed to the comfort and pleasure of the excursionists.

The Charlotte Street Sunday School.

The annual picnic of the school was held Tuesday to Jubilee Point, and it was a success in every particular. About 250 children and their parents and friends boarded the Golden Eye and scow, which left the wharf at 8.30 o'clock, and after a pleasant run down the Otonabee the Point was reached at 12.30. The order among the children throughout the day was most creditable, particularly on board the boat. The day being warm the ice-cream and lemonade served by the refreshment committee found ready sale, and the financial result was highly gratifying. At the Point a general table was set, and after dinner boating and sports for the children passed the time away pleasantly. For these latter valuable prizes were offered the successful ones. Messrs. A. L. Davis and R. Noll conducted the sports. A base-ball match between the married and single men resulted in favor of the latter by two runs. Rev. S. J. Shorey took part in the game, and also distinguished himself at the sports. Mr. O. C. Rowse, superintendent of the school, was on the opposing nine. The boat left for home at 4 o'clock, reaching the wharf at 9.30, all aboard highly pleased with the day's outing. The picnic was also a financial success, over $45 being added to the school treasury. The committees all worked hard to make the picnic a success, the ladies in particular being tireless in their exertions.

How to Keep Cool.

These days the thermometer is raging amongst the nineties, but the thermometer of prices is way down to zero at the tea store of Hawley Bros., George street, Peterborough. A splendid stock of teas, direct importation, this season's curing, pure, prime and perfect. Bought in large quantities, sold at low prices. This firm makes a specialty of teas, and thus the public get specially good teas at specially low prices. Don't forget these facts when you want fine, fresh, fragrant teas, or superb coffees or cheap and tasty glassware, go to HAWLEY BROS.

Delightful Garden Party at the "Homestead," the residence of Mr. R. C. Strickland.

The garden party at the residence of Mr. R.C. Strickland yesterday was in all respects a charming success. The grounds are beautiful and extensive, well shaded and in every respect well adapted for such a gathering as assembled on them last night. In the afternoon the guests began to assemble and when the passengers by the special train from Peterborough arrived on the scene it was one of animation. On the broad, smoothly-shaven, velvety lawn in front of the stone residence two tennis courts were laid out and these were occupied with cool costumed players, energetically interested in the game. The others strolled about the spacious grounds revelling in the cool shade of the venerable trees that fringed the lawns or reclining beneath the broad verandah hat extend around three sides of the house. In spite of the intense heat felt in town there was no cause for complaint at the "Homestead." From the shining waters of Lake Katchewanoonka, spread out about a quarter of a mile west of the house, the crisp refreshing breezes stole upward over the cool sedges and waving grain fields, over the new-mown hay in meadows adjoining the grounds, tempering the heat and bringing balminess to the senses. Skirting the grounds are clumps of shrubs and evergreens—chiefly cedars, growing in the form of a circle, and in these the various booths were located. To particularize, these were:

The lemonade booth, presided over by Miss Josephine Strickland and Miss Kate Atwood, whose hyperborean beverage was in brisk demand.

The flower booth, well stocked with nosegays, was in charge of Miss Barlee and Miss C. Strickland.

The ice cream booth, which was also a favorite resort, was presided over by Mrs. LeFevre, Mrs. Sheldrake, Miss Blomfield, Miss Julia Strickland and Miss Machall.

The fancy goods booth was presided over by Miss Barlee and Miss Emily Atwood.

The tea tables were in charge of Mrs. R.C. Strickland, Mrs. Hilliard, Miss M. Blomfield, Miss K. Strickland, and Miss A. Atwood. Tea was served on tete-a-tete tables and the menu was irreproachable.

The Lakefield orchestra added excellent music to the other charms of the occasion.

When darkness came the Chinese lanterns and other lights were lit and the illumination of the grounds and house which was also thrown open to guests, produced a fine effect and others arriving, the grounds were thronged during the evening. An excellent programme was rendered as follows:—

Pianoforte Solo.....Miss Graham
Vocal Duet—Mrs. Barlee and Mr. C. S. Shaw
"I Would That My Love"—Mendelssohn
Song—Mr. Scrymgeour....."I Fear no Foe."
Song—Mrs. Barlee, with violin obligato by Miss Barlee.
Song—Mr. C. J. Shaw....."I am Waiting"
Song.....Mrs. Scrymgeour
Pianoforte solo.....Miss Clementine Strickland

Miss Blomfield played the accompaniments very acceptably.

After the musical programme was over the auction sale of various articles, fancy goods, etc., took place, and it was very successfully conducted, the auctioneers being the firm of Strickland & Smith (Mr. D'Arcy Strickland, Lakefield, and Mr. G. A. Smith, Peterborough.)

The orchestra furnished music for dancing on the green, in which the young people, especially heartily participated. Altogether the garden party was a splendid success the financial out-come—for the organ fund of St. John's church—being very gratifying, the sum of $120 having been received. Rev. Mr. Warren, incumbent was present, during the afternoon and early part of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Strickland of the "Homestead" were indefatigable and untiring in their efforts to promote the pleasure of their guests—and entirely successful too, for all who attended the garden party were delighted. At about ten-thirty the party broke up the Peterborough contingent driving home.

Springville.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

CROP PROSPECTS.—The coming harvest promises to be one of the best for many years. The farmers have begun hay making and the hum of the mower can be heard on every side. The hay crop is much better than was anticipated a few weeks ago and with two weeks warm weather the grain will be fully matured and will give the greatest yield that there has been for many years, which makes the outlook for the farmers very encouraging.

POST OFFICE REFITTED.—Our enterprising general merchant and postmaster, Mr. A. Goodfellow, has placed in the post office apartment a beautiful case of letter boxes, all numbered, with glass front, which will make our post office one of the most convenient offices outside the cities. The boxes, which are being rapidly taken up, can be procured for the small sum of twenty cents per annum. Every one receiving mail matter should not neglect having a box. Mr. Goodfellow with his usual enterprise, has just completed a fine system of water works by means of carrying pure spring water from his farm with 700 feet of iron piping. He has placed in the rear of his residence one of the best fountains that can be seen anywhere.

PICNIC.—The Union S.S. picnic was held in Mr. Robt. Bowle's woods Tuesday last. Owing to the uncomfortable state of the weather, caused by the extreme heat, and a trio of brilliant events take place in the near future, many of the most popular personages of the neighborhood were conspicuous by their absence. Notwithstanding the few drawbacks, the teachers and pupils spent a pleasant afternoon.

HIGH HONORS.—Capt. Johnston's Company, when in camp in Gananoque obtained the highest honors from the Minister Militia, for being the most respectable and best drilled and presenting the best appearance of any company on the field.

An English Opinion.

From the Globe.

The Committee of the Protestant Alliance petitioned the Colonial Secretary to disallow the Jesuit Estates Act. The petition was exceedingly well framed, and sets forth the reasons for disallowance clearly and without unnecessary allegations: the ground taken being simply that the Act "recognises powers in the Pope that are perilous to the supremacy of the Queen." The following reply was received from the Colonial Secretary:

COLONIAL OFFICE, DOWNING STREET, 21st March, 1889.

SIR,—I am directed by Lord Knutsford to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 11th instant, forwarding a memorial from the Committee of the Protestant Alliance, urging the disallowance of the Jesuit Estates Act of the Province of Quebec.

In reply I am to state that His Lordship has carefully considered the memorial, but that the allowance or disallowance of the Act of the Provincial Legislatures of the Dominion of Canada is a matter which rests entirely with the Governor General, acting on the advice of his responsible Ministers.

A copy of the memorial has been forwarded to Lord Stanley of Preston, for the consideration of his Government.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
(Signed) JOHN BRAMSTON.

Lieutenant Colonel T. Myles Sandys, M.P.

The position taken by the Colonial Secretary in the words we have italicised is unquestionably the correct one. It is to be observed that it not only negatives the idea that the Act may be disallowed by the Queen, acting upon the advice of the British Ministers, but it is opposed to the view that the Governor-General may dismiss his Ministers and act upon his own responsibility, and it is utterly inconsistent with the opinion that the Ministers are freed from responsibility by the vote of the House of Commons. Allowance or disallowance "rests entirely with the Governor-General, acting on the advice of his responsible Ministers." And we may add that the Act may be disallowed at any time before the eighth of August next, and cannot be allowed except by the expiration of that time.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish all the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

The managers of the Peterborough Business College expect to open out in their new rooms on Water street the first of July, and in order to increase their attendance, offer special reduced rates to students for the next month. They have every appliance for giving a first class business training—their new premises being large and commodious and well ventilated, and every convenience to insure the greatest amount of comfort to their students. Parents will do well to take advantage of their special offer and send their boys and girls where, in a very short time, they will be given such a course as will fit them to fill lucrative positions. Their students, during the past six months, have been remarkably successful, many of their graduates obtaining positions as soon as graduated. They are constantly receiving applications from both business and professional men for bookkeepers and stenographers. The principals, Messrs. Bean & Rooney, will be pleased to give, personally or by mail, to all who desire, full information in regard to any point in the course of the College. dw

• SASH BALANCE.

LOCKS AND LIFTS.

THE only practical substitute for weights invented. The most durable, the cheapest and best device for all dismay windows. Balances when in position are entirely out of sight. No rivets, bolts or screws are used in putting it together so that nothing can get out of order or need repairing. No cutting, boring or marring of the sash, as the Balances are let into the jamb. Especially valuable for repairing old buildings as they can be put in at a trifling expense, as easily put in old buildings as new ones. Sash can be removed from frame in a moment for cleaning or repairing broken glass. Can be used where it is impossible to use weights or other fixtures. No unsightly cord wearing paint off side of frame. No rattling of sash as pressure against sash prevents it. No rattling of weights or pulleys when Sash is raised or lowered. No sticking of weights in frame. No cords to rust off, wear out and break. No rubber rollers to become flattened by standing in position for some time. No finney coil spring or delicate mechanism to break, wear out or get out of order. Its simplicity of construction and operation is the wonder of all.

BERRIES FRUIT

These are subjects that are sure to occupy the mind and attention of the housekeepers, and make prominent their necessities at this season of the year. In anticipation of a rush for FRUIT JARS and TUMBLERS we have laid in a stock sufficient to meet a heavy demand. Reduced prices will prevail during the Canning and Preserving season as our sales will be large, we will make the profits smaller all round.

A PENNY SAVED.

Ben Franklin's favorite axiom that

"A pin a day is a great a year,
A penny saved is two pence clear,"

should impress us not alone with the value of saving small things, but the great advantage of saving where dollars take the place of cents. On this score the bargains that we have prepared in our CROCKERY and GLASSWARE department, to last during midsummer, should appeal to the ladies of Peterborough and vicinity with particular emphasis. Each permits of the saving of several dollars over the prices usually charged or asked by other dealers. Look in and investigate for yourself.

ATTRACTION

TURNBULL'S

25c. Fancy Striped Chambrays for 17c.; handsome goods and perfectly fast color. The only reason why 25c. Chambrays are selling to-day for 17c. is one of our large wholesale houses imported more than they were able to find a market for at their value and were glad to sell them now, being late in the season, for what they would bring.

Our 5c. Lawns are of good serviceable quality, in fast colors, and as pretty patterns as we ever had in cheap goods. A problem how much did the operator earn a day that made them, and who paid for the dye, seeing there is 32½ per cent. import duty on colored lawn.

20c. Ginghams for 12½c. These goods are fra Glasgae. The patterns are large checks and fine hair stripes. Nothing you can buy will be lighter or wear better.

See our south window of Flannelettes, every desirable color to be seen at a glance, the very appearance of these Goods suggest coolness and comfort. Price 10 and 12 1 2c.

What do you say to fine soft finish light-colored prints, full width, at 5c. a yard. Those that see this notice and believe it will reap the benefit.

Prints opened out this week—50 new patterns in Prints in light and dark grounds. A fine assortment of Prints for children, cream grounds with fine hair lines and polka spots.

MILLINERY. The millinery room is bright, with cheerful bits for children. All the light, airy shapes, spangle with flowers and allutter with ribbons. If your fancy is among the little lot left of pattern Hats or Bonnets you can save all you would expect by buying now.

FINE STATIONERY

Are you aware of the many important makes of writing paper that abide with us, and occupy a leading superiority over all other makes. We enumerate some of our Special Lines:—

The Original Milton Mills.
This celebrated writing paper now so much in demand, is made from the purest fibre, is firm of texture and is reduced to a moderate price.

The Brown Holland -Calico Grey—Canvas Cream
A triumph of writing paper—the success of the year. They have made a conquest wherever shown, and their ascendency in popularity has been marked and rapid.

Antique Parchment.
The high merit of this production being so well known that further exultation would be superfluous.

The Favorite Grey.
That has been so long in high favor.

Piries' Real Vellum.
Renowned throughout the land for its high repute for office and social correspondence.

The Crown Parchment and Ivory Vellum.
Distinguished for its dead velvety finish, and a society page which we are very vain of, and which has enshrined itself in the estimation of all lovers of beautiful papers, and is winning golden opinion every day.

The Bath—The St. Andrew—The Garter.
Excellent Medium Quality Paper, that will challenge comparison with very much higher priced papers, and always give satisfaction.

We are bold enough to assert that no practice so forcibly proves the existence of sound art tastes, of real gentility of mind, and of the fitness for high social positions, than the use of Fine Stationery. There never was a time when the best of Stationery could be so daintily offered as the present, when there are so many charming boxes to hold the materials—such pretty conceits in the mode of presentation, novel in design.

We have Envelopes to match all our Papers. We show the Newest and the Most Correct Styles. Later on we will tell you about other New Lines

WHY HE GOES TO SPAIN.

THE POPE CONSIDERS A FRANCO-ITALIAN WAR CERTAIN.

Sir Charles Tupper's Proposition for an Imperial Convention—The Committee on Royal Grants.

LONDON, July 10.—The Pope's supposed decision to quit Rome, which has not yet been given out officially, is discussed with special interest in France. In that country the selection of Spain instead of Monaco as a place of refuge is looked upon as clear proof that His Holiness considers that war between France and Italy is certain in time, if indeed it be not imminent at this moment.

The Proposed Imperial Convention.

LONDON, July 10.—Sir Charles Tupper's suggestion for an Imperial convention has received the formal approval of the Executive Committee of the Imperial Federation League. The committee has decided to appoint a deputation to wait upon and urge the Prime Minister to convene the convention at an early date. Sir Charles informed the committee that his statements at the League banquet were simply expressions of his own opinion and they did not commit the Dominion Government to any course of action. He also urged that Lord Salisbury be asked to secure the general approval of the House of Lords and the House of Commons to the invitation in order to give it a national character and encourage national and colonial responses.

The Title of "Honorable."

LONDON, July 10.—The Under Secretary for the Colonies stated in the House of Commons last night that the Colonial Office has issued no new regulation regarding the use of the title "honorable." The Colonial Secretary himself recognised the delegates to the colonial conference as possessing the title.

England Must Assist Egypt.

LONDON, July 10.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Stanhope, Secretary of State for War, stated that the Government was taking measures to protect the Egyptian frontier. He said the object of the dervishes was to devastate the country and it was England's duty to assist the Egyptians.

The Committee on Royal Grants.

LONDON, July 10.—In the House of Commons last evening Mr. William Henry Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, moved the appointment of the committee on royal grants, proposing that the committee consist of 23 members.

Mr. Dillwyn, Liberal member for Swansea town, proposed to make the membership 25 by adding the names of two Radical members, thus wiping out the majority of the supporters of the Government.

Mr. Smith contended that the Government should have a majority on the committee, and that in this claim they were supported by all the precedents.

Mr. Gladstone supported Mr. Smith in this contention, and Mr. Bradlaugh spoke in favor of the amendment, which was finally rejected by a vote of 300 to 100.

A Sit Offered to Farmer Chaplin.

LONDON, July 10.—Henry Chaplin has been offered the office of Minister of Agriculture without a seat in the Cabinet.

A Silly Hoax.

LONDON, July 10.—Michael Davitt appeared before the Parnell Commission again to-day. He complained that somebody who desired to injure the Irish in the eyes of the British public had placed two bogus dynamite machines within the precincts of the court, and out of this alleged attempt as outrage The London Evening Post had made a sensational article. Mr. Davitt excitedly asserted his belief that the affair was planned by Le Caron and Harston. Presiding Justice Hannen said he himself regarded the matter as a silly hoax.

PALMERSTON, July 10.—Mr. Alex. Watt, miller, of this place, who had just returned from the meeting of the Millers' Association at Toronto, was run over by an engine to-night, cutting his left leg off near the hip. He lived only two hours after the accident.

The Johnstown Disaster.

SCHENECTADY, July 10.—At 3.10 this afternoon one track of the Central Railroad bridge at Fonda and two tracks at the washout at Aiken were repaired sufficiently to allow trains to pass with the slight delay of using a single track for a few miles.

The party that was washed into the stream from the bridge numbered about twenty people. Six were drowned. The bodies recovered were those of Charles Frear, an old man; Alfred Colcraft, a young married man, and Bert Stedwall, a boy 15 years old. A Miss Miller is missing and is reported drowned. A gang of men are still dragging the creek. A coat belonging to Dennis Simmonds was found in a tree near the creek. It is rumored that a commercial traveler was also drowned. An unknown man was seen on the bridge before its fall and has not been seen since.

A Fatal Accident at Cornwall.

CORNWALL, July 10.—Fred Higgs, employed by the Cornwall Manufacturing Company, met a terrible death yesterday. Higgs was employed in running a machine called an extractor when unnoticed by any of the employes he fell into the basket of the machine which was making 1000 revolutions per minute. His right arm was torn out at the elbow, collar-bone broken, face and head badly cut. He lived for two hours after the accident but never regained consciousness. Higgs was a native of London, Eng., unmarried, 21 years of age.

OUR HARVEST PROSPECTS.

REPORT OF THE BUREAU OF INDUSTRIES ON ONTARIO'S CROPS.

Fall Wheat and Oats the Finest Crop—The Root Crop in Bad Shape—Hay and Clover will Make an Average Yield—Barley Reported All Right.

TORONTO, July 10.—The following report has been compiled by Mr. Blue from reports furnished by 600 correspondents of the Bureau.

The last week of May will not soon be forgotten by the farmers of the province. There were several nights of frost, that of the 28th proving the most injurious in most localities. East and west alike suffered, although the fruit in the eastern counties was not so badly hurt as in the west. The opinion of correspondents is a unit regarding the benefits of the rainy and cloudy weather immediately following the destructive frosts of May 25-30. Bright, dry weather, say one and all, would have completed the ruin of the crops. But while correcting to a great degree the injury resulting from frost, the continuous rain and cool weather "soured" the land, rotting much potato seed, corn, beans, etc., drowning out grains on low lying fields, and turning to a sickly yellow oats and peas on undrained soils. The wet weather also delayed the sowing of some of the later crops. On high and well-drained lands the crops give unusual promise; there will be an immense yield of all kinds of straw, and with the prospect of settled weather at present writing there is much cause for congratulation at the outlook.

Fall wheat and oats will be the finest crops, a good heavy yield being expected, while spring wheat will be up to the average. Barley will generally be a good crop, and is expected to improve. Peas are varied, but it may be said that the yield will be good on high and well drained land. Undoubtedly the root crop has suffered most extensively, and potatoes are in some places expected to be almost a total failure. Hay and clover will be a good average crop, especially in the western parts of the province. Although considerably later than usual haying is now pretty generally under way in all localities. Of the minor crops corn is in rather a bad condition, but may recover to some extent if fair weather continues. Rye is reported as good, beans very poor, and the remainder about an average.

FALL WHEAT.

There is much uniformity in the reports from the various districts regarding this crop. The injury from spring frosts was comparatively small, while damage from water on low lying fields has been great. The cold weather in the latter part of May, however, gave the fall wheat a set back of a week or two, and harvesting will consequently be late. The crop gives a magnificent promise on uplands; in fact, there are already complaints of "lodging" owing to the unusual growth. Rust is also feared, owing to the rains and rank growth, but taken altogether the crop promises an average in yield and with an immense quantity of straw should nothing untoward occur between now and harvesting. A green insect, which seems to be a stranger to our correspondents, has appeared in several counties in the Lake Erie and Lake Huron districts, to which special reference is made in another paragraph of this bulletin. Damage was also done to the crop by the wire-worm in Grey. Good accounts come from every district, but the most favorable prospects are reported from the Lake Ontario district, more particularly from the counties of Peel and York.

SPRING WHEAT.

The only injury worth mentioning to spring wheat has been done by water on low, flat lands. On high and rolling lands, however, spring wheat presents a fine appearance, and a good yield is anticipated. In some quarters the straw has been described as "spongy," and there are signs of rust; certainly there is room for fear that growth has been too rank for first quality of straw.

BARLEY.

Barley appears to have suffered more than any other cereal from frost, although the injury from this cause is not serious. It has been hurt more than any other of the grain crops by the wet weather, much of it on low, undrained land having been "drowned out." Some barley fields in Grey were plowed up and resown to oats. From all sections of the province, however, come reports of a promising appearance on high or well drained fields, and there will be an abundance of straw.

OATS.

This crop has stood the wet weather better than any other grain, although it was considerably injured on heavy undrained soils. The prospects for a large yield are good, and there has been a great growth of straw. There were complaints of wire-worm in Middlesex, Perth and Simcoe, and also in Victoria, Peterboro and Muskoka, but the general tenor of the reports is cheerful, a number of counties claiming it as likely to be the best crop for years.

PEAS.

Frost injured peas slightly in some western counties, but serious damage was done to the crop by water on low spots and on undrained level fields. In such cases the crop was bleached from excessive rain, and in a few instances the fields were "drowned out" and ruined. On high and well drained lands, however, the fields present a magnificent appearance, and if the vines do not run too much to straw there will be an immense yield.

CORN.

The accounts sent in of the condition of this crop in the corn-growing counties of the Lake Erie district are monotonously doleful. The frost was severe in its injuries to the tender blade, and the rain rotted much of the seed later on. Some correspondents report a total failure, and all the rest a partial failure on account of frost, rain and cold weather. Owing to the continuous rain cultivating was almost an impossibility save on high lands, and, in short, the whole season has been against a good crop.

HAY AND CLOVER.

The frosts of the last week in May gave a decided set back to this crop, both timothy and clover having been nipped in several counties; but the timely rains saved the fields. But there was too much rain even for hay, and a few correspondents report clover as rotting at the roots from excessive moisture. Clover is in a more promising condition than timothy, and while old meadows are rather poor, new ones are in a first-class condition where not injured by too much water. With favorable weather for cutting, the hay crop generally will likely be a good one, although the frost and cold wet weather have delayed mowing a week or two later than usual.

ROOT CROPS.

Hundreds of correspondents tell the same story regarding potatoes. Early planted fields were cut down by frost and much of the seed has rotted, necessitating a good deal of replanting. A good yield is looked for on high land, but in low-lying fields the reverse is expected. It was difficult to put in carrots, turnips and mangels at the right time, owing to frequent rains. All are in a backward condition, and while carrots and mangels are beginning to look well, turnips are being attacked by the fly in some counties in the east. In Muskoka, where new land is generally cleared for turnips each year, many farmers will have to let the crop go, as owing to the wet weather the land could not be burnt off in time.

FRUIT.

Frost in the latter part of May caught the orchards in blossom, and the result was a wholesale destruction of fruit. Apples have suffered terribly. In many orchards an apple is hard to find; in others there is as high as half a crop, but in no section is there a full yield. The Northern Spy is specially mentioned as having escaped severe injury. The tent caterpillar has appeared in Carleton. Pears, plums cherries and peaches were also injured in blossom. Grapes fell an easy prey to frost. While in a few favored situations vines escaped injury, the general run one of complete loss of the first bud. In some instances the wood was killed to the earth, but as a rule the second bud has started, although only in rare cases will there be a maturing of the fruit this season unless a long, warm autumn ensues. The vines will feel the check for two years to come. Small fruits generally were more or less injured by frost. Strawberries were only about half a crop, and currants also gave a light yield. Raspberries, however, have done remarkably well.

LIVE STOCK AND THE DAIRY PROSPECTS.

The condition of live stock throughout the province is most gratifying. The pastures have been and still are in excellent condition, in consequence of the abundant supply of rain; although there are a few instances where they have suffered through flooding, and by the cattle having been turned out too early upon them. The milk yield has been much larger than usual, consequently butter is plentiful and good, while the cheese factories are working well in most localities. There seems, however, to be an impression among many that the milk is of inferior quality this year, which is attributed to various causes, but primarily to the cool, wet weather. To this cause may also be attributed the fact that fat cattle are not making flesh as rapidly as might be desired, and are stated to be somewhat poor and thin, more particularly in the northwestern counties. The fact that so much stock was disposed of during last winter is being very naturally regretted by many, especially in the eastern part of the province, where it is believed the dairy supplies will be considerably affected. Sheep are reported in some localities as poor in condition, owing to damp pastures and cool weather, many having been sheared too early; but horses are in fine condition, and, like all other farm animals, they are exceptionally free from disease. The condition of stock in the spring of the year, although much better than anticipated, was not all that could be desired; it is gratifying therefore to find how quickly they have reached their present favorable condition, and that the freedom from infectious disease reported in our May bulletin still continues. Over the larger portion of the province the dairy prospects are more promising than they have been for years, and the tenor of the reports in this regard is of an exceedingly cheerful character. Cheese and butter are of good quality and command very fair prices.

Uncle Sam's Crops.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The June crop report of the Department of Agriculture makes an increase in the area planted in maize of about 1,333,000 acres and the total over 77,000,000. This is only a preliminary estimate. The largest increase is west of the Mississippi. The condition of the crops is only medium, lower than usual at this period of its development. Excessive moisture delayed planting and low temperature and a saturated soil retarded growth on the Atlantic coast north of South Carolina. In the Ohio valley condition is lower than elsewhere. The extremely cold weather of the latter part of May and the first week of June was very unfavorable to germination, and the frosts of that period injured or destroyed that which was above ground. The replanting was slow and the plants are therefore small but healthy. In Michigan there has been some loss of area by plowing up. Cut worms have been very destructive in the west. The crop is late and dependent upon July weather for improvement. West of the Mississippi in the sub humid belt and border of the arid region the crop is generally in fine condition. The general average of condition is about 90.

The condition of winter wheat is well sustained notwithstanding injury by storm and flood, the general condition standing at 92. In the heart of the west the harvest is generally finished by this date. It is entirely completed in the south and threshing is in progress. The straw is generally short and well headed and plump in grain.

The general average of spring wheat is about 83 which is very low at this stage of growth.

Rye maintains its condition and barley declines to about 92. A falling off of the area in tobacco of over 23 per cent. on both cigar and manufacturing leaf is reported.

King Cotton.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The June report of the Department of Agriculture shows an improvement in the condition of cotton during the past month. There is a general complaint of the effects of a dry and cool season continuing through May and into June in delaying germination and growth and favoring the prevalence of lice. The wide variation in the date of germination has made the crop later by a week or two than that of 1888, and the stand is not so good. The general average is 87.6.

LEFT DESTITUTE AND DYING.

A Montreal Civic Employe Disappears With a Young Girl—A Family Deserted.

MONTREAL, July 10.—Some weeks ago the secretary of the Water Department disappeared with some city funds and now the accountant of the Road Department, L. J. N. Narbonne, is missing since Monday. An examination of the safes and books is being made to ascertain if any money is missing. Large amounts passed through his hands; in one week the sum amounted to over $12,000.

The real cause of his disappearance is an attachment to a young lady who has also fled alleging that she was going on a visit to the country. Both are supposed to have gone to the States. Narbonne leaves a wife and seven children, one of whom is dying and all are destitute.

Arrest of Suspected Postoffice Burglars.

OTTAWA, July 10.—Inspector French of the Postoffice Department received a telegram from Pembroke stating that three parties were arrested there to-day for robbing the postoffice and store at Osceola in the county of Renfrew. On June 29 the safe in the postoffice there was blown open by burglars and about $400 in cash and $ 0 in postage stamps taken therefrom. Some goods from the store were also taken. Inspector O'Leary, of the Dominion police, who was successful in hunting down the gang of counterfeiters who operated in Canada some three years ago, made the capture. It is expected that the burglars are the same that committed robberies in Pembroke and Renfrew about two months ago

TORONTO TOPICS.

Conclusion of the Millers' Convention—A Fatal Accident.

TORONTO, July 11.—Edwin Cowley surrendered himself to the police yesterday morning on a warrant charging him with threatening to kill his brother Frederick.

Joseph Knowles, a C.P.R. brakesman was killed yesterday morning on the Ontario Belt Works siding at Windermere owing to the sudden smashing of a brake rod, which threw him off the car and under the wheels. Knowles was an unmarried man and owned a farm in the vicinity of the accident.

The millers concluded their convention yesterday. The chief items of business transacted was the drafting of a memorial to the Dominion House praying for the abatement of railroad discrimination and asking for the appointment of an independent commission such as the Inter-State Railway Commission to settle all disputes over shipments and rates. A combine on milling rates was decided upon. They further decided to buy all wheat by inspection and certificate as to weight and quality. The Secretary was ordered to issue a daily notification sheet containing the export values of all wheats and flours, so that the country millers could regulate their prices accordingly.

Inspectors of the Weights and Measures Department are after the local druggists with a sharp stick. Already prosecutions have been started.

Walter Lawson, a workman in Price's brickyards, was sunstruck yesterday afternoon while at work and taken to his home on Norfolk-avenue. Yesterday morning he succumbed to the effects of the stroke. Other less serious cases of prostration from severe heat are numerous.

The Orange celebration in this city on July 12 will be one of the largest ever held here. The county lodge has the celebration in hand. Visitors from Hamilton and other neighboring towns are expected in large numbers.

St. Thomas Tidings.

ST. THOMAS, July 10.—A branch of the Equal Rights Association was formed here yesterday. In the evening a mass meeting was held in the City Hall, the attendance not being large. Rev. Principal Caven delivered an address. At the conclusion of his address the following resolution was carried:

"Resolved, That this meeting adopts in full the principles contained in the resolution passed at the Convention held in Toronto on June 11 and 12; that it is in complete sympathy with the objects of the Equal Rights Association; that it approves of the formation of local branches in this country, and that it promises its hearty support to the work that they are intended

A GHASTLY EXECUTION.

ELEANOR SHEA'S MURDER EXPIATED ON THE GALLOWS.

The Rope Cuts John Kelly's Neck Like a Razor—The Condemned Says He Would Go to Heaven.

ROCHESTER, July 10.—John Kelly was hanged here this noon for the murder of Eleanor O'Shea. Kelly passed the time from 9 o'clock in his cell. At 10 o'clock there was a scene in the room, his family being there for the purpose of bidding him farewell. The loud wails of his daughters could be heard out in the street. At 11.45 the condemned man was escorted from the cell to the gallows by Sheriff Corwin of Ontario County, Sheriff Hodgson of Monroe, Father English of Canandaigua and a number of deputies. He walked firmly and mounted the scaffold without assistance. Father English said a brief prayer and Sheriff Corwin asked Kelly if he wished to say anything. The man said "Yes," and commenced a rambling speech which lasted seven minutes. He said he was sure he would go to Heaven and hoped every one else would. "I did not intend to kill Eleanor O'Shea and am not wholly to blame," said Kelly. He finally said, "I have only a few words more to say. I am sorry the drops hereabouts are bad. I give you all my blessing."

Sheriff Hodgson of Monroe County then adjusted the cap. While doing so the condemned man said, "I am going home, good bye. You are too slow." At 12.05 the drop was touched and down shot the body. As soon as the rope straightened out blood shot out from the neck and then a perfect stream of bright red blood flowed down the outside of the man's clothing and formed a pool beneath his feet. The spectators were horror-stricken and every one save the doctors turned deathly pale. The physicians at once took charge of the body and listened for pulsations of the heart. At 12.16½ he was pronounced dead. He was cut down at 12.25.

When the cap was removed it was found that there was a great gash in his throat just as if it had been slashed with a razor. The blood flowed from this gash even after the body had been cut down. The face presented a horrible appearance, being distorted greatly The body was at once taken to Geneva.

Kelly's crime was the murder of Eleanor O'Shea, a woman 50 years old, housekeeper for George Kippen, a farmer residing near Geneva by whom the murderer was employed. It is said Kelly was unduly intimate with his employer's daughter, a half-witted woman. The housekeeper upbraided the pair, and in a fight Kelly struck her on the head with a hammer, killing her.

PARTIAL AND IGNORANT.

What One of the Hamilton Library Board Thinks of His Fellow Members.

HAMILTON, July 10.—At the meeting of the Public Library Board last night Rev. Mr. Lyle tendered his resignation in a letter accusing the other members of the body with partiality and ignorance in connection with the lists of books. A motion that the communication be not received on account of the charges therein made was carried.

DISALLOWANCE.

Lord Stanley's Reply to Telegrams from Toronto Asking an Audience.

OTTAWA, July 10.—Telegrams were received at the Department of State yesterday from Toronto asking if Lord Stanley would appoint a time to meet a deputation of Toronto citizens on the Jesuit disallowance question. They were forwarded to His Excellency. Lord Stanley replied that if the Torontonians would state precisely the grounds on which they desired to discuss the question he would take their request into consideration.

BURKE MUST GO BACK.

The Cronin Suspect Remanded for Extradition by Judge Bain Yesterday.

WINNIPEG, July 10.—Burke was remanded for extradition to-day by Judge Bain after elaborate argument by counsel on both sides.

The prisoner is deeply affected as his counsel have notified him they cannot proceed with an appeal unless funds are forthcoming. So far they have not received a dollar.

Heard the Fatal Struggle.

CHICAGO, July 10.—A paper here says that young Mrs. Carlson will swear when Cronin's murderers are brought to trial that she saw the doctor enter the cottage on the fatal night and heard the struggle in the house. There has not heretofore been known to be any direct proof that the doctor was murdered in the cottage.

The Flour Market.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 10.—The Northwestern Miller says: The aggregate flour product of the fourteen mills which ran last week was 93,465 barrels, against 115,000 the previous week and 117,100 for the corresponding time in 1888. The flour market is strong but the demand is a good deal restricted by the recent advances. Prices were marked up about 10 cents the past week and the sales, while moderate, do not any more than take care of the current output if equalling it. Within a day or two there has been a largely increased inquiry for low grades. The call for bakers' has also been quickened. Millers who are compelled to go into the market and buy wheat complain that there is a heavy loss to make and sell flour at present prices. The direct exports of flour last week were 27,600 barrels, against 31,470 for the preceding week.

BELLEVILLE, July 10.—A motion will be made before Judge Lazier to-morrow to set aside the arrest of Orin W. Dunn in a suit for alimony. It is probable that the much-married Orin will not file an appearance. However, the charge of bigamy will be continued if he is in Canada. The alleged wife No. 1 was in town to-day, but has not seen her erring husband.

The extension of the Napanee, Tamworth and Quebec Railway to Tweed is progressing favorably. The grading is completed as far as Marlbank, and the rails are being laid down between Tamworth and Erinsville. The work from Marlbank to Tweed is being pushed strongly. The company will run trains from Tamworth to Tweed in December.

The identity of the man drowned at Deseronto is still a mystery. Some think there has been foul play. His hat has been found and bears marks of three cuts on the crown. The suppositions that he committed suicide or fell off some excursion steamer are equally strong.

The Minister of Education on the Schools.

Speech of Hon. G. W. Ross on Much Discussed Phases of Our School System — False Inferences Refuted — The Facts Plainly Stated.

In 1885 the first attempt was made by regulation to make the study of English compulsory by requiring the Public School readers to be used in every school. A syllabus of a course in English was also prescribed, requiring teachers to see that writing, spelling, composition and translation into English were also attended to in every French school. Now I am not going to say how far these regulations have been acted upon. I will leave any further observations on that point till I receive the report of the Commissioners appointed by the Department to inquire into this matter. Some newspapers have questioned my veracity in connection with this difficulty. I made no statement on my own authority, but on the authority of the local inspectors for the counties in which French is spoken. I did state in the House last winter that English was taught in every school and that every teacher was capable of teaching English. I believed that statement to be true then and

I BELIEVE IT TO BE TRUE STILL.

At all events it has been confirmed by a return made by order of the House, which was printed a few weeks ago.

Now, don't let it be supposed that I am satisfied with the progress made in this matter. I am hard to satisfy in many things. For instance, without disparaging anybody's work, I may say that I am not satisfied with the extent to which English is taught even in our High Schools and Universities. There is much to do in every department of study, but having begun this good work in our French Schools, I may fairly claim the patient confidence of the public while I am still laboring for better results.

Now let me see how far we are agreed as to the remedy for the present condition of things. (1) I believe it to be my duty—as I stated in the House last winter in a general way, and I repeat the statement—to press steadily, prudently and reasonably for the

in the schools of Ontario in which French and German are taught as in the Public Schools where only English is taught. (2) To carry out at the earliest opportunity measures for training the teachers of French schools in correct methods of teaching English, as I proposed to do in 1886, but which I was unable to carry out from a want of qualified teachers. (3) Having introduced the authorized readers into the schools of the French counties, to see with all convenient and reasonable speed that none but authorized text books are used in these schools in other subjects. (4) Having already refused within the last few years to grant permits or new certificates to all persons unable to teach English, to continue so to do. This is the programme practically entered upon four years ago, and which I hope to carry out earnestly and kindly, not as if I were dealing with the enemies of Canada, but in the spirit in which a man should deal with his fellow-citizens who are willing to recognize the authority of the law.

Now you will, perhaps, say there is nothing new in that. I know there is not. My contention has been all along that we had very little to learn from our critics in this matter. We may be blamed for moving slowly. Even that I do not admit. But we are certainly not to blame for neglecting entirely the public interests in these matters.

Now, having said so much on what we propose to do, let me kindly refer to what we will not do:—(1) In dealing with French and German in our Public Schools we will not allow our French and German fellow-citizens

TO BE REGARDED AS ALIENS.

They are not aliens in any sense of the term. They may not speak our language, but neither do many of our citizens of Scotch descent. I must be allowed to repudiate in the strongest terms the narrow sectionalism which appears to have taken such strong hold of some people as entirely repugnant to the development of the people of this country. As Anglo-Saxons we are in the majority, and we should not only be manly and chivalrous, but we should be generous as well, to the minority. It is certainly no proof of our right to supremacy to be sectional and autocratic. We shall, therefore, as a Government, deal with this question not according to the course laid out for us by designing agitators, but we trust in a calm, dispassionate and reasonable way, assuring ourselves at every step that no public interests are sacrificed or no private right ignored. (2) We SHALL NOT PROHIBIT ABSOLUTELY

the study of French or German in any school where the local wants of the population render a knowledge of these language desirable or necessary. The policy enunciated by Mr. Craig in the House last session we do not propose to accept. He demanded that there should be but one language taught in our Public Schools. We think such a policy would be arbitrary and unwise. Germany has tried it in Alsace and Lorraine with doubtful effect. Russia has tried it in Poland also with doubtful effect. Our course will be after different precedents. If the British Government can tolerate French in the Channel Islands, Welsh in Wales, Gaelic in Scotland and Erse in Ireland, without endangering her institutions, we can surely allow our French and German fellow-citizens to receive instruction in the language which for social and domestic purposes, and even in some cases for business purposes, is a matter of considerable importance to them. (3) We do not propose to regard our French and German fellow-citizens as barbarians and reactionary simply because they do not speak the English language as fluently as we do or because they may not adopt in every respect the forms and customs of our race.

I MUST THEREFORE RESENT

—and I desire to do it in the strongest terms—the language used by a correspondent of the Toronto Telegram, in which, speaking of the counties of Prescott and Russell, he said, "The traveller who finds himself in this Providence-forsaken hole in evening may well pale with anxiety at the prospect of spending a night in any of the low-walled, ramshackled apologies for house which meet his gaze. If the houses themselves are not sufficiently repulsive, a glance at the inhabitants would certainly decide him in favor of taking to the woods for his lodgings. Dirty, greasy, bleary-eyed looking specimens, they no more approach the average country people to be found in Central Ontario than South African Hottentots approach the polished types of European civilization. * * * The crops in the fields are remarkably poor, owing no doubt to the ignorance of their owners with regard to the grain-producing qualities of the land. In every doorway may be seen squalid, half-naked children, whose mothers are either weeding onion beds in the garden or fishing in the nearest stream. * * * It is the land of the French, the kingdom of the garlic eaters!"

We will not allow our opponents to assume that all this zeal for one national language is the outcome of patriotic enthusiasm for the unification of the country and the perpetuation of civil liberty. I think it requires but little penetration to see through the thin veil of hypocrisy under which all their pretensions are concealed. A few years ago Prescott, Russell and Essex were represented in the Local Legislature by Conservatives. There was no cry then of French aggression and French invasion. In nearly half these schools at that time no English was taught, and few of the authorized text books were used. The teachers were not as capable of teaching English as they are now. A greater number of them came from Quebec then than now. Where were these guardians of the liberties of Ontario in those days? In 1883, when Tory members, by virtue of the votes of the Frenchmen in these counties, sat in the Legislative Assembly, were they the champions of English schools they pretend to be to-day? When the Government submitted the regulations of 1885, by which such substantial progress has been made for securing the introduction of English into every school, did Mr. Robillard, the Tory member for Prescott, or Mr. Sol. White, the Tory member for Essex, say a word in support of the policy then instituted? Not a word. The oracles of to-day were all silent then. Even the "son" of Ontario,

THE ORPHAN LEADER OF THE OPPOSITION,

while on his eastern tour in 1886, in his speeches at Winchester Springs and at Cornwall, in the immediate vicinity of this Providence-forsaken land, was mute as a "mermaid by the sounding sea." Now like a hungry pack of wolves they are down upon us because in a day we have not changed a condition of things which must have been well known to every one of them. So long as they received the political support of the Frenchman he was a good, intelligent, progressive citizen, but when he became a Liberal and showed his appreciation of the Mowat Government he is a South African Hottentot and a garlic eater, his children are half naked and his wife takes to weeding onion beds and fishing in the nearest stream. Charming gratitude this, to say the least of it. But I must close, no matter how inviting the theme. We have just attained our majority. The long days and years of a nascent childhood are now behind us. We exercise as a Province jurisdiction over 2,000,000 of people—as a Dominion over 5,000,000. Our national heritage covers the northern half of this great Continent. Although not racially a homogeneous people, our population represents, in its three predominating elements, the Saxon, French and German—the dominent nations of the world. Constitutionally we are a unit. Why should we not be one in spirit, in sentiment and in everything that

PERTAINS TO NATIONAL BROTHERHOOD?

Why should the prejudices of centuries ago be appealed to to determine the actions of to-day? Why should the bitterness and narrowness of the past be invoked as the standard for the present? Shall it be said that citizenship in its broadest sense and with all its most valued privileges is to be enjoyed in England, in Germany, in France, in the United States, but not in Canada? It cannot be. This land of great lakes and wide prairies and over-shadowing forests shall not be stunted in its growth by sectionalism, nor broken into fragments by internal jealousies, if it lies in my power or in the power of the Liberal party to prevent it. The policy which I have outlined shall be carried out in its integrity. We shall not be terrorised by violent agitators no deterred by timid or irresolute allies. We shall move as deliberately and yet as quickly as the interests involved may justify. We are confident that the people of Ontario prefer the counsel of reason and prudence to the voice of passion or prejudice. The honesty of purpose already evinced will be taken as an earnest of what is yet to be shown. On these lines we shall appeal to the people of Ontario when the proper time arrives, and will await their verdict as calmly as the "man who wraps the drapery of his couch around him and lies down to pleasant dreams."

25 REASONS

FOR DRINKING

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE

Some drink because they are hungry,
And some because they're dry,
Some drink to keep them in good health,
And some that they may thrive.

Some drink because they are too hot,
And some because they're too cold,
Some drink to strengthen them when young,
And some when they are old.

Some drink to keep them wide awake,
And some that they may sleep,
Some drink because they merry are,
And some because they weep.

Some drink when they do money gain,
And some because of loss;
Some drink when they are pleased,
And some when they are cross.

Some drink when they are hard at work,
And some when they do play;
Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all mustown the proverb true:
"When iron's hot to strike it"—
I've just found out the reason why—
All drink because they like it!

MUNCASTER'S

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER

A TALE OF TEARS.

This morning she had been almost startled, the face under the little straw hat had looked so worn, and, contrasted with the great dark eyes, so strange in its pure pallor. Was it possible that the consequences of her discreet diplomacy were to be more serious than she had imagained? Of course, she could not have acted otherwise than she had done under the circumstances, but she did not like to encounter such a probability.

Accordingly, the next day found her full of her resolution of paying a visit to the Rectory.

"If there is really as much harm done as I can't help fearing," she said to herself as she entered the carriage, "I may possibly repair it somewhat by sending Angus away. Girls always forget in time, and absence will work wonders."

She did not find either Prue or the rector at home, but as there was some probability that their absence would not be a long one, she decided to wait a short time. Marjory was there at least, and might possibly serve her purpose even better than any one else, and in some sort she did.

But Marjory was not fond of Lady Strathspey at the best of times, and she was less partial to her than ever in these days. She was quick enough, in her Scotch shrewdness, to understand that the delicate immaculately gloved hand, which rested on the table as her visitor talked to her, had not been wholly idle in the final turn of the game, and the knowledge did not detract from her naturally uncompromising manner. She had watched every new shade of pallor on the pretty, quiet face she had held against her faithful bosom in its babyhood; she had understood the dreamy listlessness which had settled upon it, and she had understood also what its beginning had been, and where its end would drift to. So she did not prove very sparing, as she thought over the matter, and replied to her visitor's well-bred sympathetic questions.

"I was sorry to see that your young mistress did not look very well yesterday, Marjory," her ladyship said, at length.

"She was na weel, my leddy," answered Marjory, unbendingly. "I canna say she often is weel now, puir young thing."

"I hope it is nothing serious," said Lady Strathspey. "I should be sorry to believe that Miss Renfrew is a dear little thing and we cannot afford to lose her."

"Her father canna afford to lose her, my leddy," Marjory replied, with an uncompromising face; but if she dinna mend, I'm e'en of the mind he will. Her mither lies in the kirk-yard. She was na much aulder than Prue, an' she was happy wi' the man she luved. There's a taint o' consumption in the Renfrew bluid, your leddyship, and sorrow aye helps it to its work."

The immaculately gloved hand was drawn from the table with a slight start.

"You surely do not mean it is so bad as that!" her ladyship exclaimed.

"I mean nathing else," returned Marjory, sternly. "Prue Renfrew's heart is broken, your leddyship, and Angus, Laird Strathspey, has broken it. I'm but a puir body, but I speak my mind in that."

There was no use in diplomacy now. This straight-forward strong Scotchwoman, a hireling as she was, had gone to the point at once, and her ladyship was fain to follow. She had not intended doing so, it is true, but she was a sensible woman, her pride to the contrary, and since her difficulty had faced her, she met it in a matter-of-fact way.

She waved her gloved hand to Marjory with quiet decision.

"Sit down," she said, practically. "I am anxious to talk to you about that. I have feared this before."

"I can stan' as weel, my leddy," was the good woman's dry reply; so her visitor was obliged to pursue her conversation, looking up at the square figure and square face as her listener stood before her.

"I have feared this," she said again. "I have feared it from the first, and I tried to prevent it. How long has it been going on?"

"From the first week that Lord Strathspey came to Coombe-Ashley," grimly. "He wasted no time."

"And you think that this is the cause of your young lady's illness?"

"I did na say I thought it was."

"You are sure, then," said Lady Strathspey, a trifle impatiently. "I regret to hear it—extremely; but I hope you are mistaken in supposing the consequences to be so serious. It is very natural you should be anxious. I am anxious myself. My son has acted imprudently, of course; but men are not apt to be cautious. I only see one way out of the difficulty. He has thought of returning to London with Miss Framley—and I dare say that it is best that he should do so. I shall certainly encourage the idea, and after that we can only hope for the best. Miss Renfrew is very young, and I have no doubt she will get over it." (Observe, my readers, that her ladyship was not exempt from the popular belief that grief may be got over.)

Still, in spite of this belief, her face was not quite clear when her call had ended, and the footman closed her carriage-door upon her. The square, uncompromising form and dry voice had shaken her self possession somewhat, though she did not deign to acknowledge it.

She sent for her son shortly after reaching the Coombe, and he came to her morning room to find her standing by the low marble mantel piece, resting a full, shapely arm upon it, and looking both disturbed and annoyed.

To tell the truth, her ladyship had had a love affair herself a score of years ago or so—a very romantic love affair, with a handsome, empty-pocketed, titleless "detrimental," who, but for discreet maternal interposition, might have carried the day; and though this love affair ended as most of such romances do, she had still a recollection of its ephemeral sadness, which softened her heart toward this girl, who was undergoing a like experience.

She turned her head slightly as Strathspey came in, and motioned him to a chair.

"I want to talk to you, Angus," she said, "sit down, if you please."

CHAPTER IX.

He threw himself in a chair, carelessly, in his usual, indolent, yet graceful fashion. It was characteristic of the man that he could not look ungraceful.

"Gwendoline is alone," he said, half smiling, "You will excuse me for mentioning it."

But her ladyship did not smile.

"I want to speak seriously to you, she began. "I am rather anxious this morning. I have been to the Rectory.

He looked up, coloring a little.

"I don't understand you," he said, a trifle confusedly

"I ask pardon for contradicting you, Angus," said her ladyship, drily, "but I think you do. There is no need for attempting to ignore this matter now. It has gone too far. You have done an absurd thing, and its consequences are more serious than you anticipated."

His color deepened almost to scarlet.

"Is that what your visit to the Rectory has taught you?" he asked.

"Yes," she answered. "I have been watching the affair for weeks, and this morning I went to the Rectory to inquire into it, as well as I could. No one was at home but the old servant,—rather a presuming old creature, by the way, faithful as she is, and I discovered that my fears were not groundless. The girl's health is suffering. Of course, it is out of the question to suppose that you could have married her, Angus—and you were fully cognizant of it. Why did you not take my advice? She was a good little thing, and contented and happy enough before."

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. —Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the appearance of the hair, may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

Dan Abroad.

The Port Hope Times says:—Dan. Bellegbem, the furniture King of Peterborough, passed through Port Hope this morning on his way to Rochester, where he and two other merchants of Peterborough are on to the shape of a delinquent debtor. Mr. Bellegbem indulges heavily in printers' ink, and has the satisfaction through that agency of having built up the largest furniture business in the Midland district in a very short time.

How to Keep Cool.

These days the thermometer is raging amongst the nineties, but the thermometer of prices is way down to zero at the tea store of Hawley Bros., George street, Peterborough. A splendid stock of teas, direct importation, this season's curing, pure, prime and perfect. Bought in large quantities, sold at low prices. This firm makes a specialty of teas, and thus the public get specially good teas at specially low prices. Don't forget these facts when you want fine, fresh, fragrant teas, or superb coffees, or cheap and tasty glassware, go to Hawley Bros.

The Millers' Convention.

An important meeting of the Millers of the province was held at Toronto this week, at which Mr. W. H. Meldrum and Mr. Geo. Hilliard were in attendance. An Extreme Committee was appointed, the representatives of the Peterborough district being Mayor Peplow, of Port Hope, and Mr. Meldrum of Peterborough. At yesterday's session, on motion of Mr. H. Baird a resolution of condolence with Mr. Meldrum, who was called away from the meeting on account of the death of his son, was adopted.

Stony Lake.

Mr. James Dolan has just returned from a short stay at Mr. J. E. McIntyre's house on Stony Lake, and reports that the camping grounds are being rapidly filled up. A number of new houses are going up, Mr. D. Breeze has erected three, Mr. W. A. Sanderson is building one now, and Mr. F. S. Gould, of Castleton has just finished one for himself. Besides this Mr. Baptie, of Lakefield, has the contract for the erection of three others. All these are being built in Boschinck. On Eagle Mount a large boarding house has just been built for the men who will work in the new granite quarry, about to be opened out. Mr. Dolan says fishing is good in Stony Lake, but there are a number of drives of logs blocking up the waterways.

Mining in Peterborough.

Mr. Cameron who owns a valuable gold, silver and hematite mine in Chandos township, Peterborough county, paid a visit to the Campbellford Herald office the other day. He informed the editor that he has the best assurances of experienced assayers of the wealth of his mine, and two wealthy gentlemen of Toronto are now negotiating with him for the purchase of a share, with a view to developing it at an early day. The survey of the Central Ontario Railway in its proposed extention through the mineral regions of the back country, westward to Sudbury, has been made alongside Mr. Cameron's mine, so that no difficulty will be experienced in the transportation of supplies. A geologist wrote to the Montreal Star a few days ago, speaking highly of this mine.

Missionary Addresses.

The regular quarterly open meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the George Street Methodist Church was held last night and, despite the bad weather, there was a good attendance. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. (Rev.) A. Andrews, of the North West missions, and Rev. Mr. Ames, of the Niagara conference. Mrs. Andrews is a sister of Mrs. (Dr.) Fife, with whom she is visiting. Rev. Mr. Ames is stopping with his brother, Mr. J. H. Ames. He was at one time engaged in the missionary work. Mrs. Andrews' address was a concise review of the missionary work in the North-West, where she and her husband are at present engaged. At the close of the addresses a collection was taken up in aid of the Auxiliary.

Excelsior Excursion.

The ladies of the George Street Methodist Church have completed arrangements for their excursion to the Canadian Chautauqua and Niagara Falls on Wednesday, July 31st. This will undoubtedly be the trip of the season. The 31st is Recognition Day at Chautauqua. Bishop Vincent is to distribute the diplomas to the graduates and give his most popular lecture. In the evening the great concert of the year is to be given and a grand display of fireworks takes place. The excursionists can go by the 4.56 a. m. C. P. R or the 7 a.m. trains to Toronto, and then take the 11 a. m. or 4 p. m. steamers to Niagara-on-the-Lake (Chautauqua) and the Falls. Those who only desire to visit Toronto can take either of the above trains, or on the 5.50 p.m. train. Tickets—Toronto and return, $1.90; Niagara-on-the-Lake and return, $2.25; Niagara Falls and return, $2.25; children half price. Tickets good to return until Aug. 1st. 1d

Belleghem, the Furniture King.

The earth may melt with fervent heat, and the thermometer melt in its setting, but still the world wags on. Business is done, love is made, there is marrying and giving in marriage, and people still go to Belleghem to buy furniture. They have to have it and Belleghem's is where they get the best, and the best for the least money. Quality, style and finish considered, there is no place where furniture can be bought so cheap as at the Furniture King's, 188 and 190 Hunter street, and at no other place will you find such a large and varied stock. Three floors crowded with first class furniture of every description, well built, finely upholstered and daintily and stylishly finished. No matter what style of goods, no matter what article of furniture you need, you will never be at a loss to find what you want at the shop of D. Belleghem, the Furniture King of the Midland District.

The Institute Repairs.

At the meeting of the Property Committee of the School Board last night there were present Mr. Wm. English, Chairman, and Messrs. McWilliams, Burnham, Dumble and Hughes. The committee decided to make as few changes in the building as possible in order to comply with the requirements of the government. The winding stairs from the south door will be removed and the towers used for teachers' rooms. One partition from the basement up will be removed and the halls widened to 12 feet. Cloak rooms will be taken off the present school rooms, still leaving them sufficiently large. Independent stairs, giving access to the boys' and girls' departments, will be made. The Smead-Dowd system of heating will not be introduced at present, but the changes made are such that at any time in future it may be required the system may be put in. The expense will if possible be kept under $2,000. The work is of such a character that it cannot well be let by contract, but an efficient overseer will be engaged to carry out the work under the directions of the architect, Mr. J. E. Belcher. The work will be proceeded with as soon as possible under the supervision of the committee.

The Twelfth at Lindsay

To-morrow the Orangemen of this district will celebrate the "Glorious Twelfth" at Lindsay. A train will be run in from Lakefield on which the Lakefield, Dummer and Nassau Orangemen will arrive. These will be met at the Ashburnham station by the local brethren and escorted over town to the Midland station, from which the train leaves at 9:30. The order of procession will be as follows:—

The Nicholls Hospital.

Lady Superintendent's Summary for the Year Ende' June 30th, 1889.

Through the kindness of Miss Dalby, the lady superintendent of the Nicholls Hospital, the Examiner is able to give, following, an interesting summary. This institution is, under its present efficient management, doing good work. The present staff consists of Miss Dalby, the lady superintendent, who this month completes her fourth year in this capacity; of two experienced nurses and two probationary nurses. The latter undergo a probation of three month to test whether they are adapted to the vocation of nursing, and after this they are required to spend two years in the training school for nurses before they are considered competent. The present hospital buildings, though small, are utilized in such a way that every inch of space is turned to account. A walk through the building reveals everything in first class order, clean, sweet and inviting. There are six resident physicians on the medical staff, each taking a turn of a month, Dr. King being the attending physician for July. Besides, there are at times different physicians in attendance on private ward patients, who prefer to enter the hospital for the

they can obtain there. The latter is a consideration which physicians insist on more and more every day, and the trained nurse of to-day is estimated as to efficiency according to her knowledge and proficiency, in addition to her other qualifications, in sick-room cookery. A scrutiny of the list given below of the diseases treated during the past year will show that the great majority of the diseases were of a serious character. The fact that of these 52 were discharged cured and 10 improved, speaks well for the success of the medical treatment and nursing received at the Nicholls Hospital. A percentage of 83⅓, either cured or improved, is a large one—larger, perhaps, than private practice and nursing, if records were available, would show.

As will be observed, nearly fifty per cent. of the patients admitted were paying patients, who contributed no small sum towards the maintenance of the institution. When the new hospital, with it superior accommodations and facilities for treatment and nursing, is occupied in September, it is expected that the proportion of pay patients will increase.

The following is the summary referred to in the foregoing paragraphs:

A Fine New Home.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams' New Residence.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams to-day occupied his fine new residence, which has been in course of construction for him for several months. It is situated on the corner of London and Water streets, fronting on Water street. Its material is red brick, two stories and a half in height. The style of architecture is the Queen Anne, and the exterior appearance is solid, substantial and imposing, the chimney stacks, in their elaborateness of detail, producing a fine effect. The interior corresponds in every way to the exterior. The chief feature in the main hall and stairway; the former is large and roomy; the stairs are of solid oak; the hall is lighted with two lofty windows glazed with cathedral glass. From the hall, on the first floor, admission is gained to the drawing and sitting rooms and dining room. The second floor is occupied by the sleeping apartments, and everywhere the same solidity of construction and the same elaboration of fine finish is observable. Every convenience that modern ingenuity can suggest as necessary to make a gentlemen's residence the abode of comfort and luxury has been provided—bath rooms, hot water heating, electric bells, gas, etc. There is probably not a better furnished and more convenient and complete private residence in Peterborough, and the Examiner wishes Mr. McWilliams and family many years of health and prosperity to enjoy it. No one portion of the work can be regarded as a reproach to any other. Solidity, elegance and artistic effect have all contributed to form an harmonious whole, every separate contractor having done his work with especial regard to these considerations. Where all have done so well, it is but fair that due credit should be given in connection with a reference to the new residence. To begin with the beginning, the excavating was done by Mr. Edward Thompson; stonemasonry, Mr. James Bogue; brickwork, Mr. J. J. Hartley; carpenter work, Mr. W. H. McIlwaine; plastering, Mr. R. Pollock; painting, Mr. Ralph Carton; wood carving, Mr. D. J. O'Brien: hot water heating apparatus, Peterborough Stove and and Furnace Co.; plumbing, Mr. Adam Hall; electric bells, Mr. Edward Plante. The sodding and grading on the fine large unfenced lawn and boulevards was done by Mr. John Cronin. The outbuildings and stables on the same premises are constructed with the same regard to solidity and convenience that marks the residence structure, throughout.

Slugger Sullivan in Gaol.

John L. Sullivan and His Backers Arrested and Now in Gaol.

Nashville, Tenn., July 11.—John L. Sullivan was arrested here this morning on a requisition from the Governor of Mississippi, and is now in the city gaol. Muldoon, Cleary and Charley Johnston have also been arrested.

County Crops.

The following appears in the crop reports published in the Toronto daily newspapers:

Peterborough.—The prospects are good all round. Barley is very heavy and filling out well. Fall wheat will be a good crop if rust keeps away. The outlook at present is first class. In favourable localities and on hill sides the grain is turning. Hay is a fair crop, and better than it was thought it would be. There will be a fourth better crop than last year. Spring wheat is looking magnificent, tall, with fine even and heavy crops. Peas and oats are extra good, all very heavy. Roots are looking promising, and fruit is good. Apples will be a fair yield.

Personal.

Mrs. G. W. Hall, town, is announced to sing at an entertainment at Longford, near Orillia, on July 17th.

Mr. Charles Gilchrist, of Port Hope, Inspector of Fisheries, was in town to-day inspecting the mills on the river.

The closing exercises of Trinity College School, Port Hope, were held Wednesday. Among the prize winners was Master D. McG. Rogers, son of Col. H. C. Rogers. Mrs. Rogers attended the closing exercises.

Lieut. F. Mason has returned from a five weeks' course of study at the London School of Infantry and stood high up on the list of successful students at the examinations. He took a second class A certificate. Mr. Mason is to be congratulated upon his successful military career.

Cold, cough, coffin, is what philosophers term "a logical sequence." One is very liable to follow the other; but by curing the cold with a dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the cough will be stopped and the coffin not needed—just at present.

Kingston News.

Kingston, July 10.—About 8 o'clock last night a cyclone struck the city. It came down suddenly, swept up the dust in the densest clouds that have ever been seen, and drove the people into shelter in a panic. Thunder and lightning accompanied the storm. A barn owned by Mr. J. R. Clark on Howe Island was struck, causing its complete destruction. Several people were out in small boats and received a great scare, feeling thankful that their lives were spared.

Mr. Bishop of Gananoque was seriously injured by a Clayton policeman on July 4, while resisting arrest, and died on Monday night. The policeman had no authority to make the arrest. Bishop was under the influence of Bijnor.

It is the intention of the City Council to purchase the plant of the Electric Light Company. With this end in view Mr. Thompson of Montreal was invited to value the plant, and arrived to-day. He visited Kingston Mills and is of the opinion that sufficient power can be got there to drive the electric light in the city.

Bass and pickerel fishing down the river was never better than now.

Already three hundred citizens have joined the Equal Rights Association.

The report that Lieut.-Col. Smith is about to retire from the command of the 14th P. W.O. Rifles in consequence of the recent order-in-council is without foundation.

Ashburnham Brevities.

Mr. Richard Morgan who was so seriously injured on Tuesday by the wheel of a wagon passing over his head, is progressing very favorably, being able to sit up to-day for his dinner.

The annual picnic and excursion of St. Luke's Sunday school took place yesterday, the objective point being at Jubilee. The "Golden Eye" conveyed the excursionists down the river and was well filled with a happy crowd. The day, although a little hot in town was everything that could be desired at the Point, the trees tempering the heat to a degree that made everyone feel comfortable. The past years (last year being excepted) St. Luke's Sunday school has always been unfortunate in having a wet day but this year they seem to have been remarkably lucky, for while it was pouring in town there was not a drop at Jubilee. The boat left the Ashburnham wharf at nine making only one call on the way, this being at Savigny's landing.

Arrived at the Point, the passengers, whose appetites were sharpened by the fresh breeze of the river, were not long in landing and in a very short time had the tables, which are always in readiness, spread with a very inviting repast. This part being over the programme of sports was presented, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw and Messrs. R. B. Rogers, W. Pakenham, and E. A. Peck having charge of these Appended will be found the names of the successful contestants in the different parts, each lucky one receiving a very acceptable prize. The boat left about five, and just when all were aboard the rain came on. During the day the refreshments were in charge of Messrs. E. B. Burt and Jos. Ball, who managed their part very satisfactorily, the cooling drinks no doubt going far to minister to the comforts of all. The only mishap of the day, and one that caused a good deal of amusement, was the explosion of a wheelbarrowful of pop bottles. Mr. R. B. Rogers took upon himself to bring these to the boat, down the steep hill. Thinking that he could beat the rate of a mile a minute under such favorable circumstances, he made a bold dash, but finding that the momentum was too great to keep himself in step with the rate of speed which the wheelbarrow had attained, he let go, allowing it to make its own way. However, not being able to steer itself successfully, it upset, nearly every bottle exploding from the concussion caused the short stop. There was no serious accident except the loss of the pop to Dick, but he stoutly maintains that his speed down the hill was greater than he ever made on his toboggan down Calcutt's slide on Riverside Park.

Tonight's Sport.

This evening if the weather permits, the regular fortnightly races of the Bicycle Club will be held on the P. A. A. A. grounds. These meets have become very interesting, and no doubt tonight's races will be fully as exciting as any before.

Willow and Wicket.

The Galt Cricket Club are playing on the home grounds to-day. The visitors are making a short tour of the province, and have already been beaten by Aurora and Toronto. Mr. Chas. Logan is on the Galt eleven, and for once the home eleven are playing against him instead of with him. Play was begun at ten o'clock.

The home team went to bat and put up an even 100. Strike 10, Ray 17, Attewell 19, Sailsbury 10, were the double figures. Galt's first effort yielded only 31. They followed their innings, and at 3.30 four wickets had fallen for 20 runs. Attewell trundled tremendously, taking 8 wickets for 8 runs.

To-morrow's Baseball.

To-morrow a strong team of the Association baseball club will go to Hastings and play the village club in the forenoon, in the afternoon proceeding to Campbellford and playing the return match with the club of that town. The boys hope to add fresh laurels to their record on this trip.

A card received in town says that the Madoc lacrosse team is expecting the Riversides down there on the 16th, and they are practicing hard for the match. It is understood here that Madoc cannot play until she pays over the guarantee money due both Beaverton and Norwood, on account of the Madoc team's defaults.

Special Inducements.

The managers of the Peterborough Business College expect to open out in their new rooms on Water street the first of July, and in order to increase their attendance, offer special reduced rates to students for the next month. They have every appliance for giving a first class business training—their new premises being large and commodious and well ventilated, and every convenience to insure the greatest amount of comfort to their students. Their rooms will be open every day after July 1st, and they extend a cordial invitation to the public generally to visit them and see their splendid premises. Those who do so will be amply repaid.

Parents will do well to take advantage of their special offer and send their boys and girls where, in a very short time, they will be given such a course as will fit them to fill lucrative positions. Their students, during the past six months, have been remarkably successful, many of their graduates obtaining positions as soon as graduated. They are constantly receiving applications from both business and professional men for bookkeepers and stenographers. The principals, Messrs. Bean & Rooney, will be pleased to give, personally or by mail, to all who desire, full information in regard to any point in the course of the College. dw

A Close Call.

After suffering for three weeks from Cholera Infantum so that I was not expected to live; and, at the time, would even have been glad had death called me, so great was my suffering, a friend recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which acted like magic on my system. But for this medicine I would not be alive now.

The season of green fruits and summer drinks is the time when the worst forms of cholera morbus and bowel complaints prevail. As a safeguard, Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry should be kept at hand. For 30 years it has been the most reliable remedy. 2w27d

BERRIES

FRUIT

These are subjects that are sure to occupy the mind and attention of the housekeepers, and make prominent their necessities at this season of the year. In anticipation of a rush for FRUIT JARS and TUMBLERS we have laid in a stock sufficient to meet a heavy demand. Reduced prices will prevail during the Canning and Preserving season as our sales will be large, we will make the profits smaller all round.

A PENNY SAVED.

Ben Franklin's favorite axiom that

"A pin a day 's a great a year,
A penny saved is two pence clear,"

should impress us not alone with the value of saving small things, but the great advantage of saving where dollars take the place of cents. On this score the bargains that we have prepared in our CROCKERY and GLASSWARE department, to last during midsummer, should appeal to the ladies of Peterborough and vicinity with particular emphasis. Each permits of the saving of several dollars over the prices usually charged or asked by other dealers. Look in and investigate for yourself.

DR. DORENWEND'S

GREAT CHEMIST

HAIR MAGIC.

The equal of this great preparation is yet to be found. It is an unfailing Restorer for grey hair—it stops all falling out of the hair—it removes all dandruff and keeps the scalp clean. On bald heads (if there are but the faintest traces of roots) the Magic will produce a fine growth. Will you try it? Or will you let your hair go and become prematurely old? What do you say? All druggists everywhere have it for sale. Ask for it. Do not let the druggist tell you he has something just as good—many have dead stock of other hair tonics on and hand try to shove them off in this way.

25c. Fancy Striped Chambrays for 17c.; handsome goods and perfectly fast color. The only reason why 25c. Chambrays are selling to-day for 17c. is one of our large wholesale houses imported more than they were able to find a market for at their value and were glad to sell them now, being late in the season, for what they would bring.

Our 5c. Lawns are of good serviceable quality, in fast colors, and as pretty patterns as we ever had in cheap goods. A problem how much did the operator earn a day that made them, and who paid for the dye, seeing there is 32½ per cent. import duty on colored lawns.

20c. Ginghams for 12½c. These goods are fra Glasgae. The patterns are large checks and fine hair stripes. Nothing you can buy will be lighter or wear better.

See our south window of Flannelettes, every desirable color to be seen at a glance, the very appearance of these Goods suggest coolness and comfort. Price 10 and 12 1-2c.

What do you say to fine soft finish light-colored prints, fall width, at 5c., a yard. Those that see this notice and believe it will reap the benefit.

Prints opened out this week 50 new patterns in Prints in light and dark grounds. A fine assortment of Prints for children, cream grounds with fine hair lines and polka spots.

MILLINERY. The millinery room is bright, with cheerful hits for children. All the light, airy shapes, aspangle with flowers and allutter with, ribbons. If your fancy is among the little lot left of pattern Hats or Bonnets you can save all you would expect by buying now.

Are you aware of the many important makes of writing paper that abide with us, and occupy a leading superiority over all other makes. We enumerate some of our Special Lines:—

The Original Milton Mills.
This celebrated writing paper now so much in demand, is made from the purest fibre, is firm of texture and is reduced to a moderate price.

The Brown Holland -Calico Grey—Canvas Cream
A triumph of writing paper—the success of the year. They have made a conquest wherever shown, and their ascendency in popularity has been marked and rapid.

Antique Parchment.
The high merit of this production being so well known that further exultation would be superfluous.

The Favorite Grey.
That has been so long in high favor.

Piries' Real Vellum.
Renowned throughout the land for its high repute for office and social correspondence.

The Crown Parchment and Ivory Vellum.
Distinguished for its dead velvety finish, and a society paper which we are very vain of, and which has enshrined itself in the estimation of all lovers of beautiful papers, and is winning golden opinion every day.

The Bath—The St. Andrew—The Garter.
Excellent Medium Quality Paper, that will challenge comparison with very much higher priced papers, and always give satisfaction.

We are bold enough to assert that no practice so forcibly proves the existence of sound art tastes, of real gentility of mind, and of the fitness for high social positions, than the use of Fine Stationery. There never was a time when the best of Stationery could be so daintily offered as the present, when there are so many charming boxes to hold the materials—such pretty conceits in the mode of presentation, novel in design.

We have Envelopes to match all our Papers. We show the Newest and the Most Correct Styles. Later on we will tell you about other New Lines.

CANADIAN NEWS NOTES.

AN INSANE WOMAN'S SUICIDE AT TORONTO.

Senator Abbott Appointed Canadian Commissioner to Australia — The Stoney Creek Brute Remanded.

TORONTO, July 12.—A baby belonging to an apparently well-to-do family from Montreal died on the express bound for Hamilton yesterday morning. The child was in good health at Toronto. The corpse was left at Hamilton and the father and mother proceeded on their way to Chicago. G. T. R. Detective Day is looking into the case.

When William H. Dixon, the G. T. R. constable who shot John McLachlan, the C.P.R. baggageman, a month ago, was called again yesterday morning, the Magistrate was notified that the wounded man would not be able to appear in court for another week at least, and the accused was remanded till next Tuesday.

City Commissioner Coatsworth has a well-defined scheme for the improvement of Ashbridge's Bay, east of the present harbor, and the construction of an entrance in the extreme east. The enterprise is a large one, but by no means impracticable, as the land reclaimed and improved will be so enhanced in value as to yield a large return. The length of the water front and the extent of harbor facilities would be doubled. East Enders are taking an active interest in the furtherance of the scheme.

There is considerable talk in Church-street over a prospective breach of promise of marriage. The plaintiff is a young gallant of 23, while the alleged faithless defendant is aged 32, and is a well-known practitioner of the thoroughfare named.

The preliminary investigation into the charge of embezzlement against Bookkeeper William Hannon of the Canada Wire Mattrass Company took place before D. Lapp, J.P., at West Toronto Junction yesterday. On June 29 Hannon collected a sum of money and it is alleged made no returns. After the hearing of considerable evidence the J.P. committed Hannon for trial. He will be brought before Judge McDougall next Wednesday.

Robert W. Wallace, a clerk of George F. Rendle's, 28 Front-street west, was arrested yesterday by Detective Cuddy on a charge of stealing a cash box containing a roll of $90 and $225 in a number of letters from his employer.

Mrs. Orr, aged about 40, the wife of William Orr, an expressman living at 51-2 Bellevue-avenue, during a fit of insanity last night about 9 o'clock, inflicted a terrible wound on her throat with a large butcher knife. Dr. G. H. Carveth of College-avenue was summoned and he pronounced her injuries fatal and ordered her removal to the hospital. The police ambulance was telephoned for, and when it arrived it was found that the woman was sinking so rapidly that her removal was impossible. She lingered until an early hour this morning when she died.

CANADA AND AUSTRALIA.

Senator Abbott Appointed Commissioner to the Antipodean Colonies.

MONTREAL, July 11.—Hon. J. J. C. Abbott has been appointed Canadian Commissioner to Australia for the purpose of promoting commercial relations with that colony, and leaves to-day for England in pursuance of his commission. Mr. Abbott while in England will put himself in communication with the British Government and the representatives in London of the Australian colonies previous to his departure for the latter, where he will arrive this autumn in time to attend the inter-colonial conference on the subject of trade relations between the members of the Australasian group and other parts of the Empire. Mr. Abbott's commission authorizes him to deal with questions of trade and tariff as well as with direct steamship communication with Canada and cable connection.

In announcing Mr. Abbott's appointment The Gazette says: The mission, it will be observed, is a highly important one, and could not possibly be entrusted to better hands. The elements of a large and profitable trade already exist. At present steamship communication is established between San Francisco, New Zealand and New South Wales, but anticipating closer relationship with Canada the Governments of these two Australian colonies have renewed the mail contracts to San Francisco for a year only, in order that advantage may quickly be taken of the new route via British Columbia. New Zealand, indeed, has practically manifested her desire to promote inter-colonial trade by voting a subsidy of £18,000 annually to a steamship line from Canada, and the New South Wales Government, it is believed, stands ready to reciprocate when a feasible scheme has been evolved.

With steamship communication established, there will be little difficulty in fostering trade, and in this connection it is well to remember that not the trade emanating in Canada alone but the trade of the United States will be available to a considerable extent to a Canadian-Australian steamship service. Fortified with the grant of £25,000 yearly already made by the Dominion Parliament with the authority to propose reciprocal trade relations, based on tariff concessions, with his full and accurate knowledge of the resources, capabilities and transportation facilities of Canada, we have reason to expect that Mr. Abbott's important mission will be fruitful of highly beneficial results, and that it may be so must be the wish of every intelligent and true Canadian.

AMBITIOUS CITY NEWS.

Assaulted His Wife—The Baby Farm Keeper Remanded.

HAMILTON, July 11.—Henry Lawson, a Stoney Creek man, was brought before Police Magistrate Cahill to-day charged with brutally assaulting his wife. Lawson is a butcher. While he was under the influence of liquor it is alleged that he struck his wife, who is in a delicate condition, because she refused to give him money. He knocked her down and then kicked her in the face and body. The woman's face is badly bruised and disfigured. Her condition is such that she will not be able to attend court for some time. The magistrate remanded Lawson until Monday.

This morning Police Magistrate Cahill remanded Louisa Park, the woman who was arrested a week ago for ill-treating a child. The case will be disposed of next Thursday.

Yesterday Bailiff Robert Hunter had a horse and buggy stolen from in front of his shop in Merrick-street. The horse was valued at $170. The horse was recovered near Brantford.

OUR TRADE WITH BRITAIN

AN INCREASE OF OVER TEN PER CENT. IN CANADA'S EXPORTS.

The Parnellites' Case Before the Commission Practically Closed—The Reoccupation of Dongola Urged on the British.

LONDON, July 11.—Returns of British trade with Canada are fairly good. The exports to Canada during June decreased 10.82 per cent. as compared with June, 1888; the total for the half year, £2,439,594, being a decrease of 1.24 per cent. The largest decline was in horses. Imports from Canada increased 11.16 per cent. during the month, the total for the six months being £1,303,225—an increase of 10.53 per cent. The largest increases were in oxen, flour, cheese and wood. There was a large decline in wheat.

To Keep Infants Off the Stage.

LONDON, July 11.—Quite an exciting debate occurred in the House of Commons last night when the bill came up for the prevention of cruelty to children. Among the provisions of the bill is one making it unlawful to employ children under the age of 10 in any stage performance.

Mr. Louis John Jennings, Conservative member for Stockport, moved to amend this provision so that children under 10 might be permitted to take part in all except acrobatic performances. In support of this motion he read a letter from Mr. Henry Irving strongly favoring early theatrical training for children destined for the stage. Mr. Jennings instanced the cases of Ellen Terry, Edmund Keene and other stage celebrities, all of whom received their first theatrical training when considerably less than 10 years of age.

Mr. Labouchere supported the amendment and stated that from his own observation and experience he was entitled to affirm that children were always treated with the tenderest kindness behind the scenes.

The amendment was opposed by Mr. A. J. Mundella, Liberal member for Brightside; Mr. Henry Hartley Fowler, Liberal member for East Wolverhampton, and Sir Richard Temple, Conservative member for Evesham.

The amendment was finally rejected by a vote of 188 to 139.

The Parnellites' Case Nearly Closed.

LONDON, July 11.—After a number of members of the National League had been called by Mr. Reid, of counsel for the Parnellites, to testify before the committee to-day, Sir Charles Russell said he would call two witness to-morrow and their testimony would practically end the case for the Parnellites.

From a Nationalist Source.

LONDON, July 11.—Upon John O'Connor's refusal to violate his Fenian oath or to tell anything which he has promised to keep secret, notwithstanding his hostility to the extremes to which the secret societies had gone, Sir James Hannen, after reproving the witness in somewhat strong language, asked him whether he were a Protestant or a Roman Catholic; and then whether the church justified him in refusing to answer all questions in giving evidence on the ground that he had taken an illegal oath. O'Connor replied that he had not studied the theological aspect of the subject. "Nor the moral?" asked Justice Hannen. "No," replied O'Connor; "But I know my own code of honor." Everyone in the court room thought that something serious was about to happen, but the matter was dropped. The presiding justice exhibits a disposition to give an ultimate judgment unfavorable to the Parnellites if he can, but he tries to be careful not to be unjust during the evidence.

Davitt Sanguine.

LONDON, July 11.—Michael Davitt, in an interview to-day, said: "The new Tenants' Defence League will give a new start to the Irish cause, which will be of immense importance. It will bring men of all shades of opinion on the popular side into a fighting line under Parnell. The whole of the reserves will move up to his support. The Government will no longer deal with men in the gap but with the whole Irish race. Mr. Parnell is more emphatically than ever the man on horseback. Mr. Balfour will be better able to appreciate the difference six months hence than to-day."

A Verdict Against The Irish Times.

LIMERICK, July 11.—The jury in the case of Matthew Harris v. The Irish Times for libel for asserting that he was an Invincible has returned a verdict of £1000 for the plaintiff.

Egypt's Invaders.

LONDON, July 11.—Mr. Stanhope, Secretary of War, stated in the Commons to-day that the official estimate of the number of the invaders of Egypt under Nadel Jumi was 6000 men and 800 camels. The invaders had reached a point 33 miles north of Wady-Halfa. He did not believe the people welcomed them.

A Move to Check the Mahdists.

LONDON, July 11.—The British military authorities in Egypt are urging the home government to authorize the reoccupation of Dongola by the British forces as soon as possible. Without Dongola in their possession they say the southern frontier is not secure and can never be made so. This was the policy which was advocated by Gen. Lord Wolseley during his last campaign in Africa, but it was opposed at the time, for reasons which then seemed sufficient, by the Gladstone Administration. Those who favor this step contend that its accomplishment would put an end to the efforts of the Mahdiste to penetrate into Egypt, which will never be relinquished so long as there seems to be a chance of entrance. The command of Dongola would, moreover, it is declared, open the Suakim and Berber route to the valuable Soudan trade.

The Riflemen at Wimbledon.

LONDON, July 11.—Private Rippon of the Second Essex Regiment won the first prize, a bronze medal, in the shooting at Wimbledon. In the first stage of the contest for the Queen's Cup he made 99.

Queer French Lawmakers.

PARIS, July 11.—The Chamber of Deputies was again the scene of great disorder to-day. M. Le Herisse assailed the Government, accusing it of violating the law by the recent arrests of Boulangists at Angouleme.

M. La Guerre stigmatized the affair as a trap laid for himself and friends. The High Court, he said, was a parody of justice.

The President of the Chamber called M. La Guerre to order.

The speaker, however, proceeded, using abusive language against M. Constans, Minister of the Interior.

The President then proposed that the House refuse the speaker a further hearing. The proposal was approved and M. La Guerre was ordered to resume his seat. He declined, however, to leave the tribune. An uproar arose and the President left the chamber, while the public galleries were cleared. The sitting was resumed after an hour's recess. M. La Guerre still occupied the tribune. The President thereupon censured M. La Guerre and excluded him temporarily from the chamber. The sitting was closed at 5.15 p.m.

M. La Guerre defiantly remained on the tribune until 6 o'clock suspicious that the House would resume business. When he left the Boulangist group saluted him with cheers, which were drowned by a storm of hisses and cries of "To the river with him." The police were obliged to guard the carriage in which he departed. Several persons were arrested.

The "Angelus" to Go to America.

PARIS, July 11.—Several papers here announce that the Chamber of Deputies will not vote a credit for the purchase of the "Angelus" and that the picture will go to Americans who are ready to pay $110,000, the amount for which the picture was sold at auction.

Drowned at Wolfe Island.

KINGSTON, July 11.—Last evening shortly after 6 o'clock R. Beaupre and his brother, sons of R. Beaupre, Barrie-street, went in bathing at Dee's Point, Wolfe Island. Neither of them could swim. They were bathing in a shallow place. R. Beaupre having seen other boys diving thought the would try. He jumped off a stone into a deep place, but could not get back again. His little brother could render him no assistance and he was drowned. His body was recovered a few minutes after the accident.

Romance Late in Life.

ALBANY, July 11.—The village of Port Jervis, Ulster County, has just been the scene of a very romantic marriage. Joseph Conkling, the groom, is in his eighty-fourth year, while the bride, Mrs. Maria Edwards, is in her seventy-fourth year. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. W. Galloway of the Methodist Church. The groom, a fine-looking and active senior, with a profusion of iron gray hair, has long resided in Binghamton, and is possessed of an ample fortune. The bride, who is also well preserved and sprightly for her years, has for some time resided at Port Jervis. Over half a century ago Joseph Conkling and Maria Tuttle were neighbors and lovers, living with their parents near Batavia. The course of true love did not run smooth with them—the old story of the penniless suitor frowned upon and turned away by the girl's well-to-do and inexorable parents. The disappointed lovers went their respective ways and found other consorts, from whom in the course of time they were parted by death. Thus bereaved, and after many years of separation, the old-time lovers met again by chance, and the happy sequel is told in the announcement of the nuptials and departure on a wedding journey.

DEATH OF A B.C. EX-M.P.

Mr. Frank S. Barnard, the Pioneer Expressman of the Pacific Slope.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 11.—Mr. Frank S. Barnard, ex-M.P. for Yale, B.C., died at his home in this city yesterday morning. Mr. Barnard was one of the best known men on the Pacific coast, having been engaged for a very lengthy period in the overland express, mail and passenger business. Long before the Canadian Pacific Railway drove modern civilization and methods beyond the Rockies Mr. Barnard's express was almost the sole means of traffic in the verdant province. Hundreds of horses and men were engaged in the business. For the past two years deceased has suffered from paralysis, and this was probably the cause of his death. He was well known to the public men of eastern Canada a few years ago. His son, Frank S., a young man of 30, is at present a member of the House of Commons, having succeeded Senator James Read for Cariboo when that gentleman was translated to the Red Chamber.

Burnt Before His Mother's Eyes.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 11.—Further particulars of the disastrous fire at East Chezzetcook, where Phil. G. Byrd's store and dwelling were burned, are of a heart-rending character. The inquest was held yesterday on the body of the little boy who was burned. A juryman says the sight was one of the most pitiful he ever saw; the little head, hands, arms, legs and shoulders were burned off, only the small trunk remaining. The infant girl who was saved from the fire died yesterday. Mrs Byrd was severely burned about the arms and lower part of the body, and her sufferings, combined with the great grief at the loss of her two little ones, renders her case almost hopeless.

The first intimation they had that the building was on fire was when they saw the flame break through the bedroom floor on the second story. Byrd dropped out of the window and went for a ladder. Mrs. Byrd ran up stairs to awaken the servant girl, who was sleeping in a room above, leaving the three children still asleep and safely in their beds. When she got back to the bedroom the flames had increased in volume and the children were wild with fright. She gathered the three of them under her arms and struggled bravely to the window, but the dense smoke that now filled the room weakened her and in an endeavor to keep from falling their three-year-old boy slipped from her arms and fell through one of the holes in the floor that had been eaten through by the flames. He grasped a beam and hung on manfully, calling "mother, mother." But the stricken parents, who could see him in the midst of the flames, could do nothing to save him. He hung to the beam until his two little arms were burned from their sockets, and then his bruised and burned little body sank back into the flames. It was found latter in the day among the ruins in the cellar, two stories below. The servant girl jumped from a window in the second flat to the ground, some eighteen feet, spraining an ankle and injuring one of her legs. The eldest girl was the only one of the six that were in the house when the fire started that escaped uninjured.

A Posse in Pursuit of Kilrain.

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 11.—Kilrain and party came from St. Louis to Seymour where they heard of Sullivan's arrest and decided to come here. The party went to a hotel where Mitchell attempted to fool the people by giving fictitious names. A reporter was shown into a room where Kilrain was taking a wash. He asked Kilrain for an interview. "Damn the newspaper," replied Kilrain, "they have ruined me already." He was stripped to the waist. His body appeared badly swollen and was covered with plaster. A big spot on the right side was blood red and swollen, his arms were in a terrible shape. He suffered intensely as Pony Moore attempted to put on his undershirt. The party left in two hours in a carriage which passed out of the city and north into Kentucky. It is presumed they were bound for Shelbyville or Edinburgh, the former being 20 miles and the latter 12 miles. To-night Sheriff Smith telegraphed Governor Lowry of Mississippi asking him if he desired the arrest of the party. The Governor replied in the affirmative and offering $500 reward. The sheriff has organized a posse and gone on the trail of the pugilists. The posse are one hour behind, but it is thought they will overtake the Kilrain party. The sheriff and his men are prepared for a desperate resistance.

A Deckhand's Daughter Gets $4000.

ROUSDOUT, N. Y., July 12.—Judge Edwards, of the Supreme Court, has rendered a decision of interest to steamboat companies, their employes, and the liability of the former under the Civil Damage Act for damages.

The facts are as follows:—J. Rouse, a deckhand on the steamer Walter Brett, of the Catskill and New York Steamboat Company, purchased liquor at the boat's bar, and while intoxicated fell into the Hudson River and was drowned. The infant daughter sued for $4000 damages and the jury awarded her the full amount. Judge Edwards has refused the application of the company for a new trial.

The outcome of this decision, in all probability, will be that no more intoxicants will be sold to employes of steamboats on the Hudson.

A Slim Chance for Burke.

OTTAWA, July 11.—The judge's report in regard to Burke, committed for extradition as Winnipeg for the Cronin murder, has not yet reached Ottawa. Leading government officials say his extradition is inevitable. Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice, said to-day that the Cabinet has not yet considered the matter. Even though the Minister of Justice should recommend the delivery of Burke to the American authorities the Governor-General in his discretionary power has authority to refuse to sanction the warrant. But Burke's chances of escape are slim.

The Arbitration Between the Rig Railway and the Government Continued at Indian Arran.

INCH ARRAN, DALHOUSIE, N.B., July 11.—The arbitration in the claim of the Canadian Pacific Railway against the Dominion Government for alleged improper construction of the British Columbia sections of the road has advanced another stage, the company having given a large batch of evidence in reply. The witnesses examined were Mr. Marpole who has charge of operation and maintenance of the mountain division, Mr. Cambie who constructed one of the sections but is now in the service of the company, Editor Wellington of The New York Engineering News, C.P.R. Engineer Dawson and Mr. Sandford Fleming. The testimony of all the witnesses was strongly in favor of the company, Mr. Fleming making the statement that he, and in fact the Government, had contemplated building a much better road than had been constructed.

The case stands adjourned to meet on Sept. 18 at Toronto. Mr. Christopher Robinson, Q.C., left last evening for Ristigouche to catch the steamer for England, where he will consult Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Joseph Trutch with reference to future evidence in rebuttal for the Government. Mr. Osler and Mr. Blackstock return to Toronto and Mr. Hoare to Ottawa, Chancellor Boyd, Mr. Keefer, Mr. Gregory, Mr. Drinkwater and several others left for Halifax to-night.

AMONG THE RAILWAYS.

Meeting of the Trunk Lines and New England Roads at New York.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The joint Committee of the Eastern and Western Trunk lines and the representatives of the New England railways met here to-day. It was unanimously agreed that taking effect as all points of shipment east of the Mississippi River upon Monday, July 22, the tariff of Dec. 17 last on the 25 cent basis per 100 pounds as applied to grain and its products would be restored, with the exception of that upon corn, but excluding all corn products; the rate via all lines may be made to take effect Monday, July 15, on the basis of 20 cents per 100 pounds. The trunk lines agreed that simultaneously with this advance they will decline to accept rail and lake bills of lading; and that on the same date the established rates at Buffalo and Erie on grain from the lake shall be advanced above those heretofore prevailing. The joint committee, being the combined organization of the Trunk Lines Association and the Central Traffic Association, was organized by the election of Mr. Hayden as chairman, Mr. Blanchard continuing as vice-chairman. A change was made in the classification of wool by which the minimum per car load was reduced from 16,000 pounds to 10,000. An application to reduce the minimum weight of live stock per car was referred to the officers of the joint committee for a vote and official decision under its rules.

This morning President Sloan of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway gave notice his road was willing to go into the Castle Garden clearing house system and would abide by the decision as rendered by Mr. Fink on the immigrant question and come into membership with the Trunk Line Association not later than Monday next.

The Northwestern Situation.

CHICAGO, July 11.—A paper here says: The committee appointed by the President of the Inter-State Commerce Railway Association to confer with Vice-President Harris of the Burlington and Northern in reference to the Northwestern situation performed their duty to-day acceptably. The following was passed unanimously:

Resolved, That the lines interested in the St. Paul and Minneapolis traffic be requested at once to open negotiations through the Northwestern division of the Western Freight Association with their eastern connections with a view to make such joint tariffs and rates between all points reached by the Canadian routes and lake routes as shall meet any and all rates made by said Canadian and lake routes; that in the opinion of this committee a dissimilarity of circumstances and conditions exists which justifies the meeting of said lake and Canadian competition regardless of intermediate rates.

The resolution means that the trunk lines and central traffic roads will be called upon to lower their proportions of joint through rates, that competing all rail rates may be made to meet the lake and rail rates. The resolution was not passed until assurances were had that the trunk lines and central traffic lines would join in the movement. The resolution does not necessarily mean that a war is to be begun against the lake lines. It does mean that hereafter there will be no such discrepancy as hitherto existed between lake and rail and all rail rates. Nor in the future will it be necessary for the Chicago west bound roads to stand the whole reduction necessary to meet the lake and rail rates.

In a measure the resolution is a victory for the Burlington and Northern, in that is bears out its position in lowering the St. Paul through rates. The carrying out of the resolution will have no effect on Chicago. The present low commodity tariff will remain in force to St. Paul until arrangements are completed with the trunk and central traffic lines.

Railway Construction in the States.

CHICAGO, July 11.—The Railway Age states that during the first six months of the present year new main line track has been laid on 123 lines in 31 states and territories, aggregating 1522 miles. This is less than half the mileage for the same portion of last year. The number of lines, however, under construction is not much less, showing a tendency to the building of short lines. The largest part of the track-laying thus far this year has been done in the south. It seems probable that the new construction of 1889 will be between 3500 and 5000 miles.

Matrimonial Morality.

Is Finance Minister Foster Legally Married?—Clerical and Lay Opinion on the Subject.

The recent marriage ceremony performed between Hon. Geo. E. Foster and Mrs. Addie Chisholm, a divorcee of the Chicago courts, has excited great attention, the question of the possibility of the legal dissolution of a Canadian marriage by the easy legal machinery of an American divorce court, being a prominent factor in the expression of opinion by legal authorities. The question will have something of a local interest from the fact of both parties to the alleged marriage having addressed public meetings in Peterborough, Mr. Foster as a political stumper and Mrs. Chisholm as a temperance advocate. The following expressions of opinion in regard to the recent marriage were given by Ottawa clergymen on Wednesday :—

The Lord Bishop of Ontario—"There are two ways of looking at the subject—from the church's point of view and from the lawyer's point of view. In the church of England a marriage such as that contracted by Mr. and Mrs. Foster would not be approved. I do not know whether a divorce granted under the American law would be valid in Canada."

"What do you think of the Canadian Divorce law?"

"I think it is the best in the world, because it makes it so difficult to get a divorce."

Rev. Dr. Moore—"My own impression is that where a case of necessity exists relief should be had, and if there was such a necessity for relief in this case my only regret is it has not been done in the usual way and according to the Canadian law."

Rev. G. McKitchie, chairman of the Ottawa Methodist district—"My opinion is that no American State law can dissolve a Canadian marriage. I would not care to pronounce an opinion upon this particular case because all the points are not before us. It appears that the judge asked Mrs. Chisholm for the address of her former husband and she would not give it. That appears to me a point that should be cleared up. We are not aware then upon what grounds a divorce has been granted. It occurs to me that we should have a divorce court in Canada the same as exists in England without going to the senate and the House of Commons and divorces should be granted for crim. con. and also, I think, for seven years' desertion.

The Rev. F. W. Farries, when asked his opinion of the marriage, said that according to the laws of this country a Chicago divorce, on the grounds on which Mrs. Chisholm obtained hers is not valid, and therefore her marriage cannot be justified. "It would be a calamity to our country," said Mr. Farries, "to recognise in any way the loose laws of divorce that prevail in the United States, and it is to be regretted that anyone occupying the influential position of Mr. Foster should by his action encourage and endorse the validity of such loose laws of divorce."

Rev. H. Pollard—"The marriage would not be recognized in the Church of England, and I think it a pity that a minister of the Crown has contracted a marriage of such a doubtful character. There seems to be considerable doubt as to whether or not the marriage is legal. If it is not legal then the parties are living in sin. I agree with the bishop that the divorce law of Canada is about the best we could have."

Rev. Dr. Armstrong—"I think that a divorce might have been obtained in Canada in the usual way and that less haste might have been displayed. I don't know anything about the legal point of the question. The way in which divorce pervades the whole American Union, I would say, will be destructive to that Union and not only to morality, but to the national existence if it is allowed to go on. With regard to our own divorce law I think it should be made as difficult as possible, but at present it seems to me the law is rather in favor of the rich."

The Montreal Witness has the following editorial deliverance on the subject :—

We grieve over the step taken by the second Minister of the Crown. In bringing to Canada as his wife a married woman, divorced abroad, but in Canada still the wife of another man, he has probably cut himself off from social life, and has certainly rendered himself unsuitable for a position in which he is looked to as an example to law abiding Canadians. It may be urged in his defence that society notoriously shuts its eyes to offences far worse than that of which he is guilty, even in positions as high as his. It is utterly disgraceful that it should be so; but one feature about what Mr. Foster has done is that the country cannot shut its eyes to it, and is forced either to approve or disapprove of it. It may also be urged that, though not in Canada, in many other countries, Scotland for instance, wilful desertion is regarded as good ground for divorce, and that if our marriage laws are not in harmony with the consciences of the age one may break them, as many have done in the case of the deceased wife's sister in countries where that is not permitted, and be held blameless by society. An unlawful marriage with a married woman is, however, a very different thing from a unlawful marriage with an unmarried woman. Whatever may be said of the latter this has not the public conscience in its favor, however much better it may be than an unconsecrated relationship. Our laws grant separation from bed and board for many reasons, but release from the legal marital bond is granted in Canada for only one. There are many reasons which render it right for husband and wife to separate, but the desire to marry some one else has not yet been acknowledged as one, and this is probably the only reason for converting the separation, which for due cause could easily be obtained in our own courts, into total divorce. The great objection to total divorce is that it is usually only sought for the purpose of getting married again, and when this is the case the parties cannot escape suspicion that the attractions of the second consort have more to do with the step than the wrong-doing of the first. It takes no thinking to see to what abuses such a usage must necessarily tend. Such a possibility gives play to wandering affections on the part of married people, who may be, perhaps temporarily, dissatisfied with each other, which, without it, would get no rein. It is, doubtless, with regard to such circumstances that the greatest of teachers says, "Who so marrieth her that is divorced committeth adultery."

A RACE RIOT PREVENTED.

The Reported Lynching of a Negro Caused Serious Trouble at Macon.

Macon, Ga., July 11.—For several hours last night this city was in expectation of a bloody race conflict. Willie Smith, colored, 18 years of age, was found by two white men resting in the house of one Ida Smith, a white woman. They picked him up bodily and threw him out of the window, where he fell unconscious. He was then beaten terribly. A report spread among the negroes that the whites had taken Smith off to lynch him. This aroused them to fury and a white man was seized by the black mob and dragged towards the swamp with cries of "Lynch him!" Mayor Price at the head of a squad of men went in one direction, while Chief Kenan at the head of a smaller force went in another to suppress the trouble. Mayor Price's squad arrested thirty of the negroes as they were returning from the swamp. The police formed in a hollow square around them and marched them to jail.

The whites were under the impression that the negroes had lynched the white man, while the negroes believed that Will Smith had been lynched by the whites. The Mayor's skill in handling the crowds kept them apart until it was discovered that neither party had been lynched, when the mob quietly dispersed.

The Strike at Carnegie's.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 11.—A train bringing 37 non-union men for the Carnegie steel works was surrounded here this morning by strikers. Only three new men succeeded in getting inside the mills. The others ran away but followed by the strikers, no stones were thrown or blows struck. Trouble is looked for. President Weihe and Secretary Martin of the Amalgamated Association have established headquarters here and will do all in their power to prevent disorder. The Sheriff has notified the men to keep away from the company's property. The firm is preparing to start the plant. It is said that at Munhall the car carrying the non-union men was stoned, the windows being broken and several men hurt.

The Dangerous Freezer.

KINGSTON, July 11.—The farmers had a picnic down at Seeley's Bay yesterday. After various good things had been demolished and particularly a large quantity of ice cream nearly the whole party were seized with the most violent internal pains. Drs. Magee and Brown were at once summoned and applied the stomach pump, antidotes and other remedies, happily saving the lives of all, though at one time it looked as if some five or six were booked. The doctors think the cause of the affair was the poisoning of the ice cream by the zinc of the freezer.

MUNCASTER'S

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER

A TALE OF TEARS.

His thoughts went back to the innocent brown eyes, which had been upraised to his that first morning on the hill side, and he he flung himself from his seat, and came to the mantel with a gloomy expression.

"If it were not for Gwendoline, I would marry her now," he said, half savagely. "I have made a rascal of myself, I admit, but I was bored into it. Confound Coombe-Ashley!"

"If it were not for Gwendoline you would do no such thing," said his mother, with a clear decisiveness. "There is one thing you can do, however. You can go away. I am sorry for the girl, and I blame you strongly. If a woman had committed herself in the manner you have done, the whole world would have been up in arms at her reckless folly. I don't want any scandal to arise; and I think it would be better for all parties concerned, if you returned to London with Gwendoline. Girls outlive these sort of things; and I have no doubt this one will overcome herself in time."

It was an easy way out of a difficulty certainly, and not an unpleasant one. Even Coombe-Ashley had been rendered bearable with Gwendoline Framley's assistance, and surely London would be worth the trying at her side. She had overruled his fickle fancy for the rector's daughter; she had, now and then, almost overruled his remembrance of her, so he found it not so difficult a matter to persuade himself that his mother was right in saying that Prue would live her girlish trouble down. Besides, he was in earnest now, and was desirous of having his fate decided.

"I am ready to go as soon as Gwendoline is," he said. "If I have been a fool, I am sorry for it."

"So am I," returned Lady Strathspey, coarsely. "Gwendoline returns next week, and though decency will compel you to pay a farewell visit to the Rectory, I trust you will not be guilty of any greater indiscretion. I wish to heaven, Angus," with a sudden touch of woman's passion in her voice which startled him, "I wish to heaven your foolishness had been more honorable and less cruel."

He made no reply: he had nothing to say; so he only lingered for a few minutes, and then returned to the dining-room, and there, for the time the matter rested. But, wisely as her ladyship had disposed of it, it is quite likely that she had not overrated its seriousness, on the contrary, she had somewhat underrated it.

From the night when Prue had fainted at the kitchen door a change had been slowly creeping over her. She thought at first that it would not be easy to go back to the quiet she had left in the past; but in the course of time, experience taught her that it was impossible. The simple contentment which had made her happiness was lost forever. The freshness was gone, the unbroken peace was gone. The days which had been scarcely long enough to contain her tender dreams, now the dreams had fallen into ashes, grew weary and intolerable. If she had known more of the world, if she had been less ignorant of sorrow, the blow she had received would not have been such a heavy one; but waking suddenly to the reality, she was strangely helpless, and a blight fell on her which she could not overcome. There was not an atom of weak sentiment about it, and her hidden trouble only showed itself in the new, soft pallor, and an added quietness in her life; but in spite of herself its shadow grew upon her every day.

Her poor pensioners upon the hill sides and in the village began to wonder in the something they had lost in the fresh voice and sweet smile; and some of the more observing began to whisper among themselves their kindly sorrow for her. The little basket was not so easy to carry, she found at last; and the rough, sturdy, bare-legged "bairns" fell into the habit of carrying it for her, trotting along at her side silently, and yet in all the intensity of their wild shyness, casting wistful glances at her quiet, white, young face.

But no one knew the truth so well as Marjory. In her first sudden weakness Prue had rested in the strong arms, and let her faithful old friend guess at her story without any effort at concealment.

"I knew so little," she faltered out in the end; "and I thought he loved me. I scarcely know why—he never said so; but once he—he kissed me. It wasn't his fault, Marjory," with weary quietness. "How could he love me? It was mine because I was weak and foolish, and knew so little."

It seemed to be her greatest fear that her father would learn how heavy her trouble really was, and she strove against it day after day, in her efforts to conceal it from him. She tried to hide the listlessness which had come upon her; and she tried to counterfeit her former cheerful girlishness and content; but even he would waken from his reveries now and then, or look up from his work to see what Marjory saw so often, the faint lines on the white forehead, and the tired brown eyes fixed far away. He tried to convince himself at first that it would wear away in time, and held his fears within his own bosom, forbearing to speak of them; but at last the change in her was so great that it forced itself upon him with a foreboding as new as terrible.

But good, stern old Marjory had not been deceived from the beginning. She watched the girl from morning until night. She saw as no one else did, the slender little figure growing more slender, and the slight young hands slighter, even though the change was an almost imperceptible one. The tragedy, quiet as it was, had been a tragedy to her honest heart from its first scene, and the dread which had fallen upon her master had grew upon hourly, with a sorrowful fresh recollection of how she had watched her nurseling's fair young mother fade away from them like a broken flower.

And in the meantime, at the Coombe, as far as mere plans may be regarded, Lady Strathspey's plan prospered. Certainly her son threw no obstacles in their way. He was getting tired of Coombe-Ashley, and besides, was not so comfortable there as he had been, for now and then a whisper of the wrong he had wrought came to him. Of course, outsiders did not understand that he had been to blame, but they discussed the matter, notwithstanding. It was "the taint of consumption in the Renfrew bluid," Prue's friends said, sadly; and in their mourning over it in their poor homes, it became the common talk that "the puir bonny yoong thing was following her mither."

It was not easy to realize, and Strathspey did not realize it, but it troubled him vaguely, nevertheless. He had never missed seeing the slight figure in the rectory pew, and though the change which had come over the face beneath the plain little straw hat had startled him once or twice, he had still a belief in his mother's doctrine that she would "get over it." Still he was not sorry, when the time drew near for his departure; it would be better, of course, and more agreeable.

He rather dreaded the farewell call, however. He was like many other men, in his fear of awkward situations and decidedly this was a somewhat awkward one. If it had been avoidable, it certainly would have been avoided; but since it was not, it was necessary to face it with as good a grace as possible.

He was not sorry to find the rector absent when he made his visit—possibly the absence was somewhat of a relief to him.

There were many men with whom he would not have been reluctant to have exchanged places as he waited in the old-fashioned, many-cornered parlor for Prue's coming. So thoroughly impressible was he, and so utterly controlled by circumstances, that I think, if it had not been for Gwendoline Framley, he might have been overruled even then—but it would only have been by the force of circumstances after all.

How to Keep Cool

In these days the thermometer is raging amongst the nineties, but the thermometer of prices is way down to zero at the tea store of Hawley Bros., George street, Peterborough. A splendid stock of teas, direct importation, this season's curing, pure, prime and perfect. Bought in large quantities, sold at low prices. This firm makes a specialty of teas, and thus the public get specially good teas at specially low prices. Don't forget these facts when you want fine, fresh, fragrant teas, or superb coffees, or cheap and tasty glassware, go to HAWLEY BROS.

The Great Question.

Mr. H. Lloyd, of Toronto, will deliver an address to the workingmen and public generally on the subject of "The Short Hour Movement," on Saturday evening next, July 13th, in the Union Hall, George street, (over China Hall.) Chair to be taken at 8 o'clock. Employers and clergymen are invited to be present, as Mr. Lloyd is considered one of the foremost speakers in the labour party in America. All should make make it a point to hear him. Be sure and bring your wives with you, for Mr. Lloyd is anxious to have the ladies present. Employers of labour should hear Mr. Lloyd's explanations upon a question that concerns us all.

A Successful Social.

There have been a number of remarkably successful lawn socials held this summer in connection with the different churches, and that of the Mission Band of St. Paul's church at the residence of Mr. Richard Hall last night was no exception. The spacious and beautifully kept lawns were gaily and brilliantly decorated with chinese lanterns in addition to the electric light at the corner, which illuminated every part o. the grounds. The handsome residence was also thrown open to the guests, of whom there was a large number present. Three large marquees on the grounds were the headquarters for the refreshment and flower stands, which, needless to say, did a flourishing business. The gate and other receipts footed up a handsome figure. The Fire Brigade band was present and was liberal in its musical contributions. No regular programme was carried out; some young people, however, amused themselves and entertained others by vocal and pianoforte solos, rendered impromptu. Altogether the social was a splendid success, and a credit to the young ladies of the mission band, as well as to the kind hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Hall, who did everything in their power to contribute to the pleasures of their guests and the success of the occasion.

A Minister Remembered.

The following paragraph relating to Rev. Thomas Mason, who is well known here, is from the Merlin correspondence of the Tilbury Centre Times, on the occasion of the removal of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Mason to the Muncey Reserve:—

The farewell social last Tuesday was a complete success, although it rained all night. More could not comfortably have been accommodated in the parsonage. Just before sitting down to supper the ladies presented Mrs. Powell, president of the Aid, with a pair of beautiful gold spectacles, as a token of their appreciation and love for her faithfulness. The next thing on the programme was the presentation to Mrs. (Rev. T.) Mason of an elegant autograph quilt, accompanied by a very kindly worded address to herself and husband, read by one of the ladies. Mr. and Mrs. Mason thanked the friends for their increasing kindness to them since they came to Merlin, and prayed for heaven's richest blessings to rest upon them through time. When time is past they hope to meet every member of their families at home with Jesus.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason would take this opportunity of thanking the friends at Union and Stewart for their beautiful presents and their many acts of kindness, and pray that they may increase in every fruit of the spirit and finally hear the Master say "well done."

"Yes we'll gather at the river,
The beautiful, beautiful river;
Gather with the Saints at the river,
That flows by the Throne of God."

THOS. MASON.

St. Andrew's Sunday School Excursion.

The annual excursion of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday school took place on Thursday to Jacob's Island, Pigeon Lake, and it was in every way a success, being largely attended. The party left the Midland station at 8.30, and on arriving at the terminus of the Chemong Valley Road, embarked on the steamer Beaubocage and palace barge Paloma. The Island was reached about half past 11. Dinner was the first consideration and it received ample attention. The thoughtfulness of the teachers in providing tea free for all was much appreciated. After dinner the usual amusements were heartily enjoyed, swinging, fishing, boating, archery, races for the children, augur races, etc. Rev. Mr. Bell, pastor, was present as, well as the superintendent, Mr. T. H. Best, and they, as well as the teachers, successfully exerted themselves for the entertainment and enjoyment of the excursionists. The return home was made in good time, the train arriving at the station at 6 30. The day was a delightfully spent one, and all who joined the excursion have reason to be pleased with the enjoyment the occasion afforded.

St. John's Sunday School Excursion.

The annual excursion of the St. John's Sunday schools Thursday was very largely attended, and proved a source of delightful enjoyment to all who participated in it. Jubilee Point was the objective point, and the Golden Eye and palace barge were the media of a very pleasant trip down the winding Otonabee, broken by only one stop, at Campbelltown, to take on a few persons. Shortly before one o'clock the excursion party landed at Jubilee and in a short time the children had formed themselves—girls and boys separate—into two large circles and their teachers lavishly supplied them with eatables, to which an early breakfast and a long journey enabled them to do ample justice. After dinner the afternoon was spent in the usual enjoyments the Point affords, boating, swinging, sauntering, resting, fern-gathering, etc. Rev. Mr. Davidson was with the party and said grace both before and after meat. Mr. A. V. R. Young, superintendent of the South Ward Sunday school, was in charge of the children's party. At the wharf, before embarking for the homeward voyage, the Doxology was sung, and the voyage home was made with safety and the day ended without any accident to mar the enjoyment which had marked it. The annual excursion of St. John's Sunday schools was this year more than usually successful and enjoyable.

Another Dreadful Accident.

Sad Sequel to a Fatal Mishap.

Yesterday afternoon about five o'clock Mr. Geo. Mitchell, a young married man employed in Meldrum & Davidson's mill, met with an accident by which he lost his right arm. The accident happened at exactly the same place and in the same manner as that by which little Arthur Meldrum came to his death, only two days before. Mitchell was explaining to another mill hand how the accident had occurred on Tuesday, and had his hand caught in the fatal shaft. In a trice the arm was drawn in up to the elbow, at which point it was torn clear off, leaving a bleeding and shattered stump horrible to gaze at. The unfortunate man was carried to his home in Ashburnham, and Doctors Halliday, Boucher and Yelland amputated the arm close to the shoulder. The patient is now doing as well as can be expected. The accident, following so closely, and so similarly, upon the other, caused an unusual amount of talk, and the unfortunate man receives public sympathy and pity.

The injured man was removed to the hospital to-day.

Police Court.

FRIDAY, July 12th, 1889.

This morning, Geo. Wilson a strong stalwart young healthy six-footer, who has been begging about town, was sent up for a month as a vagrant.

"Tom" Tully was charged with assaulting his mother. He has been up several times on similar charges, and on his mother's intercession he was allowed to go on condition that he at once leaves town.

Joseph Curtin was charged with the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquor. It appears from the evidence the defendant had some liquors in his room in the Snowden House hotel, and that he treated several of his friends but without any idea of pay or compensation. The charge was dismissed. Mr. Edwards appeared for the prosecution.

Personal.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox and Mr. Robt. Jaffray have been making a tour of the Northwest.

Mr. J. H. Burritt, barrister of Pembroke, spent to-day in town. He is en route to the west.

Mr. LeF. Anstruther Maingy, draftsman of the Postoffice Department at Ottawa, and family, and Mr. J. R. Layton, student-at-law, of the same place, are rusticating at Chemong Park, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Cameron, town.

The One Hundred and Ninety-Ninth

The Parade of the Local Brethren—They Set out for Lindsay to Celebrate the Day.

To-day is the 199th anniversary of the battle of the Boyne and loyal Orangemen are to-day everywhere celebrating the memorable occasion. Peterborough, county is not behind hand, and before leaving for Lindsay they made a most creditable parade in town. In the morning the brethren of the order in town, headed by the Fire Brigade Band, marched to Ashburnham, where they met the Lakefield and Nassau confreres. There procession was formed and marched over town in the following order:—

Union Jack,
County and District Masters (Mounted.)
Peterborough Fire Brigade Band
Jubilee Lodge Prentice Boys
Lakefield Lodges,
True Blues Fife and Drum Band,
Orange True Blues No. 43,
L. O. L. No. 49,
L. O. L. No. 80,
L. O. L. No. 178 Smith,
L. O. L. No. 457 Nassau,
County Officers in Carriages.

Arriving in town from Ashburnham, the procession proceeded up Water street as far as McDonnel, and, crossing to George street, proceeded to the station. The procession presented a very neat and military appearance as they marched in good time to the stirring party tunes played by the Fire Brigade band and the True Blues' fife and drum band. The performance and appearance of the latter organization elicited much favourable comment. As is always the rule, the Nassau stalwarts came in for the lion's share of admiration, the fine physical proportions of the individual members, their correct marching and uniformity of attire particularly distinguishing them. They turned out in the parade to-day fully seventy-five strong and were well worthy of the warm admiration they received. The procession halted at the Midland station, where they embarked for Lindsay, where, no doubt, with the fine weather, the day will be delightfully spent.

The prospects are growing brighter daily for the success of our camp which will commence August 1st, on Juniper Island. Reduced fares have been generously granted by the railways and boats. One of our leading merchants will open a provision store on the island for the convenience of the campers.

—A special meeting of the Order of Chosen Friends is called for this evening.

A Close Call.

AFTER suffering for three weeks from Cholera Infantum so that I was not expected to live, and, at the time, would even have been glad had death called me, so great was my suffering, a friend recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which acted like magic on my system. But for this medicine I would not be alive now.

Peterborough Defeats Galt at Cricket—The Bicycle Races on the Association Grounds—The Regatta To night.

Galt vs. Peterborough.

The home team yesterday played a strong eleven from Galt, and defeated them by an innings and 18 runs. Peterborough batted first and scored the even century. Attewell played by far the best cricket, his form being much admired: Ray also got his runs by good cricket, while Strike defended his wicket with neat care. Sailsbury, Scott, Hamilton and Stoker also contributed well to the score. The bowling and fielding of Galt was good, and the Peterborough score took two hours and a half to get, a very slow rate of scoring.

The Galt first innings was a procession, Trotter being the only double figure scorer, Only 8 runs were got off Attewell, and as they were all got before he took a wicket, he actually took 8 wickets without a run being got from his bowling, and that against a good batting team.

In the second innings Simpson played good cricket for 15, including a good drive out of the ground, and Trotter again played good cricket, but no one else made a stand. The innings closed for 51. The Peterborough's fielding in the first was good, but fell off in the second; Stratton, Strike and Gower all made good catches.

NOTE.—Peterborough plays Toronto on Monday next. This is the most important match of the season, and it is hoped there will be a large attendance of spectators. The home team will do their best to wipe out their two defeats by the Toronto's last year.

Bicycle Races.

Last night the regular fortnightly races of the Bicycle Club took place on the P.A.A.A. grounds before a fair-sized audience. The Y.M.C.A. band was in attendance and rendered a number of selections.

One result of these races was the development of Mr. Jas. McGill as a "flier." He never rode a wheel till this year, but is already to the fore among the fastest local men.

In the two mile handicap there were five entries—Messrs. F. Might, J. McGill, W. Morgan, E. Roy and W. A. Carr. All except the first two dropped out before the finish, McGill winning the race quite easily.

The 100 yards race was closely contested between D. Davidson, who has won the race twice already, and Archie Moore, who is generally considered to be the fastest sprinter in town. Moore won after a close contest.

In the one mile open there were three entries—R. Fife, E. Roy and H. Holland. Fife won easily with Holland second.

The mile green race was well contested between Morgan and McGill, the latter winning. Fife and Holland entered but soon dropped out.

The best race of the evening was the two mile open, Might and McGill being close together all the distance, McGill leading. On the last lap Might spurted and almost caught up to his leader, but McGill pushed hard and won by about six feet. The impression was that if Might had spurted a little sooner he would have overhaulded McGill before the finish.

The Regatta To-night.

This evening the regatta of the Otonabee Canoe Club will be held on Little Lake. Though frequently postponed from unavoidable causes, the committee promise a good evening's sport to-night. The entries in the four events—double and single canoe races, upset and tournament—were published in the EXAMINER yesterday, and there is no doubt if they all come to time the races will be hotly contested. The tournament is a most amusing event. The first race will be called at 7.30 sharp.

Orange Sermon — Vote of Thanks and Reply.

On Sunday evening, July 7th, 1889, Rev. F. Johnson preached a sermon to the local Orangemen. After the service the brethren returned to their lodge room and passed the following resolution:

Moved by W. Bro. F. J. Moore, seconded by W. Bro. R. Waram, That a cordial vote of thanks be given to the Rev. F. Johnson for the interesting, instructive and eloquent sermon he preached to us on Sunday evening, July 7th, 1889, and that a donation of ten dollars be granted to him by this lodge.

C. J. BERGIS, Secretary.
JAS. MORRISON, Master.

The Rev. Mr. Johnston made the following reply:—

GENTLEMEN,—In response to your resolution, I beg to say that I am quite taken by surprise. Your kind words of appreciation of my services on Sabbath evening last are indeed very cheering to me, and I am glad that my humble efforts in preaching to you on the occasion of your celebrating the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne and the victories gained by William, Prince of Orange, has met with your approval and hearty response in this tangible form. I prize your kind words and also this sum of money so generously donated to me, not so much for its intrensic value as for the expression of your appreciation of my services which it conveys. And I heartily assure you that I shall be glad at any moment to do you a like favor; and my wish and prayer is that the Divine blessing may rest upon the Order you represent, and that you may always faithfully maintain the noble principles of your constitution, and that you may have good success.

Special Inducements.

The managers of the Peterborough Business College expect to open out in their new rooms on Water street the first of July, and in order to increase their attendance, offer special reduced rates to students for the next month. They have every appliance for giving a first class business training—their new premises being large and commodious and well ventilated, and every convenience to insure the greatest amount of comfort to their students. Their rooms will be open every day after July 1st, and they extend a cordial invitation to the public generally to visit them and see their splendid premises. Those who do so will be amply repaid.

Parents will do well to take advantage of their special offer and send their boys and girls where, in a very short time, they will be given such a course as will fit them to fill lucrative positions. Their students, during the past six months, have been remarkably successful, many of their graduates obtaining positions as soon as graduated. They are constantly receiving applications from both business and professional men for book-keepers and stenographers. The principals, Messrs. Bean & Rooney, will be pleased to give, personally or by mail, to all who desire, full information in regard to any point in the course of the College. dw

FRUIT
These are subjects that are sure to occupy the mind and attention of the housekeepers, and make prominent their necessities at this season of the year. In anticipation of a rush for FRUIT JARS and TUMBLERS we have laid in a stock sufficient to meet a heavy demand. Reduced prices will prevail during the Canning and Preserving season as our sales will be large, we will make the profits smaller all round.
A PENNY SAVED.
Ben Franklin's favorite axiom that
"A pin a day 's a groat a year,
A penny saved is two pence clear,"
should impress us not alone with the value of saving small things, but the great advantage of saving where dollars take the place of cents. On this score the bargains that we have prepared in our CROCKERY and GLASSWARE department, to last during midsummer, should appeal to the ladies of Peterborough and vicinity with particular emphasis. Each permits of the saving of several dollars over the prices usually charged or asked by other dealers. Look in and investigate for yourself.

25c. Fancy Striped Chambrays for 17c.; handsome goods and perfectly fast color. The only reason why 25c. Chambrays are selling to-day for 17c. is one of our large wholesale houses imported more than they were able to find a market for at their value and were glad to sell them now, being late in the season, for what they would bring.

Our 5c. Lawns are of good serviceable quality, in fast colors, and as pretty patterns as we ever had in cheap goods. A problem how much did the operator earn a day that made them, and who paid for the dye, seeing there is 32½ per cent. import duty on colored lawn.

20c. Ginghams for 12½c. These goods are fra Glasgae. The patterns are large checks and fine hair stripes. Nothing you can buy will be lighter or wear better.

See our south window of Flannelettes, every desirable color to be seen at a glance, the very appearance of these Goods suggest coolness and comfort. Price 10 and 12 1-2c.

What do you say to fine soft finish light-colored prints, full width, at 5c. a yard. Those that see this notice and believe it will reap the benefit.

Prints opened out this week 50 new patterns in Prints in light and dark grounds. A fine assortment of Prints for children, cream grounds with fine hair lines and polka spots.

MILLINERY.—The millinery room is bright, with cheerful bits for children. All the light, airy shapes, aspangle with flowers and allutter with ribbons. If your fancy is among the little lot left of pattern Hats or Bonnets you can save all you would expect by buying now.

PRICES AND PROSPECTS.

LITTLE INCREASE IN THE VOLUME OF TRADE.

The New York Stock Market Active and Excited—Breadstuffs Irregular—Sugar and Coffee Advances.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's indicate that the volume of general trade throughout the country, while a little more active in special localities, does not on the whole show much increase in volume. The outlook for the autumn business is generally considered excellent, and good crop prospects have already had an influence on the country demand at New Orleans, Kansas City and St. Joseph. Lumber proves an exception, in that it is weaker in western centres. A satisfactory increase in trade accompanying increased firmness in prices is reported in dry goods, commission, building materials, furniture and carpet trades at New York City.

The New York Stock Market is active and excited but the recovering tendency of prices on the western and trunk line railroads settlements has been arrested by further unfavorable symptoms and by a sudden break in the lead trust. Bonds are firm and good demand is shown for high grade issues. Money on call is easy at 2 to 4 per cent., but time loans are higher and the market is becoming sensitive to the influence of the approaching western drain. About $1,500,000 gold was engaged for shipment to France, though the condition of exchange shows it to be a special transaction. Demand sterling is $4.87½ to $4.88. Money at other financial centres is almost uniformly firmer than at New York.

Our report of gross railway earnings for June last shows a relatively lighter gain than May over 1888. For six months of 1889 the report while favorable is less so than for five months of the year.

Breadstuffs have been very irregular, starting with a quick advance early in the week on damage to the spring wheat crop and higher cables, and declining on better weather reports, heavier receipts of new winter, slackening export request and free speculative sales. Wheat advanced to 90 cents and closed over 3 cents lower, 1½ cents off on the week. Flour gained 10 to 16 cents on free movement but lost most of it. Corn lost a ¾ cent gain over last week and closed heavy with wheat. Oats are off 1¼ cents. Exports of wheat and flour as wheat, both coasts, aggregate 1,558,055 bushels against 1,303,710 bushels last week, and 1,592,278 bushels in the second week of July, 1888. Our Melbourne cable states that there were 2,391,000 bushels of wheat "in sight" in Australia and New Zealand on July 1.

Raw sugars have declined at New York 1-16 to ⅛ cent on cable advices of a heavy speculative decline at London from 27s 9d to 24s for July. Holders are conservative. Expert opinion inclines to the belief that "our refiners will naturally take advantage of the reaction abroad to buy sugar and the reaction will be short lived." The demand for refined is light, prices are barely steady.

Speculation in coffee has been more confident and an advance of fully 1 cent per pound is a result. Consumption of coffee in Europe and the United States during the past twelve months is placed at 9,247,968 bags against 8,052,220 bags in the preceding year.

Our advices from San Francisco are that an attempt is being made to bull the salmon market on estimates of only half the expected pack in Alaska.

The Bureau of Statistics report 612,088,760 gallons of petroleum exported in 1888-'89, more than in any preceding year, a noteworthy fact in view of reported inroads on our foreign trade by Russian oil.

Steel rail mills are more fully supplied with orders than for 30 days at $27.50 at the east for large lots. Structural iron is in urgent demand and prices are stronger. Another moderate advance in pig iron is being considered. Southern is stronger and offerings are more restricted.

Fall wear cotton and light weight clothing woolens are more active and prices are firm. Raw wool is strong and active at the interior and in fair sale at the seaboard on free arrivals. Raw cotton is ¼ cent higher at New York and Liverpool on good demand and small stocks.

MONEY DEAR IN CHICAGO.

The Windy City Brokers Think the Banks Have Formed a Trust.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Chicago brokers have began to talk of a "bankers' trust." In no other way can they satisfactorily account for the stiffness in money rates in the middle of July, when it ought to be cheap. They are convinced that there is something artificial about it. The brokers insist that there is an abundance of money in Chicago for all purposes and that the banks have tacitly combined to keep rates up, preferring to have a little idle money on hand rather than to stimulate borrowing by an offer of low rates.

Despite the brokers talk of 4½ per cent. money there was none of it in sight at any of the banks to-day. On sharp call 5 per cent. funds, however, were within reach.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 218 in the United States this week, against 152 last week and 152 this week last year. Canada had 16 this week, against 13 last week. The total failures in the United States Jan. 1 to date is 6256, against 5563 in 1888.

In the Republic of the Dead.

RICHMOND, Va., July 12.—The funeral of Mrs. Tyler, widow of the tenth President of the United States, took place from the Ballard House this morning. The cortege arrived at St. Peter's Cathedral at 11 a.m., where Very Rev. Father VandeVyver, the future Bishop of this diocese, preached an impressive sermon. The remains were attended by distinguished persons of the State and city, and were followed by a large concourse of people. They were interred beside the remains of President Tyler.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

NOW IT'S NEWFOUNDLAND

THE PALL MALL GAZETTE'S ANNEXATION SCARE.

The Island Colony in Alleged Danger of Joining the U. S.—Uneasiness Caused by Servia's War Preparations.

LONDON, July 12.—A London special to The Post says: The Pall Mall Gazette gives prominence to an interview with Rev. Dr. Hawley, a Catholic Newfoundlander now here, who warns England of the danger of that colony seeking annexation to the United States as the only way of obtaining redress against French interference with the fisheries. He says with the United States Newfoundland does most of its trade and therefore the national tendency is to annexation. Besides the colony is profoundly impressed with the resolute action of the United States in dealing with Germany on the Samoan affair contrasted with England's reluctant support of Newfoundland against France.

"In fact," he says, "John Bull allows his nose to be tweaked with impunity but Brother Jonathan would not allow France to pluck his beard."

The Pall Mall Gazette thinks the situation very serious and notes the absurdity of Lord Salisbury moving heaven and earth to prevent the imaginary danger of losing Ireland while not moving a little finger to save the really much more important island of Newfoundland.

There was a curious contrast in the House of Lords yesterday, which agreed without a division to a bill granting a Home Rule constitution to the colony of Western Australia. The Tories will not hear of giving Home Rule to Ireland, but without a murmur hand over a territory almost as big as Europe to 40,000 ex-convicts settled on its borders.

Prorogation Approaching.

LONDON, July 12.—In the House of Commons last night William Henry Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, moved that the remaining time of this Parliament be devoted to the business of the Government. The motion was carried. This shuts off definitely for this session the expected discussion of Scotch disestablishment.

The Scotch Local Government Bill being under discussion, Mr. Henry M. Howarth, Conservative member for South Salford, moved to omit the free education clause. The motion was rejected by a vote of 254 to 52.

A Deservedly Popular Landlord.

LONDON, July 12.—The Earl of Fife, the fiance of Princess Louise of Wales, has refused to accept a wedding present from his tenantry. He thanks them cordially for their kindness but says these are not times in which the tenants ought to devote their resources to objects which are not strictly necessary.

Preparing for a General War.

LONDON, July 12.—Some uneasiness has been occasioned in Eastern Europe by a report that Servia has decided to equip and arm a third levy of recruits for active service. The ostensible object is to provide troops for the suppression of brigandage, but in the present temper of eastern politics it is suspected this latest development is simply another step toward preparing the Servians for their share in a general war.

The Dervish Losses.

CAIRO, July 12.—The dervish prisoners arriving at Assoam are terribly emaciated, having suffered greatly from hunger and thirst. Among them are many women and boys. An Italian woman named Mariette Cavacalo says she was brought from Kordofan by Mad-El-Jumi. There were five nuns and two priests still alive at Khartoum. The dervishes left Dongola with 8000 men and 6 guns. Mad-El-Jumi hoped to reach Bimbas without fighting. On the march many died and deserted, while many others were killed. Col. Wodchouse estimates the dervish killed and wounded at 2500.

More Troops for Egypt.

Nine hundred and fifty members of the Connaught Rangers have been sent to Malta to replace troops despatched to Egypt. Four regiments at Aldershot have been ordered to hold themselves ready to proceed to Egypt at a moment's notice.

A Duel a l'Outrance.

PARIS, July 12.—The Chamber of Deputies has passed the Panama Canal Relief Bill in the form in which it was adopted by the Senate.

M. De Herisse asked leave of the House today to continue his speech on the arrests of Boulangiste at Angouleme. His request was refused.

The entrances to the Chamber were strictly guarded to-day to prevent the entrance of M. Laguerre, who was yesterday censured for disorderly conduct.

M. Thomson, member for the Department of Constantine, Algeria, quarrelled to-day in the lobby with M. Laure, member for the Department of Loire, and struck him. Thomson also severely kicked Laure who was so badly injured that it was necessary to call a surgeon. Laure challenged Thomson to a duel which will be a l'outrance and will be fought to-morrow with pistols.

The party of the Right decided to bring impeachment proceedings against M. Constans, Minister of the Interior, on a charge of corruption and dishonesty while Governor of Indo-China. M. La Martinieres has been deputed to make the motion looking to impeachment in the Chamber of Deputies.

When M. LaMartiniere offered his motion in the Chamber of Deputies this evening looking to the impeachment of M. Constans, Premier Tirard moved the previous question, which was agreed to, 343 to 179.

Not Sure to Kill.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The examination of expert witnesses in the Kemmler case with reference to the deadliness of the electrical appliances recently purchased by the State for the execution of condemned murderers is in progress here. Yesterday F. F. Pope, ex-President of the Institute of Electrical Engineers, testified that everything would depend upon the susceptibility of the man to be executed. The witness said he couldn't name a current of sufficient force to absolutely cause death in every instance.

The Magistrates' Court Act.

MONTREAL, July 12.—A meeting of the bar was held at the Court House this morning, to express an opinion on the subject of the disallowance of the Magistrates' Court Act. It was agreed by resolution that, as there are cases before the Magistrates' Court and that as disallowance would have the effect of seriously injuring the persons interested in the cases, a special committee be appointed to have an interview with the Minister of Justice and the Attorney-General to attempt to find some remedy.

Neither Could Swim.

THE HOMESTEAD STRIKE.

A Hundred Pinkerton Men With Rifles Arrive on the Scene.

PITTSBURG, July 12.—One hundred Pinkerton men with Springfield rifles arrived this morning from Philadelphia and were taken to the steel works of Carnegie, Phipps & Co. at Homestead, Pa. They will be placed about the mill property to protect it and the workmen from the strikers. The sheriff will also swear in 100 deputies for the same purpose. The struggle promises to be very bitter.

Forty of the deputies had their badges torn from their coats and were driven away. The others are still surrounded. Sheriff McCandless is now swearing in additional deputies, and will have 400 or 500 more on the ground tomorrow. If necessary to preserve the peace he says he will increase the number to 3000.

The strikers have possession of the town.

AMBITIOUS CITY NEWS.

A Beggar's Ancient Scheme Beludes the Verdant People on Barrington Bay.

HAMILTON, July 12.—Henry E. ucell, a seventeen-year-old lad who hails from Toronto, was sent to jail for thirty days on a vagrancy charge this morning. He has been imposing on the charitably inclined by an old dodge. On one of his hands was a glove, and skin was pealed off the other one, making it look as if it had been scalded. His mode of operation was to tell a long story about having his hands badly scalded and ask for money to take him home. The detectives claim that the lad never had his hands scalded, but placed some kind of oil on them, which made the skin peel off and gave them the appearance of being very sore.

SIX boys paid $5 apiece at the Police Court this morning for the pleasure they had at a charivari in honor of the nuptials of Patrick Hayes and Mrs. Cusick last Wednesday.

Adam G. Brown lies in a dangerous state at the City Hospital. On Wednesday night he was at work at the Osborne-Killey Manufacturing Company's works and was engaged in breaking old car wheels for melting, when a sharp piece of iron flew up and struck him in the forehead, inflicting a most serious wound.

Brantford Notes.

BRANTFORD, July 12.—Joseph Nichol of St. George has again been discharged from the jail. Harris and Griffin, with Judge Jones, have decided that he is perfectly sane, and His Honor has consequently discharged him.

Rev. Mr. Calvert, of Cainsville, who was thrown out of a buggy here this week, is progressing favourably.

Fat Rat Poison in Their Food.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Fla., July 12.—Tuesday Frances Cooper (colored) invited three other negro women to dinner. After dinner the guests were taken with convulsions and one expired in agony. Investigation established the fact of poisoning. To-day Frances confessed she had a grudge against these women and had placed rat poison in a dish of beans for the purpose of poisoning them. She said her husband had urged her to do it. Austin Cooper, her husband, confirmed his wife's confession. The two surviving victims will probably die.

The Veterans of 1812.

OTTAWA, July 12.—During the last session of the Dominion Parliament a return was asked for showing the names of the veterans of the war of 1812 now living, their respective places of residence and the amount of the pension received by each. Fifty-two of the old gentlemen live in Quebec, forty-two in Ontario, four in New Brunswick, four in the United States, one in Nova Scotia and one in Manitoba.

Big Berth in the Atlantic.

On June 24 in lat. 46 deg. 33 min., long. 46 deg. 50 min., the vessel came within a cable's length of being wrecked by an iceberg. The weather was thick and foggy and the vessel was close on the berg when it was discovered. On the same day in lat. 45 deg. 30 min., long. 46 deg. 40 min., the ship passed two larger icebergs, one was a mile long and the other three-quarters of a mile in length and from 40 to 50 feet high.

A Missive From the Czar.

BERLIN, July 12.—The Cologne Gazette gives authority to a statement that the Russian War Minister, who is staying at Vichy, has received a very important despatch from the Czar. The missive was of so much importance that it could not be entrusted to an ordinary military courier but was delivered by an officer of the Russian guard, a relative of the War Minister.

Editor H. C. Bowen Hurt.

PUTNAM, Conn., July 13.—While Henry C. Bowen, editor of The New York Independent, was out riding this afternoon his horse became frightened and ran away, throwing Mr. Bowen and his coachman to the ground. As Mr. Bowen is 76 years of age there are fears that the shock to his system may prove serious.

A Big Fire at Koenigsberg.

BERLIN, July 13.—A fire which broke out to-day among some hemp warehouses at the docks along the River Piegel at Koenigsberg caused a loss of half a million marks. During the fire the English steamer Tortona was burned. Her crew got ashore after an exciting experience.

A Quiet 12th at Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 12.—The 12th of July has very little outward significance for the Orangemen of Montreal. A BLAZING GAS WELL.

Sathven, Ont., the Scene of a Peculiar Conflagration—Other Fires.

RUTHVEN, July 11.—Some time during Tuesday night a miscreant partly removed the capping from Coste well No. 1 near here and set fire to the escaping gas. Flames have melted a portion of the iron stoppers and piping, burnt down the frame building that rose above and enclosed the well and are now spreading far out on all sides, rendering near approach impossible. As the gas well has a yield of 10,000,000 feet per day the terrible violence, heat and deafening roar of the flames may be imagined.

Wrecked by a Washout.

BRANDON, Vt., July 10.—The train which left Boston at 7 o'clock last night was wrecked about 4 o'clock this morning just north of this place. The locomotive was completely turned over. The escape of the engineer and fireman was miraculous. There were 200 passengers on the train, including 60 children sent out by the Fresh Air Fund. Most of the passengers were transferred and proceeded to their destination. The injured are: John M. Reardon, Island Pond, Vt.; Baggagemaster McCloskey, Montreal; J. K. Creed, P. K. Peck and Wallace Ross of Rutland. The rain in the stream that caused the washout was due to a cloud-burst early this morning which gullied all the highways in the vicinity, undermined several buildings and washed out the track.

A BIG TUMBLE IN TRUSTS.

THE PUBLIC LET INTO SOME OF THE MONOPOLIES' SECRETS.

A Showing of the Certificates Outstanding—The Stock-sources Cause Great Excitement on Wall Street.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Wall-street men opened their eyes in astonishment yesterday when they learned, for the first time, the amount of the capitalization of certain of the five trusts the certificates of which are dealt in on the Stock Exchange. It takes a good deal to astonish a Wall-street man, but the figures given out yesterday from the Stock Exchange almost took away the breath of the speculators. Ever since trust certificates have become prominent in the speculative market men have wondered, and wondered in vain, how many certificates each trust had outstanding. These certificates have been bought and sold in the dark, as it were, and all inquiries concerning the capitalization of the different trusts have remained unanswered.

Recently the Stock Exchange officials took the matter in hand and sent to the respective heads of the trusts whose certificates are dealt in on the market, requesting to know how many certificates each trust had registered. They possessed similar information concerning the stocks of every railway company represented there, and they did not see why trusts should not be required to report in regard to their standing. The latter, however, not caring to "break" against the Stock Exchange and fearing that the dealing in their certificates might be stopped, yielded, and yesterday placed in the hands of the secretary of the exchange the figures asked for.

The biggest one of all turns out to be one of the newest of the family—the Lead Trust. It was the information concerning this trust that provoked more astonishment than anything else. Its officers sent word that there had been issued 830,183 certificates of the par value of $100 each, or that these certificates represented a capitalization of $83,018,300. Less than two months ago it was known that the capital of this Trust was about $32,000,000, and this knowledge of an increase of over $50,000,000 in its capital in so short a period was what paralyzed Wall-street. Within the period referred to the managers of Lead Trust, who are also the managers of the Standard Oil Trust, have absorbed the white-lead companies in Philadelphia, two in St. Louis—the Collier and the Southern—and the Atlantic Mills in Brooklyn. For each of these they have issued new certificates, and increased their capital stock to the amount represented by the addition of these new certificates, but it seemed incredible that these five or six companies were worth $50,000,000 or anywhere near it. This was a puzzler to Wall-street, and there was a rush to dispose of these certificates by those who had been speculating in them. This forced the price down and made Lead Trusts very weak and shaky.

The registrar of the Sugar Trust sent word that this trust had issued 498,565 certificates, representing a capitalization of $49,856,500. These securities, however, are selling at more than par, closing yesterday at 112.25, making the market value nearly $6,000,000 more. This, ordinarily, would seem a pretty large capitalization, but it looks small compared with its younger sister, the Lead Trust.

The third trust in point of capital was the Cotton-Oil Trust, which reported 421,822 certificates outstanding, equal to a capitalization of $42,185,200. Cotton-Oil certificates, however, have been dealt in for several years, and those who operated in them knew already pretty well the condition of this trust.

Then came that new-fangled trust with the high-sounding title of the Dealers and Cattle-Feeders' Trust, which claims to control nearly all the distilleries north of the Ohio River, and the certificates of which have only been dealt in for two or three weeks. This trust reported 307,266 outstanding certificates, which represented a capitalization of $30,726,600, enormous of itself, but a bagatelle alongside such gigantic concerns as those already mentioned.

Last of all came the American Cattle Trust, a comparatively modest affair, with only 133,961 certificates, or a capitalization of $13,396,100, but which, however, may soon mysteriously creep up like some of the others.

The Standard Oil Trust, which is the parent of all these monopolistic institutions, has never applied to the Stock Exchange to have its certificates dealt in. The managers were too sly for that, as this is the pet trust of all, and it goes on making its millions for the insiders who propose to continue reaping the benefit of all the dividends, and keeping the outside public in the dark as to what they are making or doing. The following table will show at a glance the number of certificates of each of the five trusts and the amount of the capitalization at par:

THE BRAIN (from a photograph.)
It Healthy Condition. With Paresis Lesions.

There are many well known men confined in our Asylums who but a short time ago were prominent among our business and social circles.

Why are they there?

Paresis!

Did it come on at once?

Not at all. It was a gradual but positive growth. They overtaxed nature. The drain on their vitality, their nerve powers, their brain tissue, was too great, and they gradually but surely sank under it. The things they did to bring this sad end about are precisely the same things that are being done by thousands of men and women to-day. It is not necessary to name them. They all end disastrously unless checked or regulated.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, knew this fully when he began his experiments which resulted in the discovery of the wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. He realized that paresis (consumption of the brain) was our great National weakness. He knew that the brain and nervous system must be fortified to meet the great strains which modern life bring upon it. He saw that men were becoming debilitated and women weakened by the pressure and demands of life, and he sought and discovered the remedy Paine's Celery Compound, if rightly taken, will renew the brain and build up nerve tissues as fast as they become exhausted. It is not a narcotic. It contains no drugs, no nostrums. It is perfectly pure. It is absolutely harmless. The high character of its discoverer guarantees this, and the indorsement of the medical and chemical professions prove it.

Sick Nursing as a Female Vocation.

Its Duties and Requirements.

Sir Walter Scott's eloquent apostrophe to the tenderness of woman, which transforms her into "a ministering angel," receives justification from the fact that thousands of women adopt sick nursing as a vocation. In these days, when the celibate tendencies of mankind confront an increasing number with the problem of suitable employment for ladies, the calling of sick nursing suggests itself as peculiarly suitable to the gentler sex. It is not generally known, perhaps, that the full title of our hospital is "The Nicholls Hospital and Training School for Nurses." As many may be interested, the following information, extracted from the by-laws, is given:

PROBATION.

The nurse is taken three months on probation. If at the end of that time she is found suitable for the work and likes it well enough to put herself in training as a pupil nurse for two years, she will be required to sign an agreement to remain two years, and obey the rules of the School and the Hospital.

The first year she will serve as an assistant in the wards of the Hospital.

The second year she will be expected to perform any duty assigned to her by the lady Superintendent, either to act as nurse in the Hospital, or to be sent to private cases, among the rich or poor.

After she has formally entered the school the pay will be $8 (eight dollars) per month for the first year, for the second year $10, (ten dollars) a month. This sum is allowed her for text books, paper and other personal expenses, and is in no wise intended as wages, it being considered that the education given is a full equivalent for her services.

We will provide 3 dresses a year for her, and she will be required to wear the dress prescribed by the institution while on duty.

The day nurses are on duty from 8 a.m. to 8p.m., with an hour off for dinner, and additional time for exercise or rest. They are also given an afternoon during the week, and have a right to the half of Sunday.

A vacation of two weeks each year is allowed.

Any act of disobedience or insubordination, &c, to be reported immediately to the Chairman and Hon. Secretary, and the Physician in charge, to be dealt with accordingly, even to dismissal if thought necessary.

Nurses in any appeal from the authority over them, must make it in writing to the Chairman of the Board, and if thought necessary, a meeting must be called for investigation.

THE COURSE OF INSTRUCTION

is as follows:—

1—The instruction includes the dressing of blisters, sores and wounds. The application of fomentations, poultices, cups and leeches.

2—The administration of enemas, and use of catheters.

3—The management of appliances for sterne complaints.

4—The best method of friction to body and extremities.

5—The management of helpless patients, making beds, moving, changing, giving baths in bed, preventing and dressing bed-sores

6—Bandaging, making bandages, and rollers, lining of splints.

7—The preparation, cooking and serving food for the sick.

She will be given instructions in the best method of supplying fresh air, warming and ventilating sick rooms in the proper manner, and will be taught the care of wards and rooms, to keep all utensils perfectly clean and disinfected, to make accurate observations and report to the physician of the state of the excretions, expectorations, pulse, skin, temperature, appetite, effect of diet and medicine, or stimulants, and to learn the management of convalescents.

The instruction will be given by the medical staff and the lady superintendent.

When the full term of two years is ended, the nurses thus trained will be at liberty to choose their own field of labour, whether in hospital or in private families. On leaving the school they will, on passing an examination, each receive a diploma signed by the examining board and by a committee of the board of managers.

PRIVATE NURSING.

The following are the rules for nurses going out to private service:—

The nurses are to attend the sick, both rich and poor, at private houses, as the Superintendent may appoint.

When sent to the Home to attend a patient they receive their instructions from the Superintendent.

While on duty in the Home, at the Hospital, or in private houses, the regulations of the School in regard to dress are to be observed by the nurse.

A Nurse is always to bring back with her a report of her conduct and efficiency from the family of her patient, and from the medical attendant.

It is expected that nurses will bear in mind the importance of their calling, and evince, at all times, the self-denial, forbearance, gentleness, and good temper, so essential in their attendance on the sick, and also to their character as Christian nurses. They are to take the whole charge of the sick-room, doing everything that is required in it, when called upon to do so. When nursing in families where there are no servants if their attendance be not of necessity wholly devoted to their patient, they are expected to make themselves generally useful. They are to be careful not to increase the expense of the family in any way. They are also most earnestly charged to hold secret the knowledge which to a certain extent they must obtain of the private affairs of such households or individuals as they may attend. All presents received must be reported and returned if the Superintendent thinks best.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Orange Demonstration—Fatal Accident at the Subway—Ontario Corporations.

TORONTO, July 13.—The Orange demonstration yesterday was undoubtedly a great one. It numbered thousands, and was in order and appearance superior to anything similar of former years. The city brethren were augmented by large contingents from Hamilton, Galt and other places. From the Orange Hall in Queen-street east to the Exhibition grounds, a distance of two miles, the streets were densely packed and the procession, which took fifty-five minutes to pass a given point, was hailed with tumultuous applause at Exhibition Park. The celebrationists went in for games, picnicking or to hear the speeches.

Despatches from Lindsay, Gananoque, Tilsonburg, St. Marys, Fort Erie, Durham, Sydenham, Paisley, Campbellford, Wingham, Watford, Stittsville, Exeter and other places report successful celebrations of the day.

A little boy named John Cotts was riding with his grandfather in the latter's coal cart at the Queen-street subway yesterday forenoon, when he met with a shocking death. The horse shied and backed across the street railway track and a rapidly-driven car collided with and overturned the cart, throwing the old man and the little boy violently out. The former escaped the wheels, but the little fellow was crushed under them and lived but 15 minutes after being taken out. The driver and conductor of the street railway car were arrested, as it is alleged they were going at a speed contrary to regulations. An inquest was held last night. Two of the witnesses testified that the conductor Frank Cane told Driver John Gilroy to run into the cart, when the occupants would not get out of the way. Several witnesses, swore that it was impossible to get off the track in the centre of the subway. Drs. Orr and Wellwin testified that death was caused by the perforation of the air passage of the lungs produced by crushing, but did not think that the boy had been run over by the car. After taking the evidence of some 12 witnesses, the jury retired, and after two hours' deliberation brought in a verdict of manslaughter against both conductor and driver.

These Ontario appointments have been gazetted: F. H. Long, Waterford, police magistrate for the Township of Townsend (Norfolk), without salary; H. S. Osler, Toronto, notary public; D. W. Saunders, Toronto, notary public; T. E. Moberly, Toronto, notary public; F. J. Roche, Toronto, notary public.

Among the companies notices of the incorporation of which will appear in The Ontario Gazette to-day is the "West End Mining Company of Ontario, limited," to do business in the White Fish and Silver Mountain mining region, with headquarters in Fort Arthur. The capital stock is $2,000,000, and the incorporators are Herbert Nelson Nichols and Frederick Morse Newberry, capitalists; Thomas Ambrose Gorham, explorer, and H. Kingsley Nichols, Superintendent of Mines.

Other letters patent granted are:

The Ambrose, Winslow Brewing and Malting Company of Port Hope, capital $100,000.

The Barrow Bay Lumber Company, limited, $50,000., with headquarters in Barrow Bay.

The St. George Water Supply Company, capital $3000.

A Brooklyn Beer Combine.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Another combination of breweries was effected yesterday, when four well-known Brooklyn establishments passed out of the immediate control of their owners and were consolidated into a stock company. The breweries in question are the Ochs, the Freese, the Welz & Zerwith and the Seltz. The only difference between this consolidation and the other brewery consolidation which have been accomplished since last Fall is that in this case the breweries do not pass into the hands of English capitalists, but continue to represent the investment of American money. The capital stock of the new company is $1,200,000, and this remains in the hands of the present owners of the properties. Outside of this mortgage 6 per cent. bonds have been issued to the amount of $1,200,000, so that the enterprize is bonded and stocked altogether to the amount of $2,400,000.

ITCHING AGONIES.

Every Night I Scratched until the Skin was Raw.

Body Covered with Scales like Spots of Mortar. An awful Spectacle. Doctors Useless. Cure Hopeless. Entirely Cured by the Cuticura Remedies in five Weeks.

I am going to tell you of the extraordinary change your CUTICURA REMEDIES performed on me. About the first of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on, when it began to look like spots of mortar spotted on, and which came off in layers, accompanied by itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scales, being formed meanwhile, were scratched off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the country, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and purchased them from my druggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one and have been fully cured. I had the disease thirteen months before I began taking the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. My disease was eczema and psoriasis. I recommended the CUTICURA REMEDIES to all in my vicinity, and I know of a great many who have taken them, and thank me for the knowledge of them, especially mothers who have babes with scaly eruptions on their heads and bodies. I cannot express in words the thanks I owe for what the CUTICURA REMEDIES have been to me. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as nice and clear as a baby's.

CHAPTER X.

But Prue came at last, and his first glance at her almost shocked him, the change which had slowly crept upon her was really so great a one. He had not known its full extent before, and he was startled by the slenderness of the hand she offered him, and by the pure, colorless look of her face.

Was it possible that she would not "get over it" after all? Careless as he was, he could not control a swift pang of remorseful fear at the thought. She knew why he had come. She had heard the rumor of his intended departure, and she understood that this was to be the end of her dream. Her pulse was fluttering wildly, and the blood at her heart beat with a heavy throb; but she was not an ignorant girl now; her experience had forced her into womanhood, and she had learned at length to see what the graceful, idle game had meant. He had done her the bitterest wrong a man can do a woman, and he was trying to ignore it. But it was not so easily ignored. Remembering the past, it was somewhat difficult to appear at ease, though he made an effort at it.

He had come to bid her a hurried good-bye, he told her, after a first commonplace had been spoken. Circumstances had rendered it necessary that he should leave Coombe Ashly, and of course he could not go without making his adieux to herself and Mr. Renfrew. He was anxious to get it over, and tried to speak easily; but he could not help being conscious that his attempt was a failure, and he could not resist the sense of discomfort which overpowered him. How would she take it?

She met it very quietly. The sharp sting of the blow had passed away, and only the dull, dead bruise remained, and there was something like a touch of simple dignity in her girlish manner. The shadow of dawning womanhood in her still sad eyes would not have been a pleasant thing for the least impressible of men to have upon his conscience. In some way it touched this man's shallow soul, in its contrast with the old untried freshness which had charmed him so, and it needed a greater effort than ever to utter graceful commonplaces with the sleader figure standing quietly before him, and the quiet young face a little averted from his gaze.

His visit has been a very pleasant one, he said to her again, but he was a little tired of rustication, and was unlike herself, in the respect of being necessary to Coombe Ashley's happiness.

It did not remain very long, and said but little more—he had little more to say. He could not overcome the awkwardness of his position, and he found it becoming more awkward every moment.

He left Coombe Ashley in her care, he added, finally, trying to speak lightly; he was sure it was in good hands, and he thanked her for the assistance she had rendered him. But it was a wretched mockery of ease, so wretched a one that he bade her good-bye with an intense feeling of relief, and she—well, she saw him leave the room with a consciousness that she could not have borne the ordeal longer.

She stood at the window, and watched him down the road when he left her—and her watching had a strange, dead despair in it. It was hard to believe that he was gone at last—gone so calmly and so carelessly. She scarcely realised until now that she had looked forward to this farewell with undefined fancy that there would be something terrible in it, that it could not pass over with the dull quiet which had grown upon her. It seemed that a great passionate pang would almost have been a relief after this slow, helpless death of her happiness, the dull dying out of all hope. Ah! my reader, these quiet, commonplace tragedies are the constant dropping which wears away the stone. But it was gone, and it was over, and the bruise was more dangerous than a stab would have been, for its dullness was the sick pain which means death.

She slipped into her old favorite seat almost unconsciously, and sat there looking out at the sunshine in a moveless silence, and when her father returned, he found her sitting there still, though the sun had gone down, and evening was setting in. Marjory had opened the door for him, and in her quaint bitterness had told him of the visit.

"He has been, master—this braw Strathspey," she had said. "He came to bid her gude-by, and she has been sitting her lane ever sin'."

He went to her with a heavy heart, and when he came to her side, she looked up, and their eyes met in a swift, saddened understanding.

There was a little silence, in which he laid his hand upon her hair, as he always did, with that pitying, caressing touch, and then he spoke to her.

"He has gone, Prue?" he questioned in a low voice.

"Yes," she answered.

"And it is all over?"

"Yes."

He touched the brown hair even more tenderly than before, she was so dear to him in her girlish trouble.

"We will try to forget it together, my bairn," he said. "We were very happy in the old life—you and I; and we will try to be happy again."

Prue looked out into the darkening garden with a slow heart-throb. Were they really going back? Could she ever go back to the old peace? The answer did not come to her clearly, though a shadow of it passed through her mind with a remembrance that it was a shadow not entirely new.

She did not speak of it then, but it was upon her, nevertheless, it had been upon her before; and as the days passed on, its shadow grew deeper, and she began to recognize it more clearly.

When Strathspey was gone, their lives slipped back into the old groove. The rector returned to his labors with a feeling of relief, Prue to her quiet work; and Lady Strathspey began to congratulate herself that her charitable plan had been a success.

This little Miss Renfrew would forget her fancy, as other girls had done.

But perhaps she did not quite understand the matter rightly. The girls who had "got over it" had not been made of the same material as Prue Renfrew, and their lives had held more of excitement to distract their attention from their grief. Prue stood alone. She had wondered, and dreamed, and faltered, and now the end had come, and there was nothing else left to her. This brief, sweet love-story, which to other women would have seemed so trifling, had revealed to her ignorance a world of delicious happiness. There was nothing more to dream of, nothing to believe in, nothing to trust. Often at night, she wakened, wondering strangely whas the coming day would bring, or if each day would pass on as the last had done, until her life was ended. Once or twice she had found herself flinging up her hands in the darkness, and panting in a wild, sudden tremor of pain and terror at the dull apathy which was creeping over her. Marjory looked upon her oftener than ever to see her darling dreamily silent, with the faint lines on her forehead, and the shadow in her eyes. She wakened from such reveries, generally, with a start, and then the quiet listlessness came upon her again. But once she did not awaken, and when Marjory touched her, she slipped into her arms, still and white, just as she had slipped into her arms the night when her tragedy had first dawned upon her fully, and when she returned to consciousness again, the secret she had hidden in her girlish breast so long, revealed itself for the first time.

"Marjory," she whispered, clinging to the broad shoulder. "Marjory, I think I am going to die."

She had never spoken so before; she had never let them dream that she felt her quiet sorrow could lead to such an end; but Marjory had known it, and now the good old creature broke down utterly.

"For the gude Lord's sake, Miss Prue," she cried, "dinna say that, bairn! For the gude Lord's sake, think o' your father!"

But she had thought of her father often enough, with a sad wonder as to who would take her place, if such an ending really came. The shadow had become more than a shadow, and she had begun to feel that this end was coming, however slowly, and had looked forward to it with a listless recognizance of its reality, but she had never mentioned it before.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair.—Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the appearance of the hair, may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

Has A Level Head.

"To discontinue an advertisement," says John Wanamaker, Philadelphia's great merchant, "is like taking down your sign. If you want to do business you must let people know it. Standing advertisements when changed frequently are better and cheaper than reading notices. They look more substantial and business like and inspire confidence. I would as soon think of doing business without clerks as without advertising."

The Foresters Annual Outing.

Thursday July 25th has been selected as the day of the annual excursion of Court Peterborough Foresters, Jubilee Point the destination, and Calcutt's Golden Eye and palace barges which passed government inspection so very creditably on Thursday, as the media of transportation. Plenty of boat accommodation; no crowding. Fire Brigade band orchestra will furnish music for dancing on both the round trip and at the grounds. The committee will furnish tea hot water and sugar for all excursionists. Canoes carried free. Meals on board the boat or at the hotel at the Point at 25 cents. A great day of enjoyment. Return tickets only 50 cents, children half price. 1d

How to Keep Cool.

These days the thermometer is raging amongst the nineties, but the thermometer of prices is way down to zero at the tea store of Hawley Bros., George street, Peterborough. A splendid stock of teas, direct importation, this season's curing, pure, prime and perfect. Bought in large quantities, sold at low prices. This firm makes a specialty of teas, and thus the public get specially good teas at specially low prices. Don't forget these facts when you want fine, fresh, fragrant teas, or superb coffees, or cheap and tasty glassware, go to HAWLEY BROS.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

An Accident.

Leslie Walter McWilliams, a thirteen-year-old son of Mr. Geo. McWilliams, London street, while playing on a pier at the goose pond Friday afternoon, fell to the ground, dislocating his elbow and breaking one of the small bones above the wrist. The boy will soon be all right again.

To the Canadian Chautauqua.

The excursion to Toronto and Niagara-on-the-Lake on Wednesday, July 31st, will be one of the best of the season. Excursionists may go by early train or at seven o'clock, run the C.P.R. Tickets are good for two days. The ladies of the George Street Church have made every arrangement for the accommodation and comfort of excursionists Return tickets to Toronto, $1.50; to the Canadian Chautauqua at Niagara-on-the-Lake, $2.25.

The Deadly Picnic Ice Cream.

At a Kingston picnic the other day, the hot weather invited a liberal consumption of ice cream, and soon after a deathly sickness overtook the picnicers, due to the ice cream, and only by the timely aid of two doctors were lives saved. However one sure way to allay thirst safely and delightfully, too, is by using only Hawley Bros. choice teas—the pure leaf of the tea plant, properly matured, properly cured, and properly secured at the lowest prices in large lots, and properly insured to the public at the lowest prices in the district. For first class fresh fragrant teas and pure coffees go to Hawley Bros. George street Peterborough.

"The Dominion Illustrated"

A few days ago the EXAMINER referred in justifiably complimentary terms to the completion of the first year of the Dominion Illustrated. The opening numbers of the second year keep up the promise of the past in every respect. The number for July 6th deals pictorially and descriptively with Canadian industries, and the current number, July 13th deals with British Columbia and Alaska scenery. Its literary character is quite up to the mark. The title of management has been changed from Geo. Desbarats & Son to the Dominion Illustrated Publishing Company. This splendid characteristically Canadian illustrated journal is in every way completely worthy of the public patronage. On sale at the Peterborough Bookstore.

Ratepayer's Opinion.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I am a property-holder in town and live in it, and, therefore, I feel a deep interest in anything that tends to expand or mar its progress.

I have watched with interest the discussion in the press anent the new market building and I approve of the action of the council in erecting a handsome building that will be a credit to the town, particularly if it is true, as alleged, that it will cost us nothing, provided the market for butter and eggs is kept up stairs.

In this respect I fully concur with the views of "Outsider" in one of your contemporaries of Thursday. Like him, I am opposed to the town erecting an expensive building simply for market purposes, for that would be a reckless waste of money for a purpose which, under such circumstances, ought to be dispensed with. But if the council can, along with the market accommodation, turn the new building to other purposes which will produce a revenue to the town, then it is clearly their duty to do it, and if they do not they are not doing their duty to the ratepayers. This, it appears, can be done without inconvenience to anyone. All the gush about hardship to farmers' wives and others to have to go upstairs to do their marketing is sheer nonsense. Farmers' wives and most of other people's wives have to go up and down stairs several times a day at home to do their household duties, and why object to going upstairs once in a while to do their marketing?

Very few people go to market more than once a week, and that only during the autumn and early winter months, and it would be gross extravagance on the part of our council to throw away our revenue because these people would have to go up one flight of easy stairs on these occasions. The fact is, Sir, the people can't afford it. Most of us have to work hard for our money, and we can't afford to tax ourselves a couple of thousand dollars a year for the sake of doing business for an hour or two once in a while on the ground flat of our market, rather than go upstairs. It appears to me it would be much better to spend this money in encouraging manufacturers in coming to our town, and if the council would show more energy in that direction, I would think more of their wisdom.

The Twelfth at Lindsay.

The Biggest and Best Demonstration Ever Held in the District.

LINDSAY, July 12.—The town of Lindsay was alive at least one day this year and that was yesterday, when it was en fete all day with the celebration of the glorious 12th of July. The celebration was an unprecedented event in the history of Orangeism in this district. Never before in the recollection of the people has such a display taken place, accompanied by such earnestness and enthusiasm. The morning broke beautiful and clear, and real orthodox 12th of July weather lasted all day. Early in the morning trains commenced to arrive from Peterborough, Port Hope, Midland, Gravenhurst, Orillia and the surrounding points.

The visiting brethren were received at the station and escorted through the town, which presented a holiday appearance. Several handsome arches had been erected, and there was a liberal display of bunting and flags. The streets were thronged by interested sight-seers. It is estimated there were fully 15,000 people in town. After dinner the grand procession was formed and marched to the Agricultural grounds for the speech-making.

THE PROCESSION.

Several hours were consumed in getting the procession into shape in McCarthy's Park in near vicinity to the depot. When the procession was ready to move off three hearty cheers were given for the Queen and N. C. Wallace, grand master, the drums beat, the fifes played and a magnificent procession of some 3,500 men moved off to the inspiriting strains of "Protestant Boys," "Teeter Totter," "Boyne Water," "Royal Grenadiers," and "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

Marches and counter marches were the order of the day, and after the principal streets had been traversed the citizens were treated to more fife and drum to the pound than ever before in the history of the town.

The procession was made up of contingents from north, south, east and west as follows:

1. Oshawa, Ontario county, True Blues.
2. Simcoe and Muskoka counties, including Orillia, Midland, Gravenhurst, Victoria Harbor, Waubashene, Coldwater, Kilworthy, Severn Bridge, Washago and Longford.
3. Durham county, including Port Hope, Hope township, Manvers township, Janetville True Blues, Cartwright, Cavan and Millbrook, under Grand Master T. B. Collins, of Millbrook.
4. Peterborough county in the following order:—

Union Jack,
County and District Masters

L. O. L. No. 80,
L. O. L. No. 122

Orange True Blues No. 43,

5 Victoria county, including Emily, Mariposa, Lindsay, Fenelon and Fenelon Falls, Laxton, and Verulam districts.

The officers present of some of the districts are as follows:—Peterborough—County Master Alex. Hamilton, Deputy James Moore, District Master John G. Weir, Deputy John Agnew; Master No. 457, Geo. Hamilton; No. 187, Sam Stevenson; No. 122, Jas. Morrison; No. 49, J. Sanderson; No. 80, John Agnew.

'Prentice Boys, B. M. Wylie, grand secretary 'Prentice Boys of British America; Wm. Marshall, Master of No. 7 lodge.

True Blues, Master, George Sloane, County Treasurer, John McLennan.

Durham—County Master Joseph Thorndyke, District Master R. Porteus; Master of No. 79, Geo. Fowler; No 456, J. Murphy; No 46, M. Roy; No. 50, D. Smith; No. 82, S. Shaw.

Cobourg—District Master A. Sherwin; G. Spences, past D. M.; R. Ingram, Master of No. 434; Jas. Dick, No. 261; J. McCaughney, Grand lodge officer; E. Shellington, Deputy District Master.

On arrival at the grounds, County Master Charles Fairbairn presided. Speeches were made by Rev. Dr. Williams, Rev. C. H. Marsh, of Lindsay; Rev. M. L. Pearson, of Peterborough; Rev. Malcolm McKinnon, of Eldon; Mr. N. Clarke Wallace, M.P., Grand Master of B.N.A.; Mr. T.B. Collins, Ontario G.M., of Millbrook; Mr. R. H. Holland, of Port Hope. The speakers in the main urged the necessity of resisting Jesuit aggression, as exhibited in the Jesuit Estates Act and in the Act of Incorporation. The French in schools was also alluded to, and the importance of promptly and thoroughly dealing with that problem was insisted upon. The day was very warm, and the speeches were made as short as possible in order to allow the people to get away by the trains. The demonstration was a grand success in every respect. The best of order prevailed throughout.

The Twelfth Throughout the Province.

The anniversary of the Boyne was celebrated with unusual enthusiasm all over Ontario.

Leaders amongst the brethren addressed great gatherings at many important centres.

One of the most notable speeches of the day was delivered by Mr. Dalton McCarthy in his own constituency.

He declaimed against the Jesuit Estates Act, against the teaching of French in the schools, pledging himself to move in Parliament against the official use of French in the North West, and declared that if the evils of which he spoke were not cured by ballots in this generation they would be settled by bayonets in the next Clarke Wallace, M. P., spoke at Lindsay; Mr. John Charlton, M. P., at Essex Centre; Mr. J. L. Hughes at Exeter, and Rev. W. F. Wilson at Wingham.

The Jesuits Estates Act and Separate Schools were the twin subjects of attack at many of the demonstrations.

At the Carleton County celebration, Sir John Macdonald was denounced by old supporters as a traitor and a Jesuit.

At Watford, Mr. George Moncreiff, M.P., undertook to defend his vote on Col. O'Brien's motion, and had a rather harsh experience.

At Campbellford, Mr. G. E. Cochrane, M. P., attempted to do the same thing and the effort had the same result.

Mr. F. G. Stewart, M. P. P., for Dufferin, speaking at Shelburne, ventured to speak for his friends in the Commons, and met with no better success.

The Toronto brethren had a procession of an enormous length. All the celebrations in the country were very largely attended, and perhaps on the whole it was the most successful anniversary in the history of the Order in Canada.

Court House Park Notes.

The park is in fine condition at present. It is well cared for, the lawns are smooth and well kept, and the walks are above reproach.

The flowers are in bloom, though they have suffered from the dashing rains. The gloss of the bloom is thus destroyed and the soil hardened.

Some beds have been injured by dogs, and in one a man tramped across a flower plot, crushing a fine dahlia and destroying a score of blooms.

The central flower plot is improving. The design is beautiful, but the season has been unfavourable to growth.

Two fine new flower plots, planted to colei, have been placed on each side of the main walk.

There was great disappointment at the non-appearance of the band in the park last night. The park was crowded with visitors.

Some wretch last night stole an armful of blooming white lilies from the park.

A fine boulevard, seven feet wide, is being erected on the north of the Brock street side of the park.

The town supplied the material and Mr. McLelland, park gardner and his staff is doing the work, which will, consequently, be well done and be a great improvement.

The park rimains are very fine—both as regards richness and variety of colours and thrift.

Altogether the park is looking well and shows the evidences of careful keeping and attention, creditable to the efficient park gardner.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Young men's meeting to-night. The best place to spend an hour. Short address by Mr. W. Anderson. Singing led by Y. M. C. A. orchestra.

Mr. J. Hanna will speak at the gospel and song service Sunday evening at 8.30. Christians will pray for these meetings and all men are earnestly invited.

Sports and Pastimes.

The Association Baseball Team Defeated At Both Hastings and Campbellford—The Regatta Last Night.

A team representing the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association baseball club went on a trip Friday and sustained two defeats. The team was not, however, a representative one, a number of outsiders having to be taken on at the last moment to fill the places of several of the regular nine who were unable to go. Both of the games on Friday were very fair exhibitions, the scores showing that the runs were pretty well kept down.

A PECULIAR GAME.

The first game began at Hastings about half past ten o'clock in the forenoon. The Association nine was defeated solely because of the miserable ground. Being used to a field with a sward almost as smooth and level as a carpet, they were fearfully handicapped in being compelled to play on a ground that is without doubt the worst in the world. The right field is in a long hollow that runs away to the railway station, centre field is a rising hill, right field is a gully; the whole ground is a mixture of holes and hillocks, boulders and stumps, without the least attempt being made to better it. Any ordinary pasture field would have been far preferable. It is simply execrable, and the Hastings club should be ashamed to ask a baseball team to play on their "graveyard," as it has been dubbed. The Association nine hope to show the Hastings men how to play ball on a decent field when they come here for the return match.

It was a rather peculiar game. In the first part the Peterboroughs batted hard, while their opponents were unable to find the ball at all, and the majority of them struk out. Moore made a home run by a magnificent fly away over the hill in left field. At the end of the fifth innings the score was ten to one in favour of the visitors, and that one was secured by Hastings through errors. Then a change came o'er the scene. Davy changed his style of pitching and gave upshoots that were very puzzling, the Peterboroughs taking their turn at striking out. They were blanked from this out At the same time the Hastings men began to find the ball and hit pretty hard, though not enough to win the game had the ball been fielded properly. But here was where the miserable grounds became responsible for the loss of the game. It was next to impossible to stop a ball after it once touched the ground. Some of the boys were a little unsteady besides, and thus the game was lost. Such is baseball

The Hastings team play steady ball and visibly improved towards the last. They appeared to be right at home on the cross between a stone quarry and a backwoods clearing that they use as a ball ground. They were also re-inforced by Geo. Gibson, a catcher from Belleville, who did his work well.

Peterborough's battery, Parsons and Graham, worked steadily and well throughout, though in the latter part of the game the Peterborough twirler was hit pretty hard. The rest of the field played indifferently, some of them poorly.

Mr. T. Howard umpired the game fairly well, though it was plainly to be seen that his sympathies were with the home team, when he saw the game going against them in the first part of the match.

The score was:

A GOOD GAME AT CAMPBELLFORD.

Campbellford celebrated the Twelfth of July with an Orange demonstration, and the baseball match attracted quite a crowd. The grounds were quite a contrast to the field on which the Peterboroughs played in the forenoon, and consequently a better game was played. With one exception the Association team played a good game—but that exception was the means of losing the match. Moore played third base the first few innings, but muffed everything that came in his way. Then he was changed to left field, and by some strange fatality the balls pursued him. Five flies were popped into his hands and everyone dropped. Moore was completely rattled. He never played such a game before, and everyone was surprised. However, at the bat he again made the biggest hit of the day, a drive to left field letting him around to third bag. Cameron pitched well, and was not hit very hard, while not a man was given his base on balls.

The Peterborough's didn't hit hard enough and their opponents played a good fielding game, making a couple of double plays. Beatty pitched a steady game as he always does. Daly, their short stop, is a Napanee man, and a brother of his was installed as umpire, but his first decision was so rank, giving his brother safe at home plate when he was certainly out, that he was bounced and Davy of Hastings substituted.

Though playing a losing game the Peterborough's worked steadily and did not rattle in the least, as a team. Graham deserves special credit for catching the two games almost faultlessly. The boys enjoyed their trip in spite of the hard luck that haunted them. The score of the Campbellford game is as follows:—

Association.	R.	O.	Campbellford.	R.	O

The Regatta.

The regatta on Little Lake on Friday night under the auspices of the Otonabee Canoe Club was a success. There was a large turnout of canoes and yachts, and the banks were lined with people.

The first event was the double canoe race, in which the entries were Strickland and Shaw, Odette and Carveth, Mason and Connal and Tivey and Butcher. Odette and Carveth took the lead from the start and won easily. They are strong paddlers and have a canoe built specially for speed. The race for second place was exciting, the three other canoes being pretty well bunched, with Shaw and Strickland a little in the lead.

In the single canoe race C. Shaw, R. Tivey, B. Odette, J. Smith and A. Mason entered. Odette won this race quite easily with Mr. Tivey a short lead over Mason. Shaw came fourth and Smith dropped out before the finish.

The tournament did not come off as well as was expected. The entries were J. Smith and R. Tivey. In the first round Mr. Tivey was knocked off his pins but fell into his opponent's canoe, where they engaged in a wrestling match. In the midst of it both canoes were upset, and the combatants and their paddlers, Messrs. Carveth and Butcher, were thrown into the water. The denouement was amusing, but no further encounters took place.

Sporting Notes.

On Monday the Peterborough and Toronto cricket clubs meet on the home grounds. This will be one of the best games of the season. The home team will put on its strongest eleven to meet the visitors, who are among the finest cricketers in Canada. The Peterborough eleven will be chosen from the following:—Messrs. Stratton, Ray, Attewell, Rutherford, Logan, Macdonnel, Parker, Hamilton, Strike, Salisbury and Burnham.

The Beaverton and Norwood lacrosse clubs came together for the first time at Norwood Friday, when the home team were fairly scalped, being beaten by five goals to none. The Checkers will no doubt win the pennant for this district.

The Ashburnham (junior) lacrosse club played two games with the Norwood juniors. The Ashburnham team rejoices in the euphonious title of "Flannelmouths," while their opponents style themselves "Copperbottoms." The Ashburnham boys won by three to one—Norwood took one game and Ashburnham took one, too, (which makes three, don't it, boys?). The Norwood lads, however, claim it was a tie.

DIED.

25c. Fancy Striped Chambrays for 17c.; handsome goods and perfectly fast color. The only reason why 25c. Chambrays are selling to-day for 17c. is one of our large wholesale houses imported more than they were able to find a market for at their value and were glad to sell them now, being late in the season, for what they would bring.

Our 5c. Lawns are of good serviceable quality, in fast colors, and as pretty patterns as we ever had in cheap goods. A problem how much did the operator earn a day that made them, and who paid for the dye, seeing there is 32½ per cent. import duty on colored lawn.

20c. Ginghams for 12½c. These goods are fra Glasgae. The patterns are large checks and fine hair stripes. Nothing you can buy will be lighter or wear better.

See our south window of Flannelettes, every desirable color to be seen at a glance, the very appearance of these Goods suggest coolness and comfort. Price 10 and 12 1-2c.

"MISS DANE'S" NEPENTHE
A CANADIAN GIRL'S SUICIDE IN THE EMPIRE CITY.

Her Life Burnt out with Carbolic Acid—She Carries Her Secret to the Grave—What Was Found in Her Room.

NEW YORK, July 14.

If I were dead and thou should venture
Near the coffin where I lay,
I should know it,
I should feel it—
Something subtle would reveal it—
And no look of mildest censure
Rest upon that face of clay.

Shouldst thou kiss me, conscious flashes
Of love's fire through death's cold ashes
Would give back the cheek its red—
If I were dead.

Whatever clue this touching bit of passion may give is all there is at present to explain the mysterious suicide of mysterious "Miss Dane" of No. 152 Third-avenue. She was found dead in her bed yesterday at noon, having swallowed carbolic acid enough to kill three women.

Miss Dane had said that she came from Toronto. She was a fair-faced, sharp-featured but comely woman, perhaps 25 years old, of slight lissome figure with beautiful blue eyes, good teeth and dark brown curly hair rather long.

Miss Dane made every effort to keep her identity a secret and she succeeded admirably. She probably came here from Canada after being crossed in a love affair or having encountered some other great trouble. She had good reasons for wishing to keep her identity secret—she found her money running low and knew that she must ere long tell her story in some hospital. This she dreaded to do. The silence of the grave was preferable.

One week ago yesterday this young woman called upon Mrs. Charles J. Morris at 152 Third-avenue and asked to see the furnished rooms Mrs. Morris advertised to let. Mrs. Morris is the wife of a stenographer employed in the chemical house of Wing & Evans, No. 50 William-street. She came from Toronto and her visitor introduced herself as Miss Dane, also of Toronto.

"I am sure," said Mrs. Morris yesterday, "that she was a good girl. She seemed suffering from some great trouble. She would not give me her first name and she was so lady-like and reserved that I did not feel like pressing her. Miss Dane said she was a typewriter and had been in New York three months working for a down-town house. She was on a week's vacation and wanted to get a quiet, cheap place to live.

"I gave her a $2 room and she had her trunk moved in within two hours—from where I don't know. She went to her room and stayed there nearly all the time. All that I ever got from her about her family was the fact that her father was employed in the Queen's Hotel in Toronto. She kept in her room until Tuesday, when she grew ill and began vomiting. On Wednesday she became worse and then went to see a doctor somewhere in Fourth-street. When she came back she said the doctor had given her some medicine for nervous prostration and asked me what she ought to eat. On Thursday she was better and said she would go to work on Saturday but yesterday she was very weak. Just before night I gave her some tea and a sandwich. At that time she remarked: 'Oh, how I dread going to a hospital!'

"I said: 'Why don't you go to your home in Canada for a little while?'

"'Oh, you don't know everything,' she replied sadly, and then she went at once to her room and locked the door.

"About 6 o'clock in the evening, during my absence, she called my little 8-year-old daughter Edith and sent her out for a paper, two pears and 10 cents worth of carbolic acid. The child got all the articles.

"We heard nothing more from Miss Dane. This morning early I looked through a crack in the door to see how she was getting along and saw that she was lying with her feet toward the window. I did not disturb her. At noon I saw her in the same position and then I became alarmed and after rapping on the door once or twice called in the police."

The young woman weighed about 120 pounds. She was clad in a long night dress and was lying on the outside of the bed on the right side with her head bent downward and the eyes staring wide open. The right side of the face was shockingly burned by the poison. Her feet were uncovered. They were as colorless as marble. The hands were delicately formed. The bed, a trunk and a stand nearly filled the dingy little apartment. On the stand was the glass which had contained the poison. It had been drained to the dregs, but still smelled strongly. The bottle was missing and could be found nowhere.

By the side of the poison was a tumbler half filled with water and a small russet hand bag, which contained some strips of linen, a small purse with $10.75, a plain gold breast-pin and a clipping from a newspaper of the poem at the head of this article.

Every clue to the woman's identity was missing, and had apparently been carefully removed. Her trunk was a large one covered with brown tin. Upon being opened it was found to contain a number of dresses, several of which were of silk of good quality.

Miss Dane came to the house in a black satin dress of stylish cut and finish. One or two of the dresses were only partly made. There were also two work baskets well filled with seamstress' materials and dressmakers' patterns. Besides these there were a number of old newspaper scraps bearing a Rochester date and a copy of Marion Harland's novel "Alone," which was well bound.

The body was taken to the morgue and the police took charge of the woman's effects.

Ruthven's Burning Well.

WINDSOR, July 14.—Mr. Wm. McGregor has returned from the burning gas well at Ruthven and says that nothing has been yet accomplished in shutting off the flames. There is no danger of the pipe getting hot, as the force of the output is so strong that the fire does not reach the pipe. The cap is still on, the gas issuing out of the sides.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

COURTEOUS BUT DEFIANT.
SWITZERLAND'S REPLY TO THE MAN OF BLOOD AND IRON.

Bismarck Begins Reprisals—Suicide of Lady Acton and of Count von Blumenthal—The Tenants' League.

BERLIN, July 13.—The reply of the Swiss Bundesrath was received at the Foreign Office yesterday. Though civil it is not the less defiant. It does not recede from the position previously taken by Switzerland and is throughout a vindication of the rights of refugees and of Swiss action toward German police agents. The note persists that the arrest and expulsion of Wohlgemuth were fully justified and says: "The Bundesrath must further adhere to its interpretation of article second of the settlement treaty of 1876, which in no wise restricts the right of the two Governments to receive in their respective territories anyone they deem fit. The Bundesrath must insist all the more upon its rights being respected, as it is firmly determined to fulfil its international obligations." The tenor of the reply was communicated to the German Minister at Berne early in the week and was the signal for the adoption by Germany of stringent measures for the scrutiny of travelers crossing the Swiss frontier, baggage being mercilessly overhauled and goods wantonly searched and delayed. To-day's National Zeitung denies that these regulations are reprisals and declares they are due to directions from the Imperial Customs officials uninfluenced by the government. The Swiss cantonal authorities believing otherwise direct travelers to proceed through Austrian territory via Bregenz. The diplomatic action of Germany is aimed at the social democracy in Switzerland. Against Switzerland itself this policy is directed only in so far as elements hostile to the German Empire are protected and promoted there.

Advices from Munich announce the suicide of Lady Acton, the sister of the German minister at Washington. She was residing with the family of Count Drechsel in a villa adjacent to Tegernze. Yesterday she took a small boat and went rowing alone on the lake and when she was some distance from the shore she jumped into the water. She had previously shown symptoms of mental disorder. Her husband died recently.

Court circles are talking about the conversion of the Empress Augusta Victoria to the Catholic Church. She made a profession of faith before Abbe Radijewski, who is attached to the household of Prince Radziwill. Count Resselwell, the Empress' Grand Marshal, himself a Catholic, witnessed the ceremony in company with Prince Radziwill. The Emperor had previously been apprised of her intention.

A sensation has been caused by the suicide of Count Waldemar Von Blumenthal, the Prussian military attache at Munich. It is believed he was engaged to Lady Acton, who committed suicide yesterday, and that he had quarrelled with her. The Count shot himself with a revolver.

The New League.

DUBLIN, July 13.—Michael Davitt, presiding at a meeting of the George Club today, said the new Irish League would leave the final settlement of the Irish agrarian problem an open question.

The New League's First Business.

NEW YORK, July 14.—In his London cable to The New York Tribune of Sunday Mr. Smalley says: The best account which I have seen of the new Tenants' Defence League says it is not intended to supersede the National League, but will relieve the latter of its purely agrarian work. The National League remains at the head of the national movement, but the battle against the landlords will be fought by this new organization. "Our first business," says Mr. O'Brien, "will be to raise a vast fund." There you get at once to the root of the matter. "Everything will be strictly legal," say both Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Davitt, who perhaps are not the best judges of what is strictly legal; nor yet is Mr. Sexton, who framed the new constitution. Mr. Parnell for once is at one with all the most extreme men on his side; at least, they say that he is. Mr. Parnell himself has not yet been heard from. They add humorously: "We have taken Mr. Balfour's advice." "If I were an Irish tenant I would combine," said Mr. Balfour, perhaps incautiously. "With such combinations," added he, more loosely than usual, "the Government have no more concern in Ireland than they have in Great Britain." When he begins to prosecute the murderers of the new league, these words will be flung in his face. He will then explain that he meant that the Government would have no concern with either while either kept within the law. But the explanation will be little regarded. The original words will be quoted again and again, and will never be forgotten, nor will he ever quite relieve himself from the charge of partiality to the landlords.

The Unionists regard this new movement as a confession that the old one is a failure, that the Plan of Campaign has broken down, that the National League can no longer hold the farmers or enforce its edicts against taking evicted farms, and that Mr. Parnell despairs of England, will not wait for the general election and does not believe it will give him a majority when it comes. They do not quite see how the new league can induce prosperous farmers—and the farmers are now prospering all over Ireland—to risk their sure gains in this new adventure, legal or illegal, for in the end it must come to the question whether they will pay rent or go.

Sir Charles Russell's threat of withdrawal from the Parnell Commission may or may not be acted on. The pretext for yesterday's rather dramatic scene was the refusal of the court to order the production of the books of the Irish Loyal and Patriotic Union. Whether the judges were right or wrong is a point not important enough to justify so grave a decision. If Mr. Parnell, who gave Sir Charles his instructions, persists, his object will be clear. He means to discredit the tribunal. He may succeed in Ireland, perhaps in America, but not in England.

Davitt Hedging.

DUBLIN, July 13.—Michael Davitt in an interview here to-day declared he would never enter the Parnell Commission court again.

They Will Stay.

LONDON, July 13.—In the event of the withdrawal of Messrs. Russell and Asquith from the conduct of Mr. Parnell's case, Messrs Lockwood and Reid will remain to represent the other Parnellites before the commission.

Royal Wedding Gifts.

LONDON, July 14.—Society grieves over the Queen's decision that the marriage of Princess Louise of Wales and Lord Fife is to take place in the chapel of Buckingham Palace—a chapel too small to contain a tenth part of those who think that they have a right to be present. Wedding presents are pouring into Marlboro House, many of them of great value. Lord Fife gives his bride a diamond coronet. The Duchess of Abercorn and Lady Ailesbury have started a women's subscription at $50 each for a diamond necklace, to cost not less than $5000. Individual gifts are almost too numerous to be even looked at by the Princess. It is remarked that the family is in luck, the Prince having won £15,000 last week at Newmarket, not by racing.

Drowning in a Rage.

LONDON, July 13.—A sentence in the letters of Edward Fitzgerald lately published has stung Mr. Browning into a violent retort. Fitzgerald thanked God that Mrs. Browning was dead. He has himself been dead six years; but Mr. Browning sends twelve lines of verse to The Athenæum to say that were he alive kicking would be his lot as a cur, and then adds:

While more appropriate greeting lends you grace,
Surely to spit there glorifies your face,
Spitting—from lips once sanctified by hers.

On the Heights.

LONDON, July 13.—Dr. McGregor, the English agent in New Guinea, has ascended Mount Owen Stanley, the highest peak in the country. He secured specimens of new plants and birds.

A French Fete in London.

LONDON, July 13.—General Boulanger presided at a fete and banquet given by the French colony at the Alexandria Palace this evening in honor of the 100th anniversary of the destruction of the Bastille and the beginning of the French Revolution. Speeches were made and great enthusiasm prevailed.

Late London Gossip.

LONDON, July 14.—Adherents of Mr. Parnell almost unanimously incline to the belief that an inspection of the books of the Loyal Patriotic Union would afford proof that the late Witness Pigott either wrote or fully inspired the "Parnellism and Crime" papers.

There has been some slight improvement to-day in the condition of Wilkie Collins, the novelist.

The bank swindler McKie has been sentenced to eight years' imprisonment at Hamburg.

Torn From The Tribune.

PARIS, July 13.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day M. Viette introduced a bill providing that no one shall be allowed to contest more than one seat at the same time.

M. Cluseret moved the previous question. The motion was rejected, 331 to 204, and urgency was granted for the bill.

At this point M. L'Herisse ascended the tribune and insisted upon speaking. He was censured by the President, who ordered his temporary exclusion from the Chamber. The chamber then took a recess. Upon resuming, M. L'Herisse was still in the tribune. The captain of the guard of the Palais Bourbon, with a detachment of soldiers, thereupon entered the chamber and requested M. L'Herisse to descend from the tribune. He replied that he was there by virtue of the mandate of the electors and would yield only to force. The captain then placed his hand upon M. L'Herisse's shoulder and quietly conducted him outside the House.

Viette's bill was afterward passed, 304 to 229.

Rioters Bonlangists.

PARIS, July 14.—M. de Rouledé, M. Lagverre and other Boulangist Deputies assembled in the Place de la Concorde before the statue of Strasburg to-day intending to hold a meeting. Several thousand persons had gathered and M. de Rouledé was about to begin a speech when the Police Commissary Clementi forbade him to speak. De Rouledé then began affixing floral wreaths to the railings around the statue at the same time leading the crowd in shouts of "Vive Boulanger." Clementi tried to arrest De Rouledé, but the latter stoutly resisted. Clemeni thereupon seized him but the crowd came to Rouledé's assistance and took him away from the officer. Clementi was being roughly handled when a large body of police suddenly appeared and charged the crowd. A large number of persons were arrested. Lagnerre and De Rouledé during the scrimmage jumped into a cab and were driven to the office of La Presse where a mob gathered and indulged in noisy demonstrations. The police cleared the streets and made many more arrests. Dangerous developments are feared.

SURPRISED ON HIS WEDDING NIGHT.

E. F. Allen Received Congratulations and Papers in a Breach-of-Promise Suit.

KANSAS CITY, July 13.—A dramatic incident occurred at the Hotel Brunswick last evening. In the parlors of the hotel was being held the reception which was to conclude the festivities attending the wedding of Miss Virginia Riddle and Ethelbert F. Allen. The bridegroom was suddenly summoned by the bell-boy to the Sheriff's deputy, who served upon him the papers in a breach-of-promise suit in which Laura V. Ashdown asks for $50,000 damages. Mr. Allen listened calmly to the reading of the papers and returned to the reception room to receive the congratulations of his friends. The bride and her family were kept in ignorance of the affair and had not learned of it when the newly married couple started on their wedding tour later in the evening.

Miss Riddle is the daughter of the late Congressman Riddle of Tennessee, and Mr. Allen is a prominent young society man.

A MAN WITH TWO WIVES.

Mr. Gray and No. 1 Supposed to be in Toronto—Chasing a Husband.

CLEVELAND, July 14.—The Leader relates the particulars of a domestic row which took place here about a week ago. About three months ago a man and woman giving their names as Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gray of Toronto came to Cleveland and took rooms in Hamilton-street. The man obtained employment as bartender for Moliton's restaurant in Superior-street. Then another woman appeared claiming to be Gray's first wife. She said that she was married to Gray seven years ago last Christmas and that her parents were well-to-do and respectable residents of Buffalo.

She reported further that her husband had left her last October, and that subsequently she found a record of his marriage to Minnie Shacklin. She found the couple in St. Paul, but refused to prosecute her husband for bigamy. After a while she paid a visit to her mother in Buffalo, and then Mrs. Gray No. 2 installed herself again in the Gray homestead.

Last April Gray and wife No. 2 left Toronto, and wife No. 1 had only just found their whereabouts in Cleveland. She followed her husband to his new home, but failed to obtain recognition and went back to Toronto. On Monday she returned to Cleveland and persuaded her husband to go back with her. Gray told the cashier at the restaurant where he had worked that he would give his wife the slip at Buffalo, but this he failed to do, and they are supposed to be in Toronto. The second wife is in Cleveland.

CANADIAN NEWS NOTES.

A KINGSTON BURGLER SHOT BY AN OFFICER.

Burke Likely to Apply for Habeas Corpus—A United States Canal Accused of Smuggling.

KINGSTON, July 13.—For some time past a number of robberies have taken place, but the police were unable to bring the thieves to justice as only money was taken. Last night between 12 and 1 o'clock Officer Ballantyne heard a noise in Waldron's dry-goods establishment. He drew his revolver and went into the shop. As soon as the thieves heard him they ran up stairs to the second floor. The officer warned them to stop, telling them he would fire on them. They, however, did not heed his warning. The officer went upstairs after them, but the thieves again ran to the third story, the officer following.

Ballantyne saw the pair hiding behind the counter and walked over to it and again told the thieves to surrender, if not he would shoot the first one that moved. This warning was disregarded. Elmer Biddle ran past the officer who drew his revolver and fired. The shot struck the fleeing tough under the left jaw and tore its way to the right cheek. Patrick Clark, the other thief, at once surrend red. Both are about 20 years old. Biddle's wound is a serious one.

As it is likely Burke will apply for habeas corpus in the extradition matter the full court enlarged the term two weeks to dispose of the matter.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Riot At St Matthew's Church—Fatal Crossing Accident.

TORONTO, July 15.—A most unseemly disturbance occurred just outside St. Matthew's Church last night. An over-zealous antagonist of Ritualism disapproved tracts against what he calls "Popish doctrines and practices in a Protestant church." This was not the first time he had done so. He fared worse last night than on the former occasion three weeks ago. Then he was merely hooted and hustled by excitable students; yesterday he had a varied experience. His literature was forcibly taken from him; he and Rector Howard had a quite a tussle, according to Mr. Lovatt's account. "I made several blows at him (the rector) and managed to get in two stingers on his neck." "I was choked, hit and kicked," the Protestant champion continues; "and did not think I would get out of the crowd alive."

John McCartney of Hamilton, while standing within the closed gates at the Queen-street crossing was struck by a Meaford express and fatally injured. As the time of the accident he was engaged in watching the suburban train coming in and failed to observe the express approaching. He was attended by Drs. Pickering and Stephenson and subsequently taken to the hospital where he died yesterday.

The deceased was 65 years of age. He was an uncle of Mr. John Russell, who keeps a brickyard east of the Don. He came to Toronto to take part in the Orange demonstration. An inquest will be held to-day.

On Saturday night Lawyer Charles Hogan brought to Policeman Macdonald at the Island a coat and hat found in a boat drifting in Blockhouse Bay. In the pocket of the coat was found a bank book showing that the owner had $100.80 his credit in the Dominion Bank.

The Yarana Defeats the Valkyrie — The Fugitive Pugilists.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Jake Kilrain arrived here at 6.30 this morning accompanied by Johnny Murphy. They drove to "Parson" Davies' saloon, but found it closed. They then repaired to his residence. After repeated tugs at the door bell the pair were admitted and for the first time in nearly a week were safe from arrest. Their faces fairly beamed with joy at the bare idea of meeting a friend. They were a sorry looking pair. Their faces were unshaven and their boots heavy with mud. Their clothes too were far from attractive. The "Parson" fixed them up, bought tickets for them and they left for the East over the Penna road. The party was broke and the "Parson" loaned Kilrain $100. Kilrain told the "Parson" that Peny Moore was still in the woods but he expected him to reach the East within a day or too.

THE LATE PROF. PHELPS.

The above is a portrait of the late Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., of Dartmouth College, He was a strong, able man, who stood high in the literary and scientific worlds. It is not generally known, but it is, nevertheless, the truth, that Prof. Phelps was the discoverer of what is known to the Medical Profession and Chemists universally as Paine's Celery Compound, unquestionably one of the most valuable discoveries of this century. This remarkable compound is not a nervine, an essence, a sarsaparilla or any devised article, but a discovery, and it marks a distinct step in medical practice and the treatment of nervous complications. It has been freely admitted by the best medical talent in the land, and also by the leading chemists and scientists, that for nerve troubles, nervous exhaustion, insomnia, debility, senility and even the dreaded and terrible Paresis, nothing has ever been discovered which reaches the disorder and restores health equal to this discovery of Prof. Phelps

Paine's Celery Compound is now being prepared in quantities, and can be procured at any reputable druggist. An attractive bunch of celery is to be found on every wrapper. It has become specially popular among professional men, mind workers, ladies burdened with exciting social duties and frequenters of the leading clubs.

THE Synod of Nova Scotia has pronounced against "questionable methods" of raising money for church purposes. Lotteries and pic nocials certainly do savour strongly of the secular, particularly the former species of amusements, which, by the way, do not enjoy the distinguished approval of our lawmakers.

DURING the last session of the Dominion Parliament a return was asked for showing the names of the veterans of the war of 1812 now living, their respective places of residence, and the amount of the pension received by each. The return has just been published. It shows that one hundred and thirteen veterans received $30 each from the Dominion government last year.

WHERE is now the patriotic ire and liployal indignation? Why isn't it "getting there with both feet" in denunciation of the introduction of the odious Yankee institution of Lynch law into Canada? Yet by the action of the Dominion Government, Lynch law has been established on the Superior Court by the appointment as a judge of Hon. W. W. Lynch.

THE following apposite remarks appear in the last issue of the Welland Tribune:—"For sixteen years Mr. Mowat has been dispensing even-handed justice to all creeds and classes in Ontario—Catholic and Protestant, French and British have received equal justice at his hands. British fair play for all has been the motto of his government all these years and British fair play has been given to all. In no country under the sun enjoying representative government — not even in England, under the shadow of the throne—are men treated more fairly by their government than the people of Ontario are treated by the Mowat administration. What do these howlers against Mr. Mowat want? They want him to have one law for French citizens and another for British citizens. They want him to deprive French children in the counties of Prescott, Russell and Essex of the right of receiving such an education as may be of service to them. Some of them even go so far as to complain that means are not used to keep down the number of children in French families, whilst others don't hesitate to hint that the French should be driven into the sea. These fanatics are fine specimens of British subjects! Much regard have they for British fair play. They would take a French citizen's taxes and then deny him the right of citizenship. They rant about British justice and British fair play and then blame the Ontario premier because he is not a persecutor!"

A Memorial Service to the Late Mrs. Ostrom—Prof. Workman Delivers Two addresses.

In the Mark street Methodist church, Ashburnham, Sunday morning, a memorial service to the late Mrs B. G. Ostrom, a member of the congregation who died June 21st, was held. Rev. A. C. Wilson, the pastor, preached an eloquent and impressive sermon, while the singing had special reference to the occasion.

Rev. Mr. Wilson took for his text the first three verses of the 14th chapter of John:

Let not your hearts be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me.

In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would not have told you. I go to prepare a place for you.

And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am there ye may be also.

These passages, Rev. Mr. Wilson said, were selected at the request of the husband of the deceased. They were found marked in her Bible marked because they were a great source of consolation to her. Christ's chief characteristic was sympathy for the mourning and sorrowful, hence the expressive words of the text. The reverend gentleman then gave a clear and beautiful exposition of the text, urging Christians to let not their hearts be troubled by the worries and cares of life, but to take unto themselves Christ's precious legacy, the peace which He enjoyed. There was a consolation in Christ's message He would go to prepare mansions for us, but would not leave us comfortless, and would come again and take us to Himself. Another precious consolation to mourners is that there will be friends in the mansion above, a grand re-union of families. As the dear departed said just before her death, "Oh, I wish my pa and brothers to meet me there." It was their duty as well as the duty of all others to prepare themselves for the higher mansion and appear with Him in glory.

The condition of this is faith—faith in God and faith in the the atoning blood of Christ. Christians often destroy their faith by worrying and murmuring about things they have not. The Father knows what is best for us. Sometimes it is better to be poor than rich, sometimes better to bury dear friends than have them live. "Seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things will be added unto you."

Referring to the last hours of the deceased lady, Rev. Mr. Wilson said he had found her in peace, and when asked about heaven she replied, "Oh, it's all right; I'm going to heaven." In conclusion he recited some beautiful verses written on the death of Mrs. Ostrom, and at the close of the impressive sermon, there were many weeping eyes in the congregation.

In his prayer Rev. Mr. Wilson asked God's blessing on the bereaved husband and family of the deceased and expressed the hope that they would all meet her in the mansion above.

NOTE.

Rev. Prof. Workman, of Victoria University, a former Peterborough pastor, preached two unusually fine sermons on Sunday, in the George street church in the morning and St. Paul's in the evening. His addresses were highly practical and instructive, and had a direct bearing upon each other.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

"ELLEN, YOU DON'T LOVE ME!"

A Jealous Boston Dorter Shoots His Wife and Then Kills Himself.

BOSTON, July 13.—The dwelling house No. 1 Jefferson place was the scene of a tragedy late this afternoon. Dr. William B. White, a medical electrician 75 years old, shot his wife Ellen, an attractive young lady about 25 years of age, and then committed suicide. Dr. White has been married twice. By his first wife he had several children, now all grown up and doing well. Two years ago his wife died and he married a pretty ballet dancer. Of late the couple have not lived happily together, the doctor becoming imbued with the idea that his young wife loved some other man. While both were eating dinner to-day the doctor got up from the table with the exclamation, "Ellen: you don't love me." She made no reply and he left the room, going into the yard. After Mrs. White had finished her dinner she went up to her room and began to change her apparel. Only a few minutes had elapsed when the servant girl heard a pistol shot, closely followed by another. Going upstairs she saw Mrs. White lying on the floor with blood flowing from a wound in her right temple. Dr. White was lying on the lounge dead with a revolver in his right hand and a wound in his right ear. Physicians were called in, who found that Dr. White had been instantly killed, while his wife will probably recover. Dr. White was a very quiet and gentlemanly man, it is said, and was very well liked by his neighbors.

Blood will Tell.

There is no question about it—blood will tell—especially if it be impure blood. Blotches, eruptions, pimples and boils, are all symptoms of an impure blood, due to the improper action of the liver. When this important organ fails to properly perform its function of purifying and cleansing the blood, impurities are carried to all parts of the system, and the symptoms above referred to are merely evidences of the struggle of Nature to throw off the poisonous germs. Unless her warning be heeded in time, serious results are certain to follow, culminating in liver or kidney disorders, or even in consumption. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will prevent and cure these diseases, by restoring the liver to a healthy condition.

Some drink to strengthen them when young
And some when they are old.

Some drink to keep them wide awake,

Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad;
But never once refrain.

Yet all must own the proverb true:

I've just found out the reason why—
All drink because they like it!

THE RECTOR'S DAUGHTER

A TALE OF TEARS.

The two months that followed were a terrible two months to Marjory, and as the new consciousness grew more strongly upon him, they were a terrible two months to her master, too. His pretty, brown-eyed Prue—this "one ewe lamb."

It could not be. He battled against her fears with all his stern strength; he tried to ignore it, and then one glance at the slender little hands, with their sadly lighter touch; one look at the fair pure face, and his courage would fail him. Before the summer had ended the quiet, slight figure was often absent from the square pew, and he was learning to understand that the girlish romance was proving itself a tragedy in truth. Even her pensioners had begun to miss her, and in the end Marjory came to her master one morning and poured forth her long silent grief.

She had just left Prue lying, as she often did of late, upon a lounge in the parlor, and her last glimpse of the pale face, with its half-closed eyes, had been too much for her.

"She is dying, master," she cried, with sad brevity. "I canna let your een be lingershut. She was but a bairn after a', and her heart is e'en broken, and neither you nor I can save her."

He rose from his place a stricken man. He did not speak. He went to the room where the girl lay, and there the full force of the truth burst upon him, crushing every hope he had cheriahed.

CHAPTER XI.

He knelt at her side, and took her hand in his, stricken to the heart by his recognition of how frail it had grown; and when he did so she opened her eyes and looked up at him.

"Prue," he faltered. "My bairn, what is this?"

She knew what he meant, but her old fear for his pain seemed to be lost in something deeper and more solemn.

"Don't you understand?" she whispered, with a strange flutter in her voice. "I am going to die."

He gave one look at the brown, shadowy eyes, and then the full sense of the loss which would be his opened to him.

"I cannot believe it, Prue," he cried. "I cannot believe it!"

"It is true," she said, with great weariness, scarcely as though she had heard him. "It was true from the first. You did not quite understand it, you know, but it was true."

It was useless to tell him that now, for he could read the truth for himself. The face which lay upon the cushion was the face of her dying mother—he knew the look too well; but she had not faded and died with a blight on her young life.

Now, my reader, I dare say I shall surprise you, perhaps, if you are practical persons, which is very likely, and excite your practical contempt, when I tell you that this girl, with her quiet little sentimental, everyday tragedy, did die, in truth,—died quietly, but sadly enough, perhaps, in the eyes of unpractical people, of what we sometimes hear called a broken heart. A common-place cause for such an uncommon-place death, you think; but the love of this Scottish rector's young daughter had been her life—and her love was dead; and perhaps such deaths are not so uncommon as we fancy. Perhaps the unromantic hearts, whose unromantic beatings are sometimes stilled—the homely hearts of homely men and women are oftener stilled by some quiet tragedy, than we, who know so much of great and practical reason, would ever dream of.

But however that is, I must end my tragedy as it ended on the stage of the quite life.

Prue Renfrew died—died because her young life was blighted; and being only a girl, since it seemed to her girlish weakness that life's burden was too hard to bear, she laid it down. This is one view of the case; but there is another—that He who is pitiful to all, laid His great hand upon the girlish heart, and lightened the burden with a touch.

Only a few weeks more and one morning Lady Strathspey's carriage stopped at the Rectory garden-gate, and her ladyship stepped out, with a deeper anxiousness on her pale, handsome face than had ever softened its haughtiness before.

Marjory opened the door for her, as usual; but there was something softened even in Marjory's stern, tear stained face, as she led the way to the little white bed-room, up stairs, now darkened by closed blinds, and faintly sweet with the odour of flowers.

The rector stood at the bedside, looking down at the fair young face upon the pillow, and after her first startled glance at this young face, her ladyship turned to him.

"I did not dream of this," she said. "I never dreamed of this! She is dying!"

He touched the strengthless little hand upon the coverlet, and bowed his head with the broken majesty of a stricken man.

"My 'one ewe lamb,' my lady," he said, "and she is dying."

The woman could not speak. If she had not murdered this girl, she had at least helped her to her death in spite of her tardy caution, and in the first passion of her womanly pity, I think it possible that she saw her idol as she had never seen him before.

She went home and wrote him a passionate, earnest letter, full of a remorse which struck him to the soul when it reached him. In her recognition of what his trifling had done, she could not be bitter and passionate enough. It might be that circumstances ruled her as they ruled her son; it might be that her remorse was a feeling of the moment, and would pass away; but certainly, it ruled her and wrung her bitterly in this hour.

"Return at once," she wrote in the end, "She may die even before you reach us; and if she should open her dying eyes and ask for you—the dying often have such fancies, they tell me—and you were not there, Angus, I should never forgive you."

And so he came, pale and wretched, and shaken with such remorse as such a man can feel; an ephemeral pang, and a keen one. In the moment when at last he stood in the little darkened bed-room, he would have given even the words he had heard Gwendoline Bramley speak a few days before, to bring the untried freshness back again, and undo the wrong of his trifling. She had not asked for him, she had scarcely spoken, unless a few tender words to her father, to her sweet, broken voice. Sometimes she seemed quite unconscious, and when he entered she was lying quietly with the little brown Bible clasped in her hand, she had asked for—in the night, and her father had brought it to her. They were all waiting for the end then, and they knew that it was drawing very near.

To Strathspey it seemed that he had stood silent by the bedside for hours. He had watched the white face upon the pillow until it seemed to have melted away, and left him standing in the darkness.

But at last she moved faintly, and a hush fell upon them even deeper than before. Her father raised her hand and stood moveless, and the next moment the great, innocent brown eyes opened full and suddenly.

It seemed as if she had lost all of the earth but one memory; it seemed as if she had forgotten all the rest, and this one memory held a strange mysterious power.

The end had come.

She moved a little, just a little, with the faint movement of a wearied child, and then the brown eyes fell upon Strathspey as if he had never left her side.

"You kissed me once, my lord," she said, slowly, with the soft, strange flutter in her voice. "You kissed me once, and you forgot it; but I—I could not." And then the brown eyes darkened suddenly and fell, and then—Ah! what then? Only those who have gone before can tell us, for with the closing of her eyes the curtain fell upon the stage again—the tragedy was played to its ending.

The rector bent over gently, there was no tear in his eyes, no tremor on his dark, stern face, and took the little, well-worn Bible from her hand—the little, well-worn Bible they all knew so well—and as he took it, a brown, faded, scentless sprig of mignonette fell from its pages, and fluttered to Strathspey's feet.

They buried her in the old church-yard, close by her mother's side; and the purple heather grew about her, and the bells swung in the old tower, and chimed above. From his pulpit the rector could turn, and looking out of the gothic windows, see the little mound, with its cross of marble at his head. He himself it was who stood, when the grave was open, and read the sublime words over the slender coffin, "I am the resurrection and the life;" and he, turning his steps homeward to the brown, gabled rectory, remembered desolately how the brown eyed, girlish face had always greeted him. But for the rest. Shall I say that she was remembered after the first pang was over, and the world had gone back to its accustomed groove? Shall I say that she was forgotten? Nay, keeping before you this man, of whom there are hundreds such, I leave you to answer for yourself.

The curtain has fallen, and my tragedy has ended.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me perfect satisfaction. I was nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many hair preparations, but without success. Indeed, what little hair I had, was growing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair.—Judson B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

HAIR that has become weak, gray, and faded, may have new life and color restored to it by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. My hair was thin, faded, and dry, and fell out in large quantities. Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling, and restored my hair to its original color. As a dressing for the hair, this preparation has no equal.—Mary N. Hammond, Stillwater, Minn.

VIGOR, youth, and beauty, in the appearance of the hair, may be preserved for an indefinite period by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. A disease of the scalp caused my hair to become harsh and dry, and to fall out freely. Nothing I tried seemed to do any good until I commenced using Ayer's Hair Vigor. Three bottles of this preparation restored my hair to a healthy condition, and it is now soft and pliant. My scalp is cured, and it is also free from dandruff.—Mrs. E. R. Foss, Milwaukee, Wis.

We are encouraged by seeing so many attending and the increasing interest in all our meetings for young men.

We thank heartily Miss Embrie and Mrs. J. Mowry for cut flowers for the parlor.

—The Market Committee are asking tenders for placing the joists on the new market building.

—Arthur May was fined $2 and costs in the police court this morning for being drunk and disorderly Saturday night.

—The Association baseball club will likely play two matches this week—Thursday night with the Athletics and Saturday evening with the Ashburnhams

—Adam Dobbin was committed to gaol this morning for one month. Adam is getting tired of life, and as he left the police station he expressed the wish that he would not live the term out.

—One of the difficulties of country journalism. The Omemee Herald says:—Owing to the intense heat last week the rollers in the Herald office melted and we were unable to print the paper.

—The students of the senior form of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute before parting for the holidays, presented Mr. J. C. Harstone, Headmaster of the Institute, with a magnificent copy of the complete works of Burns, containing upwards of fifty steel engravings.

The Excelsior Excursion.

The more the excursion to Niagara Falls and Chautauqua is talked about the more popular it becomes. Excursions from Toronto to the Falls are run for $1.50, and the ordinary trip costs as much as the tickets for the round trip of the Excelsior Excursion on the 31st. Another reason why so many are deciding to go is that they can take their children to see the Falls for $1.13. Toronto and back is only $1.90. Going by the 4.47 train more than two hours are spent in Toronto. The 7 a.m. train connects with the boat. Those who wish can visit the Falls and return the same day, or they can spend from 1.30 p.m. on Wednesday until 6 p.m. on Thursday at the Canadian Chautauqua and reach Peterborough that evening; or better still, excursionists can spend from 1.30 p.m. Wednesday at Chautauqua until 9.30 Thursday morning, then go and have about 7 hours at the Falls and be home that evening. Don't miss this grand opportunity.

During the dull months of May and June the output of the old established G. M. Weber piano factory, Kingston, will be sold at wholesale prices for cash, from elegantly finished pianos to the cheapest styles, all guaranteed. It will pay richly to write for prices. 3w

TRADES UNIONISM

Expounded by Mr. Lloyd, of Toronto.

An able Address to the Workingmen—Why Shorter Hours of Labor Should Be Adopted—A Means of Easing the Pressure on the Labor Market—Addresses by Local Men.

A public meeting of workingmen was held in Labor Hall Saturday night. There was a good attendance, several ladies being among the audience. Mr. H. Lloyd, of Toronto, Vice-President of the Carpenters and Joiners Brotherhood of America, arrived on the 7.50 train and was at once escorted to the hall. Mr. Lloyd has just returned from a trip through the United States, where he has been working in the labor interests. He was somewhat worn out after his arduous work, but delivered his address with his accustomed vigor and eloquence of expression.

On motion of Mr. R. McGregor, Mr J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., was called to the chair.

In his opening remarks Mr. Stratton expressed his pleasure at being present, and said he thought it a good thing for the workingmen to have meetings such as these where they could discuss matters affecting their own interests. There was no reason why laboringmen should not have their organizations as well as the professional and business men. Mr. Stratton avowed his interest in the workingmen, and said he had always tried to help them along, as anyone who had watched his parliamentary career would know. He was always ready to help them in any way he could, and if their was anything he could do for the workingmen of Peterborough he would be happy to do it and would not consider the effort involved anything but a pleasure. Workingmen shared with the farmers the honor of being the backbone of the country, and whatever conducted to their prosperity necessarily conducted to the prosperity of the country at large. Therefore it was not only sound policy as well as justice to assist the workingmen in bettering their condition. (Applause).

Mr. R. McGregor, President of the local carpenters Union, gave a short address. He congratulated Union No. 375 on the success of their nine-hour movement. Both union and non-union men had stood up for their rights nobly. Mr. Jas. Donel had acceded to every demand of the Union, while Mr. Baptie, when asked if he was willing to adopt the nine hour movement, replied that he did not favor it, but they had compelled him to accept it. The carpenters had the public sympathy, and with this at their back their movement was sure to succeed. It was intended that the demands of the Union had not been accepted, to establish a co-operative factory; but now he thought the necessity for such a thing had passed. Referring to the ladies present, he said he was pleased to see them present, and thought they should take an interest in this movement which so closely affected them. If this labor movement was to succeed, the workingmen must stand shoulder to shoulder and not be swayed by political influence, but always work together for their common good. He wished to thank the other carpenters, stone masons, bricklayers, etc., for their support of the union carpenters in the present movement.

Mr. T. McNamara said he was pleased to see Mr. Stratton at so many of the labor meetings, and felt proud of him. He did not wish to speak on the subject when such an able man as Mr. Lloyd was to address the meeting.

Trades Unionism.

Mr. Lloyd on being introduced was greeted with applause. He said he was pleased to stand on the same platform with Mr. Stratton. He frequently visited the Legislative Assembly in the way of procuring beneficial legislation for the workingmen, and hoped he might be able to profit by his acquaintance with Mr. Stratton. (Applause). He could say Mr. Stratton was not only considered one of the most valuable members of the Legislature, but he was looked upon by the labor men of Toronto as one of the popular and rising young members who would always listen to their grievances. (Applause). The speaker also referred to the presence of the ladies as an encouraging sign, and urged that they should take a more prominent position in labour affairs, as the women were doing in the United States. He congratulated the carpenters on their success, and said he had never seen a union established so short a time which had done so much. Their success proved that they had not only fair-minded bosses, but determined and persevering men who would stick up for their rights.

Mr. Lloyd then began his address upon trades-unionism. The aim of union men should be to not merely get shorter hours or increased wages, but to be live and thoroughly conversant with all public questions, and to continually agitate and legislate and seek for remedial legislation. Some of the workingmen of Peterborough had the nine-hour system, but Mr. Lloyd said he supported the eight-hour movement, and the employers and capitalists of Peterborough might as well make up their minds at once that it has got to come sooner or later. And though he could not hope to live to see the movement carried out, he expected at least to make it easier for his children to earn a living. The labour movement had made great strides in the past, but not as great as capital. The great question was, what shall we do with our idle men? There was the eight-hour plan, but some labouring men argued against it on the ground that they cannot stand the reduced wages. All places were not so fortunate as Peterborough, and in Chicago and Denver, for instance, the men's wages were reduced with the hours. Mr. Lloyd then proceeded to show how groundless their argument was. The cause of all their trouble was the great number of unemployed men, who were the means of keeping down the wages. Now, if these unemployed men got work through shorter hours of labour, there would be a consequent greater demand for labour. Two bosses would be looking for one man; therefore the competition would be the means of raising prices, and the result that the workingmen expected from the eight-hour movement would not follow at all. The argument that machinery was detrimental to legitimate labor was also exploded. Trades-unionism believed that all inventions should be used to lighten labor, and that the governments should gain control of inventions and natural advantages and turn them to the best benefit of the people and prevent them from being used for personal advancement at the expense of the people by

Grasping Monopolists.

Then he argued that it would be better for the bosses to have shorter hours of labor. By it the fair-minded employer would know that his competitor would have to pay the same wages as himself, and he would therefore be able to tender more satisfactorily, trusting to his business skill and the conscientious work of his laborers for profit. It was better for all classes of labor to organize. This was a day of large monopolies and combines. Capitalists ally themselves for the purpose of pushing other smaller capitalists out of the business, and Mr. Lloyd instanced several cases—an English syndicate who were buying up the brewing industry of the country, another getting control of the salt produce, the Standard Oil Co., of Philadelphia, and old "Hutch's" wheat squeeze—where capital and monopoly were the means of crushing labor. Trades-unionism demanded for the laborer a share of the profits of his labor—a fair day's wages for a fair day's work. But they did not propose to gain their ends by strikes, but rather to meet the bosses, treat with them as men to men whose interests are identical, and settle the question peaceably. Where there is the most complete labor organization there are fewer strikes. It was urged that when a man entered a labor organization he lost his individuality; but of what use was a man's individuality when he came to treat with a rich and influential employer about wages? What chance had the individual to win as compared with a powerful organization? Besides the trades-unions looked after the sick and needy and buried the dead. Mr. Lloyd gave figures showing what progress the short-hour movement had made, stating that it was expected that on the 1st of May, 1890, 50,000 carpenters in the United States would lay down their tools and refuse to work more than eight hours a day. It was a tremendous strike, but as long as there was a carpenter idle they intended to cry out for shorter hours. The question was asked, where will this movement end? He did not know, but something must be done to cope with capitalists and combines, who were helped by the government. He called attention to a bill introduced by Clarke Wallace at the last parliament, under the guise of benefiting the workingmen, but which he really believed had for its object the defeat of trades-unionism. All trades-unionism asked was legitimate and honest and they wanted the privilege of meeting together. Trades-unionism might not settle this great labor question, but it would at least result in the education of the people and the upheaval of the present social condition. He urged workingmen to read up this question and work on the lines of trades-unionism. In conclusion he thanked the press and the bricklayers, laborers, painters, and others who had assisted the carpenters in their recent trouble.

A Vote of Thanks.

Mr. J. J. Hartley, President of the Bricklayers' Union, coincided with Mr. Lloyd's remarks that the whole question laid with the workingmen themselves, who had influence enough to move the whole country. Organization and harmony were necessary to accomplish this. He liked to see all men prosper, but they all knew there were poor men among labourers as well as every other class, and these frequently demanded the highest wages and created discontent among the other good workmen. An employer was better rid of such men. He believed in having a regular scale of wages, and it would be better for men and bosses if they belonged to the union. He was himself a boss and liked to make as good a thing as he could, but he thought no one could say he was not always ready to do the fair thing with his men. The nine-hour system was working well among the bricklayers, and he thought it only a matter of time when everyone would be satisfied with it. He moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Lloyd for his able address.

Mr. McGregor seconded the motion, and said he hoped it would result in having a large organization of the trades in Peterborough. The contractors, too, would be better for organization. He was glad to see that the public men of the town sympathized with them in this movement. In a week or so, Mr. Lloyd told him, an organizer was expected down here for the purpose of organizing a Painters' and Decorators' Union.

Mr. Stratton, before putting the motion, said he was pleased to hear the address of Mr. Lloyd, and he was sure should he return to Peterborough again he would have a larger audience than the 125 or 150 that were present. No one could have any objection to workingmen meeting from time to time and discussing matters affecting their interests. So far as he was concerned he had no objection to his employes discussing matters that affected their own interests so long as they were reasonable. He had no fear of their not being reasonable because he believed he had one of the best staffs to be found. He was willing through his paper to give the workingmen all the support he thought they were entitled to. He would support them when they were right and oppose them when he thought they were wrong. In unity was strength, and if they expected to be successful they must work harmoniously and unanimously together.

The motion was carried heartily, and after Mr. Lloyd had replied briefly the meeting dispersed.

Chemong Park.

A Large Summer Population Enjoying its Delights.

Considerable improvement has been made to the park this season. All the cottages have been put in good repair and painted, several new cottages erected and all are tenanted with the exception of one. In addition to the occupants of the cottages there is a large tent population, attracted by the cool, clear, breezy, well shaded site of the park, its beautiful water and splendid bathing. Their are about 150 regular sojourners at the park, besides the daily visits of guests and friends. For the accommodation of the public and the park residents the Park Company have put on a fine bus which makes two trips daily, leaving Peterborough for Bridgenorth at 10 a.m. and 5.30 p.m. and leaving Bridgenorth for town at 8.15 a.m. and 3.30 p.m. The fare is low and the bus comfortable and convenient. This is a great convenience both to park residents and to townspeople, who are becoming rapidly prepossessed in favour of Chemong park as one of the most delightful summer resorts in every respect in the district, and as the most easily accessible, the drive being only a nominal journey and comprising all the elements of a pleasure drive. As before remarked, Chemong park is rapidly gaining in popularity. There are still a good number of fine lots to be acquired, but as these are being rapidly sold, those desirous of securing sites for cottages should lose no time. So delightful a summering place, so close to town, in easy reach of the business man's business is sure to be speedily filled up.

Dummer.

Serious Accident.—As Mr. and Mrs. Girven, of Dummer, were going home from church on Sunday afternoon last, the high-spirited span of horses they were driving became suddenly and unaccountably frightened and bolted. While running at a furious pace the tongue of the buggy dropped to the ground and in the twinkling of an eye the vehicle shot up into the air and came down with a terrible force, describing a complete half circle with the tongue as a radius. Mrs. Girven sustained serious—perhaps fatal—injuries. Mr. Girven was also seriously injured.—Register.

The Deadly Picnic Ice Cream.

At a Kingston picnic the other day, the hot weather invited a liberal consumption of ice cream, and soon after a deathly sickness overtook the picnicers, due to the ice cream, and only by the timely aid of two doctors were lives saved. However one sure way to allay thirst safely and delightfully, too, is by using only Hawley Bros. choice teas—the pure leaf of the tea plant, properly matured, properly cured, and properly secured at the lowest prices in large lots, and properly insured to the public at the lowest prices in the district. For first class fresh fragrant teas and pure coffees go to Hawley Bros. George street Peterborough.

STYLISH TIPS.

The broad tulle hat flourishes apace, but is not long for the swell world of fashion. Its splendid opportunities for a lavish display of cheap artificial flowers cannot be foregone, and so the gorgeous, gauzy structure will fall of its own weight.

Here is the model for hair-dressing during the coming season: A short fringe on the forehead and a narrow continuation of coils to run from the top of the head low down on the neck. Still for street and out-of-door sports the closely pinned braids will be found most convenient.

A type of hat very much worn of late is a brimless turban. The straw crown is wound about with folds of velvet, and from the back comes broad ribbon bows that extend stiffly forward almost to the front. A number of stiff wings or small birds are interspersed among the loops and finish a pretty, inexpensive trimming.

A bit of manly finery highly femininized peeps out here and there among the new Spring gowns. Light wool frocks with trig plaited skirts have tailor waists cut down a bit in the throat, exposing a high, stiff white collar and glossy front. A four-in-hand tie and scarf-pin finishes this dainty setting for a pretty throat.

All Winter the outer sleeve of long cloaks extended well below the waist line, but as the Spring wears on the sleeve falls like a barometer, and now they touch the skirt hem. The new wraps from Paris in black lace show the Curtain sleeve in all its glory and has a graceful effect, always the result of draperies from the shoulder.

The wide-brimmed straw hat in any one of the many shades of green is calmly returning to its old vices of piling feathers, flowers and bows on top of each other, to the indignation of the mail constituency of the theatre audience. The brim is caught up at one side or the back, and surmounted by a huge cascade of ostrich tips or a cluster of stiff ribbon loops that are reinforced by wire sprays, and so defy the dampness.

The Homestead Strike Settled.

Pittsburg, July 13.—The great strike at the Homestead Steel Works of Carnegie, Phipps & Co. is practically over. The conference between the Amalgamated officials and the firm arranged by Sheriff McCandless was in session from 3 o'clock this afternoon until after 11 to-night and when it adjourned it was officially announced that as a result of the conference certain essential points had been agreed to, but other matters of importance remained for discussion. Another meeting will be held on Monday. This is regarded as a virtual settlement of the trouble.

The Interstate Commerce Committee.

Chicago, July 13.—The Committee on Interstate Commerce of the United States Senate was in session here to-day. George B. Reeve, traffic manager of the Grand Trunk, and Mr. Hannaford, traffic manager of the Northern Pacific road, were examined. W. C. Gowdy, counsel for the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, and E. T. Jeffery, general manager of the Illinois Central Railway, were called on and gave it as their opinion that Canadian roads doing business in this country should be brought under the operation of the Interstate Law.

To Meet the Cut.

Chicago, July 14.—The eastbound freight rate situation is further complicated. The Michigan Central has given notice of its intention to meet the Grand Trunk cut rate of 20 cents on grain. Similar action by other roads is expected.

A Fatal Trial of Speed.

Oil City, July 14.—This afternoon about 5 o'clock a collision occurred on the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railway on a sharp curve near Petroleum Centre, seven miles from this city. Master Mechanic Newman and Engineer Stone were trying the speed of a new engine when they suddenly collided with a freight coming south. Brakeman Timlin of the freight, was killed, Engineer Stone had his nose cut off, Master Mechanic Newman had his hand badly crushed, Engineer Van Dresser and his fireman were painfully but not seriously hurt.

Not a Bigamist.

J. C. Turnbull.

ATTRACTION
TURNBULL'S

A healthy, hearty, wide awake boy will make holes in any suit of clothes—don't blame him for it; he is the better boy for romping. Just a little forethought. Get him clothes that will stand slam bang wear. They needn't cost much. We have them at Turnbull's. Here is a table of tough, sturdy, seasonable suits for the youngsters, not a suit among them but is shrunk in price. Short pant suits from $1.75 each. Then, again, we have good pure wool tweeds, Halifax and otherwise, from 35c. a yard up, that our tailor will cut out for you. The cloth and trimmings need not cost you more than $2.00, when made at home. What a suit you'll have, one that any boy would be proud of. Stripe and check linens for boys' wear from 12½c. to 20c. a yard, suitable for July and August weather.

Our stock of cottonades, staple and fancy check shirtings, was never in better shape than at present. Our customers know that it is a pleasure to buy from a well assorted stock.

At every turn of the store there is a mute appeal from your taste or comfort to your pocket, as you yield to the demand and draw the subtreasury from the gloomy recess of your dress or trousers. Is it not a comfort to know that what you have bought is a bargain.

On the fancy counter stands a box containing pure silk gloves, at 35c. a pair; also another box with ladies' light undervests at 25c. and 35c. each, which are worth remembering. On the opposite counter are piles of remnants of prints, muslins, chambrays, ginghams. Lower down our dress goods' remnants are all together. When we mention remnants we mean decided bargains for the purchaser.

We have just received an invoice for a case of yard sticks; yes, yard sticks which propose giving to our customers for convenience at home. One of these yard sticks goes out with every customer that buys a parcel amounting to one dollar.

Just opened a case of American Oilcloths, new patterns. You can handle or roll them in any shape, and they will not crack. Every yard has the warrant. See them.

DID HE KILL CRONIN?

THE MYSTERIOUS NIAGARA FALLS SUICIDE.

An Unsuccessful Attempt Saturday Night to Steal the Body From Its Grave in Drummondville Cemetery.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 15.—The finding of a letter on the Third Sister Island Sunday week connected with the body of a man found in the whirlpool is still fresh in the minds of the public. The letter indicated that the drowned man had been actively concerned in the Cronin murder, and, overcome by remorse, had committed suicide. The suicide had successfully concealed his identity. There was no other ground than that mentioned for connecting the letter with the body found. Another incident has occurred which seems to unite the man and the letter more closely together. The body was found in a nude state June 27 and buried, after being kept as long as possible for identification, in the Drummondville Cemetery. The cemetery is on the old Lundy Lane battlefield, about a mile back from the falls on the Canadian side. With all that has been said about the body in the press but one inquiry has been made concerning it. July 9, Coroner Morse received a telegram from John G. Loucks of Cheboygan, Mich., asking a description of the drowned man. As full a description as possible was sent at once, but no reply has ever come back.

Saturday night, about midnight, William Wright, a resident of Drummondville, had occasion to visit a drug store for medicine, and in passing the cemetery heard sounds like those made by a person digging. Being close to the fence he saw parties at work over a grave. Thoroughly frightened, he hurried away. He had gone but a short distance when he met a neighbor, Parnell Wybra. Hurriedly telling what he had seen, Wright induced Wybra to go to the cemetery with him. They were just in time to see a heavily built man steal out at the rear side of the cemetery, jump into a rig and drive hurriedly away. Sexton William Dalton was aroused and returned with the two men to the cemetery. A quantity of earth had been removed from the grave occupied by the body found in the whirlpool, while close by lay a shovel and a large sack, showing too plainly the design of the invader of the cemetery. The roads in the vicinity of the cemetery are sandy and much traveled, so that it was impossible to track the wagon. The opinion prevails here that some friends of the man, fearful that his body will be dug up and recognized as some one interested in the Cronin murder, were trying to remove the body and again send it over the falls, where, in its present decomposed state, it would certainly be destroyed. There is no doubt some one knows whose body it is and does not want it recognized. Undertaker Morse says it would not be difficult for any one to recognize the body by the color of the hair and the exceedingly prominent forehead.

Burke to Make Another Fight.

WINNIPEG, July 15.—Burke, the Cronin suspect, will probably be brought before the courts this week on a habeas corpus.

STILL IN THE RING.

The Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Heard From.

HAMILTON, July 15.—The Spectator this evening says: The Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway appears to have given the only Mr. Pew the shake, but is still engaged in working out its destiny, minus the talent and enterprise of that accomplished gentleman. The company has opened an office in the Hamilton Provident and Loan building as headquarters for its civil engineers, of whom A. L. Hogg is chief. This morning Mr. Hogg told a reporter that the line is all surveyed from Welland to within a few miles of the Humber at Toronto, and will be completed next week. He showed the plans and profiles of the whole line made out in duplicate for filing with the Commissioner of Public Works in Toronto and the clerks of the various counties through which the line passes.

The plans show the line to leave the brow of the mountain at Stony Creek and reach the level near the city limits. It will come into the city across the broken lots between Cannon and Robert-streets, cross James near the armory and pursue the line on Mulberry-street to the Caroline-street gully. Its location there is lost for a space, and then the line emerges on the bay side below Dundurn Park, passing under the Grand Trunk line and crossing on trestles to Carroll's Point.

It is rumored that the American capitalists who have the charter will, as soon as the plans are filed, proceed to make a deal with the Canadian Pacific Railway or Michigan Central, or both, by which the Americans will build the road and let it to these roads either separately or under a joint agreement.

AN UNLUCKY POSTOFFICE.

Two Kingston Clerks Arrested for Opening Other People's Letters.

KINGSTON, July 15.—To-day two clerks in the postoffice, one an old and prominent official, were suspended. Their offence is the opening of letters not to extract money, it is said, but to gain knowledge of their contents. The evidence against them is that they expressed in conversation what was in the letters. Their case has been referred to the Postmaster-General. It is said that the opening of the letters for the purpose named has been going on for some time.

A Narrow Escape.

MONTREAL, July 15.—At 3 o'clock this morning three members of a family named McCann, living at the corner of St. Catherine and Anderson-streets, narrowly escaped death by fire. They jumped from their burning dwelling, clothed only in their night robes, and were rescued by the firemen.

It would result in an alliance which would exercise an influence throughout the entire world.

A BENEFIT TO COMMERCE.

What Chicago's Board of Trade Say of the Canadian Railways.

CHICAGO, July 15.—Before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee here to-day the report of a special committee of the Board of Trade on questions submitted by the Senate Committee was read. To the question, "Do Canadian lines of transportation in the United States affect the commercial interests of the United States favorably?" the reply was:

"Probably as a whole they affect it favorably in so far as commerce is favorably affected by having open to it as many channels of trade as possible."

"In what manner does it affect such interests?"

"First by smashing pools and all traffic arrangements that have existed between such roads as the Michigan Southern and Michigan Central, and second by the equalization of freights to points in New England when American lines charged exorbitant rates under the Interstate Commerce law. The Grand Trunk line of Canada was the pioneer in the dressed beef trade, which before they encouraged it was continually discouraged by American roads in the interests of their live stock trade and yard commissioners."

"Is traffic originating in the United States and which naturally belongs to American roads diverted from them by Canadian roads."

"It has not been except in the case of perishable goods. The Canadian lines were among the first to operate transfer elevators here for the preservation of identity and the weighing of grain in hopper scales as required by the state law, which law is openly defied by some American lines entering here. The Canadian lines have won the larger share of the business from the west by uniformly just and equitable treatment of patrons. We do not consider any additional legislation necessary. No further restrictions upon the commerce between the United States and Canada by the water routes should be tolerated, but this committee would recommend enforcement of the Interstate Commerce Act and such laws as pertain to the bonded regulation of United States products passing over the great commercial highways of Canada as will allow them to pass untrammelled. The adoption of any measures calculated to restrict the transportation facilities now enjoyed by all will in the opinion of the committee bury in oblivion the party that accomplished it."

The committee also suggested additional legislation to make it "unlawful for railway corporations to combine for the formation of railway associations like the Trunk Line, Central Traffic, Southwestern and Interstate Commerce Railway Association or Railway Trusts of any description, believing they destroy competition and evade the law." This statement appeared to come unexpectedly to the Senate Committee and created somewhat of a sensation.

"This is indeed an important question," said Senator Hiscock, "and the attitude of the Board of Trade in this city is considerable of a surprise to me. The consensus of public opinion both among railroad men and shippers, and particularly in Boston, where we were last in session, is that these associations and traffic agreements are the only solution of the present complication. I would like to ask whether the denunciatory sentences in your report are a deliberate opinion or are merely rhetorical."

The Board of Trade committee evidently did not anticipate this turn of affairs and evaded an immediate answer on the pretext that they did not understand that they were present to consider the question of pools. Members of the committee were then examined and from each was elicited the strongest opposition to any traffic agreement or differentials for the weaker roads, on the ground that it prevented free competition.

George F. Clarke was asked if he thought present traffic agreements and differentials should be abandoned for the old cut rates. He replied that the traffic associations had never been successful. He also thought rates were higher under traffic agreements and since the adoption of the Interstate law.

Senator Reagan asked: "Is the policy of a stronger road allowing a differential to a weaker road a good one?"

"It might prevent a rate war," said Mr. Clarke.

Will J. Polk opposed traffic associations because they were un-American and induced an indifference to the wants of the trade.

A. M. Wright, formerly President of the Board of Trade, said pooling was always operated against Chicago, affording lines opportunities to cut before and after the adoption of the Interstate law.

The committee finished its work this afternoon and left for the east, with the exception of Chairman Cullom.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Buffalo reports: There was a fairly liberal offering of cheese yesterday but little business transacted until late in the day, the asking price being from ½ to ¾ above the offering. Weak advices from the east brought sellers out, and 5600 boxes sold at 8¾ including the following makes:—Marshfield 1500 boxes, Cloverfield 1900 boxes, Springville 100 boxes, Neff 350 boxes, East Otto 450 boxes, Excelsior 400 boxes.

Little Falls reports: Cheese—The market has been very quiet, there is nothing new or interesting to say. The sales amounted to 12,290 boxes as against 11,803 last week and 10,159 for the corresponding week last year. Last year the bulk price was 9½c; yesterday it was 7½c. Following are the transactions: 80 lots at 7¾c; 36 lots at 8c; 14 lots at 8⅛c; 6 lots at private terms and 8 lots commissioned. Total, 11,200 boxes. Farm dairies—Of farm dairy cheese 1090 boxes were sold at 8c to 8¼c. Butter—Thirty-five packages of creamery butter sold at 16c and 19c, package of dairy butter at 16c to 17c.

Utica reports: There was a slight improvement in the market yesterday. It was hardly expected that the ruling price would be advanced over last week but such was the result. It was established at 8c or ⅛c better. The extreme quotation however is not as high as a week ago but at the same time the salesmen as a whole probably disposed of their stock to better advantage. The situation in New York is rather uncertain but it is more favorable than otherwise. Transactions were as follows: 7 lots at 7 7-8c; 8 lots 8c; 16 lots 8 1-8c; 32 lots 8 1-14c; 18 lots 8 3-8c; 27 lots 8 1-2c; 4 lots 8 5-8c; 29 lots on commission. Total lots 194, total boxes 19,875. Ruling price 8c. Transactions same date last year aggregated 20,463 boxes, ruling price 8 3-4c.

TAKE YOUR DECREE.

Two Chicago Divorce Cases Saturday in which Canadians Figured.

CHICAGO, July 15.—In Judge Collins' court Saturday the case of Mrs. Nellie Robinson, who sought to be relieved from the marital ties which bound her to Dr. Robert H. Robinson, a Toronto physician, was heard. The complainant alleged that her husband treated her cruelly and compelled her to remain in the same house with his paramour. "Take your decree," said the Judge.

Mrs. Julia R. Loomans, a wealthy West Side lady, richly dressed and wearing much gold jewelry, related to Judge Collins, with tears in her eyes and language dramatic and graphic, the story of Alexander F. Loomans' cruelty to her. The Loomans lived in Hamilton, Ont., and Loomans was older than his wife, though she is far from young. She had money, he had none, and he was insanely jealous of her. They occupied a Swiss chalet at Columbia, Lake Ontario, in 1881, and in a jealous rage Loomans perpetrated half a dozen acts of cruelty, which were dangerous and ingenious. Among other things he attempted to drown his wife from a rowboat, and threw a sharp breadknife at her. He is an artist and is now in France.

FASCINATED BY MUSEUM FAIRIES.

Shiloh Gillis Eloped Three Times from a Too-Forgiving Wife.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 15.—Conductor Shiloh Gillis, of the Grand Trunk Railroad, was found here yesterday by his wife in a Clinton-street hotel occupied by colored people. With him was Miss Alice Scott, a handsome half-breed of French and Indian extraction, who has been for several years starring in a traveling dime-museum troupe. Her role was an Indian squaw, and Gillis became infatuated with her tall, lithe figure and pretty face in a Chicago museum. Miss Scott had a husband there, but she eloped with Gillis, who abandoned his position and family.

The couple went to Niagara Falls, where they remained several days, coming to Buffalo yesterday. Mrs. Gillis said this was the third time her husband had eloped with a dime-museum fairy, and she was willing to forgive him, but the next time she would have him arrested. She was furious at the hotel, and the landlord had to lock the runaways up in their room to prevent a tragedy. Finally the elopers escaped by a back door of the hotel.

DEATH HIDES HER SECRET.

No Clue to the Identity of the Pretty Young Typewriter.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The identity of the young woman who committed suicide at No. 152 Third-avenue on Saturday still remains a mystery. The body was yesterday removed from the morgue to the little undertaker's shop across the street kept by Charles Daly. But no one called there to identify it. This is accepted as evidence that the name, "Miss Dane," which she gave to Mrs. Morris, when she rented a room of her, was an assumed one. If that had been her name and she had been employed under that name as a typewriter for any length of time in New York, some one would certainly have called to identify her.

On her underclothing has been found a name which, as nearly as can be deciphered, is "Dane."

Among her effects was found a scrap of paper, overlooked on Saturday, which lends color to the theory that a love affair caused the poor girl's trouble. It was a fragment of a valentine and bore the inscription, "From Willy to Kitty."

Deputy Coroner Jenkins will make an autopsy to-morrow.

The Grain Rate Cut.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The Lake Shore and the Nickel Plate roads gave notice to-day that they would reduce the rates on all grain and its products to the heads of 20 cents a 100 lbs Chicago to New York, taking effect July 18. All the Vanderbilt lines are now in this movement, the Michigan Central having issued its tariff Saturday, following the lead of the Chicago and Grand Trunk. The Pennsylvania and the Chicago and Atlantic have not yet applied the reduction, in other routes than corn and wheat.

A WOMAN UNKNOWN.

OR THE ADVENTURES OF A FAIR GOLD MEDALIST.

A Sequel to Wedded to a Corpse—The Bishop That Befel a Fredericton Girl in Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 15.—Miss Tibbitts of Fredericton, N.B., an attractive young lady of 18, who graduated from the University of New Brunswick with the degree of B.A. and the Governor-General's gold medal last month, was arrested Saturday afternoon under peculiar circumstances.

It will be remembered that last March a remarkable story was set afloat of a mysterious marriage, the tale being that a Miss Mulcahy was wedded in a cab to an acquaintance of hers named Husson, who died immediately after the marriage took place, and whose body together with his father and the priest and friends that were present at the marriage have never been seen since.

Miss Mulcahy laid an information a few days later against one Matthew Huntley and "a woman unknown," stating that Huntley wrote letters to deponent threatening to shoot unless she donned widow's weeds and announced herself as the widow of the alleged Mr. Husson. The information concluded with charging that Huntley and the young woman unknown, who resembled deponent so much that she had been taken by deponent's brother for her, had conspired to injure and annoy and kill her. On the strength of this document a warrant was issued against "a woman unknown."

Miss Tibbitts, who came here a week ago on a visit, was walking in Bleury-street Saturday afternoon when she was seen by Miss Mulcahy, who imagined the fair New Brunswicker was the "woman unknown." Miss Tibbitts was followed to the house where she was stopping, arrested on the blank warrant by Sergeant Charbonneau and two policemen and hustled to an outlying police station where the officers attempted to extort a "confession" from her.

Miss Tibbitts' friends did not learn of her whereabouts until Sunday afternoon, when she was immediately released on $400 bail by Judge Desmoyer.

The young lady was at her home in Fredericton on March 25, the date on which she is supposed to have been in the city. The hearing is fixed for 2 o'clock to-morrow.

Miss Tibbitts' grandfather was at one time M. P. for Carleton.

AMBITIOUS CITY NOTES.

A Toronto Woman Arrested on a Charge of Theft—Accidents and Burglaries.

HAMILTON, July 15.—Jennie White was arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing two gold rings and a silver bracelet from her brother-in-law, John White. Both parties live in Toronto, where the theft was committed. A portion of the jewelry was found in the prisoner's trunk. No evidence was taken at the Police Court this morning, the prisoner being remanded.

On Saturday Detectives Reid and Campbell recovered a horse which was stolen from G. Boulton of Toronto on Friday night. The thief had a good eye for business. He traded the horse to Frank Atkinson of Burlington and then sold the horse he received from Atkinson. The police got both the horses, but the thief escaped. Boulton returned to Toronto with his horse yesterday.

Saturday evening about 6 o'clock Wm. Vandewater, a brakeman employed on the Northern and Northwestern Railway, who arrived here from Johnstown, Pa., about a month ago, came near losing his life. He was shunting cars in the yard near Cannon-street and was on top of one of the freight cars. In putting on the brakes the wheel came off, and Vandewater fell off the car, landing heavily on the ground. When he was picked up it was found that his right leg was badly fractured below the knee. His face was also cut, and the doctor does not think that he has sustained any internal injuries.

Saturday afternoon a collision occurred in James-street, opposite the Royal Hotel, between a street car and a buggy. Henry Pierce of Mount Albion, the driver of the rig, tried to cross the track in front of the car. The car driver could not pull up his horse and the car dashed into the buggy, smashing a wheel and one of the shafts. Joseph Smith, 51 St. Nicholas-street, north Toronto, a passenger on the car, was hurt in the collison. He was not seriously injured.

At the Police Court this morning Samuel Potter was fined $22 and costs in three cases for wife beating.

A burglar entered the residence of Charles Huton, 103 Market-street, last night. Mr. Huton's son awoke, and seeing the man demanded to know what he wanted. The burglar answered not. An alarm was raised; but when Mr. Huton was roused and proceeded to tackle the burglar the latter could not be found. The thief's way of entry and exit cannot be discovered.

The residence of Mrs. Birely, corner of Main and Emerald-streets, was broken into on Saturday night. The thieves got a silver watch, two suits of clothes, a number of gold and other coins, a $50 scarf pin and other jewelry. Entrance was effected by forcing up a window.

One day last week one of the oldest citizens of Hamilton, Mr. James Malcolmson, died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Broche, Huron Township. Mr. Malcolmson was born in Long Hope,

TUESDAY, JULY 16, 1889.

THE death is announced of Mr. Barnard, ex-M.P. for Yale, B.C. Deceased was one of the first representatives sent to Parliament from the Pacific coast, and a genial fellow. He had a stroke of paralysis some years ago, from which he never fully recovered.

IN his speech acknowledging the honor of the freedom of the city of Cardiff, Mr. Gladstone said he had but one object left in his political life, and that was the victory of the Home Rule cause. Were that once granted to Ireland he would spend the remainder of his life in retirement.

"HALIFAX is thoroughly disloyal to Canada, and unfriendly to Canadian interests, yet Halifax has been favored by the Government beyond all the other cities of Canada, while the loyal city of St. John has been neglected.—[St. John, N.B., Gazette (Tory)." The trouble appears that Sir John didn't buy up Halifax with sufficient thoroughness, or the ancient citadel refuses to stay bought.

LETTERS are published in the Empire almost every day to show that it is a dreadful thing to live in the United States, where they have high prices, low wages, high taxation, easy divorces and other evils. As these letters are invariably written by residents of the United States, says the Globe, perhaps it is not impertinent to inquire why they don't come back to the land of low prices, high wages, low taxation and difficult divorces?

THE Yankees are complaining that British capital is invading their country to an alarming extent. It is not a little strange that people who believe and practice the system of high protection—making a nation rich by taxing its citizens, should have cause for such a complaint? How is it that free trade England, that has for years been going to the dogs because of a mistaken fiscal policy, should furnish capitalists able to buy up the most promising and thriving of American industries? It is hard to make theory square practice when stubborn facts insist on thrusting themselves in the way.

THE Woodstock Sentinel-Review, discussing "Prof. Foster's Chicago marriage, incidentally refers to the Canadian method of granting divorces by the agency of the Senate, and adds:

The present system of trying cases before the old women of the "Upper House" is indecent, expensive and stupid.

Scandal-mongers is conceded to be the invariable pastime of a certain class of old ladies—with nothing else to do, well cared for and luxuriously kept at somebody's else expense. The prospect of revelling in the filth of several divorce cases is what chiefly reconciles the Canadian Senate to costing the country about $150,000 per year.

THE Chicago Tribune has little hope of the promotion of trade to countries to the south of the United States, from the proposed conference of the South American Republics. The reasons it gives below justify its conclusions. The Tribune says:—"Trade with the States south of us is a rich prize, but how can traffic be diverted from European countries to the United States so long as our manufacturers have to pay the high wages of the protective system, together with taxes on raw materials?" Our Dominion Government is indulging in visions of extended trade under similar conditions that make the prospects in the same direction of the mighty United States so dubious. Slamming ones door in a neighbour's face and then expecting his to be thrown wide open to you is as reasonable as to exclude another nation's goods by high tariff and expect ours to be made welcome.

HOW "PROTECTION" PROTECTS—THE WORKINGMAN.

It is claimed that the system of protection is an inestimable boon to the workingman, giving steady employment and the highest wages. Of the correctness of this claim Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the millionaire iron-worker of Pennsylvania, furnishes a shining example. We read in the daily despatches the incidents of the row between Mr. Carnegie and his employees. These misguided men actually struck against a big reduction of wages which Mr. Carnegie, to show the blessings of protection (to the capitalist), proposed, and now an army of special constables are defending his iron works against the strikers. To show how reasonable, how sensitively solicitous for the welfare of the workingman a protective monopoly makes a man, a little pen and ink sketch of Mr. Carnegie may be given:

Carnegie is the millionaire steel manufacturer who is such a close friend of Blaine's, and who was his companion when Blaine visited England a year and a half ago. Although he preaches democracy and socialism, and poses as the friend of the workingman, he is always at variance with his hands, and the present trouble is attributable to him. The iron and steel workers a short time ago presented an agreement regarding wages and the hours of labor to the manufacturers. They all expressed their willingness to accept the agreement, but at the last moment Carnegie's company backed out, and hence the trouble. Carnegie is a Yankee-Scotchman, spending most of his time on the other side of the ocean driving four-in-hand and fraternizing with the nobility whenever the nobility will fraternize. He is professedly a great admirer of Mr. Gladstone, and while an aristocratic aper abroad is a red hot Republican when in the States. During the late Presidential campaign he contributed largely to the Republican election fund, and in many newspaper articles and interviews held up the beauties of protection and drew harrowing pictures of suspended mills and starving operatives should free trade be accepted. Cleveland being defeated and protection assured, Carnegie reduced the wages of his men at Braddock, Pa., and Homestead, and now that they are on strike has employed detectives to shoot them, if necessary.

Blood will Tell.

There is no question about it—blood will tell—especially if it be impure blood. Blotches, eruptions, pimples and boils, are all symptoms of an impure blood, due to the improper action of the liver. When this important organ fails to properly perform its function of purifying and cleansing the blood, impurities are carried to all parts of the system, and the symptoms above referred to are merely evidences of the struggle of Nature to throw off the poisonous germs. Unless her warning be heeded in time, serious results are certain to follow, culminating in liver or kidney disorders, or even in consumption. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will prevent and cure these diseases, by restoring the liver to a healthy condition. a is a matter of small importance compared with other applications of electricity. A Close Call.

AFTER suffering for three weeks from Cholera Infantum so that I was not expected to live, and, at the time, would even have been glad had death called me, so great was my suffering, a friend recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which acted like magic on my system. But for this medicine I would not be alive now.

25 REASONS

FOR DRINKING

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE

Some drink because they are hungry,
And some because they're dry,
Some drink to keep them in good health,
And some that they may thrive.

Some drink because they are too hot,
And some because they're too cold,
Some drink to strengthen them when young
And some when they are old.

Some drink to keep them wide awake,
And some that they may sleep,
Some drink because they merry are,
And some because they weep.

Some drink when they do money gain,
And some because of loss;
Some drink when they are pleased,
And some when they are cross.

Some drink when they are hard at work,
And some when they do play;
Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all mustown the proverb true:
"When iron's hot to strike it"—
I've just found out the reason why—
All drink because they like it!

This is THE roasting weather that tries and tells upon the feet. Are you experiencing that foot agony and torture of wearing the "Gulled" grades of so-called summer shoes sold elsewhere? But, really, we can't consistently pity you much when you can get perfect ease and save money by using John McNaughton's
